GRUNDY CALLS ON OLD GUARD TO HALT COALITION TARIFF; SEES HOOVER AIDING CUTS

SENATOR DEEPLY AROUSED

Judges President's View by Story of Writer Who Was a Caller.

HE VISITS THE EXECUTIVE

Young Guard Believe Insurgents and Democrats Play Into White House's Hands.

PARTY LEADERS ARE CHIDED

Silence Greets Harrison When He Asks Watson if the Report Is True.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, regarded as the High Priest of Industrial Protection, has become aroused over information, which he regards as reliable, that President Hoover is in sympathy with the efforts of the dominating coalition of Democratic and insurgent Republican Senators to "rewrite" the tariff schedules, in most cases downward, and with especial provision for the benefit of those who till the soil.

He has called on Republican Senators from industrial States to rally against the coalition, and apparently is much aroused over what he regards as the unfriendly course of the President toward the high protectionists of his party.

Senator Grundy's course came up on the floor of the Senate today, but produced nothing more than some ironical remarks by Senator Harrison of Mississippi, at the expense of President Hoover and the Pennsylvanian.

When the Senator paid a surprise visit to the President this afternoon it was suspected that his purpose was to ascertain definitely whether Mr. Hoover was lending moral aid and comfort to those Senators who are enemies of himself, the Republican party and the party's protection policy. But the explanation given after the visit to the Executive offices was that the Senator went there to "take up some minor Pennsylvania matters" with the President.

Some Westerners Pleased.

The incident has considerable importance in its relation to reports that President Hoover is not at all averse to what the coalition is doing in the way of revising the high rates contained in the Republican tariff bill.

Some Western Senators, who are supporters of the administration, have been chuckling over the thought that the coalition, despite its critical attitude toward the President, was modifying the tariff schedules in a way that would be in line with his ideas of tariff reform and would help them politically. But, in other words, they see the President's enemies as playing right into his hands.

Senator Grundy got his information from an article published about three weeks ago in The Kansas City Star, which, generally, is friendly to the President.

The article, written by Edwin G. Pinkham, known as The Star's "roving reporter," was shown to Mr. Grundy by another Republican Senator.

Mr. Grundy read its disclosure of the President's alleged sympathy with the manner in which the coalition was playing havoc with the tariff bill, and was impressed. He undertook inquiries. He found out that Mr. Pinkham had been in Washington and had taken luncheon with the President. That appeared to convince the Senator that the article was based on correct information from the White House.

Grundy Circulates the Report.

Senator Grundy's next step was to have typewritten copies made of the Pinkham article. These he distributed among Republican Senators from industrial States, and after they had absorbed what the article contained, Mr. Grundy told them that unless they fought the coalition tooth and nail right now while the tariff bill was before the Senate, the industries in which they were interested would suffer heavily from reductions in the duties on their products. Nothing has come to light to show whether Senator Grundy has

Columbia Graduate Appointed Head Chief of Choctaw Tribe

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—President Hoover today appointed Ben Dwight as principal chief of the Choctaw Tribe of Oklahoma, under the law of April 26, 1906, which provided when Oklahoma was admitted to Statehood for a continuation of what was necessary of the Indian tribal form of government.

Chief Dwight is three-fourths Indian, 40 years of age, was educated in Indian schools, later receiving an A. B. degree from Columbia University, and an LL. D. degree from Stanford University, served as an intelligence officer in the World War, and since its termination has been in business in Oklahoma.

He will speak for his tribe whenever questions arise affecting it, and sign land titles awarded by the tribe to its members.

The Choctaw Tribe has some 25,000 members and owns property of considerable value.

W. A. HARRIMAN WED TO MRS. C. V. WHITNEY

Former Wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney Becomes Bride of Banker.

BOTH DIVORCED LAST YEAR

Ceremony in All Souls' Church—Couple Sail on Bremen for Wedding Trip.

William Averell Harriman, chairman of the board of directors of the investment house of W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., and Mrs. Marie Norton Whitney, former wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, were married here yesterday. Mrs. Whitney, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Sheridan S. Norton of 850 Park Avenue, obtained a divorce last September in Reno. Mr. Harriman was divorced in Paris by his first wife, Mrs. Kitty Lanier Lawrence Harriman last Aug. 6.

The ceremony was performed in All Souls' Church with the Rev. Dr. Minot Simons, rector of the church, officiating. E. Roland Harriman, younger brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, and Mrs. William G. Lord, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Only members of the two families were present.

The ceremony was followed by a reception, and Mr. and Mrs. Harriman sailed at midnight on the liner Bremen for a wedding trip in Europe.

Rumors that the marriage would shortly take place have been current here for the past several weeks.

Directs Father's Estate.

Mr. Harriman is the elder son of the late E. H. Harriman and has taken over the management of much of the vast estate left by his father. In addition to holding the chairmanship of the board for W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., he is an officer in many other concerns. He is one of the leading polo players in this country and owns large racing stables.

He married his first wife, Miss Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Lawrence of this city, in Lenox, Mass., on Sept. 21, 1915, two

LEHMAN FORESEES BUSINESS RECOVERY WITHIN FEW MONTHS

Lieutenant Governor, at Utica, Says All Depends on the Extent of Cooperation.

LIBERAL CREDIT ADVOCATED

Situation Is Eased by Absence of Overproduction and Financial Stringency, He Says.

WORSE IN SOME LOCALITIES

But Industries, Through Foresight, Can to a Great Extent Direct Own Destinies, He Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman discussed the economic, financial and industrial outlook in an optimistic vein at a luncheon given at the Hotel Utica today, under the joint auspices of the Utica Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club of Utica.

He sounded a note of caution, however, declaring that the situation called distinctly for constructive and courageous leadership in banking, business and industry if the recovery he is looking for is not to be too long deferred.

The Lieutenant Governor, who before he assumed his present office was identified with one of the best-known banking houses in the United States, said that the industrial and financial structure of the country was fundamentally sound and that if mistakes were avoided a return to prosperity was assured before many more months.

Factors that had been present and important in every previous financial crisis within a generation or more, Mr. Lehman said, fortunately did not figure in the present situation. There was no overproduction, and there was available an abundance of money and credit for legitimate and sound business enterprises

Urges Easy Credit.

The Lieutenant Governor cautioned against any undue tightening of credits, based on excessive caution by institutions controlling large capital.

"It is important also," he said, "that credit lines given to the small dealer, the distributer and the consumer himself by merchant and manufacturer be not curtailed. A liberal policy of credits by merchants and manufacturers, in my opinion, should be maintained, so that consumption may be retained on a satisfactory level, and mass dealing at low cost assured and accelerated."

Lieut. Gov. Lehman expressed satisfaction because large amounts of money from abroad carried only a few months ago into the securities markets on a speculative wave, now had become available for world trade, with the probable result of a general world trade revival that inevitably would increase our export trade, "the most important factor in national prosperity."

"In view of the situation, as I see it," Mr. Lehman said, "I cannot be pessimistic about general trade and industrial conditions in this country, even though a return to normalcy be slower in some localities than in others. Before many months conditions should be noticeably improved."

Text of Lehman's Speech.

The text of Lieut. Gov. Lehman's speech was as follows:

I have been asked to speak today on the economic, financial and industrial situation in this country. I have some hesitancy in doing so, because I do not pretend to be a

Mercury Rises to 68, Record for Feb. 21; Holiday Seekers Jam Trains to Resorts

The February heat wave that settled down on New York and other cities in the East on Wednesday ousted nearly all traces of Winter again yesterday, sending the thermometer to a record-smashing high temperature of 68 degrees at 2:30 P. M., and speeding thousands of New Yorkers to the beaches and the country for the Washington's Birthday week-end.

The Spring-like weather prevailed as far west as Chicago, and penetrated the otherwise wintry fastnesses of Maine. Chicago, with a high temperature record of 67 degrees for 1930, reported that colder weather is on the way, with a severe storm moving eastward from Saskatchewan, Eastern Colorado and North Dakota.

At Lewiston, Me., the Spring weather caused hydraulic engineers some concern over the possibility of floods due to the action of the warm temperatures on forty billion cubic feet of snow, ice and water in the watersheds of the Androscoggin River, according to The Associated Press.

Thousands of pleasure seekers poured into the Pennsylvania Station and the Grand Central Terminal, where extra trains were put on to carry them to the open spaces. Traffic to Atlantic City was heavy and the resort reported a new high temperature of 73 at mid-afternoon. Other beach resorts also reported full hotels, busy restaurants and crowded boardwalks. Coney Island's crowd was estimated at 50,000 by the police, who needed twenty-five reserves to handle the heavy automobile traffic.

Travel by airplane also was augmented. Pre-holiday traffic on the New York-Boston route of the Colonial Air Transport reached a new level with 105 passengers.

Fifty-five applicants could get no seats because of lack of accommodations. Applications for air passage today caused the air line to upset its rule of suspending operations on holidays and preparations were made for twelve trips with full loads.

Philadelphia, with a maximum of 71 degrees, recorded its warmest Feb. 21 on record.

Yesterday was also the warmest Feb. 21 in the history of the New York Weather Bureau. The thermometer reached its low mark of 53 degrees at 7 o'clock in the morning and maintained an average of 60 degrees throughout the day. The normal average for the day is 32, freezing point. The previous record for Feb. 21 was in 1913, with 60 degrees. The coldest Feb. 21 was in 1918, when the mercury sank to 8 degrees.

Good weather for today was assured to holiday seekers by the local Weather Bureau last night, with the prediction of "fair" and not much change in temperature. The forecast also was that tomorrow would be even warmer, with increasing cloudiness in the afternoon, followed by showers.

BUDGET REOPENING RUNS INTO A SNARL

Action to Enable Pay Rises to Police and Firemen Seen as Illegal by Baldwin.

CORRECTIVE MOVE PLANNED

Republican Questions Power of Aldermen as Estimate Body Votes $5,000,000.

Both the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen went through the motions yesterday of reopening the 1930 city budget to provide for increases of pay in the uniformed forces of the Police and Fire Departments. The action taken by the Board of Estimate stands unchallenged. Its legality is not in doubt.

But in the concurrent action taken by the Board of Aldermen later, although the vote was unanimous, so grave a doubt arose as to its validity that before night Acting Mayor McKee resolved to take a course that is said to be unprecedented in the history of New York municipal legislation. Eager to avert court action which might possibly invalidate not alone the pay increases, but even the entire budget, he and his associates issued a call for a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen for next Thursday. At that meeting yesterday's legislation will be reenacted, so as to place its validity beyond a legal peradventure.

Baldwin Raised Doubt.

The exigency that prompted this course was seemingly due to the fact that nobody but Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d, Republican minority leader of the Board of Aldermen, had paid due heed to the provisions of the charter which prescribe the formalities in the calling of a special meeting of that body.

Mr. Baldwin held that under Section 37 of the City Charter no special meeting of the Board of Aldermen may be called unless three days' notice has been given in advance, accompanied by publication in The City Record of the time and purpose of the special session. In sending telegrams to the members of the board on the evening next preceding the meeting day and without publication in The City Record, Mr. Baldwin contended, the Charter requirements had been overlooked or ignored and the proposed special meeting of the Board of Aldermen therefore would be without legal status and its acts invalid.

He went into the meeting of the Board of Estimate at 11 o'clock in the morning and there emphasized his point. He was told by Acting Mayor McKee, who was presiding, that, as his criticism could not affect the status of the Board of Estimate's action but only that of the Board of Alderman, he might better make it from the floor of the latter body. Mr. Baldwin accepted the ruling, and the Board of Estimate, without a dissenting vote, went ahead and voted the three resolutions which reopened the budget, placed in it $5,000,000 and adopted the schedules for the readjustment of salaries in the Police and Fire Departments.

Alderman Baldwin's objection threw the administration forces into confusion. Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly had a long conference with Mr. McKee after the adjournment of the Board of Estimate. Into that conference were called later Vice Chairman Denis J. Mahon, of the Board of Aldermen, Frank Martin, veteran ordinance clerk of that body; William O'Connor, parliamentarian, and William J. Cahill, bill drafting commissioner to the Municipal Assembly. It was decided to go ahead with the Board of Alder-

5 DIE IN AVALANCHE OF 900 TONS OF COAL

Laborers Are Trapped as Steel Understructure of Shed on Harlem River Collapses.

FOUR NARROWLY ESCAPE

Only Two Bodies Recovered and Rescuers Dig for Others—Bin Finished a Week Ago.

An avalanche of 900 tons of coal roared down on a group of itinerant laborers working in the truck passageway under a new coal shed of the McNully Brothers Coal Company, on the Bronx bank of the Harlem at 174th Street, yesterday afternoon, when for some unexplained reason the steel understructure collapsed.

Five men are believed to have been trapped and killed and several others, two of whom were injured slightly, had narrow escapes. Two bodies had been extricated late last night while policemen, firemen and employes of the coal company were still trying to locate the others.

Following are the known dead:

ADAMS, WALTER, a negro, 43 years old, of 268 West 144th Street.
O'ROURKE, ——, about 50, of the Bowery Lodging House.

Most of the missing men were not regular employes of the coal company but were hired from day to day as needed. For that reason the police were unable to determine definitely whether there were three or more left under the piled débris, nor were they able to obtain the names of any of the missing.

Within a few minutes after the roar of the collapsing structure had resounded for blocks, at 1:45 P. M., a crowd of several thousand spectators gathered along the speedway across the Harlem and on Washington Bridge and Highbridge. For an hour they witnessed feverish efforts to rescue the trapped men, which were continued at a calmer pace after it became apparent they could not still be alive.

The work of clearing up the débris was temporarily halted about 10 P. M. when the excavators uncovered the steel girders which had collapsed. They had fallen in a position which blocked the approach to a workman's shanty which had stood beneath the structure. Acetylene torches were brought into service by the police emergency squads, but it appeared that the girders might hold up the excavation work for several hours.

Structure on Steel Stilts.

The coal pocket, a structure about 100 feet long, forty feet wide and thirty-five feet high, parallels the river, permitting the transfer of coal to it by machinery from barges in the Harlem. It was built on steel stilts, with a passageway beneath the coal bins for the company's trucks.

The structure was completed only last week, according to information obtained by Assistant District Attorney George De Luca, who began an investigation of the crash. Three barges began to discharge coal into it Thursday night, and about 900 tons had been loaded into the structure before it fell.

Chris Nelson of 570 Senator Street, Brooklyn, an employe of the coal company, told Mr. De Luca that he had heard a crackling sound and turned just in time to see one of the heavy I-beams supporting the structure collapse. He ran to give the alarm, he said, but before he could do so forty feet of the south end of the structure had given way and the coal came pouring down.

Two electricians who were working on a hoisting motor in a shed on top of the coal pocket had narrow escapes. They had climbed out of the shed onto the roof to stretch some wiring just as the collapse came and tumbled down on top of the wreck-

STANDARD AGREES WITH VACUUM OIL ON BILLION MERGER

Courts Will Pass on Legality of Reunion of 2 Units Affected by 1911 Decree.

DEAL SOUND, SAY COUNSEL

Government, However, Contends It Contravenes Split-Up Supreme Bench Ordered.

PROPOSAL LONG DISCUSSED

Combination Would Give New York and Vacuum Companies 9% of Nation's Crude Output.

Consolidation of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company has been agreed upon, it was announced yesterday, but the merger plan, involving about $1,000,000,000 of assets, is to be tested in court to determine whether it is in violation of the United States decree of 1911 under which the old Standard Oil organization was dissolved.

So that the legality of reuniting original Standard Oil units may be passed upon once and for all, the Department of Justice, it was indicated, is preparing to bring an "appropriate proceeding in equity." The suit, it is expected, will be filed within a short time and will attack the proposed merger on the ground that it contravenes the decree of 1911. It is considered possible that the question ultimately may reach the Supreme Court itself for final decision.

The Standard of New York-Vacuum merger, by which it is planned to create a new $1,000,000,000 oil enterprise, has been under negotiation for more than a year. It represents the first attempt in such an advanced stage to put back together two major units of the old Standard Oil industrial empire which was split into thirty-three parts as a result of the 1911 decree that it was a trust in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The disintegration took place in December, 1911, and January, 1912, with the distribution on a pro rata basis among its stockholders of its entire holdings in the thirty-three companies. Standard of New York, which was as old as the then parent company, and the Vacuum were among the thirty-three companies that were severed from the old Standard of New Jersey.

Plan for Holding Company.

Plans for the merger came as no surprise, since everything but the details has been known for some months. Announcement of the consolidation agreement was made in identical letters to stockholders of both companies. It is proposed to join the assets of the two companies in the General Petroleum Corporation, which will act as a holding company.

Neither the Standard of New York nor the Vacuum will lose its identity, but for the purposes of the merger the name of the present Standard Oil Company of New York will be changed to the General Petroleum Corporation, which will hold all of the present assets of the Standard of New York. General Petroleum then will acquire the assets of the Vacuum on the following basis: By delivering to each shareholder of the Vacuum three shares of General Petroleum for every share of Vacuum surrendered for cancellation.

Stockholders of the Standard of New York will receive new certificates in the name of the General Petroleum for their present shares. The relative value of the two stocks, as shown by the closing prices on the New York stock market yester-

SECURITY ACCORD BARRED IN NAVY LIMITATION TREATY; SEPARATE PACT SUGGESTED

SENATE'S ATTITUDE FEARED

Americans at London Do Not Wish to Imperil Principal Project.

OPPOSITION EVIDENT HERE

Many Senators Object to Plan to Strengthen Kellogg Compact by Consultative Clause.

BRIAND'S REPLY AWAITED

British Believe He Will Be Less Exacting Than Tardieu in Stand for Big Fleet.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The American delegation to the London Naval Arms Conference is understood to have reached a decision that the naval limitation treaty to be written here should not contain political provisions. Theoretically, it is held that such arrangements should not form part of a purely naval compact, and doubtless, it is held, that to join to a naval treaty any plan for strengthening the Kellogg pact might imperil the whole business before the American Senate.

Whether it might prove wise and advisable to have the five powers represented here suggest, as a separate affair, that signatories to the Kellogg pact agree to consult in case of a danger to peace is regarded as quite an independent matter which might or might not be considered here or later by diplomatic methods.

Discussions Preceded Decision.

This position seems to have been reached after no little discussion among the delegates, in the course of which it may well have developed that there was not complete accord on the issue of whether the anti-war pact as it stands should be supplemented.

It would be no surprise to find the British delegation willing to accept the American point of view that extraneous matters should be excluded from the treaty. Such a position borrows interest from the fact that Aristide Briand is to head the new French delegation and M. Briand attaches great importance to the value of political arrangements which might be made here of a nature to enable the French to cut their naval program in return for a promise of greater security.

Certainly M. Briand intends to appeal for some political arrangement and if it is to be barred as part of the naval arrangement by the Americans, in whose stand the greatest interest lies, there will be posed the question of whether M. Briand will in that case stand on ex-Premier Tardieu's figures for France's naval requirements.

British Welcome Briand.

In British quarters there is evident a feeling of relief that M. Briand, who is referred to now as the world's greatest statesman, is going to head the French delegation. Some wonder whether the British are not overestimating the chances of M. Briand proving less exacting than M. Tardieu. Certainly he is a more supple negotiator, but surmises as to the future of the conference should not lose sight of the great popular feeling in France that the time is ripe for the country to improve its naval rating.

The United States has many times been criticized since the rejection of the Treaty of Versailles for "allowing domestic politics to interfere with international relations." The present naval conference is held up by the internal political situation in France. Meanwhile the Japanese delegation is anxiously awaiting the final count of yesterday's election at home. MacDonald is not entirely sure his minority government will last until the end of the conference, while Foreign Minister Grandi has a difficult task in explaining to Premier Mussolini why he has not yet obtained parity with France. All of which goes to indicate that in mixing domestic and foreign politics we at least are not any worse than others.

In these days, when there appears no little mud-slinging at the naval conference, it seems fit to remark there is very little room for doubt that this conference will make a naval limitation treaty of a very valuable sort. Reduction must, perhaps, wait for another day. But we will probably have a limitation treaty along about April 10. That treaty

Support of a Horse and Cow For Herkimer Sheriff Ended

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—With his congratulations to the county and the Legislature, Governor Roosevelt today signed a bill abolishing the statutory provision for the public maintenance of a horse and a cow for the Sheriff of Herkimer County.

"I am very glad to approve this bill," the Governor said, "since it is the first bill which has come to me actually reducing the emoluments of a county official. It provides that the State need no longer furnish and maintain a cow and a horse for the Sheriff in Herkimer County.

"I hope that this bill will be a forerunner of others cutting down the expenses of local government."

ROOSEVELT INVITES REPUBLICAN WOMEN

Plans Reception at Executive Mansion for Conference on Welfare Legislation.

ACTION SURPRISES ALBANY

Letter to Miss Butler Viewed by Opponents as Attempt to 'Alienate Party Affection.'

By W. A. WARN.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—If Governor Roosevelt has his way the entire feminine wing of active Republican party workers in this State, headed by Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, will assemble at the Executive Mansion one afternoon next week as guests of the Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt, sip tea, make conversation and possibly discuss welfare legislation non-partisan in character.

The altogether unprecedented situation of a Democratic Governor dispensing the hospitality of the mansion to an important group of leaders of the opposition party depends on Miss Butler's accepting an invitation extended by Governor Roosevelt in a letter made public today at the Executive Chamber.

The fact that the Governor expects to lead the Democratic fight next Autumn as candidate for second term and that those who may be his guests at the mansion next week by every party obligation resting upon them will be bound to do all in their power to bring about his defeat, lends dramatic value to the Governor's invitation.

"What is he trying to do, alienate the affections of our Republican women from their party?" said one Republican on Capitol Hill when informed of what Governor Roosevelt had done.

The Governor in his letter said he had learned with pleasure that Miss Butler had called the Republican women leaders of the State to meet at Albany on Wednesday for the purpose of discussing the progress made by the Republican Legislature in advancing measures in which the Republican women are especially interested and that this had prompted his invitation. This, he said, demonstrated an awakened interest of which he thoroughly approved on the part of women in public affairs, and he added that personally he felt

Chapman to Name New Liners Leviathan To Perpetuate Tradition of Greatest Ship

Three steamships bearing the name Leviathan will be operated in the North Atlantic service by the United States Lines when the company newly organized by Paul W. Chapman, banker, to buy the principal properties of the Shipping Board, completes the construction of its two new giant liners.

Mr. Chapman announced yesterday that the two new ships would be named Leviathan 2d and Leviathan 3d and would be operated with the Leviathan, originally the Vaterland, in a fast Atlantic service. He submitted plans for the two new ships to the Shipping Board last Wednesday.

The ships will cost about $30,000,000 each will be about 962 feet long and will be capable of a speed of from 28.5 to 31.5 knots.

"The name Leviathan," according to a statement by Mr. Chapman, "is inseparably woven into our national life. It is as invested with wartime traditions as the old frigate Constitution, and since its return to the peaceful pursuit of transporting people to Europe it has created new traditions for luxurious travel.

"Moreover, it stands as man's greatest shipbuilding achievement, being the largest liner ever to cleave the waves. Its name is known to almost every American man, woman and child; in fact, I believe it is the best known ship on the seas.

"There is national interest in everything pertaining to the Leviathan. The present Leviathan is the flagship of the American merchant marine and the symbol of its greatness. My object in naming the two new express liners to be laid down is to perpetuate a name that stirs every patriot whenever it is mentioned."

Mr. Chapman also announced that the present Leviathan would make her first Spring sailing April 12 and would be renovated before sailing. A night club will be the outstanding new feature of the ship. It will replace the Leviathan's Winter Garden.

Talking motion pictures will make their debut on the Atlantic when the Leviathan makes her Spring trip. Radio engineers are installing the equipment and arrangements have been made with producers for the presentation of pictures at sea at the same time they make their premieres on Broadway.

The first-class accommodations of the Leviathan have been improved during the Winter lay-up of the ship, and many staterooms have been equipped with private baths.

Byrd's Bark Forges Ahead Amid Heavy Snow; Skirts Floes, With Ice Pack Three Days Off

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, IN ROSS SEA, Feb. 21.—Though today has brought a heavy fall of snow, Admiral Byrd's flagship, the City of New York, is steadily continuing on her course to the northward.

The winds have been moderate, permitting such good speed that today at noon Captain Melville stated that we would reach the southern edge of the ice pack within the next two or three days.

A number of small packs have been seen in the Ross Sea and last night the ship skirted a pack of fair size for several hours toward the westward before a clear path to the northward was found.

Though overcast snowy weather prevented taking of sights, the dead reckoning position at noon showed the City of New York to be in Lat. 76:13 S., Long. 178:34 W.

Inasmuch as we will pass the 180th meridian tonight, the skipper announces that though today is Friday tomorrow will be Sunday.

Since leaving the Bay of Whales Admiral Byrd and his party from the Barrier have been enjoying a well-earned rest from the worries of getting material and personnel away from the ice.

However, spare moments have been spent in stowing away loose cargo and getting the vessel shipshape for the gales which we are certain to encounter during this season after such a period of moderate weather.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP ELEANOR BOLLING IN ROSS SEA ICE PACK, Feb. 21.—We are slowly progressing through the ice pack, our position at noon today being Latitude 68:40 South, Longitude 172 East. It is not snowing now, but the sky is overcast. A light breeze is blowing. The temperature is 37 degrees above zero Fahrenheit.

The position of the Eleanor Bolling at noon of the previous day was Latitude 68 South, Longitude 174 East.

Senate Attitude Guide to Stimson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Although authoritative information on the subject is lacking, it is regarded here as certain that the American delegation at London will reach no decision as to its position toward political agreements at the naval conference without obtaining information concerning the attitude of the Senate.

The understanding in London that the delegation has decided that the naval treaty projected at London should not contain certain political provisions coincides with the evident feeling in the Senate against political pacts of a security character. In the present temper of the Senate on the subject the inclusion of any political arrangements in the naval treaty might endanger the treaty in its course through the Senate to the great risk of any accomplishment as a result of the London conference.

Not only the irreconcilables but many Democrats are opposed to commitments in any naval treaty negotiated at London. The attitude Senators would take toward any project for consultation in case of danger of war is yet to be developed. There already is strong Senate sentiment against a consultative clause for the Kellogg treaty.

That the Senate will insist upon liberty of action for the United States in political matters is evidenced by the views of Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee. He has voiced opposition to entering any agreement to enlarge the Kellogg pact so as to impose upon the United States any obligation to interfere in the affairs of European nations, and has declared that there is no excuse for any plan whereby the United States agrees to consult with other signatories if the pact is violated.

GRANDI AND SIRIANNI WELCOMED IN ROME

Italian Foreign Minister, Back From London, to Confer With Il Duce and Graham.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Feb. 21.—Foreign Minister Grandi and Admiral Sirianni, leaders of the Italian delegates to the London Naval Arms Conference, arrived in Rome at 8:20 o'clock this evening by train from Paris. The Ministers were greeted at the railroad station by Amadeo Fani, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs; Sir Ronald Graham, British Ambassador to Rome; high officials of the Foreign Office, several naval officers and a large number of Italian and foreign journalists.

Signor Grandi, who did not appear to be fatigued by the journey from London, had a brief talk with the British Ambassador, with whom he will have luncheon on Sunday. The conference between Signor Grandi and the British envoy is looked upon with great interest here.

Pressed to make a statement by foreign journalists who claimed "parity news" with journalists in London, Signor Grandi smilingly replied that he had nothing to add to the memorandum which outlined the Italian policy and views on naval disarmament.

The Foreign Minister will see Premier Mussolini tomorrow morning and make his first report on the progress of the London conference, in particular to the reception of the Italian memorandum in the different quarters of the conference. Both Signor Grandi and Minister of Marine Sirianni will leave Rome for London on Monday afternoon.

The absence of French and American representatives at the railroad station today caused some comment among those present.

MacDonald Urges Drafting of Ban on Attacks on Merchant Vessels by Submersibles.

SEPARATE TREATY URGED

Some Think Germany, Spain and Other Countries Should Join Move of 5 Parley Powers.

By L. C. SPEERS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The first definite move in writing a treaty outlawing the employment of submarines against merchantmen in time of war unless adequate means for the rescue of crew and passengers are at hand was taken today when, at the instance of Premier MacDonald, the legal advisers of the delegations were directed to take the matter in hand and report as soon as possible to the committee of experts. It may take the form of a separate treaty, but this question remains in abeyance to be decided ultimately by the Committee of the Whole.

George A. Rublee of New York, principal legal adviser of the Americans, and Keith Merrill of New York, personal adviser to Secretary of State Stimson, were assigned to represent the United States on the legal committee. The lawyers lost little time in getting together to put in writing the tentative form which, in the opinion of the respective delegations, the submarine agreement should take. These memorandums are to be ready for the study of the legal committee not later than Tuesday.

When the lawyers have agreed they will submit their findings to a subcommittee of naval experts, on which Rear Admiral A. J. Hepburn, Captain W. W. Smyth and Commander Harold C. Train are the American members, who will use the recommendations of the legal advisers as the basis of the treaty draft which will be submitted to the committee of the whole. It is now expected the agreement will be ready for the signatures of the delegations in ten days, shortly after the new French delegates reach London for the resumption of the conference.

All delegations are confident that the writing and signing of the agreement will be speedily accomplished, the only matter still undecided being whether it will be made part of the London naval limitation agreement or be submitted for ratification by the various governments' Legislatures as a separate pact. It would seem from the talk among members of the delegations that there is strong support for the latter course, since, if made part of the London naval treaty, it would bind only the five nations participating in this conference. If negotiated and signed as a separate treaty it would be possible to bring in Germany, Spain and other nations maintaining sea-fighting forces.

In the view of Secretary of State Stimson and his colleagues, this is one of the outstanding accomplishments of the conference, no matter what else happens. While it is impossible to forecast the exact form the agreement will take, there is no question of the desire of Secretary Stimson, Premier MacDonald and the other delegation heads that the provisions be written in the most positive language, with no loopholes for any treaty violations.

It should be understood that this agreement in no way affects the problem involving the number, tonnage and armament of submarine types in the London limitation agreement. That problem still is far from solved. With France and Japan maintaining their position for powerful fleets in this class, it may be two or more weeks before agreement on this phase is reached.

The naval experts have not started work on the tonnage and armament tables which are to be submitted to the delegations. They expect to begin that task soon after completing the tentative draft of the merchantmen angle of the problem.

Coste Plans to Try Atlantic Flight Again, Using the Plane in Which He Set Six Marks

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Convinced that his red biplane, the Interrogation Point, in which he has smashed several world's aviation records, has a cruising radius of nearly 5,700 miles, Captain Dieudonné Coste today announced he will have another try at a Paris-New York flight as soon as the weather is favorable after May.

The French ace did not indicate who his companion will be on the projected flight, but stated at Toulouse today that his plane will be back in its home hangar at Villacoublay tomorrow for a complete overhauling and installation of a new Hispano motor of 600 horsepower. The machine will be ready for the Atlantic flight before the end of April, he declared.

Captain Coste revealed that he has broken six aviation records with the Interrogation Point in recent months without deliberate effort, "just to amuse myself." He said his sole purpose in going after them was to test the strength of his plane and so prove whether it was fit for an attempt to cross the Atlantic.

A young mechanic, M. Bellonte, was with Captain Coste when he tried to fly to New York last year in the Interrogation Point but was forced by weather to turn back at the Azores. It was also M. Bellonte who accompanied him when he broke the distance record on a flight to China. Another mechanic, M. Codos, has been his companion on recent flights when he broke the endurance and distance records for flight over a closed circuit with freight loads of 500 and 1,000 kilograms.

By W. A. WARN.

under heavy obligation to many Republican women for support they had given to welfare measures regarding which there should be no partisan opposition.

Text of Roosevelt's Letter.

The Governor's letter was as follows:

State of New York, Executive Chambers, Albany, Feb. 20, 1930.

Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler,
60 Morningside Drive, New York City.

My Dear Miss Butler:

I learn that you have called, under your leadership, a meeting of the Republican women of the State at Albany on Feb. 25.

The main purpose of this meeting, I understand, is to learn from the leaders of your party what progress is being made toward the enactment into law of those things in which women are particularly interested, and in turn to acquaint your party legislative representatives more fully as to what these matters are.

Such gatherings, showing as they do an awakened interest in public affairs, seem to me to deserve the outspoken approval of all desirous of arousing our citizens to a quickened sense of personal responsibility in the welfare of the State.

In addition, I feel personally a heavy debt of gratitude to many of the Republican women of the State for the fine and powerful support they have given to those important measures endorsed in the platforms of both parties and on which there can and should be no division of opinion on partisan lines. I have particularly in mind what is generally known as welfare legislation.

I would like very much to show this appreciation by tendering your conference an informal reception at the Executive Mansion at such time as may best fit in with your program.

I am charged under the Constitution with the duty of furthering the progress of the whole State without regard to partisan or special interests. Your conference will bring together an important group of women citizens devoted to the same purpose.

With this common bond it seems fitting that we should make the acquaintance of each other in this informal way and I hope you will feel as I do that progress in such things as we are entirely agreed upon may be expedited as a result.

I know that in any event you will consider my invitation in the same spirit of friendliness with which it is given.

Very sincerely yours,
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Denies Political Motive.

Governor Roosevelt declined to elaborate on his letter and appeared surprised that any one should read a political motive into the friendly communication he had sent the Republican woman leader.

"Miss Butler and we are friends, and I feel certain that she at least will not labor under any such misapprehension," the Governor said with a smile. "The letter speaks for itself."

There was speculation at the Capitol tonight with regard to Miss Butler's answer. A few Republicans who heard of the invitation expressed the opinion that she would send regrets. Other Republicans viewed it as a bid for the feminine Republican vote.

For weeks Republican leaders on Capitol Hill have heard from up-State sections of heavy Democratic inroads into the Republican strength north of the Bronx. In some heavily Republican counties of the State Governor Roosevelt is said to be so popular that Republican leaders in such localities fear that the normal Republican pluralities will be heavily reduced and in some instances cut in two.

The Governor's popularity in the Republican strongholds up-State far exceeds that of his popular predecessor, Governor Smith. The latter in his successive elections received many Republican votes, but mostly the votes of men. Republican leaders of the Legislature frequently came to the Executive Mansion to see Governor Smith. On one occasion the Republican State Chairman called on Governor Smith at the mansion at his invitation to discuss non-partisan nominations of Court of Appeals judges, but said afterward that he felt sorry he had gone.

An invitation from a Democratic Governor to a whole group of workers of the opposition party, however, is a distinct innovation at the Capitol.

ROOSEVELT PROPOSES ULSTER PARK BOARD

Governor Tells of Plan in Speech at Kingston—Predicts "Sounder Times" for the Country.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Governor Roosevelt speaking at a men's dinner in the historic old First Dutch Church, paid tribute to the tradition established by the early Dutch settlers of this region and said that he was going to take up with the Legislature the matter of creating a new regional park commission for Ulster and other adjoining counties.

Turning to prison conditions, he said that a new parole system and a change in the criminal laws were needed.

In closing the Governor expressed the belief that the country was headed for sounder times.

"We are going to get back to real work instead of burying our faces in the financial pages of our newspapers," he said.

Roscoe Irwin, former Internal Revenue Collector, presided and introduced the Governor, who motored to Kingston from Albany.

TELLS 'INSIDE STORY' ON MUSCLE SHOALS

C. H. Gray at Lobby Hearing Describes Fight on Bill for Government Operation.

URGED COOLIDGE TO VETO

Asserts Cyanamid Chief Said Any Agreement With Power Companies Must Be "Tacit."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—More inside history of the fight conducted by the Federal Farm Bureau in opposition to the Norris bill providing for government operation of Muscle Shoals and in behalf of the American Cyanamid Company's offer to lease and operate the plant was brought out today before the Senate lobby committee in the continued examination of Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the bureau.

Confronted with copies of letters and telegrams from his own files, Mr. Gray testified that in January, 1926, immediately following his assumption of his present position with the Farm Bureau, a conference had been held in New York between representatives of the power companies, the Cynamid Company, and the Farm Bureau.

According to information given him by William B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid Company, he said, such conferences had continued in an "extra confidential manner," ever since, although "no agreement ever was arrived at" between them.

"Agreement Must Be Tacit."

Mr. Gray testified that it was the proposed plan of Mr. Bell that any understanding which might be reached must be "tacit," so that Mr. Bell might be able truthfully to say that no agreement had been made by the Cyanamid Company with the power companies.

It was not until December, 1922, he said, that the Farm Bureau endorsed the Cyanamid Company's offer. Mr. Gray agreed when questioned that G. R. Martin, counsel for the American Cyanamid Company, had prepared for Senator Frederic C. Walcott of Connecticut, a member of the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, a draft of a minority report on the pending Norris bill.

It, however, had never been presented by him, Mr. Gray admitted, farm bureau officials fearing that the effect might be unfortunate, as Senator Walcott is a director in the Union Carbide Company.

Mr. Martin was one of those present at the 1926 conference in New York, Mr. Gray said, others present being M. H. Aylesworth, then secretary of the National Electric Association and now president of the National Broadcasting Company.

"I thought Owen D. Young was going to be there, but he didn't show up," Mr. Gray said.

Gray Urged Veto by Coolidge.

Mr. Gray admitted having urged President Coolidge to veto the Norris bill on the ground that for him to sign the bill would be to "destroy" Edward A. O'Neal, head of the Alabama Farm Bureau, and remove him as a factor in Southern agriculture which, he said, the President agreed would be unfortunate. This argument, he said, had been suggested by Colonel J. W. Worthington of the Tennessee River Improvement Association.

No political considerations were involved, Mr. Gray told the committee, since Mr. O'Neal was a Democrat and "never had voted the Republican ticket in his life." But, he insisted, a question of "human relationships" was involved.

"We had stood for private ownership of Muscle Shoals, as he had," said Mr. Gray, "and had helped to such event as we could on the bill."

NEVER SAW ROTHSTEIN, NUTT'S SON DECLARES

Denies He Ever Was Engaged to Represent Slain Gambler in Narcotic Matters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—The presentment of a New York grand jury charging him with being "indiscreet" in relations with Arnold Rothstein, slain Broadway gambler, led Rolland L. Nutt tonight to deny he had known or ever seen the man.

A Washington lawyer and son of L. G. Nutt, head of the Narcotics Division at the Treasury Department, he was censured by the Federal jury along with his father and brother-in-law, L. P. Mattingly.

In his statement the younger Nutt said that published implications that he "had been engaged to represent Arnold Rothstein in connection with alleged operations of so-called narcotic drug rings" were untrue.

Replying to the presentment, Mr. Nutt explained that he was engaged principally in Federal income tax practice. He had represented some clients of Mattingly while the latter was a tax consultant, and said in that way some additional income tax assessments against Rothstein had been referred to him in January, 1926.

Mr. Nutt said that, as it happened, he "rendered no service in connection with this income tax assessment, received no fee and asked none."

"That is all I know about Arnold Rothstein," he continued. "I never have, as an attorney or otherwise, in any way, even remotely, been connected with any narcotic matter."

Thorough investigation of the charges made by the January Federal grand jury against persons connected with the New York office of the Federal Narcotic Bureau is being delayed by the fact that the only available grand jury is now busily engaged on another important inquiry, United States Attorney Tuttle said yesterday.

It is generally believed that the narcotic investigation, which is expected to get under way next week, will result in a severe shake-up of the local force.

LEHMAN MEDIATES TODAY.

Will Seek to Settle New Dispute of Dress Contractors and Jobbers.

Lieut. Gov. Lehman will make another attempt to mediate the dispute between dress contractors and jobbers today. He will meet representatives of both factors at the Hotel Commodore at 10:30 A. M.

Mr. Lehman made it plain in a statement in Albany several days ago that he would not hesitate to place the blame for the deadlock if necessary. Although an oral agreement was reached on Feb. 12, a contract was not signed and a fresh dispute started the next day.

The dispute involves the terms under which contractors and jobbers shall operate mutually. The jobbers agreed to confine their orders to the shops of the contractors' association and demanded that the contractors agree to work for independent jobbers on no more favorable terms than for those in the jobbers' association. This demand was characterized as "a new demand" by the contractors.

GREENLAND SELLS FURS.

Prices at Auction Lower Than Last Year, but Quantity Almost Same.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 21.—The Greenland Trade Department's annual fur auction was held today at the Copenhagen Stock Exchange. American, British, French, German and Scandinavian buyers were represented and prices averaged 25 per cent below those of last year, possibly because of the financial slump in New York.

The auction realized $175,000, against $240,000 last year, but the quantities sold were almost the same as in 1929. The highest prices were for a blue fox, $268, and a polar bear, $250.

URGE UPTOWN JAIL TO RELIEVE TOMBS

State Commission Inspectors Again Condemn Conditions at City Prison.

DOUBLING UP CONDEMNED

Prisoners Held in Slayings and for Lesser Crimes Found Occupying the Same Cells.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—The State Commission of Correction, in a report today, condemned the practice of confining more than one prisoner in a cell in the Tombs and declared that New York City should lose no time in correcting conditions there. An inspection of the prison was made by Cecilia D. Patten and Walter W. Nicholson.

The Tombs has 419 cells, and on Jan. 8 there were 669 prisoners in the institution. The members of the commission found 167 cells each occupied by two prisoners.

"Doubling in the cells," the report declares, "is said to be arranged through personal knowledge of the prisoners, and in no case are two inmates under the same charge placed in a cell together. Nevertheless, the degree to which officers in this institution are forced to resort to 'doubling up' because of lack of sufficient equipment is a serious menace to safety.

"Over half the population in this large prison on the day of inspection was housed in a manner now recognized to be one of the most potent forces for the spread of criminal propaganda. The city of New York in its plain duty to itself and the nation at large should not permit a continuance of present conditions one moment longer than necessarily required to provide sufficient equipment to properly house its prison population."

The commission a few weeks ago called attention to reports that the Tombs was settling into the ground and that it should be carefully inspected by experts.

As an evidence of overcrowding in the prison, the report said that two men had been confined in one cell on the third tier awaiting trial for ten months, one charged with murder and the other with carrying a pistol.

On the sixth tier, the report said, an 18-year-old boy has been awaiting trial for four months on a charge of murder.

The report declared there was evident need for an uptown jail, pointing out that all men arrested in Manhattan and held for disposition in magistrates' courts are sent to the Tombs.

In praising the sanitary condition of the Tombs, the report said that "the general condition of maintenance and operation, particularly with regard to cleanliness and sanitation, was noted to be much superior to what has been observed at any previous visit. The department and jail officials are to be commended for a high level of service under the serious handicap of inadequate equipment.

LEHMAN FORESEES BUSINESS RECOVERY

practiced or trained economist, and also, because of my complete withdrawal from business in order to devote myself exclusively to public work, I am not now so intimately conversant with the immediate situation as it relates to specific industry. I can come to you only as a business man long interested and familiar with business problems and the economic and industrial life of the country.

That, ever since early Autumn, this country has been and still is suffering from a business recession, of course, admits of no argument. We would simply be futilely blinding ourselves to the facts if we refused to recognize the situation. Unemployment, particularly in certain lines, is considerable, with resultant suffering and lessened purchasing power.

I am confident, however, that the industrial and financial structure of the country is fundamentally sound and if mistakes are avoided and constructive action advanced we need have no substantial fear of the future.

Both the severity and duration of the trade recession will, I believe, be directly in proportion to the sound constructive leadership and constructive business sense shown by the bankers, merchants and manufacturers of this country in the immediate future and during the next few months.

Sees No Need for Long Depression.

I am not bold enough to attempt to predict the exact date on which the country may hope to return to normal business. I believe, however, that the recession need not be of long duration and that we may expect an improvement in conditions reasonably soon, provided that we collectively and individually use common sense and courage.

The present situation, fortunately, differs fundamentally from others that have occurred, at least within the memory of the present generation. Periods of depression in industry ordinarily come,

(a) As a result of inflation in merchandise inventories or in commodity prices, or

(b) A serious money stringency.

The present situation is obviously not the result of either factor. Certainly at the time when serious decline of security values commenced merchandise inventories throughout the country were of reasonable size. And it is equally true that commodity prices had no element of inflation and, if anything, were and are too low.

It is equally obvious that at the present time there not only is no money stringency but the deposit banks generally are as liquid and strong in cash resources as at any time for many years past, and any one entitled to credit may obtain it at reasonable cost. It has been truly said:

"Speculation has come out of securities, but there is no speculation that needs to come out of business."

Community Effort Needed.

We cannot afford, however, to proceed along haphazard lines or depend too greatly on the efforts of others or of governmental authority. Prosperity does not come just for the wishing. It does not come through dicta. It does not come through consultation and conference alone, valuable as these undoubtedly are.

It must be the result of community effort, intelligently applied and directed. Government can lead, inspire and coordinate; effective action, however, in a situation of this kind must come alike from manufacturer and worker, farmer and consumer, merchant and banker.

As I have said, I am optimistic because there is no problem of large inventories or inflated merchandise and commodity prices and because credit is available to sound manufacturers and merchants.

Obviously, trade and industry are based on credit. As I have said before, the financial situation of the country is so easy that every merchant and manufacturer of responsibility and standing will be able to obtain, at reasonable rates, such credit as may be necessary for the conduct of his business. That, of course, will take care of the sound manufacturer and merchant.

A large portion, however, of our distributing of merchandise has, of recent years, become increasingly dependent on credit not furnished direct by the banks. It is therefore important that the credit lines given to the small dealer, to the distributer and to the consumer himself, by merchant and manufacturer, be not curtailed.

Liberal Credit Policy Urged.

Discretion and common sense must be used by the manufacturers and merchants in the granting of credits, just the same as in the purchasing of raw materials and the creating of inventories, and yet a courageous, far-sighted, liberal policy of credits by manufacturers and merchants should be, in my opinion, maintained, so that consumption may be retained on a satisfactory level and mass dealings at low cost assured and accelerated.

I am optimistic, too, because whereas a year ago there was a real, or potential, world credit strain, today there is relative credit fluidity in most of the countries of the world.

In other words, the large amounts of money that came from all over the world to our great securities markets are now released for purposes of world trade. Money was attracted here because of the high interest rates, and used for speculative purpose in our markets.

This money is available now for trade and industry, rather than speculation, and I have no doubt that it will help to bring about a general world trade revival which will increase our export trade, in my opinion the most important single factor of the continued prosperity of our nation.

Sees More Public Construction.

Another industrial development brought about by low money rates will be increase in construction work by common carriers and other public service agencies, as well as by private enterprise. Much work of this character has undoubtedly been postponed or delayed in the recent past because of high interest rates, and the difficulty of securing economical financing.

The substantial easing of interest rates again makes public service financing attractive and practicable, and will, I am confident, lead to the satisfying of construction requirements, delayed at least in part for some time past.

In this State we are proceeding with construction work as rapidly and as fully as our resources and the provisions of law will permit. I do not favor at any time the building by governmental divisions just for the sake of building. This is wasteful, unsound economically, and must in time inevitably react adversely on the community.

There are, however, in this State, as in probably every other governmental unit, Federal or otherwise, a great many construction projects which are recognized as absolutely necessary or highly desirable, and which in the ordinary course would be carried on over a fixed period of time.

I refer, for instance, in this State, to the building and maintenance of roads, the construction of new hospital, prison and school facilities, and like enterprises. The carrying on of projects of this sort, together with undertakings of a similar nature by municipalities and counties, will mean renewed or increased activity.

Sees No Cause for Pessimism.

In view of the situation as I see it, I cannot be pessimistic about general trade and industrial conditions in this country. Improvement or return to normalcy will undoubtedly be slower in some localities than in others, because of specific surrounding conditions. We are not going to return to normalcy overnight. There never was a chance of that, in spite of over-optimistic predictions. As I have said, however, I feel that fundamentally conditions are sound, and with the energy, industry and thrift of the American people operating on every hand, progress and improvement should be steady, and before many months conditions should be noticeably improved.

Now with regard to the situation in this particular locality, I am too much of a business man to express any opinion or make any concrete suggestions, because I am unfamiliar, except in a general way, with the problems confronting you. I am, therefore, just going to make a few general observations on trade and industrial practices.

I find that many localities, particularly in the older sections of our country, have been adversely affected by changes in the fundamental economic conditions, which cannot be substantially changed by the acts of any one man or group of men.

Inventions Oust Old Industries.

For instance, when the automobile was developed there was no way to save the builder of horse-drawn vehicles. The bobbing of women's hair made the manufacture of hairpins unprofitable. Changes in other styles placed a handicap on other articles of women's apparel. The development of the talkie has almost completely eliminated the silent drama. The increased development of automatic machinery has obviously changed the character of our manufacturing processes.

All of these things and many others, which I could enumerate if I had the time, have changed industrial conditions in certain lines beyond the control of man's wisdom or industry.

It seems to me, however, that for every article or line which has been adversely affected by changed demand or requirements, others at least equally profitable have arisen. The wide-awake, progressive manufacturer or merchant has appreciated that fact and has changed his manufacturing process or product in order to conform with the new conditions.

It seems to me that manufacturers must keep pace with the times, and that in almost all cases, given sufficient capital and ingenuity, they can develop new departments or lines which will provide additional outlets for their products.

Oil Again in Demand.

You are all familiar, of course, with the great impetus that has been given to the consumption of electricity through development by public utility companies of new means for its use, both in homes and in factories. I recall that a relatively short time ago fuel oil was almost a drug on the market.

It has now obtained a real value through development of oil-burning equipment, again both in the home and for commercial purposes. Gasoline was, of course, purely a by-product in the manufacture of petroleum until its use became general in the development of the internal combustion engine.

I have in mind the great du Pont company, which fifteen years ago manufactured explosives almost exclusively. Today its explosives business brings in only a small part of its revenue. The balance comes from the countless products they manufacture, many of material which previously had no value.

Take the history of coal-tar products, which twenty years ago had substantially no value at all, and today constitute a very substantial source of revenue of the companies manufacturing them as by-products of their other and older activities.

Because of my former interest in certain rayon companies I have seen what can be done in the development of new uses. I remember as recently as fifteen years ago my wife making the statement that she would be afraid to wear a dress made of rayon because she was afraid that if any one came near her with a match or a lighted cigarette it would explode.

Rise of Rayon Industry.

At that time rayon was used almost exclusively for knit goods. Today, I need not remind you, because of ingenuity and aggressiveness and inventiveness of the industry itself, the commodity is used for a vast number of purposes, with the result that production and consumption has increased by leaps and bounds every year since the war, and I do not believe that even now we have more than scratched the surface of this great industry.

I could go on in this strain endlessly, but I think I have given you enough examples to show what I have in mind.

In other words, I believe that it behooves the progressive manufacturer to watch and study, to the end that when a line becomes unprofitable he can switch to some other line or article which will bring in a return commensurate with his capital and efforts. To do this, of course, requires ingenuity and recognition of changing conditions.

Few manufacturers, in my opinion, can ever hope to be successful in a large way, or over a long period of time, unless they have equipped themselves with information that permits them to know accurately what costs are, and to recognize and even anticipate the changes that are almost bound to come in any industry.

Must Keep Up With Times.

The manufacturer must, through installation of modern machinery, aggressive selling campaigns, research and a full knowledge of what his competitors are doing, keep abreast of the times, day in and day out, 365 days in the year. I have seen many concerns, on the verge of going out of business because of dry rot, successfully reorganize their business on a basis of ingenuity, knowledge and common sense.

The success of any community, I believe, is largely dependent on the spirit, wisdom and adaptability of those who compose it.

At the same time, I believe that government—State and municipal alike—can help and cooperate with business in capitalizing opportunity.

In the first place, government can do much to bring people to a locality through intelligent exploitation and advertising of its possibilities. It can help in the study and investigation of the particular products for which the locality is best adapted by reason of location, railroad facilities, power facilities and proximity to markets.

It must maintain the least possible taxes and see to it that the taxes collected from the people are expended wisely and bring in a full return.

Must Spend Taxes Wisely.

Unnecessary and unwise expenditures out of the taxpayers' funds are not only wasteful but serve to reduce the value of the very property on which they are levied.

It is therefore important that the taxpayer himself in every instance make sure that the taxes collected by municipalities and county and State governments are actually wisely, economically and effectively expended.

The State can and should at all times make sure that public utility rates for industrial or domestic purposes are maintained on a reasonable basis.

It should insure the building and maintenance of good roads, so that communication is made both easy and economical. Few things, in my opinion, increase the happiness and prosperity of a community more than good and adequate roads.

I am talking to you as members of the Chamber of Commerce and of a service club, which are essentially cooperative bodies. I have confined my remarks to topics which I believe to be practicable and in direct relation to your activities, both as individuals and as members of a trade organization. Your community will prosper only to the extent that its business men take interest in its affairs.

Commercially, socially and politically, the Chamber of Commerce, or service club, or other trade organization, is only as strong and progressive as are the members that compose it, and a general assumption of responsibility on the part of all its members is required.

TELLS OF PROGRAM OF SOCIAL REFORM

Lieut. Gov. Lehman, Addressing Utica Women, Says State Must Pay as It Goes.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Addressing a meeting of the Women's Civic Club at the Hotel Utica this afternoon, Lieut. Gov. Lehman said that the present administration at Albany was bending its utmost efforts "to increase enlightened, forward-looking government that will be interpretative of and responsive to the ideals and needs of the people of the State."

Mr. Lehman gave an account of what was being done in that direction at the present session of the Legislature, discussing the prison problem and the various measures for creating more adequate facilities at the State hospitals and penal institutions, for which almost $50,000,000 will be spent in the next four or five years. He made brief reference also to the proposed old-age pension legislation, which will affect dependent persons of 70 years and over.

"I believe the proposed legislation will require much thought and study and certain changes before it can fully conform to the best practices of old-age assistance, but I am hopeful that at this session the first step will be taken really to protect this class of weak and needy citizens who have reached dependency, in many cases through no fault of their own," the Lieutenant Governor said.

Mr. Lehman said he was particularly interested in education and in the expansion and development of the State's system of parks and playgrounds as a preventive against both sickness and crime.

"We can vastly reduce the population of our reformatories and of our prisons if we attack the problem of crime at its source," Mr. Lehman said. "Much of the misery, suffering and economic and spiritual loss in our hospitals could be eliminated if we taught people to live decently physically, and much of the misery, suffering and loss to our social fabric could be eliminated if we taught and helped our youth to right living and right thinking.

"After all, the agency to do that is education, and through granting to youth an opportunity to work and play and to develop sanely. The home, of course, will always be the greatest influence; but again, after all, our boys and girls spend a great part of their days and nights away from home. Healthful out-of-door recreation in clean, well-supervised surroundings is today an absolute necessity if our young people are to be strengthened to avoid temptations and overcome the difficulties of every-day life."

The Lieutenant Governor warned his audience that social progress could not for any great length of time go ahead faster than material progress.

"There are a great many things we would like to do and do quickly," he said, "but, primarily, standards must have a direct relation to the State's ability to pay for what it wants.

"In other words, the social progress made by government over an extended period will be directly affected by the economic conditions of the governmental unit. It is therefore necessary for government to maintain balanced budgets, keep taxes as low and as little burdensome as practicable and interfere to the minimum degree with private enterprise."

BRITAIN'S RECORDS OF REVOLUTION HERE

Rosenbach Buys Headquarters Papers, 20,000 Items, From Royal Institution.

ONLY 15% EVER PUBLISHED

69 Letters by Washington Are Included in Day-by-Day Account of Struggle.

NEW YORK DATA IS VARIED

One Document Gives Burgoyne's Confidential Report on Why His Army Surrendered.

Twenty thousand documents and letters, constituting virtually a day-by-day record of the British Army's struggle against the American colonists, have come back to this country, whence they were taken nearly 150 years ago by the British, homeward-bound after the Revolution, it was learned yesterday.

These documents are the Headquarters Papers of the British Army in America during the War of Independence—a word picture of the war's details as well as its outstanding dramatic moments. Since 1804 they have been owned by the Royal Institution of Great Britain. Because the institution was faced suddenly with the necessity of reconstructing its original building in Albemarle Street, London, it has sold the documents to Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, who now has them in his vault at 15 East Fifty-first Street. Dr. Rosenbach termed the purchase the most important in his career.

"There is no collection to be compared with this in the regard to the British side of the Revolution," Dr. Rosenbach said. "These, the very Headquarters Papers of the British Army, contain the largest bulk of official correspondence known, between the English and American commanders, during the whole period of the War of Independence."

Collection to Be Kept Intact.

Because of the historical value of the collection, it will be kept intact, Dr. Rosenbach said, though he does not know its ultimate destination. No information regarding the price paid was made public.

Only some 15 per cent of the material in these records has been published, Dr. Rosenbach estimated yesterday.

"Although the documents have been examined by American historians, including Jared Sparks and George Bancroft," Dr. Rosenbach said, "they have never been as thoroughly utilized as they deserve. The managers of the Royal Institution thought they belonged by right to the United States, where American students could have easy access to them."

These papers were collected by Sir Guy Carleton, afterward Lord Dorchester, who became commander-in-chief of the British Army in America in 1782, succeeding Sir Henry Clinton. When received by the Royal Institution the documents were bound in sixty-two folio volumes, accompanied by leather rolls enclosing warrants of authority on parchment, signed by King George III, to Sir William Howe and Sir Guy Carleton.

69 Washington Letters Included.

Among the most important letters are those of Sir William Howe, commander-in-chief of the British Army from 1775 to 1778; Lord Barrington, Lord North, Lord George Germain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, Sir Henry Clinton; Earl Sherburne, the Prime Minister; General John Burgoyne, Major André, William Franklin, son of Benjamin Franklin; Lord Cornwallis, Lord Amherst, supreme in command of the British army, and Sir James Wright.

There are also files of correspondence from the American side. The sixty-nine letters of Washington addressed to Sir Henry Clinton and Sir William Howe are of the greatest historical importance, according to Dr. Rosenbach. Many of these are unpublished. The series of letters of Sir Henry Clinton to General Washington state clearly the British side of the struggle.

Of interest are many intercepted letters of American Generals, which fell into the possession of British headquarters. Further there are orderly books, accounts, regimental returns, lists, payrolls, pay warrants, and other official documents, including actual papers of the British War Office.

New York Material Important.

Dr. Rosenbach said that the documents include the finest known collection of letters of American loyalists—those who sided with Great Britain in the controversy—and that the papers relating to the capture and evacuation of New York constitute the largest extant mass of material on the subject.

"The New York material is so important that it throws new light on the history of the colony and city during the Revolution," said Dr. Rosenbach.

Among the individual items of outstanding importance is the letter of George Washington to Sir Henry Clinton, dated July 10, 1776, enclosing the official Declaration of War, which consists of eight pages in the autograph of John Hancock, signed by him. This recited the alleged atrocities committed by British troops, and the causes that led to the separation from Great Britain.

In part the Hancock document reads:

"If the Enemy shall commit any further Violence, by putting to Death, torturing, or otherwise ill-treating the Prisoners retained by them, or any of the Hostages, put into their Hands, Recourse be had to Retaliation, as the sole Means of stopping the Progress of Human Butchery * * * for that Purpose, Punishments of the same Kind and Degree, be inflicted on an equal Number of the Captives from them, in our Possession, till they shall be taught due Respect to the violated Rights of Nations."

André Sentence Announced.

In another of the important Washington letters, written to Sir Henry Clinton, the American Commander-in-Chief tells of the decision to execute Major André as a spy. In part Washington wrote:

"In answer to your Excellency's letter of the 26th instant, which I have had the honor to receive, I am to inform you, that Major André was taken under such circumstances, as would have justified the most summary proceedings against him. I determined, however, to refer his case to the examination and decision of a Board of General Officers, who have on his free and voluntary confession and letters, reported—

First—that he came on shore from the Vulture Sloop of War in the night of the twenty-first of September last on an interview with General Arnold in a private and secret manner.

Secondly—that he changed his dress within our lines and, under a feigned name and in a disguised Habit, passed our Works at Stony and Verplanks points the evening of the twenty-second of September last, and was taken the morning of the twenty-third of September last, at Tarry Town, in a disguised Habit, being then on his way to New York, and when taken, he had in his possession several papers which contained intelligence of the Enemy. The Board having maturely considered these facts do also report of his Excellency Genl. Washington that Major André, Adjutant General to the British Army, ought to be considered a Spy from the Enemy, and that agreeably to the law and usage of Nations it is their opinion he ought to suffer death."

36 Letters on Cornwallis.

Papers relating to the surrender of General Burgoyne at Saratoga are here, as are also two letters of Burgoyne to Howe upon the former's capitulation, and documents relating to the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. No fewer than thirty-six letters of Lord Cornwallis relate to his capture and surrender.

A personal touch is given by some tradesmen's accounts to Sir Guy Carleton for groceries, tailoring, domestic servants' wages and clothing for an orphan or two. Tea varies from 10s to 24s a pound, sugar 1s 8d, macaroni 5s 6d, sago 6s, truffles £1 16.0 a pound, white pepper 8s, ham and Gloucester cheese both 3s a pound.

Portraying the French side of the American Revolution are a series of documents of Comte d'Estaing, the Marquis de Lafayette, Comte de Rochambeau (in one of which he says he supplied Cornwallis with money when he was a prisoner of George Washington), and many dealing with the naval battles in which the French took an active part.

Among the most interesting letters is one written on Oct. 20, 1777, by General Burgoyne to General Sir William Howe, regarding the surrender at Saratoga.

Victor H. Palsits, head of the manuscript division of the New York Public Library, said yesterday:

"Any institution which gets these documents can be filled with joy. It will take some hundreds of thousands to buy the collection."

Asked whether they might eventually go to the New York Public Library, he replied smiling:

"While there's life, there's hope, and while there's hope I suppose there's a chance. I wish somebody would give them to the library. Not many things like this collection will ever come from the old world to the new. I did not suppose these would ever leave England."

HOOVER TO REVIEW ALEXANDRIA PARADE

Descendant of Washington Will Direct Ceremonies Today—Congress Will Observe Birthday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—President and Mrs. Hoover will motor to Alexandria, Va., tomorrow afternoon to witness the Washington's Birthday celebration in what Alexandrians call "the first President's home town."

Mr. Hoover will not make a speech but will review a military and civic parade from a stand with Secretary of War Hurley, Governor Pollard of Virginia and other officials. The President and Mrs. Hoover expect to remain about two hours in the historic Virginia city, so intimately linked with Washington's life.

The last descendant of the Washington family to be born at Mount Vernon will have charge of the ceremonies when the Children of the American Revolution lay a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the Revolutionary War in the churchyard of the old Presbyterian Meeting House in Alexandria. She is Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard of this city, daughter of Colonel John Augustine Washington, the last private owner of Mount Vernon.

Many members of Congress expect to go to Alexandria after ceremonies in the Senate and House. The Senate program will be confined to the reading of Washington's Farewell Address by Senator Vandenberg, but in the House members of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission have prepared an elaborate observance.

Representative John Q. Tilson, Republican floor leader, will speak on the bicentennial celebration and William Tyler Page, Clerk of the House, on plans for the celebration two years hence. Addresses will be delivered by Representatives Moore of Virginia, Moore of Ohio, McSwain of South Carolina, Luce of Massachusetts, Cramton of Michigan, Sloan of Nebraska and Temple of Pennsylvania.

Many patriotic organizations will have special exercises here and government departments will be closed for the holiday.

KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF.

Lyndhurst (N. J.) Man and Victim Found in Parked Car by Mayor Vogle

Special to The New York Times.

LYNDHURST, N. J., Feb. 21.—In a sedan parked opposite the home of Mayor Horace R. Vogle on Stuyvesant Avenue, at 7:30 o'clock tonight, Ralph Meola, 30 years old, of 612 North Eighth Street, shot and killed Julia Spino, 18 years old, of 235 Kingsland Avenue, then wounded himself fatally.

The double shooting was discovered by Mayor Vogle when he backed his car into the parked machine and alighted to apologize to the occupants. The Mayor summoned an ambulance, which took Meola to the Hackensack Hospital, where he shortly afterward died of two wounds in the chest. The motive for the murder and suicide was not known.

Russians Study Mexican Colony.

TAMPICO, MEXICO, Feb. 21 (AP).—A delegation of anti-Bolshevist Russians headed by Phillip Ney has arrived here from the United States to study possibilities of colonizing the Tampico area with several thousand anti-Bolshevist Russians now living in the United States and Canada.

MEETINGS HERE HONOR WASHINGTON TODAY

Banks and Most Businesses to Be Closed—Jersey Masons Hold 139th Celebration.

The 198th anniversary of Washington's birthday today will be observed as a holiday by banks and the majority of businesses of all kinds. The stock exchange will be closed as will the larger stores, although a great many shops will remain open at least part of the day.

Perhaps the largest meeting arranged for the day will be that sponsored by the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York at Carnegie Hall at 10:30 this morning, in which nearly forty other patriotic organizations will participate. The Tammany Society, which is one of the number, will have John R. Voorhis, its 101-year-old Grand Sachem, at the head of its delegation. Representative James M. Beck will deliver the principal address at the meeting.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith will speak at the Brace Memorial Newsboys' Home in the afternoon; former Governor Charles S. Whitman will speak at the Sons of the Revolution dinner at the Plaza and Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky will address the Saturday Afternoon Forum of the National Democratic Club, 233 Madison Avenue.

At the Jumel Mansion, used by Washington as his headquarters here during the early part of the Revolution, a program arranged by the Washington Headquarters Association will be given at 3 o'clock. Speakers will include Park Commissioner Herrick, District Attorney Crain, Miss C. E. Mason, the Rev. Dr. Minot C. Morgan and Mrs. Frank H. Parcells.

St. John's Lodge 1, F. and A. M., of New Jersey, held its 139th celebration of Washington's birthday at the Elks' Club in Newark last night. The lodge held its first Washington's birthday dinner in 1792, when he was still president, and when he observed his own sixtieth birthday. The first dinner was given at the Rising Sun Tavern, which was located in what is now the heart of Newark's business district.

Last night former Judge Edward Ambler Armstrong of Princeton delivered the oration on Washington and Senator John M. Robinson of Kentucky also spoke.

The annual mass of the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus, in memory of deceased members of the forty-one councils in Manhattan and the Bronx, will be celebrated this morning at 10:30 o'clock in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The annual gathering of men and boys of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York will be held this morning at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. A corporate holy communion service will be held in the cathedral at 8:30 o'clock with Bishop William T. Manning as the celebrant. A breakfast will follow in the undercroft of Synod House, Amsterdam Avenue and 110th Street, at which the speakers will be Bishop Manning and United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle.

The thirtieth annual meeting of the International Union Mission Board will be held this afternoon and evening in the Church of the Strangers (interdenominational), 309 West Fifty-seventh Street.

A "Day of Devotion" will be conducted, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning, in Trinity Chapel, Twenty-fifth Street, west of Broadway. The leader will be the Rev. Dr. J. Wilson Sutton, the vicar.

Rabbi Samuel Benjamin will preach on "The Foundations of Liberty" this morning at 10 o'clock before Congregation Ansha Emeth of West Bronx, 55 West Burnside Avenue.

GRUNDY SEES HOOVER AIDING TARIFF CUTS

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

succeeded in organizing a high protection bloc.

According to Senator Grundy's argument, the cause of high protection can expect no favors from the joint conference committee of Senate and House, which will be appointed after the Senate disposes of the bill, to harmonize the many differences between the two houses.

His contention was that the lower rates inserted by the coalition majority would be changed very little, and many of them not at all, in the conference committee, because President Hoover was in sympathy with retaining them in preference to the higher rates of the House and the Senate Committee on Finance. So he urged that Senators from industrial States should begin to fight with vigor against any further lowering of duties.

Harrison Calls for Information.

Senator Harrison called on Senator Watson, the Republican floor leader, and Senator Grundy, to tell whether the article in the Kansas City Star correctly represented President Hoover's position. Senator Watson said nothing. Senator Grundy responded solely with a beatific Cheeryble Brothers smile.

Whether or not President Hoover is not dissatisfied with the manner in which his severest critics in the Senate are revising the tariff schedules, the fact remains that many politicians and political observers here are of the opinion that the Senate bill, as torn asunder by the coalitionists, even with their inconsistent hiking of some rates for the benefit of industries in sections which a majority of the coalition group represent will give the President greater strength with the electorate than the measure framed by Republican regulars.

There is a thread of feeling of that character among the so-called Young Guard of the Senate—Republicans new in service and mostly from the West, who are resentful of what they assert is the Old Guard's lack of leadership and its failure to look out for the interests of President Hoover and strengthen the Republican party with the people.

The Young Guard's members are gnashing their teeth as the tariff debate proceeds. During the extra session, they started a mild revolt against Old Guard methods, and began to take an active part in the leadership of the legislative game, but marked differences over the tariff developed among them, and they decided that they would follow the rule of being seen and not heard—that is, not heard as a united body.

Anxious to Have Bill Passed.

Another reason for the Young Guard's comparative silence is they realize that if they participate frequentl in the debate, passage of the tariff bill by the Senate would be further delayed. They are anxious to have the measure put in the statute books as soon as possible, so that it can be tried out before the general Congressional elections in November.

When the Senate has disposed of the bill and undertaken to consider legislation held up by the protracted tariff debate, the Young Guard, united once again, will break loose, according to the present program. Its members plan to take a foremost part in the Senate proceedings without regard to all desires of the regular Republican leadership.

They intend to reverse the defensive attitude in which the regular Republicans have been placed during the tariff debate, and will come back at Democrats and insurgent Republicans who have been criticizing President Hoover. Part of their plan is to show that, despite the fun poked at the President's tendency to appoint commissions of investigation, the same practice was followed, and to as great an extent, by Presidents Wilson and Coolidge.

As explained today, the young guardsmen have agreed to form a "flying wedge" in the Senate that will make itself felt against the coalition solidarity, which suggests that the Young Guard may receive a new and more illuminating name.

Pictures President as Satisfied.

The article in The Kansas City Star which has so aroused Senator Grundy gives credit to the Democratic membership of the Senate for honesty in attempting a downward revision of the rates, instead of taking a merely nagging and critical attitude toward the higher rates passed by the House and approved by the Senate Finance Committee. President Hoover is pictured in the article as quite complacent over the situation, instead of being worried, as many believed.

Mr. Pinkham proceeds:

"He asked his party for legislation to redeem his program and is getting it from another party. He asked for certain administrative features in the tariff bill and Congress gave him others that he didn't desire. But he is getting the tariff rates as between Eastern industrialism and Western agriculture that he did desire; and because he believes these revised schedules will provide the buttress he feels is necessary to the working of the farm legislation of the extra session he will approve the tariff bill when it comes to him.

"Thereafter, it will be seen whether the Democrats, having given the President what he desired, will gain or lose by these new political tactics. If they don't succeed in giving the administration a setback in the Congressional elections next Autumn honesty as a political policy will itself take the setback."

Hoover's Attitude Discussed.

When Senator Harrison had called attention in the Senate to the Pinkham article and Senator Grundy's concern over it, he discussed contrary reports as to President Hoover's reaction to the tariff situation.

"Of course," he said, "one branch of the Republican party has attempted to give the impression that President Hoover is favorable to the action of the coalition in revising tariff rates downward and trying to create an equality among all the industries of the country.

"Others have been very energetic in trying to create just the opposite impression, that the President agrees with the Old Guard; that he is against the slashing or modification of any rate reported by the House of Representatives in the tariff bill. So the country has been led to confusion as to what the true attitude of President Hoover is relative to this bill.

"Of course, on this side, we have manifested in every way a desire to try to obtain from the Republican leader in this chamber and from his colleague, the Senator from Utah, Mr. Smoot, what the views of the President were with regard to the rates recommended by the House and by the Finance Committee. They have told us they did not know and they have gone almost to the extent of saying that they did not care."

Senator Harrison said that if the article were not correct in all of its phases, Senator Grundy and Senator Watson and the other Senators on that side of the aisle would deny it, but if it were true would "sit quietly in their seats and make no response."

Deny Article Was Shown to Them.

Answering a specific question, Senator Smoot, in charge of the tariff bill, said that Senator Grundy had not shown the article to him. Senator Bingham of Connecticut also disclaimed having had the article shown to him.

Senators Watson and Grundy were called upon by turn to say what they knew about the President's attitude on the tariff question, but made no response.

In conclusion, Senator Harrison said that if President Hoover sympathized with the efforts of the Democrats and Progressive Republicans he wished to say that "even though this intimation has come through the side door, we are proud at this time to have the President with us in this great fight."

There was excitement among the newspaper men at the Executive offices when Senator Grundy arrived there this afternoon. He remained with George Akerson, secretary to the President, for fifteen minutes, and then was shown into the President's office. He was there three or four minutes.

Some matters pertaining to Pennsylvania had accumulated on Senator Grundy's hands, it was explained, and he had seen the President about them. The statement was made at the Executive offices that Senator Grundy did not discuss the tariff situation with the President.

CALLS SENATORS "ANIMALS."

Treadway's Assault in House on Coalition Stirs R. C. Johnson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Representative Royal C. Johnson of South Dakota, considered as "regular" as they go on the majority side of the House, rose up today in defense of coalition Senators from his State against attacks by Eastern Republicans, who have been laying at their doorsteps part of the responsibility for delay in passing the tariff bill.

Representative Johnson said he was "getting tired" of derogatory statements regarding his Senators, and that "we in South Dakota need no advice or suggestions from anybody from New England or Massachusetts or anywhere else."

The statements which kindled Mr. Johnson's ire were made by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts during a speech in which he was defending the administration against Representative Byrns of Tennessee, who blamed it for unemployment. Mr. Treadway placed much of the blame on the coalition for holding up the tariff bill.

"They are not our kind of Republicans at least," declared Mr. Treadway. "They are mighty good Republicans when it comes to wanting votes out in the States that they come from. That is about the best I can say for that group."

Mr. Treadway referred to the group as "animals," recalling the term applied to them some time ago by Senator Moses of New Hampshire as "sons of wild jackasses."

"When this tariff bill is settled," Mr. Johnson replied, "we expect to secure a tariff that will be in accord with the Republican platform."

FOOD TARIFF RAISED; JOBLESS PLEA FAILS

Senate Boosts Vegetables and Eggs After Tydings Appeals for 750,000 Unemployed.

MUSHROOM RATE STANDS

Consideration of Agricultural Schedule Is Completed—Wool Levies Up Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A plea by Senator Tydings not to raise tariffs on foodstuffs because of economic conditions shown by unemployment figures was answered by the Senate today with votes to increase rates on potatoes, celery, lettuce, cabbage and dried, frozen and preserved eggs. It did, however, vote to retain the present rates on preserved mushrooms, rather than raise them in accordance with the action of the House.

Whether this was supposed to supply a balance in rates was not indicated, but it was pointed out that preservation of the mushroom rates might offset the raised duties voted last Tuesday on steaks, when imported "on the hoof."

Senator Tydings, in his plea today, based on an editorial on unemployment conditions in THE NEW YORK TIMES of yesterday, which he said was "not partisan one way or the other, but seeks to present the real facts as they appear," aligned himself with a handful of Democrats, led by Senators Walsh (of Massachusetts) and Copeland.

Cites 750,000 Jobless.

Referring to the editorial, he said:

"It will be recalled that Secretary of Labor Davis a short while ago issued a statement on unemployment. It now appears that his recent statement shows an increase in unemployment of 2 per cent for January over figures both of the State Industrial Department of New York State and the Labor Department in Washington. It appears that 750,000 people in cities are now out of employment. The estimate based on the figures in the survey of a number of industrial plants showed there probably were 425,000 people out of work.

"However, that survey embraced only a part of the industries of the United States. The later survey takes in more widespread conditions and shows that 750,000 people are probably now out of employment in cities.

"There are distressing conditions on farms. The farmers have been long-suffering in asking for a readjustment of the tariff situation. In making this legislation we should not lose sight of the fact that conditions are very deplorable in many large cities. There have been unemployment riots twice in Cleveland and once in Philadelphia and other difficulties throughout the United States in this regard.

Completing consideration of the agricultural schedule, the Senate voted to increase the duty on potatoes to 75 cents per 100 pounds, as recommended by the Finance Committee, overruling a proposed amendment by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts which would have restored the rate to 50 cents per 100 pounds, the present rate.

Celery, lettuce and cabbage, grouped under one heading, are imported upon payment of a 25 per cent ad valorem duty. The Finance Committee recommended an increase to 50 per cent, but the rate finally was set at 2 cents a pound, which Senator Trammell of Florida pronounced equivalent to tripling the present rate.

Howell Supports Egg Rate.

The rates on dried eggs were doubled, being raised from 18 to 36 cents a pound, on an amendment by Senator Howell, after considerable debate. Mr. Howell maintained that this rate was necessary to put dried eggs on the same basis as imported fresh eggs, which are taxed 10 cents a dozen. Following that action the rates on frozen eggs were boosted from 8 to 11 cents, on motion of Mr. Howell.

Senators Copeland, Walsh of Massachusetts and Tydings joined in fighting the egg raises, all saying the increases would be reflected in bakery products, prepared flour, candy, ice cream and other foods made with other than fresh eggs.

Senators Tydings and Walsh charged that egg refrigerating companies controlled the egg market and that the higher duty would only put another monopoly weapon in their hands. The former also pointed out the benefits which would accrue to American business, particularly cotton manufacturers, through reciprocation with China.

After much discussion of the extent of the mushroom business in this country, in which it developed that the only imports are of the preserved variety, and the charge was made by Senator Barkley that a monopoly controls the domestic business, the Senate adopted an amendment by Senator Wagner retaining the duty at 45 per cent ad valorem and discarding an additional 10 cents a pound proposed by the Finance Committee. The tariffs on alfalfa and red clover seed were raised from 4 to 8 cents a pound.

ARMED POLICE GUARD ART.

German Officers Accompany Works of Rembrandt to Berlin.

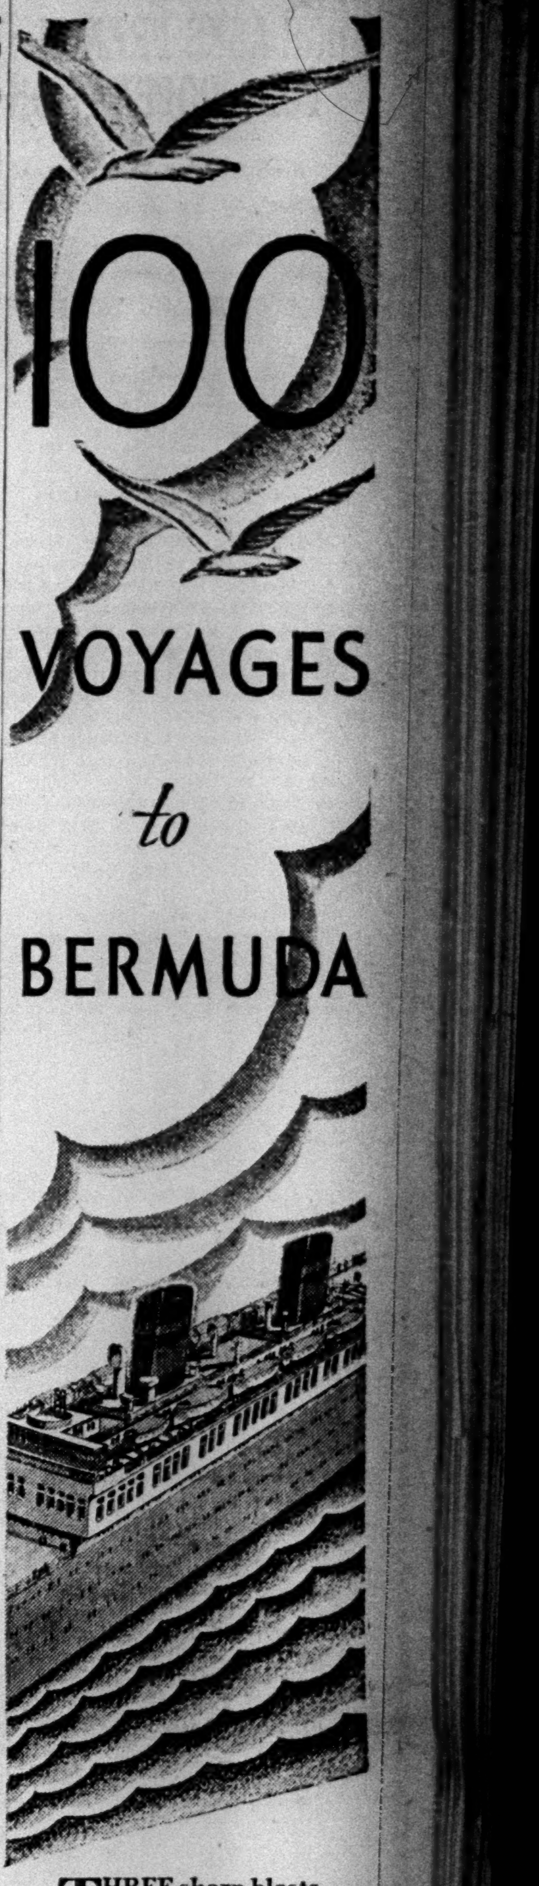
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Those who saw a motor truck on the way from Cassel to Berlin, followed by another truck filled with policemen carrying rifles, might have thought a consignment of gold was being transported to the capital. But the first truck carried Rembrandt pictures for the great Rembrandt exhibition opening in Berlin tomorrow and lasting until the beginning of April.

Among the pictures were "Jacob's Blessing" and the renowned "Family Picture" from the collection at Brunswick.

The custodian, when asked what value was set on the pictures, refused to name a price, but said, "if they should be lost, the only thing for us to do would be to put bullets through our heads."

The Berlin exhibition will contain twenty-four paintings, but the main interest centres on the drawings and copper engravings, which belong to the copper engraving collection of the new museum. This is the most complete collection in the world, containing one print of every engraving made by Rembrandt.



THREE sharp blasts from midstream—an answering cheer from the sea of waving handkerchiefs ashore—and the M. S. BERMUDA will be off today on her 100th glorious voyage.

She has carried many thousands of passengers to Bermuda. And in all that time, never a complaint—never a murmur—only unanimous commendation. And the gratifying compliment of being the most copied passenger ship coming to New York—for every important shipping company has had experts inspect and study her novel features.

The "Bermuda" will soon have a companion ship in this popular run, to be known as the "Empire State", now under construction.

This newest "Furness" liner promises to be as luxurious and modern as any ship afloat. And a worthy mate of the ship, that, in 100 trips, has established a new standard of Transatlantic luxury for the short ocean trip.

The "Bermuda" is nearly 20,000 tons Gross Register (not the deceptive displacement tons). The "Empire State" is expected to register 23,000 tons Gross.

EDGE ASKS FRENCH FOR COOPERATION

New Ambassador Is Welcomed Officially by American Colony in Paris.

URGES ECONOMIC WELFARE

He Is Praised at Banquet as Envoy of Business—Tribute Is Paid Memory of Herrick.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Walter Evans Edge, in his first public speech here as Ambassador, tonight reminded 500 members of the American colony who extended him a formal welcome to his new post that the object of the American policy is not political power but economic welfare. Industrial understanding and cooperation are, he said, principles which influence American relations with the rest of the world.

"Where others have sought political balance, President Hoover seeks mainly an economic balance, not only domestically but internationally," declared Mr. Edge.

The occasion was a banquet given by the American Club, the American Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion. It was the most elaborate American function of the year, and while the Ministerial crisis prevented members of the government from being present, Senator Henry Bérenger, former French Ambassador to Washington, spoke in the warmest terms of friendship in behalf of the French people.

A number of other distinguished Frenchmen attended, among whom were Emile Moreau, governor of the Bank of France; Marquis de Polignac, General Tauffieib and Colonel Bunau-Varilla.

The American colony's reception to the new Ambassador was somewhat delayed so that the largest number of members could be present, but every American in France has been aware of Mr. Edge's presence ever since his arrival early last December. The energetic and effective way in which he has tackled numerous Franco-American economic problems has identified him pre-eminently as a business Ambassador—a rôle which he frankly defined and espoused in his remarks.

Praised as Business Envoy.

Theodore Rousseau, president of the American Club, toastmaster, and Colonel William N. Taylor, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in France, emphasized the significance of President Hoover's appointment of "a business envoy." American business interests, said Mr. Rousseau, are fortunate in having as Ambassador a man of wide commercial experience and a knowledge of economics—qualities, he added, which will help in the settlement of various questions pending between the two countries and possibly toward the writing of the first Franco-American commercial treaty.

Mr. Taylor said that it was fitting that at a moment when France had recuperated from the ravages of war and was turning her face toward the future, that America should send "a young, vigorous Ambassador who belongs to the future."

"Mr. Edge's coming means bringing the spirit of cooperation and assistance which the new industrial renaissance requires," he explained.

A tribute was paid to the memory of the late Ambassador Herrick at the beginning of the banquet. At the request of Mr. Rousseau, the guests stood in their places and observed a moment's silence in recollection of one whom Mr. Edge later described as "a living symbol of Franco-American understanding."

Early in his speech Mr. Edge referred to the London Naval Arms conference.

"This imposing gathering in London where the American delegation is working hand in hand toward a common ideal with the French delegation is but one more proof that we are living in an age where conference and reason are being substituted for prejudice and force," he declared.

Competition for Betterment.

"We have entered a new era. The ratification by fifty-six nations of the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the renunciation of war is conclusive evidence that a different race is being engaged in by the peoples of the world—not a race for armaments, which once characterized the policies of great powers, but a competition between nations more secure in a new guarantee of peace and equity for the betterment of mankind.

"The days are gone by when nations or their emissaries can assert their power or set out to conquer new worlds, for ours is an era more influenced by economic understanding than by political power. It can truthfully be stated that international influence and international friendship today rest most of all on solid economical and spiritual realities. Nations cannot build themselves at the expense of other nations.

"This is a principle which has long been recognized by our statesmen and accepted by our people. It has become almost a truism to say that we Americans are not politically but economically minded, and indeed it is a profound truth which has shown itself in our refusal to admit the validity of political obstacles to our economic well-being. For us the object of national policy is not political power but economic welfare.

"We have a well-defined American business diplomacy which seeks to encourage American trade generally and protect individual American interests in their duly acquired rights. It does not, however, and will not promote the advantage of any single American firm or interest, but seeks fairly to represent all."

Referring to Franco-American understanding, Ambassador Edge said that the true keynote of this understanding was economic agreement. France and the United States are now bound together by a large and increasing body of common interests—"call them material if you will, but nevertheless vital," he said.

SWEDISH QUEEN NO BETTER

Bulletin Says Breathing Is Painful and Heart Action Unsatisfactory.

ROME, Feb. 21 (AP).—The condition of the Queen of Sweden, who has been seriously ill in Rome, was described as still grave.

King Gustaf has been here since the Queen's most recent turn for the worse, and his sister arrived during the day.

Tonight's medical communiqué was as follows:

"Following an increase in pulmonary secretion, respiration is difficult and painful. The heart action is unsatisfactory, and the general conditions remain grave."

Princess Ileana Still Fiancee Of Count, She Says on Tour

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 21.—Princess Ileana of Rumania denied today that her engagement to Count Hochberg had been broken.

The Princess and her mother, Queen Marie, who are here on their way to Palestine and Egypt, went to Robert College, an American institution, tonight as guests of the faculty. They will leave tomorrow.

PANAMA CONCESSION PASSES TO BRITISH

Transfer of Rodriquez Rights Seen as Giving Alves Concern Practical Mineral Monopoly.

HIGH EXPENDITURE SCORED

Panama American Says Anti-American Feeling Is Caused by the Corporation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Feb. 21.—The Government of Panama has approved the transfer of additional mining concessions to the British Panama Corporation, headed by Duncan Elliott Alves. This gives the corporation a practical monopoly of the mineral resources of the republic, according to El Tiempo tonight, reporting the purchase by the Alves company of the concession held by Dr. M. Rodriguez, near Chame and Capira, which are about twenty miles in a direct line from the Panama Canal and fifty and forty miles respectively by road.

The area of the new concession is not given, but the concessions of the Panama corporation, according to The Panama American, already aggregate more than 9,000 square miles.

The concessions granted by the government give the rights of exploration only over a period of ten years and permit ownership only of mines already developed. The concessions run for ten years, and the Panama Corporation has been exploring extensively for six years already. Mr. Alves, chairman of the board, is expected to arrive here on March 5 on his sixth tour of inspection of the Panama properties.

The Panama American has renewed its opposition to the operations of the British Panama Corporation, alleging they are inimical to the defense of the Panama Canal and are causing anti-American feeling here. The newspaper charges that Mr. Alves is an agent of the British Government and questions the spending of $1,000,000 a year for five or six years when production has been "practically nil and exportation next to nothing." It cites the optimistic predictions made each year by Mr. Alves and his engineers after the annual visit of inspection and says these predictions are still unfulfilled.

"Thoughtful observers of Mr. Alves's activities," says The Panama American, "are prone to give rise to questions concerning a possible connection between his extravagant expenditure and lavish entertainment of officials here and the predominant anti-American sentiment which has made marked progress in Panama since the advent of Mr. Alves and his gold mines, 'richer than the Rand,' which in five years have produced nothing beyond optimistic engineers' reports and glowing promises of mills to be erected and dredges to be set in motion."

The newspaper asserts that unless Mr. Alves can show sufficient reason for retaining possession of "these immense areas" for legitimate mining development, the State Department should ask for the cancellation of his concession with the exception of areas where actual mining operations are being carried on.

NORSE FLIERS REPORT NEW ANTARCTIC LAND

The Norwegian Wirelesses Riiser-Larsen and Holm Mapped 115 Miles of It Monday.

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 21 (AP).—A wireless message from the Norwegian exploration ship, Norwegia, now in the Antarctic, today said the expedition located new land on Monday between Enderby Land and Coats Land, on the northern fringe of Antarctica.

The two airmen, Captain Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen and Captain Luetzon Holm, made a successful flight from the ship over the hitherto undiscovered territory and mapped about 115 miles.

The northwestern point of the new land was said to be situated at 71.26 south, 11.31 west.

On Dec. 28 the Norwegia reported to the Oslo newspaper Tidens Tegn that it had discovered new land between Enderby and Coats Land and had taken possession of it on behalf of Norway. The exact location was not given, so that it is impossible to check that discovery against that announced today.

The Norwegian discovery ship is on the other side of the South Pole from that where the Byrd expedition has been working. It would appear that the newly discovered land lies in the northwestern section of the Enderby Quadrant, adjoining the Weddell Quadrant.

Captain Riiser-Larsen and Captain Holm assisted in the rescue of survivors of the dirigible Italia disaster north of Spitzbergen in 1928. In May, 1926, he was second in command of the dirigible Norge on its flight over the North Pole with Captain Roald Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth and General Nobile.

PRESIDES AT PERU MEETING

A. H. Ford, Head of Pan-Pacific Union, Helps Launch Unit in Lima.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 21 (AP).—Alexander H. Ford, director general of the Pan-Pacific Union, who is now making a trip along the west coast of South America, presided today at a meeting of the Peruvian Pan-Pacific Union.

The meeting was attended by the Ecuadorian and British Ministers and the secretaries of the American Embassy and the Mexican, Japanese and Chinese legations. Others at the meeting were prominent Peruvians who decided to organize a local Pan-Pacific Club which will hold monthly meetings to foster Pan-Pacific relations and progress.

TO PICK DIRECTORS FOR WORLD BANK

Central Bank Governors, Meeting at Rome Tuesday, Will Name McGarrah President.

QUESNAY LIKELY MANAGER

French and Germans Differ on the Nine Countries to Be Added to Original Members.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—The question of the selection of nine additional countries which will name representatives to the board of directors of the Bank for International Settlements, is the only outstanding problem facing the bank's organizers which cannot be solved at the meeting of the governors of the central banks which opens at Rome next Tuesday.

The subcommittee charged with the preliminary arrangements, which has settled practically all the details preparatory to the bank's constitution, will recommend that this question should be dealt with slowly, after the bank begins to operate, it is learned. The bank will, therefore, begin work with only sixteen directors, two from each of the seven original member nations and two additional directors, from France and Germany, as the statutes provide.

Switzerland being the seat of the bank, will be invited to share in the capital and to name a director immediately, but the choice of the other additional nations will be made gradually and it is expected it will take two years before the complete board of twenty-five members is assembled.

Germans Prefer Neutrals.

Difficulties have been encountered in this question of selection because the statutes, while providing the capital of the bank shall be as widely distributed as possible, lay it down that only nine directors can be chosen from the nations holding the capital apart from the original members.

There is, naturally, some difference of opinion among the original nations, and particularly between France and Germany, as to which nations shall be chosen, France preferring countries directly interested in reparations, while the Germans would prefer neutrals. In the conversations so far, there has appeared an almost general accord to select Spain, and these nations may be expected to be asked to appoint directors within a short time after the bank is created. Others will be invited as the negotiations progress, and some decision regarding them may even be taken at the Rome meeting.

At Rome, the board of governors will formally approve the list of directors already provisionally prepared, and will name Gates W. McGarrah of the United States as president of the board. It will also select the general manager, approve plans for the bank's personnel and lay down the program for launching the first issue of bonds on the international markets this year, as provided under The Hague protocol.

This bond issue will be for $300,000,000, and something above one-third is expected to be issued in the United States. France will take one-third and the remainder is to be divided among the European markets.

Quesnay to Be Proposed.

As regards the general manager, Pierre Quesnay, of the Bank of France, appears the most probable selection, despite the opposition of the Reichsbank to his candidacy. From reliable sources, it is understood the American representative will put forward M. Quesnay's name and that he is assured of the strongest support from Britain, Italy, Belgium and others. It is also learned that the Dutch banker, Mr. Brugins, whose name has been suggested in Germany, has personally indicated it will be impossible for him to accept.

The list of the board of directors, to be submitted for approval and for possible, though improbable, alterations at Rome, is as follows:

The United States—Gates W. McGarrah, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Leon Fraser, international lawyer, formerly of the reparations commission.

France—Emile Moreau, Governor General of the Bank of France, with Clément Moret, deputy director of the Bank of France as alternate; Baron Charles Brincard, president of the Crédit Lyonnais, and the Marquis de Vogue, president of the Suez Canal Company.

Germany—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, with Dr. Vocke, director of the Reichsbank, member of the world bank's organizing committee and of the Krupp organization, as alternate, and Dr. Melchior, who was a member of the Paris reparations experts committee.

Great Britain—Montagu Norman, head of the Bank of England, with Mr. Siepman, expert of the Bank of England, as alternate, and Sir Charles Addis, member of the Bank's organizing committee and delegate to the Paris experts' conference.

Belgium—Louis Franck, president of the Bank of Belgium, with Paul von Zeeland, member of the organizing committee, as alternate, and Emile Francqui, former Finance Minister.

Italy—President Stringher of the Bank of Italy, with Signor Beneducci, a member of the organizing committee, as alternate, and Signor Pirelli, president of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Japan—Messrs. Tanaka and Aoki.

TO ORGANIZE EDUCATORS.

Havana Congress to Form Institute of Intellectual Cooperation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Feb. 21.—Buenos Aires and Havana are rival candidates to become the seat of the Institute of International Intellectual Cooperation, an institution which is to be created as a result of the efforts of the delegates attending the first international congress of deans and rectors of universities here.

A mixed international committee met this afternoon under the leadership of Dr. Alberto Tamary Schweyer of Cuba to organize the institute, to formulate by-laws to govern its work, to arrange for the exchange of intellectual ideas and to aid in general the progress of education throughout the world. The final draft of the plan will be presented for the approval of the delegates at a meeting tomorrow afternoon. After its approval, which seems certain, the delegates will be called upon to select the seat of the institute.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21 (AP).—The War Department today instructed General Lucas Gonzales, military commander of Campeche, to station a detachment of troops at Champoton to prevent further incursions into Mexican territory by armed bands from Guatemala.

Maniu Confers With Powers on Red Army Move; Uneasiness Grows on Ukrainia Concentration

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 21.—Despite Premier Maniu's denial of alarmist reports of a Russian troop concentration along the Bessarabian frontier, Rumanian public opinion continues to be greatly excited, and in Bessarabia itself there is much apprehension.

According to the newspaper Cuvantul, the Premier yesterday conferred for three hours with General Cihoski, Minister of War, regarding measures to be taken in defense of Bessarabia. Later Premier Maniu received the British, French and Polish Ministers, who are said to have assured him that Rumania could rely on the complete support of these powers if such support proved necessary.

The newspapers Facla and Universul, disregarding the Premier's injunction not to circulate rumors on the situation, write that the Red Army is armed for a European war, which it intends to start along the Dniester River. Only the Adeverul attempt to calm its readers with the argument that the Soviet troop concentration is designed to prevent a revolutionary outbreak among Ukrainian farmers and a possibility of their receiving assistance from Bessarabia.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Rumanian Government today ordered the arrest of the authors of alarmist rumors concerning an alleged threat of Russo-Rumanian hostilities in Bessarabia.

WASHINGTON FETE IS GIVEN IN BERLIN

Dinner Dance Also Is Occasion of Welcome by Americans to Ambassador Sackett.

FIRST PRESIDENT EXTOLLED

Envoy Says This Nation Wishes No Other Heritage Than Ideals of Father of His Country.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The American Club of Berlin combined its celebration of Washington's Birthday with its official welcome to the United States Ambassador, Frederic Moseley Sackett, at a dinner dance tonight, which was attended by a large number of Ameriacns who are residing in or visiting Berlin.

Frederick Wirth, acting president of the club, presided and introduced Mr. Sackett, who, as the guest of honor, delivered the principal address, in which he expressed a warm sense of gratitude for the manner in which those of his countrymen who were here before him had greeted him and Mrs. Sackett.

"It is most fitting that, following my arrival in Berlin, my first contact outside our embassy should be with the American Club," Mr. Sackett said. Turning for a moment to the Germans, Ambassador Sackett declared, "I have been deeply impressed by the genuine pleasure manifested by the German people as we, the representatives of America, come among them. Mrs. Sackett and I have been made to feel part and parcel of the society of the capital—whether from official sources or residential life."

Ambassador Sackett then dwelt on the American traditions typified by Washington, asserting that though a young country, America nevertheless already has developed traditions which are distinctively national and unaffected by the traditions of any of those nations which contributed to the creation of the United States.

"Born within the time when the modern thought of every nation accepted the rule of reason as a proper guide instead of the old theory that might makes right, America's present ambition is to have no other source than this heritage received from the men responsible for its birth," Ambassador Sackett continued. He added that a study of our traditions readily yields the answer to the oft repeated query where the United States stands in the New World relationships of today.

The Harvard Club of Berlin will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Sackett at luncheon Saturday.

Feb. 22 Important to Germans.

BERLIN, Feb. 21 (AP).—While Americans in the principal cities of Germany are preparing to observe the anniversary of George Washington's birthday by appropriate exercises tomorrow, the German calendars remind the citizens of the Reich that Feb. 22 is noteworthy in German history also, in that at least three famous Germans made their bow to the world on that date.

The first was the famous German philosopher, Arthur Schopenhauer, who was born at Danzig Feb. 22, 1788, and died at Frankfort-on-Main Sept. 21, 1860. Another was August Bebel. Together with Wilhelm Liebknecht, the father of practical German socialism, he was born in 1840 at Cologne and died Aug. 13, 1913, at Passny, Switzerland. The third is Heinrich Hertz, physicist, who was born at Hamburg Feb. 22, 1857, and died at Bonn, where he was a university professor, Jan. 1, 1894.

It is also the birthday of the great Polish composer, Frederic Chopin, born Feb. 22, 1910, at Zelazowa Wola, near Warsaw.

HAWAIIAN GOVERNOR FORCED DOWN BY FOG

Plane in Which Judd Is on Way Back to Honolulu Makes Safe Landing at Port Allen.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, Feb. 21.—A heavy fog in the channel between the islands of Kauai and Oahu today upset the plans of Governor L. M. Judd to fly to Honolulu and gave the Executive and his party an uncertain two hours of blind navigating before Lieutenant B. C. Moffat, pilot of the army's trimotor Fokker transport, was able to feel his way back safely to the landing field at Port Allen.

The Governor flew to Kauai late yesterday for a conference, and expected to return this morning. Shortly after the take-off the plane encountered stormy weather and wandered through a heavy mist at times as low as fifty feet above the water. The passengers put on kapok life coats and prepared the rubber life raft for the possibility of a forced landing at sea.

Lieutenant Moffat finally got clear of the fog and turned so that the sun was at his back and flew in the general direction of Kauai, making a landing at Nawiliwili Bay, near the spot where the late Commander John Rogers came ashore after his ill-fated attempt to fly in a seaplane from San Francisco to Honolulu. The party then proceeded to the Port Allen airport, landing with gasoline for thirty minutes' flying left in the tanks.

The Governor will return to Honolulu by steamer tonight.

NEW BRITISH ENVOY IS SILENT ON LIQUOR

Friends Believe Lindsay, Being Scottish, Won't Make Embassy at Washington Dry.

HOWARD'S STEP PERSONAL

His Ban Is Seen Merely as an Act of Defense—Sir Ronald Plans to Sail Early in March.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Sir Ronald Lindsay, the new British Ambassador to the United States, expects to sail for New York within the first two weeks of March. His friends in London are curious to know what his attitude will be at Washington concerning the question of wines and liquors at the embassy, but he is saying nothing whatever to satisfy that curiosity. The most prevalent hazard is that Sir Ronald, being Scottish, with a reasonable appreciation of the merits of Scotch whisky, will not consider it necessary entirely to forego its benefits while in America.

One thing thoroughly understood is that the action of his predecessor, Sir Esme Howard, in making the Washington Embassy dry does not in any sense establish a precedent which is binding on the British Ambassadors who succeed him at the Washington post. Sir Esme's doing away with liquor was entirely a personal matter, which was not significant in any way of his approval or disapproval of the American prohibition law and it was something not considered as being within the jurisdiction of the British Foreign Office.

Sir Esme's friends in England explain his action merely as a defensive measure to escape what had become an intolerable nuisance to him—that is, the constant jibes and criticism of those extreme drys who were forever attacking him in the public press for exercising his diplomatic right to have wine at the embassy if he wanted it.

This was particularly irritating to Sir Esme because of his full knowledge that wine and liquors were served in other homes in Washington, where it was illegal, because the hosts were American citizens. But the Americans were never singled out by name and held up to criticism, even though they were in part responsible for the laws which they were violating.

A minor reason for Sir Esme's decision to have a dry household was the expense of entertaining the many Washingtonian callers who had developed the habit of dropping in at the embassy when thirsty.

NINE AUSTRIANS FREED ON MUSSOLINI'S ORDER

Amnesty for Offenders in Upper Adige Seen as Friendly Act to Austria.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Feb. 21.—Announcement was made today that Premier Mussolini had pardoned all German-speaking Italian subjects from the Upper Adige who were imprisoned or "admonished" for political offenses. The news created an excellent impression as the first tangible evidence of Italo-Austrian rapprochement.

Just before the visit of the Austrian Chancellor, Johann Schober, to Italy reports reached Rome that the situation in the new province of the Upper Adige had greatly improved, and Premier Mussolini's generous act is considered certain to strengthen the friendly relations now re-established between Austria and Italy.

Nine persons in all will benefit by Premier Mussolini's pardon. One, Dr. Josef Klener of Bolzano, was banished to the penal island of Pozza for his strong anti-Fascist feeling and propaganda. His wife, who had been "admonished" and had joined him at Pozza, was pardoned too.

The other seven, who were only "admonished," were under strict police surveillance. There is now not a single person from the Upper Adige who is in prison for political offenses.

EXPLAIN DENNETT ARREST.

Italians Say Journalist Was Found Near Code Room of Foreign Office.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Feb. 21.—Various versions are given in Rome of the "arrest" of Prescott Dennett, which occurred more than a fortnight ago at the Palazzo Chigi, the Italian Foreign Office. According to one version, Mr. Dennett, when leaving the Foreign Office, where he had gone in his capacity of journalist, asked some person to show him the way out but went in the wrong direction and was arrested by a detective who became suspicion of his attitude.

Mr. Dennett was taken to a police station and kept two and a half hours, his passport being withdrawn but returned after two or three days. According to another version, Mr. Dennett, was arrested, or rather taken to a police station, to offer explanations to the police because he was found near the code room of the Foreign Office. Mr. Dennett says that of course he didn't know at all where he was, and that he was trying to find his way out from the Foreign Office and had come near the code room. As far as is known here, the unfortunate incident is regarded now as closed.

HOWARD, DEPARTING, FINDS AMITY SECURE

Retiring Envoy Tells British Business Men Here Patience Will Prevent Conflicts.

VOICES REGRET AT GOING

Discussing Dry Law Before Sailing on Majestic, He Says Embassy Seeks to Help Enforce Rules.

In his last address before sailing back to England last night on the Majestic, Sir Esme Howard, retiring British Ambassador to the United States, told British business men here that patience in the small differences of opinion arising out of competitive trade would make it impossible for any serious difficulties ever to come up between the two countries.

He spoke as the guest of honor of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States of America at a luncheon at the Whitehall Club.

"I think that very often competition, rivalries in trade, are made to appear as likely to lead to some serious conflict," he said. Then, referring to his address at the Pilgrims' dinner in his honor Thursday evening, he said: "Last night I ventured to point out that I didn't believe that any such rivalries in trade could possibly result in any conflict between the English-speaking peoples.

He Advises Patience.

"There will no doubt be small differences of opinions which will arise necessarily out of such competition, but I am perfectly persuaded that with good-will these can all easily be overcome. What I would just like to say to you now is this: They can all be overcome if you gentlemen of this chamber of commerce will help the embassy in every way to overcome them. The great art of diplomacy is patience, patience and again patience. If you gentlemen will only remember that, if you will come up when you have any trouble and just talk to our people, let them know exactly what it is, if you will only have patience with them and allow them to have patience in dealing with the United States authorities, I am perfectly certain that there will be no serious difficulty arising between us."

He expressed his pleasure at hearing from P. A. S. Franklin, head of the International Mercantile Marine Company, who was a previous speaker, that the activities of the British Embassy had been appreciated by members of the chamber.

He said he found it difficult to express his appreciation of the evidences of friendship his wife and he had received during the past few days.

"I am sorry to go," Sir Esme said, "but I am glad to have my freedom after thirty-six years of almost continuous diplomatic employment. I hope to see you again soon, because there is still much I want to see in this country."

Called a "Trusted Friend."

Jacob Gould Schurman, former United States Ambassador to Germany, hailed Sir Esme as having been "not merely the representative of his own country to the people to whom he was accredited, but the trusted friend of that people." He said he had fulfilled the Ambassadorial function of identifying himself with the national life and interests of the people to whom he was sent and of "making the people feel that if he is not one of them he is almost one of them." He told of the retiring Ambassador's contribution to the understanding and harmony of the English-speaking peoples.

Sir Mark Sheldon, chairman of the Australian Bank of Commerce and former Australian Commissioner to the United States, was another to pay tribute to Sir Esme. Robert B. Appleby presided.

No Recent Dry Law Clashes.

In an interview on prohibition yesterday before his departure Sir Esme declared that there had arisen no matters of a controversial nature recently between the British Embassy and the Department of State.

"The department is well aware that we have every desire to cooperate with them in the matter of regulations and no wish whatsoever to be a means of hampering the power of those who enforce the law of the land," he said. "Furthermore, any discussions which have arisen on this topic in the past have been of a most friendly nature and have not in any sense been regarded as serious or as in any way disturbing our relations."

On the question of the use of liquor by the embassy at Washington he said that, while it had been the custom there, he had never given out a single permit for its importation subsequent to the publication of his letter on the subject about a year ago.

"As the prohibition question is a burning one, I prefer not to touch it—lest I burn my fingers," he declared.

FIND PLOT TO KIDNAP WHITE RUSSIAN LEADER

Athens Police Overhear Scheme Against General Kyriloff and Wife—Bodyguard Formed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Feb. 21.—The alleged abduction of General Koutiepoff, White Russian leader, in Paris, has been nearly paralleled by a conspiracy to kidnap General Kyriloff, leader of the White Russians in the Near East, which has just been discovered by the Athens police.

General Kyriloff lives in Saloniki. Police agents recently overheard in a wine shop, fragments of a conversation between several well-known Saloniki Communists and strangers, who appeared to be Soviet emissaries. They seemed to be discussing a plan to kidnap, not only the General, but also his wife, who cooperates enthusiastically with him in White Russian activities.

Mme. Kyriloff, it was discovered, had already received an anonymous letter, warning her to be on guard against a danger which threatened her. As she was returning home last night, she was addressed by two strangers who invited her to go with them in an automobile to a movie theatre, the proprietor of which they represented as wishing to engage her to play the piano.

Remembering the warning, she refused, and asked the men instead, to call the next day at her house. This they promised to do, but they failed to appear. The White Russians in Saloniki have now organized a bodyguard for their leader.

COURT ASKS TROTSKY OATH

German Publisher's Suit Hinges on His Making It.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—At the first hearing today of the suit against Leon Trotsky brought by the Dresden publisher Karl Reissner, the court ruled that the former Red army chief must confirm by oath that he was unaware when he signed a contract with the publisher that Alexander Kerensky's memoirs would be published by the same house.

If M. Trotsky takes this oath he wins the case. The court does not say whether M. Trotsky must come to Berlin or may make affidavit at his domicile in Turkey.

[In withholding his manuscript M. Trotsky said that the Kerensky memoirs falsely accused him and Lenin of treacherous cooperation with the Germans in starting the Bolshevist revolution. He said he would not have signed the contract if he had known the Reissner firm planned to publish the Kerensky manuscript. The publisher sued to compel him to carry out the contract.]

BEAVERBROOK RANKS GROW

Party Claims Five Conservative Members of Parliament.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Lord Beaverbrook's new United Empire party claims tonight to have won the support of five Conservative Members of Parliament, including Sir Alfred Butt, theatrical magnate, and Sir Newton J. Moore, former Premier of Western Australia. Among the volunteers is Sir Henry Segrave, holder of the world's mortoring record, while to the party's fund, which in two days reached a total of $200,000, Sir Hugo Hirst, chairman of the British General Electric Company, has subscribed $12,500.

Conservative headquarters tonight issued a manifesto warning that a split Conservative vote would result in the Socialists gaining an independent majority in the next elections.

SEVIER AUTOPSY DEFERRED.

Honolulu Sheriff Refuses to Give Reasons for New Delay.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, Feb. 21.—An autopsy on the body of Mrs. Marion Sevier, set for today, was postponed again this morning by Sheriff Gleason until next week. The Sheriff was unable to say on what day the investigation will be started.

His only explanation of the delay was that "there are certain details to be cleared up before I go ahead, details which I am not at liberty to discuss."

ROSEN DECRIES FEAR FOR JEWS IN RUSSIA

Denies Farm Colonies Are Near Collapse and Says Soviet Is Giving 15,000,000 Rubles.

PREDICTS HELP FOR OTHERS

M. Glassman Attacks His Views and Says Plan Must Fail Unless Russia Changes Policy.

With the entire Jewish community perturbed over the religious persecutions in Russia and the fate of hundreds of thousands of declassed Jews in that country, Dr. Joseph A. Rosen, head of the Agro-Joint, closed a brief visit to the United States yesterday with a statement in which he sought to allay fears in Jewish circles of an impending collapse of the Jewish colonies in Southern Russia and the Crimea.

Reports of such a collapse, received in various Jewish circles in New York, have aroused much discussion concerning the wisdom of the entire colonization experiment under Soviet conditions.

In his statement, which was issued shortly before he boarded the Bremen for his departure for Moscow, Dr. Rosen announced that 15,000,000 rubles will be given by the Soviet Government this year for the settlement of Jews as farmers in the Crimea and Ukraine, and 3,500,000 rubles by the American Society for Jewish Farm Settlements and other interested organizations. The Russian Government gave 2,500,000 rubles last year, Dr. Rosen said, for Jewish land settlement under the Agro-Joint, which is the agency in Russia through which the American Society for Jewish Farm Settlements is operating, though its agreement with the American organization does not require it to give more than 400,000 rubles annually.

Mr. Rosen said that the Soviet Government's appropriation will enable the American Society for Jewish Farm Settlements, which is giving $1,000,000 for that purpose, to establish 4,500 new families this year in the Crimea in addition to more than 1,000 settled last year.

Dr. Rosen said he had received a cablegram from Moscow yesterday informing him that the Russian Government's program for land settlement for this year includes 12,000 Jewish families, of which 4,500 are to be settled in Agro-Joint districts, 200 in Ort districts, 3,400 by the Ukrainian Government adjacent to towns and cities, 2,000 in Bidja-Bijan and 1,000 in Daghestan and other sections. For this work, according to the cables received by Dr. Rosen, 7,000,000 rubles has been appropriated by the Moscow Central Government, 2,400,000 rubles by the Ukrainian Government, 500,000 rubles by the White Russian Government, 500,000 by the Ozet, 3,500,000 by foreign organizations, including the Agro-Joint, the I. C. A. and the Ort.

In the same cable Dr. Rosen was informed that the Soviet Government's industrialization plans include 30,000 Jews, of whom 12,470 already have been placed in factories.

Dr. Rosen came to New York about two weeks ago to confer with the officers of the American Society for Jewish Farm Settlements, of which James N. Rosenberg is president.

Discusses Recent Order.

Touching on the fate that may be awaiting the Jewish colonies as a result of the forcible collectivization of agriculture now being carried out by the Soviet Government, Dr. Rosen said that collectivist practices were not a novel feature for the Jewish colonies, since they have been applying cooperative efforts from their very inception, and that "the new feature we shall now have to adopt is the collectivization of live stock."

"There is a fair chance for this collectivization plan to succeed under present conditions when it is being favored by the government," he said. "If it succeeds, it will benefit the country; if it fails, the Jews will be in the same position as the rest of the population."

Dr. Rosen said that despite the difficulties under which Russian agriculture as a whole, including the Jewish agricultural colonies, is laboring, "the colonization work is of utmost importance to the Jewish population in Russia," since "thousands of people have been settled and are making a living."

Dr. Rosen said also that the Soviet Government has begun to take a more active interest in the fate of the declassed Jews of Russia, of whom he said there were 300,000. The declassed Jews are those who, having lost all opportunity of making a living under the Soviet economic system, have been deprived under Soviet law of all civil and social rights. The number of these Jews, according to information frequently made public from various Jewish relief and philanthropic sources, has been estimated at close to 900,000. The much lower estimate given by Dr. Rosen attracted attention.

Glassman Attacks Statement.

A counter-statement to that of Dr. Rosen was issued by Leon M. Glassman, Jewish journalist and expert on the colonization problem, who charged that Dr. Rosen did not present a true picture of the situation and that real facts concerning the Jewish colonies in Russia were being withheld from the Jewish public.

"Certainly after five years of work and the investment of some $15,000,000 the leaders of the colonization enterprise should be in a position to give a more plausible justification for the continuance of the plan," Mr. Glassman said. "My own investigation of the colonization scheme which I made during my stay of ten months in Soviet Russia has revealed certain facts of which I was not aware before. I found that the number of Jewish colonists settled on the land since the inception of the work five years ago is only one half of that claimed by the officials of the Agro-Joint and the Soviet Government; that the overwhelming majority of the settlers are in a deplorable condition, without any apparent signs of betterment under the present Soviet methods; that only an insignificant percentage of the settlers have succeeded in becoming more or less self-supporting, and those have done so as the result of trading on the side, which is strictly forbidden by the Soviet Government and is punishable by confiscation of property, fines, imprisonment and sometimes execution; that the Jewish settlers are subjected to the persecution of the Jewish Communists no less than the Jews in the cities, and that the attitude of the Soviet Government toward the Agro-Joint and the American organization which is conducting the colonization work is one of sufferance.

"An honest investigation of the colonization plan as it works out on the spot compels one to conclude that, unless the methods employed now by the Soviet Government are altered, the entire scheme is bound to end in failure. As soon as the settlers succeed, through untold hardships and self-sacrificing labor, in acquiring some property, they are regarded as 'undesirable elements' and 'kulaks,' their property is confiscated, legitimately or otherwise, while they are expelled from the land and sometimes imprisoned. The constructive element in the colonization plan is thus nullified."

Aged Peer Dies in Seven-Story Leap in London, Reviving Talk of Tut-ankh-Amen "Curse"

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The superstition that a "curse" follows all those connected with the opening of King Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb in Egypt was revived today when Lord Westbury, 78-year-old peer, leaped from a seventh-story window near Buckingham Palace and plunged through a glass roof to his death.

He had been grieving over the strange death of his son, the Hon. Richard Bethell, who was Howard Carter's secretary during the excavations in the Valley of Kings and who was found dead in the Mayfair Club last year. Ever since Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb was opened Egyptians have been repeating the ancient malediction, "Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of a Pharaoh."

Lord Westbury's death is the twelfth among those who were associated with the finds at Luxor. A letter left by him read:

"I really cannot stand any more horrors and I hardly see what good I am going to do here; so I am going to make my exit."

He had been recovering from an operation, but a nurse testified at the inquest today that he had been brooding chiefly over his son's death. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide committed while of unsound mind.

Since Mr. Carter opened Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb his associates who have died include the Earl of Carnarvon, who financed the investigations and died a few weeks after the tomb was opened; Sir Archibald Douglass Reid, who X-rayed the mummy; Colonel Aubrey Herbert, Lord Carnarvon's half-brother, who was present at the opening of the tomb; Jay Gould, American millionaire, who died of pneumonia after visiting the tomb; Mrs. Evelyn Greely, American, who killed herself in Chicago after visiting the tomb; Professor Laffleur of McGill University, Montreal, who died after inspecting the Pharaoh's sarcophagus; H. G. Evelyn-White, who killed himself because he thought a curse was on him; Prince Ali Fahmy Bey, Egyptian, who was mysteriously shot soon after a visit to the Valley of Kings, and Dr. Jonathan W. Carver, who was killed in an automobile crash after helping Mr. Carter to open the tomb.

PARIS POLICE THWART RED DEMONSTRATION

Communists Gather Outside Meeting at Which Soviet Relations Are Attacked.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—The presence of several hundred policemen inside and outside the doors of a large hall on the left bank of the Seine, where another meeting to protest against the alleged activities of Soviet secret police in Paris was held tonight, effectively discouraged any demonstrations by French Communists which otherwise might have taken place.

The meeting was the second organized by the influential Right newspaper La Liberté since the disappearance of General Alexander P. Koutiepoff, White Russian military leader. Although no definite evidence to substantiate the assertions of White Russians that their leader was kidnapped by Soviet agents has been discovered by the French police and no trace of the missing General has been found, the speakers at the meeting tonight it again denounced the activities in Paris of "Moscow's terrorists" and again demanded that the French Government break off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia.

The Communist newspaper Humanité, official organ of the party in France, urged its readers to make a counter-demonstration outside and, if possible, inside the hall where tonight's meeting was held, and it was feared there might be some trouble. The police, however, easily dispersed about 100 Communists who attempted to hold a demonstration in the street outside the hall, and several of their companions who somehow succeeded in getting into the hall were promptly ejected when they tried to heckle the speakers.

SOVIET LESS HARSH WITH 14 MINSK JEWS

Relatives Are Permitted to See Rabbis and Others—Execution Is Held Unlikely.

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent here today telephoned a prominent Jewish leader in Minsk and was informed that no apprehensions were felt there that fourteen leaders of the Minsk Jewish community recently arrested on charges of counter-revolutionary activity would be executed.

The correspondent was told that the government's attitude toward those under arrest had become, if anything, milder and their relatives were permitted to see them by special appointment.

It was said Chief Rabbi Gluskin and Rabbi Kopelovitch, who were among those arrested, might be released this week.

SALVATION ARMY JOINS IN PROTEST ON SOVIET

Says Civilization Cannot Be Maintained Where State Denies Deity.

The Salvation Army yesterday joined the list of organizations which have voiced their protest against the religious persecutions in Soviet Russia.

The Salvation Army's protest was in the form of a statement by Commander Evangeline Booth from her headquarters at 853 Broadway. Commander Booth declared that her statement was made without any political ends in mind but merely in defense of the fundamental rights of freedom of conscience.

The National Lutheran Council made public yesterday additional information from various European sources on the actual state of affairs in Russia, including a statement that ministers now are deprived of all legal rights in Russia, together with protests from Lutheran organizations in Germany, Poland and Switzerland.

A special prayer was prepared and wired to Lutheran pastors and churches throughout the United States by Dr. M. G. G. Scherer, secretary of the United Lutheran Church of America. The prayer is to be used on March 2, which is the day set for supplication in Lutheran churches throughout the world in behalf of the Christians persecuted in Russia.

Commander Booth's statement said in part:

"The Salvation Army takes no part in politics and expresses no opinion on the economics of capitalism, communism or any other social system. But we declare in the most explicit terms that, according to the faith which we hold, and endeavor to express in service to others, it is impossible to found or to maintain a civilization where the authority and even the existence of the Deity is denied by the State.

"The Salvation Army stands second to none in its witness for religious liberty and its detestation of tyranny, and it accompanies this protest with an earnest prayer that in Russia the spirit of justice and the impulse to mercy may triumph over passions and prejudices, which, it must be remembered are the sequel to other persecutions antedating the present régime."

CHRISTIANS AND JEWS JOIN BIGOTRY PROTEST

Hold Joint Service in Temple Israel—Washington's Tolerance Praised.

As a gesture of protest against religious intolerance and bigotry, Christian and Jewish leaders joined last night for the regular Friday evening service in Temple Israel. Judge Irving Lehman, president of Temple Emanu-El, spoke on "The Work of America's Good-Will Union as It Carries on the Ideals of Washington," and the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill of the Brick Presbyterian Church preached the sermon. Other addresses were made by the Rev. Edward L. Hunt, founder and director of America's Good-Will Union, and by Rabbis Maurice H. Harris and Abraham L. Feinberg.

Judge Lehman reviewed the difficulties of earlier days when religious freedom did not exist. He paid tribute to George Washington who, in answer to an address from the Jews at Newport, declared: "It is now no more that toleration is spoken of, as if it was by the indulgence of one class of people that another enjoy the exercise of their inherent natural rights. For happily the government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance, requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens, in giving it on all occasions their effective support."

ASKS ADLER TO PLEAD CASE

Jewish Agency Urges Him to Appear in League Wailing Wall Inquiry

JERUSALEM, Feb. 21 (AP).—The correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here learned today that Dr. Cyrus Adler has been asked to represent the Jewish Agency before the League of Nations Wailing Wall Commission. The commission will investigate Jewish and Arab claims to the ancient structure.

Dr. Adler is president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, president of the American Jewish Committee and a non-Zionist member of the council of the Jewish Agency.

New Position for Gabrilowitsch.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—Ossip Gabrilowitsch, who has been part-time conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will return as a regular conductor next season, directing all except one pair of the concerts not conducted by Leopold Stokowski. During this season three different guest conductors, Tullio Serafin, Emil Mlynarski and Artur Bodanzky, are still to be heard before the return of Mr. Stokowski. Alexander Smallens will continue as assistant conductor.

War Construction Men Meet.

Nearly 200 men from many parts of the country gathered at the Hotel Commodore yesterday for the annual reunion of the Construction Division Association, an organization of engineers, architects and builders who were active in military construction during the World War. Benedict Crowell, war-time Assistant Secretary of War, was the guest of honor. Those at the convention were entertained at a tea yesterday afternoon by Colonel and Mrs. George A. Johnson at their home.

CHAUTEMPS CABINET OFFERS NEW POLICY

French Government to Rely on Left Support When It Faces Chamber on Tuesday.

BRIAND CHIEF LIEUTENANT

As Minister of Foreign Affairs, He Will Head Delegation to London Naval Arms Conference.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—France has tonight a new government and a new policy. Camille Chautemps, moderate leader of the Radical-Socialist party, has succeeded, with Aristide Briand as his chief lieutenant, in forming a Cabinet which is almost purely Radical in composition and must depend on the Socialists if it is to survive its first appearance before the Chamber of Deputies. That appearance will be made Tuesday, and on Wednesday, if M. Chautemps succeeds in winning a majority, M. Briand will go back to London, this time as chief delegate of France, to negotiate a treaty for limitation of naval armaments. With him will go Albert Sarraut, who has succeeded Georges Leygues as Minister of Marine, and possibly Lucien Lamoureux, new Minister of Colonies.

Following is the list of the Cabinet:

Premier and Interior—CAMILLE CHAUTEMPS.
Vice President and Justice—THEODORE STEEG.
Foreign Affairs—ARISTIDE BRIAND.
Finance—CHARLES DUMONT.
Budget—MAURICE PALMADE.
War—RENE BESNARD.
Marine—ALBERT SARRAUT.
Merchant Marine—CHARLES DANIELOU.
Public Works—EDOUARD DALADIER.
Education—JEAN DURAND.
Commerce—GEORGES BONNET.
Labor—LOUIS LOUCHEUR.
Pensions—Dr. CHARLES GALLET.
Air—LAURENT-EYNAC.
Posts and Telegraphs—JULIEN DURAND.
Agriculture—Dr. HENRI QUEUILLE.
Colonies—LUCIEN LAMOUREUX.

There are eleven Under-Secretaries, two attached to the Premier's double office, Aimé Berthod and Paul Marchandeau. Others are: War, Charles Lambert; Marine, Robert Bellanger; Colonies, Léon Archimbaud; Public Works, Léon Charlot; Agriculture, Louis de Chappedelaine; Fine Arts, Léo Bouyssou; Health, Mario Roustan; Technical Education, César Chabrun, and Physical Education, M. Henry-Paté.

The Cabinet is not such as either M. Chautemps or M. Briand wished, but it is one which was inevitable in the state of party feeling. The choice was between a Radical Government which would support the Centre and the Moderate Right or a Radical Government which would have a hundred Socialist votes behind it. Whichever way it went, the majority was bound to be a small one and the life tenure of the Cabinet insecure.

Two Groups Refuse Parts.

For M. Chautemps the issue was settled this morning when two moderate groups, the Left Republicans and the Social and Radical Left, voted against any of their members taking part in the new Cabinet. These decisions excluded moderate men, such as Francois Pietri and Pierre Etienne Flandin. On the other hand, it does not necessarily exclude the possibility of a supporting vote of at least part of these groups and it obtains the total Socialist vote for the government.

Tonight the government supporters declare they will have a majority of thirty to forty on Tuesday. The opposition as confidently proclaims its defeat at the first encounter with the Chamber.

The whole issue will be the London naval conference. The question of the amount a married shopkeeper should be allowed to count off his profits as his wife's salary for helping him, on which André Tardieu's government fell, probably never will be heard of again.

M. Briand will be most directly under fire on Tuesday. It will be undoubtedly recalled against him and M. Sarraut that they were responsible for what is always remembered as the shameful defeat at the Washington conference, when France accepted parity with Italy in capital ships and gave what may be described as a semi-official undertaking to accept parity in all other categories.

The whole Right will rise in defense of the big naval program which M. Tardieu advanced at London. The figure of 724,000 tons by the end of 1936 will be a sacred limit from which there must be no reduction.

The battle undoubtedly will be fierce and noisy. For, on the other side of the Chamber now among the government's supporters will be Léon Blum and his hundred Socialists, who declare roundly that M. Tardieu's figures were inflated, that he counted into that 724,000 tons every old vessel and some already discarded ships which France could lay claim to and demanded the right to replace them with new and entirely different categories of ships.

The difference between M. Tardieu's figure and that which M. Blum declares France has any need for or has voted is more than 100,000 tons. It will be, therefore, inevitable that M. Briand will be instructed to be moderate in his demands at London if the government obtains a majority.

Of course the new policy will not be and, indeed, must not be represented as one of reduction. Both M. Briand and M. Sarraut have still unpleasant memories of what they consider unfair treatment given them and France at Washington. They will contend for a much higher ratio for France than was given her for capital ships. They will probably be as stubborn as was M. Leygues himself in defense of the submarine. But they may be expected to take a much more moderate line than M. Tardieu and M. Leygues did in their presentation of France's needs.

These needs are relative, not absolute, and M. Briand will be able on that ground to get very near to Prime Minister MacDonald's conception of the purposes of the conference, that it should fix as nearly as possible the ratio of each country on a minimum scale.

Will Demand Bargain.

M. Briand, however, is not a man who ever gives anything for nothing. If France is to reduce her demands it must be on condition that others also reduce. He knows exactly the point to which Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Snowden are willing to come down and can still keep within the limits set by the British Admiralty as a minimum for security. He knows that Congress will welcome any lowering of the British level which would make parity easier of attainment. He knows that the lower the Anglo-American limit is set the lower must be that of Japan.

As for Italy, he will probably take the attitude which M. Tardieu took—that if Italy wants parity that is her own lookout. At the same time, he probably thinks he can count on British support to see to it that the Italians do not get excessive power in the Mediterranean.

There is no doubt that such a policy would save the conference from a deadlock which would raise the naval limits of the world instead of lower them. But M. Briand, with this new Cabinet, is not yet out of the woods. The Cabinet must face a bitter struggle Tuesday, and there is no real certainty it will obtain a majority. For between now and then a campaign in favor of the Tardieu naval program, which has already begun, is going to swell every hour in volume and force in the Nationalist press.

The Left Cabinet has, however, this in its favor—it will try to make battle on the ground of tax reduction, with a keen eye to the elections of 1932, and every Deputy who votes against it will be marked down as a man who abandoned the traditional liberal policy of the country.

BRITON URGES SPEED FOR TRUCE IN TARIFFS

Graham Warns Delegates at Geneva on Defeatist Talk—Higher Exports to America Forecast.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Feb. 21.—The two committees appointed by the tariff truce conference began their deliberations today. The president of the British Board of Trade, William Graham, attended the first committee, which is dealing with a draft convention for a tariff truce under the chairmanship of Hendrick Colijn of Holland.

Mr. Graham warned the delegates not to listen to any defeatist talk about the impossibility of obtaining a truce or at least the basis of an understanding. He pressed for a quick agreement on the date for the commencement of the truce, and urged the immediate definition of the reservations to be made by the delegates.

Mr. Graham defined the British interpretation of "fiscal duties," saying the revenue duty was one applied to an article not produced at home, or which, if produced at home, was subject to an effective countervailing charge or "excise." He admitted, however, that this definition did not cover every case, such as the British gasoline tax. In this case, he added, there were large imports subject to tax, but the small home production was not taxed.

"In the terms of common sense," Mr. Graham said, "this tax would be regarded as a fiscal duty, as its first object is to produce revenue for specific purposes."

In the second committee, under the chairmanship of M. Madgearu of Rumania, which is charged with drawing up the program for subsequent negotiations on collections agreements, C. Fierlinger, former Czechoslovak Minister to Washington, said Europe was suffering from "excessive individualism and from its general policy in regard to America." He considered European exports to America must increase, owing to the fact that European gold had been transferred there, and that goods followed gold.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NOTTINGHAM, England, Feb. 21.—The proposal for a tariff truce, now being debated at Geneva, was said by Sir Ernest Jardine, president of the Nottingham Chamber of Commerce, speaking on behalf of a number of industrial undertakings in the area, to be "sheer trade suicide."

Sir Ernest, who is chairman of the largest company of lace machine builders in the world, added that the truce offended not only against common sense but against every canon of business.

"The greatest free trade fanatic never conceived a plan so injurious to British trade," he said. "The opposition in Parliament should pledge that as soon as the present government leaves office the tariff truce goes with it."

GOVERNMENT AHEAD IN JAPANESE POLLS

Premier Hamaguchi's Party Has 79 Seats in Lower House So Far, Opposition 44.

TOKIO, Saturday, Feb. 22 (AP).—Incomplete returns in the general election at 11:30 A. M. today showed the Minseito party, supporting the administration of Premier Hamaguchi, maintaining its lead with 79 seats in the lower house of the Diet. The Seiyukai party, chief opposition to Hamaguchi, had obtained 44 seats and the Proletarians 3. Other groups accounted for 8 seats.

Supported only by the 173 members of the Minseito and unable to make headway for its measures against the opposition of the Seiyukai, 237 of whose members sat in the lower house of the Diet, the Hamaguchi Government, Jan. 21, declared the Diet dissolved and ordered a general election held.

The election was featured by the unexpected defeat of proletarian party leaders. Among these was Isoe Abe, father of Tamio Abe, the Davis Cup tennis star, and president of the Social Democratic party. Mr. Abe was expected to be returned easily from a Tokio district.

Other proletarians defeated were Dunji Suzuki, president of the Japanese Federation of Labor, and Mr. Abe's chief lieutenant, Hajime Kawakami, a leading Marxist. Another was Toyohiko Kagawa, who, nominated by the proletarians to represent the slum district of Tokio, is Japan's most famous Christian leader and an internationally known humanitarian. Notwithstanding that he was kept to his home by illness through the campaign, Mr. Kagawa's election by the poor voters of the Tokio River wards had been considered likely.

On the other hand, Ikuo Oyama, president of the Farmer-Labor party, was elected.

Father and son were elected in the persons of Ki Inukai, 74-year-old president of the Seiyukai, and Ken Inukai, youthful novelist, also a member of the Seiyukai.

EVICTED TRIO GET HELP.

Man Blinded in War, His Dog and Pal Are Happy in New Quarters.

William Melvin, who was blinded in the war; his dog, and Jimmy O'Connor, his pal, were happy last night in their new two-room apartment at 511 West Forty-ninth Street. The new quarters were rented for them by William F. Shea, an undertaker of 403 West Forty-ninth Street, after they had been evicted from 346 West Forty-ninth Street.

Melvin is 52 years old, and has been sightless since September, 1918, when the Shipping Board transport Tippecanoe was torpedoed off the French coast. Melvin worked in the ship's engine room. Now he shuffles up and down Broadway behind the little dog, selling gum and sometimes newspapers.

"We wouldn't have been thrown out of the other place if I could get a steady job," O'Connor explained last night, "but I get work only now and then. I'm a radio mechanic and right now I can't seem to find a thing."

Several persons who learned of the eviction by reading newspaper stories called on Melvin yesterday and left enough money to assure the blind man and his dog of necessities for a few days. Shea has paid the first month's rent.

DIPLOMATS SEE END OF A MEXICAN ISSUE

Solution of Agrarian Problem Is Considered Forecast by Minister of Industry.

SPEECH INDICATES PLAN

Senor Leon Suggests Debt for Seized Lands May Be Spread Over Much Longer Period.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21.—Indications of Mexico's ability and intention to pay for lands seized for communal purposes, contained in a speech by Luis Leon, the Minister of Industry, before the congress of agricultural laborers which closed yesterday, has been very favorably received in diplomatic circles. The seizures have been one of the major matters of contention in Mexico's foreign relations and diplomats view the Minister's statements as evidence of satisfactory solution in the near future.

In his speech Señor Leon faced the delicate situation with frankness and his remarks are looked upon as the official views of the Ortiz Rubio Administration.

Text of Speech.

Señor Leon spoke substantially as follows:

"The Mexican revolution and the revolutionary administrations which have governed the country from the time of General Obregon through those of General Calles and Señor Portes Gil up to the present, have always supported the doctrine, in dealing with creditors of Mexico, that our country cannot meet its debts beyond its economic capacity; that is to say, Mexico cannot pay on what it owes with more than it has, hence it has succeeded in establishing a balanced budget with which, happily, it has conformed, thus bringing about order in public expenditures.

"In this budget appear all the appropriations which Mexico needs for maintaining its government and for encouraging, if only a little, the development of the country by constructing routes of communication and irrigation works. This budget is based upon revenues and expenditures, and the difference resulting, the amount remaining because revenues exceed disbursements, which we may call a surplus, is what Mexico has for paying its creditors. That constitutes Mexico's capacity to pay.

Privileged Creditors Banned.

"Moreover, Mexico can establish no privilege whatsoever in favor of any of its creditors. It must tell them: 'After meeting my budget, I have this annual sum—so many million pesos—left over, which I devote to the paying of my debts. I cannot give this money to any one privileged creditor; I must divide it equitably and proportionately among all the creditors of Mexico.'

"This being the case, any creditors of Mexico who act to oppose the payment of its debts in accordance with the financial capacity of the country will retard and are already retarding progress.

"With this irrefutable argument, as a matter of fact, if Mexico had a fixed debt this equitable manner of paying the creditors would be acceptable, but Mexico increases this debt in varying amounts each year with indemnifications for the agrarian lands which are annually distributed and, therefore, the system lacks a fixed basis. This is why the program of the National Revolutionary party calls for stabilizing of that debt and payment for the land in cash.

"When the situation of Mexico so permits, this is the program, which evidences the sincere desire of the government to establish its finances upon a solid basis.

Expropriations to Continue.

"The rural population should have no fear that it will fail to regain its rights, for Mexico will not pay its debts until it has sufficient resources to do so.

"Moreover, I believe that within a few years Mexico will have to face seriously the problem of the payment of the agrarian debt, and then I believe that, having strengthened its public finances, it will have to reform Article 27 of the Constitution, which provides that lands be paid for in the course of twenty years, because the debt is too large to be cleared in that period.

"Mexico will have to reach an agreement with its creditors in setting forty, sixty and eighty years for payment of this debt, for it is not just nor equitable that a social reform as profound as the change in the system of agrarian ownership should weigh upon a single generation, which would have to endure the burden of the taxation for this debt, and if we have effected the agrarian reform and laid the foundation for a better future for the sons of Mexico it is right and just that the sacrifice be shared among several generations.

"The present generation, aside from its poverty, has given its blood, its strength and many lives."

GARVEY SENTENCED AGAIN.

To Serve Six Months in Jamaica for Seditious Libel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 21.—Marcus Garvey was sentenced today to six months in prison without hard labor for a seditious libel.

The editor of his paper, "The Black Man," was sentenced to three months. The manager was acquitted. The prisoners appealed.

Argentina Greets English Princess.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 21 (AP).—Princess Marie Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, a cousin of King George, arrived from England last night and was greeted by port and government officials and the Diplomatic Corps. The Princess is accompanied by a group of Englishmen, including Lord Calthorp and General Arthur J. Pool. They will remain for a few days in Argentina on a pleasure trip.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 21.—Horton Smith's 66, which equaled the record for the Savannah Golf Club course, put him in the lead in the Savannah open golf tournament today as Bobby Jones, taking 75 for his second round, dropped into a tie for fifth position. Smith's total for thirty-six holes is 137 and Jones has 142.

Smith, who is not attached to any club now, came home in 32 to finish a stroke in front of J. Fairley Clark, professional at the Savannah municipal course, who returned another 69 for a two-round total of 138.

Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., and Emmet French of Southern Pines, N. C., finished the thirty-six holes tied for third at 141. Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., with a pair of 71s, shares fifth place with Jones.

One shot back of them are four professionals—Johnny Farrell, Bobby Cruickshank and Mike Turnesa of the New York district and Jeff Adams of Savannah. A quintet tied at 144 is composed of Al Espinosa of Chicago, Neal McIntyre of Indianapolis, Clet Wiechman of Portsmouth, Ohio; Bill Mehlhorn and Whiffy Cox of New York.

Tricky Holes Prove Costly.

The weather today was just as good as yesterday. A few tricky holes kept some of the scores from being lower. One of the danger spots was the seventeenth, measuring 507 yards and leading to a closely guarded green.

This hole cost Farrell a 7 and Jones a 6. Smith got a 4 on the hole by getting home in two shots. Jones took 40 on the first nine, which he made in 32 yesterday. The Atlanta amateur had a 7 on the second hole, on which he drove the green for a 3 on his initial round.

Bobby's tee shot today lodged up against a bush. He recovered with the point of his putter blade and then chipped into a trap. His explosion shot took him over the green. He played back and got down in two putts.

On the seventh Jones put his first tee shot out of bounds and hit a tree on his next. He also missed the green by a wide margin. At the tenth he holed a fifteen-foot putt for a 3 and he sank a putt almost as long at the eighteenth. A bad third shot, following a hooked drive, cost Jones a 6 on the seventeenth.

Smith Uses New Clubs.

Smith played again today with a set of new steel-shafted iron clubs which he is trying out. Horton has long been a convert to steel shafts in his wood clubs. The only time he has gone to hickory in these was last Spring, when he had to abandon steel shafts to comply with regulations in force in Great Britain.

Horton hit one of the longest tee shots of the day off No. 1 tee and had only a short pitch to the green. He got down in two putts for a 4. On the second hole, 270 yards, his drive was trapped, but he almost holed his explosion shot for a 2. His ball rolled past the pin and he holed the putt coming back for a 3.

On the 141-yard third hole he sank a twenty-foot putt for a 2. He got on the 368-yard fourth hole in two shots, but took three putts from a distance of eighteen feet. After a regulation 4 on No. 5, Horton played a fine cut shot over a trap with his niblick at the sixth hole and his ball stopped only inches short of the hole.

His second shot to the seventh, 430 yards, stopped on the apron of the green, but, after chipping up within four feet, he missed the putt. Horton got an orthodox 4 on the eighth and finished the outgoing nine with a birdie 4. The ninth hole was a difficult one today. Smith hit two good wood shots, pitched well on and dropped a twelve-foot putt for a 4.

Eight-Foot Putt Fails.

Smith had an eight-foot putt for a 3 on the tenth, but he failed to make it. He was on the short eleventh for an easy par. On the twelfth he was just short of the green in two and he chipped up within two feet for a 4. Horton hit a great tee shot with a brassie on the thirteenth hole. His ball stopped eight feet from the pin and he got the putt for a deuce.

Smith was on the next two greens in par and down in two putts. He made another deadly chip shot on No. 16, running his ball almost into the hole after being near the green with two long woods. A drive and a spoon put him on the seventeenth green, 507 yards, for another birdie. Horton was one of the few who reached this green in two shots today. On the eighteenth the youngster played to the first fairway purposely in order to have a second shot into the wind on the narrow green. Using a No. 4 iron, he laid his approach twelve feet from the flag for an easy 4.

Except for the second hole, Jones got down in par figures on the first six holes, but he was leaving himself plenty to do on the greens. Bobby had no trouble getting his 4 on the easy starting hole, but he looked up on a chip shot to the second green and knocked the ball into a trap. Striving to explode it dead, he was too strong and whanged his fourth shot over the green.

He got down in two putts for pars on the next three greens, but he never was closer than thirty feet off the pin. He played a fine spoon shot from the tee on the 251-yard sixth hole and from twelve feet holed out in two putts for a 3.

On the remainder of the round Jones was pulling his full shots badly. He pulled his drive out of bounds from the seventh tee and also pulled his approach, finally taking 6 for the hole. Bobby was on each of the next four greens, about fifteen feet from the hole in each case, but the only birdie of the four came on the tenth.

A badly pulled second shot kept the national open champion from doing better than 5 on the twelfth. He played a poor chip shot on the thirteenth. Jones missed the green on the fourteenth, but got his par by sinking a fifteen-foot putt. After a par 4 on the fifteenth, Bobby pulled his drive and pulled his second shot on No. 16, only to pitch on and sink a ten-foot putt for a 4. On the seventeenth Jones pulled another tee shot and wound up by taking three strokes with his putter. He played the last hole well and got down a putt for a 3.

Clark, who is only 25 years old, formerly was located at Fayetteville, N. C. His round was featured by excellent tee shots on the 136-yard eleventh hole and the 248-yard thirteenth, both of which he converted into 2s. A hooked drive led to a 6 on the twelfth.

Only scores of 156 or better qualified for the final thirty-six holes to be played tomorrow.

Will Bar Women From Bouts Staged by British Army Boxers

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Daily Express today said that women henceforth would be barred from attending boxing tournaments organized by the British Army Boxing Association. The paper said that heads of the association had decided that boxing was "not an edifying spectacle" for women, their admission being accordingly forbidden.

This is the first check here to women's attendance at the ringside. It has been increasing constantly.

MACKENZIE DROPS OUT OF MYRTLE BEACH GOLF

Amateur Star, Who Scored 74 in Qualifying Test, Not to Compete in Match Play.

Special to The New York Times.

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C., Feb. 21.—Roland Mackenzie, amateur star of Washington and New York, who qualified with a 74 in the Washington's Birthday golf tournament being played at the Ocean-Forest Country Club, has decided to drop out of match play. Other low scores were bracketed in eights in order to complete the tournament tomorrow.

Among those who qualified in the first flight were E. G. Riley, Fox Hills, 79; R. M. Miller of New Rochelle, 84; George Widmer, Wykagyl, 85; J. E. Hobbs, Charlotte, N. PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—Equaling the women's course record for the regulation round, Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., today won the Florida State golf championship by defeating Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago in a twenty-hole final on the course of the Palm Beach Country Club. It was the second crown to be garnered by the White Beeches Club standard-bearer within a week and the victory gave her a first leg on the new gold Challenge Cup presented by the trustees of the estate of Mrs. Flagler.

By the same token, the defeat deprived Miss Van Wie of taking the trophy outright, as she previously had won the tournament in 1926 and 1928. Lipped putts on the eighteenth and nineteenth greens cost the medalist the prize.

Miss Orcutt's game was matchless, for she shot a 77 to equal the record established by Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardue in 1923.

Miss Orcutt, who up to twelve days ago had not appeared in competition since the last national tournament, has quickly reached the peak of her game. She was second in the qualifying test, three strokes behind Miss Van Wie, and has been showing consistent improvement with each match. Today the New Jersey representative outdrove her opponent and also obtained greater length with her second woods.

Record Gallery Follows Play.

A gallery of 2,000, the largest that has ever turned out for a contest of the Country Club course, trailed the players during the afternoon, and the match was the closest ever produced in a final for the Florida championship. In tying the record Miss Orcutt had a conceded hole, but, tapping the ball carelessly, she managed to lip the cup on this green.

Going out in a creditable 38, Miss Orcutt established a lead of 2 up at the turn, which was overcome by Miss Van Wie on the next two holes. They played evenly until Miss Orcutt took the fifteenth, and then Miss Van Wie squared it again with a par 3 on the sixteenth.

Matching par figures, they halved the last two holes of the eighteen in 3, 4. On the first extra hole Miss Van Wie missed her great opportunity when her putt for a par 4 hung on the lip of the cup. On the short twentieth, 220 yards, the Chicago girl overplayed her chip shot and landed in a bunker. Coming out, her ball hit Miss Orcutt's on the green, moving it closer to the hole. It was still a long putt for a par 3, but Miss Orcutt sank it neatly.

Twenty-Foot Putt for Miss Orcutt.

Miss Van Wie started by overputting and by lacking control of her iron approaches. These deficiencies kept her in difficulty on most of the outgoing holes. A 20-foot putt gave Miss Orcutt a half on the first hole, and she sank another long putt to win the second. Each took two putts to halve the next, but Miss Van Wie dubbed two chip shots on the fourth and conceded the hole. It was here that Miss Orcutt lipped the cup with a listless putt.

The fifth also went to Miss Orcutt, but Miss Van Wie won her first hole on the sixth, where she required only one putt, while her opponent was taking two. A par 4 gave Miss Orcutt the seventh, and both dropped long putts to equal par 3 on the 198-yard eighth. An extra putt cost Miss Orcutt the ninth.

The Chicago girl won the tenth and squared the match on the eleventh. On the 181-yard twelfth Miss Orcutt's second hit a water hazard, but skimmed out to a good lie, giving her a par 3 for a half.

On the thirteenth Miss Van Wie's second imbedded itself in the mud, but she was not permitted to lift by a ruling of the club secretary, although a number in the gallery objected. However, her mashie dug out the ball, but it went over the green and cost her a half in 5.

Halve Fourteenth Hole.

Miss Orcutt's drive on the fourteenth landed by a drain. She lifted, but her brassie shot, as well as that of Miss Van Wie, was off, and each took two putts for another half. A beautiful chip shot gave Miss Orcutt the fifteenth, but a par 3 on the sixteenth squared matters. On the seventeenth Miss Orcutt's chip was on, but a chunk of mud near the cup kept her putt out for a half in 3.

JORDAN IS CUE VICTOR.

Defeats Craft, 100 to 31, in 17 Innings in State Amateur Play.

Frank Jordan vanquished Henry Craft, 100 to 31, in seventeen innings at Dwyer's New Recreation Academy last night as the second round of the New York State amateur pocket billiard championship tourney, which is conducted under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Pocket Billiard Players, got under way.

Jordan established a new high run for the tourney when he made a cluster of 29, while Craft's best was 5. The old mark was 27, made by Charles Howard in the opening match. Howard and John Schauer are listed to meet in a second-round match on Monday night.

BENNET VICTOR AT 14.2.

Defeats Green in State Billiard Play—Henry Conquers Kortman.

Orlando Bennet and Jim Henry triumphed in the matches played last night in the New York State amateur 14.2 balkline championship tournament at Lawler Brothers' Brooklyn Billiard Academy.

Bennet defeated Adam Green, 150 to 128, in sixty innings, and Henry vanquished Charles Kortman, 150 to 123, in fifty-four innings. High runs were: Bennet, 15; Green, 9; Henry, 9, and Kortman, 14.

QUINTETS REACH FINAL.

Buffalo Warsaws, Rockville Center Win in American Legion Play.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP).—The Buffalo Warsaws and Rockville Centre won their way to the final in the American Legion State junior basketball championship tonight. Buffalo defeated Carthage, 28—23, and Rockville Centre checked Saratoga Springs, 45—21. They will battle for the State championship tomorrow night.

The four teams were the survivors in sectional eliminations. Players must be 17 years or under.

M'CAUSLAND VICTOR IN SQUASH RACQUETS

Defeats Burke in First Round of U. S. Title Play at Chicago, 15-10, 15-6, 15-7.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP).—Eastern players held the edge at the end of the opening day's play in the individual event of the United States squash racquets championships at the Yale-Harvard-Princeton Club today.

Of the five matches played, Eastern contestants survived the opening round in four, while others moved ahead by defaults.

J. Lawrence Pool of the Harvard Club, New York, defending singles champion, drew a bye, but will meet J. McCausland of Toronto in the second round tomorrow. McCausland today moved along by defeating Scott Burke of Pittsburgh in straight games, 15—10, 15—6, 15—7. The other Toronto entrant, W. M. Vickers, won by default from Russel Johnson of Indianapolis.

The most bitterly contested match went to S. H. Knox of Buffalo, N. Y., who required five games to eliminate B. G. Griggs of St. Paul. The scores were 12—15, 12—15, 15—9, 15—10, 17—14.

Two Philadelphians also won their matches. Donald Strachan eliminated Tom Hendricks of Indianapolis, 15—9, 15—10, 15—9, and Neil Sullivan defeated H. C. Wick Jr., Cleveland, 15—7, 17—14, 15—12. W. H. Rice, Boston, defeated Tom Bourke, Detroit, 15-12, 17—14, 15—9.

Boston's other entrant, W. F. Howe, decided to play in the team event and defaulted his own individual first-rounder to E. Smith of Detroit. T. Fisher, Chicago, eliminated W. M. Chester, Milwaukee, 15—13, 15—6, 15—13.

TODAY'S PAIRINGS.

J. Lawrence Pool, New York, vs. J. McCausland, Toronto.
E. Smith, Detroit, vs. Harry Bougher, Baltimore.
Jack Laughlin, Pittsburgh, vs. Donald Strachan, Philadelphia.
R. E. Smith, Milwaukee, vs. W. M. Martin, St. Louis.
Neil Sullivan, Philadelphia, vs. T. H. Fisher, Chicago.

TOPPING TRIUMPHS IN BELLEAIR FINAL

Victory Over Augustus, 3 and 2, Also Gives Him Medal in Golf Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 21.—Henry J. Topping of the Greenwich Country Club, one of the country's leading amateur golfers a decade ago, today defeated Ellsworth Augustus of Cleveland, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final of the annual Washington's Birthday tournament.

Topping and Augustus tied for the qualifying medal on Monday and agreed before today's final that the player winning the tournament automatically would come into possession of the medal.

Augustus, known as a long driver, had difficulty controlling his tee shots today. In direct contrast, Topping never drove better in his long career. Topping's tee shots split the middle on almost every hole, while Augustus, with much more length, was erratic. On the sixteen holes of the afternoon round, Augustus had only two drives on the fairway.

PELL AND MORTIMER IN RACQUETS FINAL

Men Who Met for National Amateur Title 15 Years Ago Play for the Crown Today.

PELL BEATS KEMP-WELCH

Wins From Briton, 15-5, 18-16, 15-10—Mortimer Defeats Morgan in Five-Game Match.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—The championship round of one of the fastest games in the world will be played tomorrow between the same two men who met for the national amateur racquets title fifteen years ago.

For the eleventh time in the fourteen tournaments held since 1915, Clarence C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer, both of New York and Tuxedo, gained the ultimate brackets in the thirty-ninth annual championship today on the court of the Tennis and Racquet Club.

In thirteen of those fourteen tournaments Pell has been the winner nine times, Mortimer three and Huntington D. Sheldon of New York once, and outside of these three players only two others have reached the final since 1915, Lord Aberdare in 1928 and Hewitt Morgan in 1927.

Pell Favored to Win.

Unless the consensus is all wrong, Pell should gain the crown for the tenth time tomorrow when he goes up against his partner in eight victories in the national doubles. The reason for the pronounced leaning to Pell is not merely because he won both the Tuxedo gold racquet and the championship of the Racquet and Tennis Club and is playing as formidable a game as ever he did in his career.

The chief reason is that Mortimer, the better stylist of the two and one of the most devastating hitters the game has known, has been worn almost to the point of exhaustion by the three terrific struggles that he has gone through on successive days, while Pell has lost only one game to date and is prepared to enter tomorrow's fray as keen as a Toledo blade.

On Wednesday Mortimer was extended to the limit to defeat Dr. H. W. Leatham of England in four games, two of which went to extra points. On Thursday he eliminated Sheldon, the defending champion, after a harrowing struggle maintained at a hurricane pace to the last point of a 16—14 fifth game, and today in a match that was almost pathetic because of the weariness of the contenders, Mortimer was again put to the acid test to defeat Hewitt Morgan, the conqueror of Lord Aberdare, in another five-game battle that was decided at 18—14, 16—18, 10—15, 15—1, 15—6.

Briton Plays Brilliantly.

Following this match Pell went on the court with Peter Kemp-Welch, 22-year-old stylist of England, and amid the most frenzied applause of the week, most of which was for the magnificent challenge made by the British youngster, the American won in three games at 15—5, 18—16, 15—10. While Kemp-Welch failed to get a game, he played far more brilliant racquets than did either Mortimer or Morgan, and had Pell been at anything other than his best he would certainly have lost the second chapter, in which he trailed at 7—12, and might even have lost the match.

Of all the players seen in America this year, Kemp-Welch has clearly the prettiest wrist action, and when he lets go from a stable position the ball travels with appalling speed, its target a fraction of an inch above the board, whether he is hitting straight to the front wall or playing the ball across the corners.

Along with this withering speed of a perfect racquets stroke, Kemp-Welch has a speed of foot that enables him to get to almost any shot, and time and again he was winning thunderous applause as he turned back Pell's apparent winners with lightning drives.

Pell's steadiness and coolness under this terrific pressure, the hallmark of the tried and true champion, pulled him through more than did anything else, for his service was not functioning at its best save near the end and he was not hitting as hard as was his opponent. But he always kept his head, always knew what he wanted to do with the ball, and the lesser experienced English youth met his master.

PENZELL BEATS MARSHALL.

Wins, 50 to 30, in Pocket Billiard Play—Natielle Defeats Renner.

D. Penzell of O'Brien's Academy defeated A. Marshall, 50 to 30, in eighteen innings, in a Broadway section match of the Greater New York Billiard Room Owners' Association amateur pocket billiard tournament played at Thum's Academy last night. It was Marshall's third straight defeat. Penzell's high run was 13 and Marshall's 5.

In a Lower Manhattan section game L. Natielle vanquished G. Renner, 50 to 36, in twenty-two innings, at Parker's Academy. Each had a best cluster of 8.

Robert Cole won his fourth straight game by turning back A. Bruno, 50 to 21, in thirty-five innings, at Lawler Brothers Brooklyn Billiard Academy. Cole's best effort was 14, Bruno's 12.

C. Brooks beat W. Hanson, 50 to 20, in twenty innings, at the Bay Ridge Recreation Academy. Brooks's high run was 18, Hanson's 12.

MISS JACOBS SAILS.

Departs on Majestic for Tennis Competition Abroad.

Miss Helen Jacobs, California tennis star, sailed for Europe aboard the White Star liner Majestic early today, according to The Associated Press. Miss Jacobs plans to compete in the Riviera tournaments, the French hard court championships at Auteuil in May, the British championships at Wimbledon and the Wightman Cup matches, which will be played in England this year.

MISS HICKS USES AIRPLANE.

Flies to Pinehurst for Round of Golf With Mrs. Hurd.

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C., Feb. 21.—Miss Helen Hicks of Hewlett, L. I., holder of two golf championships, flew here today from Pinehurst with Major Lloyd Yost and played a round of golf with Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former national women's champion. Miss Hicks remained for the Washington's birthday party at Ocean-Forest this evening.

Woodward With 99 Targets Wins Arizona Hundred Shoot

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 21 (AP).—E. F. Woodward of Houston, Texas, won the Arizona Hundred, feature event on today's program at the Arizona State trapshoot, when he broke 99 out of a possible 100 targets.

R. Grady Watson of Phoenix was high man in the Class B event, also breaking 99. George T. Peter, Phoenix star, broke 97 in Class A. Mark Arie, Olympic champion, of Champaign, Ill., scored 96, being topped by the American champion, Frank Troeh of Portland, Ore., who had 97.

2 MORE CUP BOATS NEAR COMPLETION

Work Is Going Ahead Rapidly but Carefully on Enterprise and Weetamoe.

BOTH ARE BRONZE BOATS

Enterprise, 80 Feet on Water Line, Smallest Craft to Contend for America's Cup Defense.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

In one of the battleship-gray painted shops of the Herreshoff boat building plant at Bristol, R. I., two of the yachts for the defense of the America's Cup are well under way. They are the one to be named Weetamoe, which is variously referred to as the flag officers' craft of the New York Yacht Club, or the club boat, or the Morgan yacht, and the other, to be called Enterprise, the hope of the syndicate formed by Harold S. Vanderbilt. Enterprise, it was revealed, is 80 per cent completed.

Reference to Weetamoe as the flag officers' boat is really a misnomer. While J. P. Morgan, his son, Junius Spencer Morgan Jr.; his son-in-law, George Nichols; Cornelius Vanderbilt, Arthur Curtiss James and Henry Walters, all of whom have past or present official ranking in the club, are members of the syndicate building the yacht, the same applies to those associated with Mr. Vanderbilt in building Enterprise. They are Vincent Astor, present commodore of the club, and George F. Baker Jr., former commodore.

Neither of the craft is Herreshoff designed, Weetamoe being from the plans of Clinton H. Crane of New York and Enterprise from the board of W. Starling Burgess. Nat Herreshoff, who has turned out all the other cup defenders since 1893, is out of the plant that bears the family name and which is now the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company.

Close View of Craft.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent went through the shops with Charles Nystrom, and was enabled to view all the work on the two boats except their interiors, where the winches for sail handling and the light sail stowage platform will be placed. Each designer is keeping his sail-handling plan a secret.

Both Weetamoe and Enterprise are bronze boats. The latter will be the smallest of the defending candidates, only 80 feet on the waterline, and Weetamoe will be three feet longer. Enterprise will have a foot more beam, however.

Enterprise's hull is completely plated, her Michigan pine deck has been put in and she gives the best idea of what one of the completed craft will be like.

Underneath, this yacht, propped up on staging, looks like a golden ship. The bronze rivets in the plates have been sheared off flush until the hull appears like one great mold of polished gold.

Little Sheer Is Seen.

The deck is flush and almost flat, with little sheer. There is no rail, and the bronze plating is carried up over the sides and turned down on the deck for about a foot all around. Inside this, at the edge of the pine deck, will be a cleat an inch thick. That is all the crew will have to catch their feet on and keep from going overboard in case of slipping.

Standing at the stern, one also notices a slight tumble home, or sloping inward of the topsides amidships. Shamrock IV, the last cup challenger, had a decided tumble home.

Work on Enterprise was started in August, and with plenty of time to go on with it a particularly fine job has been made of her. She will be launched before the end of next month. Work on Weetamoe was not begun until November.

One of the most interesting features of the construction of these boats, and the two others at Neponset, Mass., is the building of the masts. The will be wood instead of steel, and instead of being solid, as were those of the old ship of sail, they will be hollow and built up of small pieces glued together, despite the fact that they will be about 165 feet long, or 32 feet higher than the Brooklyn Bridge. None of the yachts would be able to pass under the East River bridges.

This construction makes the strongest mast made. Sitka (Alaska) spruce is used. The pieces are from seven-eighths to two and one-quarter inches thick, and from ten to thirty feet in length. Mast-making is an art. Bror Tamm, who came from Sweden and is turning out those at Neponset, has been making masts for twenty-two years.

Size of Masts Varies.

From the step-up to the deck the size of the masts varies, but they average 20 to 28 inches, and a man could crawl up in one had he something to hold on to.

The glue used in the mast construction, as well as that for the assortment of hollow booms, is made of milk, bone and ox blood. It is carried around in pails and looks like a creamy soup with bubbles on it. The liquid is not sticky to the fingers, in fact its remarkable adhesive quality only manifests itself when applied between layers of wood and dried in a vise.

Outside the shop here, where the two new yachts are being constructed, Resolute, the last defender, lies propped up on the shore. Her hull affords some comparison to the new craft, but the main difference lies in the constructive strength. Were they of the same age the new boats would outlive the old by years. Their hulls are much stronger built.

SHAMROCK V BEGINS TO SHOW TRIM LINES

Challenger for the America's Cup Rapidly Taking Shape in Portsmouth, England.

LITHE AND GRACEFUL BOAT

Sir Thomas Lipton's Composite Craft Already Has Her Hull Planked Over.

DECKS ARE NOW BEING LAID

Following Launching on April 14 She Will Be Made Ready for Special Test Races.

By J. J. BENNETT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Feb. 21.—Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock V is so far advanced that the date of her launching has been fixed for April 14. The NEW YORK TIMES' correspondent inspected the vessel today and already there are signs that the challenger for the America's Cup will be a lithe, graceful-looking craft. Her hull already is planked over and her decks are being laid.

In fitting out Shamrock Lipton is keeping to his country's colors, for he intends to enamel the hull in the green of the Emerald Island, and of course, will fly the Royal Ulster burgee at the mast.

The fifth Shamrock is a composite vessel. From her heavy lead keel—whose weight and shape embody the main secret of her design—rise keel frames which are planked with finest Honduras mahogany. In caulking the hull a novel system has been adopted. Between the seams and over the ordinary caulking long strips of mahogany are inserted. When these are planed down the hull will look as if made of one solid block of mahogany.

Shamrock Measures 120 Feet.

Over all Shamrock measures 120 feet. A striking feature will be her tapering Bermuda mast, which, when fully rigged, will measure 160 feet. The mast itself is 150 feet and there is a ten-foot topmast to be stepped on to it. As the best material available, Washington silver spruce has been chosen for the mast and it is now being assembled in a building especially lengthened for the purpose.

Shamrock's running gear will be best Italian hemp and her sails of the finest quality of canvas obtainable. She will be equipped with a double suit of sails being made by Ratsey & Lapthorn of New York and Gosport close alongside a shed wherein the yacht herself is being built by a specially chosen body of workmen.

Before Shamrock goes to Belfast and Clyde it is been arranged she shall try her pace against some of Britain's best known yachts in special races on the Solent May 28 to June 9.

Chance to Acquire Flags.

These will be run on regular regatta lines under the auspices of principal yacht clubs, and prizes will be offered for the competition so there will be a chance for Shamrock to acquire some winning flags to decorate her rigging before she appears at fixed regattas.

The King's cutter Britannia will be among the yachts meeting Shamrock in the special Solent races. Others will be Lulworth, Whiteheather, Westward, Cambria and Candida.

A racing crew of twenty will be aboard Shamrock and the men are now being chosen by Captain Ned Heard, her skipper.

TWO UPSETS SCORED IN CLASS B SQUASH

Strasser Beats Reutter and Hynson Conquers Fritts in National Title Tourney.

R. H. Reutter of the Columbia University Club, seeded No. 2, and Jack Fritts, youthful Montclair Athletic Club star, seeded No. 6, fell by the wayside in the fourth round of the national Class B squash tennis championship tournament on the courts of the Park Avenue Squash Club yesterday.

The upsets of Reutter and Fritts reduced the number of seeded players that entered the quarter-final round to five. On account of today's holiday, the quarter-finals have been postponed until Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Fritts bowed to R. C. Hynson of the Princeton Club, 15—7, 15—7, and Reutter was vanquished by L. Strasser of the City A. C., 15—7, 15—8. Fritts was not playing in his usual good form and his wildness was costly. On the other hand, Hynson's volleying and half-volleying was of the highest order and he played a fine all-around game. Strasser displayed a consistently strong brand of squash in eliminating Reutter.

One of the hardest-fought matches of the round resulted in a victory for H. Van Gerbig of the Fraternity Club, seeded No. 8, over P. J. Cohalan of the New York A. C., 15—10, 18—16. Other seeded players to advance were C. J. Mason Jr. of the Harvard Club, E. Muller of the Princeton Club, L. H. Sonneborn of the Yale Club and A. S. Kuhn of the Crescent A. C.

THE SUMMARIES.

Fourth Round.

H. P. Cole, Fraternity Club, defeated A. T. Mahan, Yale Club, 15—4, 15—6; L. H. Sonneborn, Yale Club, defeated J. Davidson, Yale Club, 15—12, 15—10; C. J. Mason Jr., Harvard Club, defeated D. D. Dibbell, Yale Club, 15—12, 15—12; A. S. Kuhn, Crescent A. C., defeated O. C. Stanton, Harvard Club, 15—5, 15—7.

L. Strasser, City A. C., defeated R. H. Reutter, Columbia University Club, 15—7, 15—8; R. C. Hynson, Princeton Club, defeated J. Fritts, Montclair A. C., 15—7, 15—7; E. Muller, Princeton Club, defeated A. M. Thompson, Park Avenue Squash Club, 15—7, 15—8; H. Van Gerbig, Fraternity Club, defeated P. J. Cohalan, New York A. C., 15—10, 18—16.

Hagenlacher Beats Hammer.

Eric Hagenlacher defeated Herbert Hammer, 250 to 114 in seven innings, in the second and final block of their 500-point 18.2 balkline match at Dwyer's Brooklyn Academy last night. Hagenlacher scored 500 points to 192 for Hammer in the two sessions.

N. Y. U. IN FRONT AT HALF

Leads, 15-12, After Trailing Twice During First Period—11th Triumph for the Victors.

The New York University basketball team defeated the Fordham five in the annual game between these schools in the Fordham gymnasium last night by a score of 27 to 17.

This is the second straight year the Violet has triumphed over the Maroon, as last year N. Y. U. won by a count of 32 to 15. That setback was the only one suffered by Fordham in the course of the season.

Some 3,500 fans saw the Violet completely baffle the Maroon with its floor work that brought a steady stream of baskets in the second half after a lead of 15 to 12 in the opening chapter. It was N. Y. U.'s eleventh triumph this season and Jerry Nemecek, the football captain contributed a conspicuous part, being high scorer with eight points.

Fordham threatened in the first half after drawing even and forging ahead twice, but a closing rally ended the first half with N. Y. U. maintaining the advantage. Weiss on the attack and Parker's defensive play spiked the N. Y. U. advance at intervals.

Score Is Tied at 7—7.

After Coach Kelleher had supplanted his starting line-up with four regulars, the Fordham attack took form and the Maroon gradually overcame the lead that N. Y. U. had from the opening of the game. Weiss's fine shot reduced N. Y. U.'s advantage to 6—4. Mulligan then caged a foul after Lefft had scored one for the Violet. Then came the goal that evened the score for the first time as Hurley flipped in a basket to make the tally 7—7.

Bringing a thundering cheer from the crowd, Mulligan sent Fordham into the van by dropping in his free toss. From that moment Fordham swept down the court in a concentrated attack, but with both teams struggling for the ball. A double foul resulted, and though Hurley missed his, Lefft's dropped into the basket to bring the score even again at 8—8. Once more Hurley sent Fordham ahead after Mulligan had dribbled half the length of the court, but Nemecek evened the count a few seconds later. N. Y. U.'s football captain-elect followed this with another goal and Werner scored on a foul.

Mulligan added to Fordham's tally with a goal from the floor, and the half ended in spectacular fashion as Newblatt's try dropped into the basket to put N. Y. U. in front, 15—12.

Nemecek, Hurt, Recovers.

Nemecek was slightly hurt as he went down in a melee in the second half and after several minutes' delay went back into the game and shot the two fouls allowed him. Lefft made the score 19 to 12 with his foul shot.

Anglim of Fordham went in at guard, Parker moving to centre, taking Hurley's place. A field goal by Schulman sent the Violet still further ahead at 21 to 12 and N. Y. U. kept a safe margin to the end.

YALE CUBS TRIUMPH OVER PRINCETON FIVE

Tiger Freshmen Rally in Second Half, but Fall Before Blue Quintet, 28 to 23.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 21.—The Yale freshman basketball team avenged last year's defeat tonight when it defeated the Princeton cub quintet, 28—23, in their annual engagement. The Eli cubs got off to a fast start to lead, 21—10, at half time, a lead which the Tiger rally in the second half was unable to overcome.

Michigan and Yale Teams To Meet in Swim March 31

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 21 (AP).—The University of Michigan athletic authorities today announced that the Michigan swimming team, Big Ten champions last year, would meet Yale at New Haven on March 31. Michigan will send a team to the national collegiate meet at Cambridge, Mass., March 28 and 29, and the squad will continue to New Haven for the tank battle.

C. C. N. Y. FIVE BEATS CARNEGIE, 45 TO 28

Lavender Team Gets Jump at the Start in Basketball Game in Home Gymnasium.

LEADS AT THE HALF, 29-14

Musicant, De Phillips and Trupin Lead Attack—Merton Stars at Centre for Rival Contingent.

In a game in which forty-one fouls were called, City College conquered the Carnegie Institute of Technology basketball team last night at the C. C. N. Y. gymnasium before a crowd of 1,100 fans, 45 to 28.

It was the Skibos' second defeat on their current tour, the Army having conquered them last Wednesday. It was City College's eleventh victory in thirteen starts and its third straight triumph since it lost to Manhattan last month. At half-time City College led, 29 to 14.

Excepting for the first part of the second period, when Carnegie rallied strongly to draw within nine points of the Lavender, C. C. N. Y. had little trouble downing the team from Pittsburgh.

Despite the absence of Nat Holman from the coaching bench, the C. C. N. Y. players set a fast clip, passing well and also shooting accurately.

Arthur Musicant, left-handed C. C. N. Y. guard, had his best night of the season to take high-scoring honors with five field goals and four fouls, for a total of fourteen points. Ralph Merton, Skibo centre, scored thirteen points, while Frank De Phillips, the Lavender pivot, accounted for twelve. Captain Louis Spindell, in addition to playing a splendid defensive game for City College, also added ten points to his team's scoring total.

C. C. N. Y. made seventeen free tries in twenty-three attempts. Carnegie Tech scored on only six of eighteen chances.

COLGATE OVERWHELMS BROWN QUINTET, 58-28

Winners Early Take Lead From Losers and Use Substitute Team in the Second Half.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 21.—Colgate's basketball team played a whirlwind game against Brown tonight and swamped the Bears 58 to 28. Brown made a gallant effort in the first five minutes and held on 8 to 4 lead, but Colgate soon struck its stride and ended the half with the score 32 to 9.

In the second half a substitute team had Brown beaten all the way. Snyder, with 13 points, was high scorer for Brown. Peckham, Sullivan, Capes and Peckham starred for Colgate.

Yale Crews Hold First Workout Outdoors; Three Varsity Eights Drill for Two Hours

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 21.—Yale oarsmen left the gymnasium rowing tank today for their first outdoor work. Coach Ed Leader took three varsity crews upon the harbor earlier than in any recent season. He found weather ideal for rowing, the Quinnipac River free of ice, and kept the eights at work for two hours. He said tonight that the squad would practice regularly outdoors unless driven back by cold and storm. He boated the three eights as follows:

First—Bow, Anthony; No. 2, Goodale; No. 3, McCalmont; No. 4, Garnsey; No. 5, Childs; No. 6, Rogers; No. 7, Blagdon; stroke, Tappen; coxswain, Kitchell.

Second—Bow, Williams; No. 2, Cushier; No. 3, Mosle; No. 4, Manuel; No. 5, Currie; No. 6, Brewster; No. 7, Turner; stroke, Palmer; coxswain, Conger.

Third—Bow, J. Blagdon; No. 2, Early; No. 3, Knott; No. 4, Esselystyn; No. 5, Ladd; No. 6, Littell; No. 7, Foster; stroke, Auchincloss; coxswain, Gillespie.

Woodruff Tappen, who stroked the first eight, set the pace for the junior varsity last June, but two years ago he stroked the first eight. Arthur Palmer, who stroked the second eight today, was varsity stroke last Spring. He played football the past Fall.

Gus Blagdon Jr., son of the Yale crew captain in 1901, rowed No. 7 last year. Rogers, son of James Gamble Rogers, famous architect, rowed No. 6 on the second eight last Spring. Childs was at No. 5 in the combination eight at New London last June. Garnsey was No. 4 in the varsity last season and McCalmont was No. 3 in the regular eight. Goodale, who fills the seat made vacant by the graduation of Captain Cushman, was No. 6 in the freshmen shell. Anthony rowed No. 7 in the combination crew and Kitchell was coxswain of the freshmen eight.

Brewster, Mosle and Palmer pulled the No. 6, the stroke and bow oars in the varsity race against Harvard last year. Turner, No. 7 on the second crew, rowed the same position last year and Currie, Manuel and Cussler were in the first freshman eight. Williams, bow oar of the second shell, was a member of the third freshman boat last year.

PRINCETON TO MEET YALE SIX TONIGHT

Tigers to Oppose Rivals on Home Rink in Second Contest of the Series.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 21.—The Princeton hockey team will engage in its second game this season with the Yale sextet here tomorrow night. The Orange and Black aggregation lost the first contest to the Elis last Saturday night, 4 to 2.

Coach Pudge Neidlinger has been putting his men through extensive workouts during the past week in preparation for the game tomorrow night. Last Wednesday the Tigers defeated Cornell, 6 to 0, and have been putting forth a particular effort to bolster their attack.

Although the Yale sextet is favored to win, the Tigers are encouraged by the fact that they were able to hold the Elis to a 2-point margin last week.

The Tiger line-up will include Mal McAlpin at centre, while Doc Cook and Bill Barber will hold down the wing assignments. The defense combination of Captain Babe Adams and Bob Livingston will try to stop the Yale attack, while Hank Pennypacker, veteran Tiger goalie, will be on hand to protect the cage.

YALE FIVE TO MEET PRINCETON TODAY

Contest at New Haven Feature of Twelve Contests Scheduled for Alumni Day.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 21.—Yale will meet Princeton tomorrow afternoon at basketball in the chief athletic event of the program of twelve contests scheduled for Yale Alumni Day, which will bring together about 1,000 graduates.

A place in the first division in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League race is at stake. Columbia and Pennsylvania will fight it out for first place, while Princeton and Yale will struggle for third.

Princeton won the first game at Princeton by a slender margin, but Yale is considered a slight favorite to win tomorrow.

Coach Elmer Ripley said tonight that Ed Horwitz, the league's high scorer, and Albie Booth, all-around athletic star, would be started at forward, with Stewart Patterson at centre and Captain Nanry and Johnny Beyer, baseball captain, at guard. He will use as reserves Al Beane, Dick Schane and Townsend as forwards, Freeman and Pennell at centre and McGowan at guard.

YALE'S POLO TEAM LOSES IN THE WEST

Eastern College Combination Meets Defeat in Cincinnati by Score of 14½ to 12.

ELIS GET LEAD AT START

Riding Club Stages a Rally and Gives Yale Its First Defeat of Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 21.—After outriding and outscoring the Cincinnati Riding Club team for three chukkers tonight, the Yale trio succumbed, 14½ to 12, in the most thrilling match played here this season.

Going into the final chukker on the short end of a 11 to 10½ score, the local team, led by Harry Hake Jr. and Harrison B. Smith, turned the tide by scoring four goals and holding the visitors to one. The match was so thrilling that the unusually large crowd stood practically throughout the contest. It was the first defeat of the season for Yale.

Tomorrow night the Riding Club trio takes on the Harvard team in what promises to be another close encounter. Yale matched the local team goal for goal in the first chukker and in the second rode rings around the Riding Club to tally 5 points against 2½.

In the third chukker the Cincinnatians again fell into stride and registered five times to three for the collegians.

The line-up:

Riding Club (14½).	Yale (12).

HARVARD POLO TRIO LOSES IN CLEVELAND

Fights Hard but Bows to First Cavalry Indoor Team by 17½-to-13 Margin.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 21.—A fighting, hard-riding Harvard indoor polo team went down to defeat tonight at the hands of the crack Cleveland First Cavalry trio, 17½ to 13.

The Crimson had a seven-goal handicap and for two chukkers it looked as though the green Harvard team was going to make the most of its handicap and score a victory. The troopers finally got their mallets on the ball in the third chukker and tallied seven goals to wipe out the handicap and forge to the front.

The line-up:

Cavalry (17½).	Harvard (13).

Davis's Daughter and Niece Triumph in Manila Tennis

MANILA, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Misses Alice and Alita Davis, respectively daughter and niece of Dwight F. Davis, Governor General of the Philippines and donor of the famous tennis cup, played today in their opening matches of the Philippine National Tennis Tournament. Miss Alice Davis defeated Maria Delpan, 6—0, 6—1, while Miss Alita defeated Mrs. Zimmerman, 6—3, 6—4.

YALE BEATS M. I. T. IN SWIM, 46 TO 16

Sweeps All Events Except the 200-Yard Team Relay in Meet at New Haven.

MESSIMER IN FAST TIME

Triumphs in the 50-Yard Dash in 0:24 3-5—Eli Tankmen Display Excellent Form.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 21.—Yale outscored Massachusetts Institute of Technology swimmers, 46 to 16, tonight in the Carnegie Pool. The visitors captured only one event, the 200 yards team relay, in which they led by inches throughout. They won a single second, when Lykes almost tied Godchaux in the fancy dive. Messimer of Yale displayed the fastest form of the evening in winning the fifty-yard event in 24 3-5 seconds. Yale showed excellent form in all its victories.

Torchio's all-round swimming featured the M. I. T. competition. He competed and scored in three events, being anchor in the relay, and taking third place in the 50-yard and the 100-yard races. Jarosh of Technology was third in the 440-yard free style and the back stroke races.

No Yale entrant competed in more than in one event. Several Yale first string swimmers were absent.

THE SUMMARIES.

50-Yard Dash—Won by Messimer, Yale; Butler, Yale, second; Torchio, Technology, third. Time—0:24 3-5.

440-Yard Swim—Won by Owen, Yale; Hardenburg, Yale, second; Jarosh, Technology, third. Time—5:34 4-5.

150-Yard Back Stroke—Won by Paine, Yale; Howse, Yale, second; Jarosh, Technology, third. Time—1:53.

Fancy Dive—Won by Godchaux, Yale; Lykes, Technology, second; J. Manuel, Yale, third. Winner's points, 72.1.

100-Yard Swim—Won by C. Leedy, Yale; Moon, Yale, second; Torchio, Technology, third. Time—0:57 2-5.

200-Yard Breast Stroke—Tie between Fessenden and Partington, both of Yale; Appleton, Technology, third. Time—2:53 1-5.

200-Yard Relay—Won by Technology (Lutz, Teague, Baker, Torchio); second, Yale (Swoope, Goldfield, Burdick, Jarcho). Time—1:46 2-5.

8 NAVY CREWS HOLD WORK OUT IN THE OPEN

Unusually Good Conditions Make Outdoor Drills Possible—Only One Change.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 21.—Unusually fine weather conditions for this season of the year have made it possible for the Navy crews under Dick Glendon and Lieutenant Walsh to take to the open water every day this week. This afternoon eight crews were on the water, an unusual feature for this time of the year.

It is hoped that conditions will be such that there will be very little necessity for return to the tank.

Since Glendon first boated his crews this season he has made only one change in his varsity crew, that being merely a shifting of two oarsmen. Jung, who had been rowing at No. 5, and Shelton, at No. 7, have been changed around. Jung is one of the most experienced of the Navy oarsmen this year and an excellent man to give the stroke to the starboard side.

COACH BAN CALLED FOOLISH BY YOST

Writes in Yale Daily News That No Mentor Can Run Game From the Bench.

PLACES RELIANCE IN TEAM

Declares Aim of Instructors Is to Teach Players to Depend on Own Initiative.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 21.—Fielding H. Yost, athletic director and former football coach at the University of Michigan, said in The Yale Daily News yesterday that the talk of banishing coaches from the sidelines and baseball dugouts was all foolishness. He believes that, if there is a way to ruin an athletic game, it consists of the coach mixing up the players' and captain's plans. The idea of a good coach is one who will teach his captains and players to run their own game. Mr. Yost said in part:

"I have been hearing and reading a great deal of reformers' talk about sending the football coaches up into the grandstand seats and giving the game back to the boys, but am not at all impressed.

"They say that coaches have been running the game from the bench. If they're right, I'm wrong, because in my opinion it can't be done. In my own work as coach I have never tried to direct plays and run the game; except that in the old days before it was regarded as unethical for coaches to do such things, I occasionally signaled the quarterback that I thought it time to kick out of danger.

"A team in action may in theory be run by the coach, working from the sidelines. If the coach should try ever so little to run the team in action, he would paralyze the initiative of the quarterback, who would not trust his own judgment and who would become utterly unreliable in quick emergencies. Any one should see that it would be plain foolishness to try to run a team that way.

"Give the game back to the boys? No one has ever taken it away from them. It is not only not necessary to banish the coaches to the stands; it would be silly as well. Do you think a coach who wanted to run the plays could be stopped just by sending him up to a stadium seat? If he were that kind of coach he could find plenty of ways to get his signals to the quarterback. You just cannot play with a crook."

PENN CREWS ON RIVER FOR THE FIRST TIME

First Three Eights Row Six Miles on Schuylkill After Callow Heeds Pleas.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—After listening to the pleadings of his Pennsylvania oarsmen to be taken outdoors for the last three days, Head Coach Russell Callow finally consented today and the first three crews made their season's début on the Schuylkill.

Callow originally had selected next Monday as the outdoor getaway, but when the thermometer registered 71 degrees this afternoon he was besieged with requests to quit the rowing machines. Callow gave in and twenty-four oarsmen and three coxswains were hurried by automobile to the boathouse in Fairmount Park. The crews rowed about six miles.

The boatings of the three crews that went on the water follow:

First Varsity—Bow, Ed Taeffner; 2, Dick Barnhart; 3, Victor Sheronas; 4, Charles Krampf; 5, Merwyn Grill; 6, John Weis; 7, Harold De Veau; stroke, Clark Thrasher; coxswain, Wilbur Trowbridge.

Second Varsity—Bow, William Johnson; 2, H. Davis; 3, Edward Jordan; 4, John Cadwalader; 5, Ken Edwards; 6, John Martin; 7, Philip Hofmann; stroke, Walter Voehringer; coxswain, M. W. Whitesell.

Third Varsity—Bow, Joseph Meehan; 2, Udell Brenner; 3, William D. Wilson; 4, Harry Sinnamon; 5, William Roth; 6, William C. Weeks; 7, Paul Backman; stroke, William Laskey; coxswain, W. M. Ware.

WILLIAMS SEXTET LOSES.

Bows to Boston University Team in Arena by 8-3.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—The Boston University sextet defeated Williams by 8 to 3 in the Arena tonight. Williams was no match for B. U. after the first period. The Terriers riddled the Berkshire defense throughout and Coach Wayland Vaughan used his entire squad before the end of the game.

The line-up:

Boston U. (8)		Williams (3)

N. Y. U. GIRLS WIN, 29-13.

Defeat the Upsala Team for Second Time This Season.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 21.—The New York University girls' basketball team scored its fourth victory of the season today by defeating the Upsala girls for the second time this year, 29—13. The visitors ran up a long lead in the first half and, although the Upsalans put up a stubborn fight in the second, they could not cut down the New Yorkers' margin.

The line-up:

N. Y. U. (29).		Upsala (13).

Vance Signed by Robins for One Year at $20,000; Yankees Go South

New York Contingent Due at St. Petersburg Sunday—To Work Out Monday.

DAZZY AGREES ON $20,000

Brooklyn Speed Ball King Contracts for Year in Phone Talk With York—Pay Cut $5,000.

The Yankees departed for camp last night at 6:40 o'clock from Penn Station aboard the Florida Limited. The station was crowded with departing passengers for all points and the Florida Limited was jammed—but not with ballplayers. There were only three Yankees leaving, though Road Secretary Mark Roth and Scout Paul Krichell of the Yanks had in tow a party numbering 22. But those besides the three players consisted of baseball writers and their wives, the two Yankee officials and Eddie Bennett, the veteran mascot of the club.

Freddie Heimach and Foster Edwards, left and right handed pitchers, respectively, and Bill Karlon, recruit catcher, composed the player end of the party. Baltimore was scheduled to add another to the party in the person of Pitcher Bill Henderson.

The departing players and experts are due in St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Yanks maintain their training camp, on Sunday morning. There they will be greeted by Manager Bob Shawkey and on Monday the entire squad in camp will get to work.

As things stand now, only Babe himself is outside of the Yankee fold. Negotiations for the signing of the home-run king have not been resumed since first broached some weeks ago when Babe refused to sign at the terms offered.

Agree on Terms.

One famous alleged holdout gave in yesterday. This was Dazzy Vance, star right handed speed merchant of the Brooklyn Robins. Dave Driscoll, secretary of the Brooklyn Club, announced that Vance, after a telephone conversation from his home at Crystal River, Fla., with President Frank York in Brooklyn, agreed to terms.

According to Driscoll the terms in the contract to which Vance agreed called for $20,000 a year for one year. This is a drop of $5,000 from the salary he received under his previous contract which had run for two years until its expiration at the end of last season.

Vance is expected to report to the Robins' training camp at Clearwater, Fla., on Monday. The signed contracts of Hollis Thurston and Austin (Cy) Moore, pitchers, were received at the office of the Brooklyn Club at Ebbets Field yesterday.

SCOTT TAKES TUMBLE FROM RING IN DRILL

Trips as Sparring Mate Lands a Glancing Blow, but Only His Dignity Is Damaged.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP).—Phil Scott, who seems to be pursued by a jinx in his preparations for the fifteen-round match with Jack Sharkey next Thursday night, was sent tumbling out of the ring today as the latest contribution to his series of minor mishaps.

Backing away from a wild, free swinging rush by Charley Hahn, New York middleweight, in the very first round of his sparring session, Scott partially tripped over the ring canvas. As he ducked, a glancing right hand blow threw him completely off balance and the lanky Briton tumbled through the lower ropes, his feet up in the air.

It was almost a duplicate of the famous stunt that Jack Dempsey performed when he was sent backward out of the ring by Luis Firpo. Phil managed to grasp the lower strand of rope, saving himself from possibly serious injury.

Except for the damage to his dignity, Scott clambered back unhurt and proceeded with his workout.

By contrast, Sharkey was not quite so impressive to the experts as usual in today's workout, which marked the virtual end of intensive ring activities by the Boston sailor. He was slower afoot than he has been and his punches did not have their customary snap, but his showing was not regarded as significant of anything except that he has had a slight let-down. He boxed only four rounds against Pierre Charles and Johnny Grosso.

"I figured I was due for an off day," said Sharkey afterward. "This was it." There seems no cause for criticism of Sharkey's general condition.

CHARLEY WHITE STOPPED.

Former Star Lightweight Fails in Comeback Attempt.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP).—Charley White, who came within a punch of winning the world's lightweight championship on three distinct occasions, was vanquished in two rounds by Henry Perlick, one of the fighting twins from Kalamazoo, Mich., at the Coliseum tonight.

White, attempting a comeback at 38 after seven years' absence from the ring was beaten into a state of collapse before a towel was tossed into the ring, acknowledging defeat of the once great lightweight championship contender. He was knocked to the floor four times.

The fight was promoted by Jack Dempsey, with gate receipts around $10,000.

The other of the fighting twins, Herman Perlick, was awarded an eight-round decision over Emory Cabana of Philadelphia.

International Football Games To Be Played in Britain Today

LONDON, Feb. 21 (Canadian Press).—The British Isles will bristle with international football games tomorrow. At Twickenham France has a chance to clinch the international rugby championship by defeating England. France has never won this honor and interest in the match is at fever heat on both sides of the Channel. France this season has defeated Scotland and Ireland, while England has been beaten by Ireland.

At Murrayfield, Scotland and Ireland hook up for an international rugby match. Scotland also will be the scene of the international soccer match between Scotland and Ireland.

M'GRAW'S NEW FIND, VELTMAN, REPORTS

Young Texan, Who Started as an Outfielder, Will Be Tried Behind the Bat.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 21.—Arthur Veltman, tall young Texan whose agility on a ball field made such a profound impression on John McGraw last Spring, reported to Dave Bancroft for duty today and at once became the object of considerable attention as the Giants bent to their labors for their fifth consecutive day. For Veltman is about to play a leading rôle in another one of McGraw's noble experiments in which the Giant chieftain, with the skill of a magician, lifts a young man out of one position, twists him around like a pretzel and brings him to light as a star in an entirely different position.

Nothing causes McGraw greater satisfaction than when success crowns one of these undertakings, for they seem to supply the last word in bringing a stinging rebuke upon those who sometimes cuttingly infer that McGraw cannot develop ball players as well as he can buy them ready made. Melvin Ott, it will be recalled, came to the Giants five years ago as a catcher 16 years old. Subsequently Ott was tried as an infielder and now has become the Giants' regular right fielder.

Veltman is due to traverse the field in the opposite direction. A San Antonio boy and product of the Texas League, he attached himself to the Giant camp here last Spring as an outfielder. His natural style and ability as a ball player pleased McGraw tremendously. He had a fine stance at bat, smacked the ball solidly and streaked over the ground like a greyhound.

But to his dismay McGraw detected several glaring defects in Veltman's outfielding. He seemed to experience difficulty in gauging the angles on low line drives, and going back for flies also caused him trouble.

Now, as impetuous as McGraw at times may appear to be, he has an abounding patience with a young man who he feels confident is a ball player. He also has a reasonable explanation for this.

"Why should it be taken for granted," he once said, "that a young fellow of 21 or 22 should know exactly what position he is best fitted for?"

Veltman was shipped to the Giant farm at Bridgeport, where he was placed under the care of John Lobert, who was instructed to correct, if possible, Veltman's faults afield. Apparently Lobert's corrective measures did not work out so well, for much of the season found Veltman playing third base and hitting .321.

HAVANA, Feb. 21.—John J. McGraw, accompanied by Mrs. McGraw and Fred Lindstrom, Giant third baseman, left here tonight for the San Antonio (Texas) Spring training camp. The McGraws spent the season here.

PRINCETON GYMNASTS DEFEAT M. I. T., 35-21

Claggett With Three First Places Shows Tiger Team the Way to Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 21.—Through the brilliant work of Claggett, the Princeton gymnastic team defeated M. I. T. today, 35 to 21. Claggett won three first places and he gave a very fine exhibition of handling himself on the bars and rings.

Captain Wells of Tech won one first place and finished second to Claggett on two occasions. Once he was third.

The summaries:

Rope Climb—Won by Sidur, Tech.; Miller, Princeton, and Barnett, Tech., tied for second; Howe, Princeton, fourth.

SCHAAF BEATS CHRISTNER.

Gains Decision in Ten-Round Bout in Boston.

BOSTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, squared accounts with K. O. Christner of Akron, Ohio, by gaining a close decision tonight in the ten-round contest. Schaaf weighed 202 pounds and Christner was seven pounds lighter. The latter won when they clashed here several months ago.

Both slugged from bell to bell. Christner scored with heavy rights to the head, while Schaaf sent over many stinging lefts.

Stribling Outpoints Corri.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP).—Pietro Corri, 193, of Austria, forced W. L. (Young) Stribling, 189, Macon, Ga., to go ten rounds to gain a decision tonight in the ten-round main bout at Benjamin Field. Corri knocked Stribling to his haunches in the ninth ronud.

LATZO OUTPOINTS JOHNSON IN GARDEN

Former Welterweight Champion Scores Upset as 13,000 Fans Look On.

CONRAD ALSO IS WINNER

Defeats McCorgary in Thrilling Contest in Which Each Boxer Connects for 2 Knockdowns.

Pete Latzo, breaker boy from the coal mines of Pennsylvania who rose to the welterweight championship of the world, contributed one of the greatest upsets of the indoor boxing season when he defeated Larry Johnson, hard-hitting Chicagoan, in the main bout of ten rounds at Madison Square Garden last night. Latzo, competing now as a light-heavyweight, asserted himself forcefully into the foremost group of contenders for the crown vacated last July by Tommy Loughran.

The former champion, bringing into play all his generalship gleaned from his long campaign in the ring, broke up Johnson's attacks time and again and earned the votes of Judge George Kelly and Referee Jimmy Crowley. Joe Agnello, the other judge, voted for Johnson.

A crowd of 13,000 saw Latzo score his triumph. Latzo forced Johnson to miss repeatedly all through the fray and never once allowed the Chicago entry to land with his heavy right in a vulnerable spot. Latzo weighed 173 pounds and Johnson 174.

Latzo walked into Johnson at the start and tagged the latter with a hard right to the jaw in the early session. Johnson proved overanxious and was unable to solve Latzo's crouching style with any effect.

Johnson sought in vain to find Latzo's jaw in the second, and left himself open frequently after missing long right swings. The former welterweight champion took advantage of these occasions to score several times with rights to the body. Johnson attempted to outbox Latzo in the third and made several efforts toward drawing the latter in close. Latzo, however, held his rival's arms and discounted Johnson's tactics by centring upon the latter's midsection.

Mix Things in Fourth.

They mixed willingly in the fourth, Latzo scoring with a stiff left to the face and Johnson retaliating with several rights to the head and body.

The next session saw Johnson launch a furious attack that forced Latzo to retreat steadily. The Chicago boxer landed several times with a solid left to the jaw.

Latzo drew cheers from the crowd by taking the play away from Johnson in the sixth. The former champion subjected his opponent to a heavy two-fisted body attack and made the latter retreat. In the seventh Latzo puzzled Johnson with his crouched defense and forced the Chicago battler to miss often. Latzo meanwhile stabbed Johnson with solid lefts to the head.

Latzo held considerably in the eighth round and refused to allow Johnson to set himself prior to delivering his right.

Latzo Goes Into Clinch.

Latzo clinched for the greater part of the ninth round, but staged a furious spurt after he was shaken by Johnson's left. He crashed a hard left to Johnson's jaw and followed the latter about the ring until the end of the round.

Johnson hurt Latzo with a hard left hook to the jaw at the start of the tenth round and forced the latter to sag to one knee. The Pennsylvanian hooked a left to the jaw, but was met by a volley of lefts and rights in return. Both men fought furiously at the final bell.

Doc Conrad of Newark carried off the decision over Babe McCorgary, Oklahoma cowboy, in a thrilling ten-round semi-final. The struggle was replete with action. Each boxer scored two knockdowns, but Conrad's cleaner boxing earned him the award. The weights were 164½ for Conrad and 166¾ for his rival.

Vince Dundee of Newark received the decision over Bucky Lawless, Auburn (N. Y.) welterweight, in the first ten-rounder. A late rally enabled Dundee to garner the decision. The winner weighed 154¾ against Lawless's 149½.

Oscar Goldman, local featherweight, defeated Joe Calderon of the Philippines in a fast six-rounder. Goldman's straighter punching and steadier boxing brought him the award. The winner weighed 124 and his rival 121½.

The opening four-rounder was won by Al Palladino of Jersey City, who outpointed Tony Crusco of Harlem.

10,000 SEE WHALEN GAIN GUARD TITLE

Defeats Aldare, Champion, to Win Middleweight Crown in Armory Bout.

Eddie (Kid) Whalen, 153 pounds, of the Fourteenth Infantry, became the new possessor of the Haskell Belt, emblematic of the middleweight championship of the New York National Guard, by defeating Jackie Aldare, 158, of the 106th Infantry, the champion, who defended his title for the first time last night since winning it a month ago.

Whalen, employing a fast left hand, managed to outspeed the champion in a majority of the rounds to gain the verdict. The fight was staged at the 106th Infantry Armory before a record attendance of 10,000.

In the semi-final Jackie Tanneyhill, 128, of the 369th Infantry stepped eight fast rounds to earn a draw with Frankie Neve, 131½, of the home regiment. In another eight Frankie Marino, 133, of the Fourteenth Regiment outpointed Jimmie Jerome, 129, of the Thirteenth Coast Defense Corps.

In the opening four, Marty Rogen, 120, of Fort Wadsworth, Regular Army, was awarded the verdict over Carmine Esposito, 122½, of the Fourteenth Infantry. Frankie Covelli, 125½, of the 106th, hammered out a verdict over Jack Silvers, 125, his regimental stablemate, in a four-rounder. Jack Diamond, 126, of the Fourteenth Regiment, knocked out Al Dunbar, 128, of the 106th Infantry, in forty seconds of the third round of a scheduled six.

SKI RACE ANNEXED BY MAGNUS SATRE

Cross Country Champion Takes 18-Kilometer Event at Lake Placid Club.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE PLACID CLUB, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Magnus Satre, Norwegian ski runner representing the Salisbury Outing Club of Connecticut, today showed the same speed and skill that have kept him national cross-country ski champion for the past two years. Starting last in a field of sixteen fleet runners from clubs of the United States, Canada, Germany and Austria, he led his rivals by more than 3 minutes in the 18-kilometer race, despite the fact that he had to take time out to adjust his ski binding after a fall.

Birger Torrison of the Norway Ski Club of New York was second and Otto Steinhauser of Deutscher Ski Verband of Germany was less than a minute behind Torrison. Ottar Satre, younger brother of Magnus, was in fourth place, while the elder brother, Johann was eighth.

MRS. ILCH'S DOGS SCORE IN BOSTON

Collie Exhibitor Takes Both Winners, Best of Winners and Best of Breed.

FINE ENTRY OF POINTERS

Champion Herewithem J. P. Best of Breed—Honors Won by Stones's Scottish Terriers.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Another representative gathering of fanciers of thoroughbred dogs crowded the new Boston Garden all day and evening today for the second day of the eighteenth annual exhibition of the Eastern Dog Club. Many more of the popular breeds were judged and the rings were surrounded by enthusiastic fanciers, while the exhibition hall was crowded.

A Boston innovation that has pleased both officials and exhibitors is the additional space provided at the head of each ring, in which handlers and dogs await the calling of the following classes. Benches are provided, beside which are the boards carrying the numbers and arm bands. By this method the exhibitors can rest quietly with their charges, instead of lingering about the aisles in the midst of the spectators who are watching the judging.

One of the most notable series of victories of the show to date was that by Mrs. Florence B. Ilch of Red Bank, N. J., with her wonderful string of collies, duplicating her success in Madison Square Garden a week ago. Mrs. Ilch had the winner in seven classes among the dogs and six classes among the bitches, taking winners dogs, winners bitches, best of winners and best of breed.

Duplicates New York Triumph.

As might have been expected, Lucason of Ashtead Bellhaven duplicated his New York triumph. The brother of the winner of best of all last year at Westminster and by many considered a better representative of the breed, went right through from the limit class to winners dogs, best of winners and best of breed. Best of the bitches was Mrs. Ilch's novice, Bellhaven Lady Loveliness, another homebred.

It is interesting to note in this connection that some of the Bostonians had felt that the New York fanciers had not supported the Eastern Dog Club as well as Bostonians had responded to Westminster's invitation.

One of the Boston sportswomen started to figure it out, with the rather startling result that it was an exact toss-up. There were ninety-three Boston exhibitors in Madison Square Garden and there are here this week ninety-three New York kennels.

Scotties have been steadily gaining ground among the terriers and there was a fine representation here today for Henry D. Bixby of Huntington, L. I., to pass upon. Mr. Bixby knows his scotties and did not hesitate to pick what he liked. He upset some New York decisions, sending to the top the very fine bitch, Ornsay Bracken of Wyreston, owned by Mr. and Mrs. I. Stanley Stone of Milwaukee.

Also Shows Winning Dog.

She is a golden brindle, with a grand, long head, correct ear carriage, plenty of bone and showed beautifully under the handling of Mrs. Stone. The latter also showed the winning dog in Broxton Bunkum of Wyrestone. There was some competition for best of breed, Ornsay Bracken defeating, among others, his kennel mate, Champion Ornsay June of Wyreston, winner at Westminster two years ago.

Delf Discriminate of Pine Grade, the New York winner among the sealyhams, was an absentee here today. W. Ross Proctor Jr. of New York City had a fine entry of the game and attractive little terriers and found his best in Ch. Windygae Dandy, owned bby the Shelterfield Kennels of W. Fitch Ingersoll of Buzzards Bay, Mass. He defeated the best of winners, his kennel mate, Ch. Burnholme Bojum, which was reserve to Delf Discriminate in Madison Square Garden.

Ch. Herewithem J. P. returned to the battle today and once more went best of breed in a fine entry of pointers. The famous son of Ch. Stylish Mac never looked in better show form and, as is his custom, posed in the ring like a bronze statue. There was a good attendance of sporting dog fanciers during the day while the various breeds in this group were being judged.

Frank Addyman had an entry of twenty-eight pointers and among the dogs in the regular classes he sent Fern Bank Major to the top over Augustus B. Field's Tiverton Breeze. Mr. Field, who comes from Sterlington, N. Y., had the winning bitch in Fieldstone Coronet, which was placed over Mr. Maloney's Felicity of Ardagh. Colonel and Mrs. Guggenheim's bitch, best at New York, was no better than third in the open class. Fieldstone Coronet defeated the winning dog for best of winners and in turn was beaten by Mr. Maloney's champion for best of breed.

NEW UTRECHT LOSES IN SCHOLASTIC MEET

Finishes Fourth in Elks Games at 13th Regiment Armory—First Defeat Since 1926.

TWO TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

Manual and Lawrenceville Even With 20 Points—Clinton Takes Third—Petkiewicz Easy Victor.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY.

The perennial sway of New Utrecht in scholastic track circles came to a close at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory in Brooklyn last night. With its championship forces sadly depleted by graduation, the Bensonhurst team that was undefeated since 1926, saw its victorious string snap completely on the occasion of the fourth annual Elks interscholastic games as not one but three teams surpassed the scoring powers of Coach Barney Hyman's combination.

Rushing through with a first place in the one-mile relay event, the last test on the program, Manual Training overhauled the Lawrenceville School aggregation, the New Jersey State champions, to tie for team honors with twenty points each. But it was not even in third place that New Utrecht finally landed.

De Witt Clinton captured second honors in that same mile relay to hurdle New Utrecht for third place laurels. Clinton registered 14 points to 12 for the Bensonhust team.

On one basis of scoring Eddie Dittberner's Manual team actually won the meet since the Brooklyn schoolboys had three first places to two for the New Jersey youngsters, but no official verdict in this regard was forthcoming from the meet officials.

Weinstein and Bianchi Win.

Manual's first places were tallied by George Weinstein, in the century; John Bianchi in the half and by the team of Ed Gisbourne, Walter Jones, Maxwell Hamilton and Mike McCormack in the mile relay. The Blue and Gold would have won without any discussion at all if Ed Manning had been granted a third place in the quarter mile. Manning was actually third, but was disqualified for jostling on the turns.

Only twice did the New Utrecht cheering section break forth in noisy appreciation. The first was when Stanislaw Petkiewicz of Poland won by nearly three-quarters of a lap from Nat Lerner of N. Y. U. in a special 3,000-meter run, an added attraction. The second and more lusty demonstration was accorded Phil Merriam of New Utrecht as he scored the only Bensonhurst triumph of the night by winning the 600-yard novice run.

Petkiewicz won, as was expected, and his time was nothing extraordinary inasmuch as it was 23 3-5 seconds behind Paavo Nurmi's world's record. The Warsaw law student was clocked in 8:50 after making a complete runaway of the two-man race in the last five laps.

Champion Is Defeated.

There was only one of the newly crowned P. S. A. L. champions engaged in the evening's competition, and even he failed to triumph. He was Emil Bonavita of New Utrecht, the shotput titleholder, who bowed to Herman Kertscher of Lawrenceville, the New Jersey champion. The Bensonhurst team had three champions crowned at the P. S. A. L. meet, but Bernie Krosney and Arthur Katz, two big point scorers in sprints and relays, were graduated, stripping New Utrecht of ten sure points.

TRIED NUMEROUS REMEDIES

Expresses Appreciation to Kellogg Company for Relief

If you are troubled with constipation, this letter from Mr. John J. Mulligan, 300 So. Cicero Avenue, Chicago, Ill., will interest you:

"This is simply a letter of appreciation for the wonderful results I have obtained through the use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"For years, in fact ever since my return from France, I have been troubled with constipation and its companion ills. I tried numerous remedies in vain. Finally in desperation, not wishing to be a slave to laxatives all my life, I turned to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The results were remarkable and quick—in fact the next day long-hoped-for relief became a happy reality."

The Kellogg Company has received thousands of similar letters in praise of ALL-BRAN, the product that is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

It also adds needed iron to the diet and builds health.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream . . . in soups, salads and fruit juices . . . in cooked foods and hot breads. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Miami Feature Is Captured by Sun Worship; Morsnuff, 15 to 1, Also Triumphs

SUN WORSHIP FIRST BY 4-LENGTH MARGIN

Triumphs in Easy Fashion Over Maiden's Tryst in Feature Race at Miami.

MORSNUFF, 15 TO 1, SCORES

Long Shot Beats Dark Simon, Even Money Favorite, in 2d Race—Workman Gets Double.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21.—Sonny Workman, who scored a triple yesterday, added a double at Hialeah Park today, and one of his two winning rides was in the feature race. Workman piloted Sun Worship, a 4-year-old Arden Farm racer, and won by four lengths in easy fashion from a field of eight others. Maiden's Tryst was second and Focus a length and a half back of her to be third. Workman's other score was with Letalone in the curtain raiser. The result gave Sun Worship three victories out of four Miami starts, but his triumph this afternoon was by far the easiest he has had here. Breaking smartly, Workman rushed him into the lead. Overhead, in closest pursuit of the early pace, stopped very fast in the stretch and Maiden's Tryst came on to be the contender.

Under 113½ pounds, Sun Worship ran the five and a half furlongs in 1:05 3-5. He was the 9-to-5 favorite and was backed down from 2 to 1. False Pride carried top weight of 118 pounds and finished fourth.

Workman had a very different kind of time with Letalone. He barely got the son of Chicle and Margin up to win by a nose in the last stride from Sport Hallahan, a 12-to-1 shot. Letalone was the 9-to-5 second choice. Our Own was third and Igor, 6-to-5 favorite, finished fourth out of eleven starters. Sport Hallahan had led until he was overtaken and beaten by Letalone.

Morsnuff, the son of Morvich, which was well known last year on the Metropolitan tracks, sprang a surprise when he came home an easy winner at 15 to 1 in the second race. He beat Dark Simon, the even-money favorite, [illegible] the last furlong of a mile and a sixteenth claiming test.

Argentinian Team to Compete In Meadow Brook Title Polo

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21 (AP).—Argentina's polo team, which won the Pacific Coast open championship recently, has accepted the invitation of the National Polo Association to compete in the international championships, to be held at Meadow Brook next September, it was announced today.

The Argentinians will return to South America, but will leave their mounts here. The ponies will be shipped to New York when the team returns in the Fall. The rough sea voyage to Los Angeles left the ponies in poor condition for the Winter matches here. The Argentinians play the New York Hurricanes here Sunday.

GOLDEN WEST WINS IN DRIVING FINISH

Goldblatt's Entry Captures Debutantes' Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP).—In a driving finish, Golden West, from the stable of Mose Goldblatt, won the Débutantes Claiming Handicap, the feature attraction on the Fair Grounds program today. Roy Gibson, from the Reuter Stable, was second, and Mrs. E. J. Uhlein's Broad Axe was third. Earl of Warwick was the only other starter. The winner, the favorite, paid $5.30 for a $2 mutuel ticket. Jockey Kenneth Russell had the mount.

Redcliffe from the Black Dot Stable won the New Orleans Elks' allowances trophy. Mrs. R. Pollard's Gold Mint, the favorite, was second, and the Southland Stable's My Hobby third. The winner paid $16.40. The race was a six-furlong dash for 3-year-olds and upward, and the time was 1:13 3-5. Redcliffe won by a head.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

THE amateur detective stepped out of the elevator at the eighteenth floor of the Lincoln Hotel, took the first turn to the right and bumped into a tall young fellow who was nonchalantly leaning against the wall by an open door.

"Say," whispered the amateur detective, "lend a hand, will you? There's been a lot of trouble around this town. Some of our favorite local hockey players have been spread all over the ice time and again by a miscreant from over the border. Thousands of our best people are indignant. This fellow slips down from Canada, does a fearful amount of damage in Madison Square Garden and then dashes away again before anybody can untangle the wreckage. It's got to stop. There's a public demand for this fellow's scalp as a trophy and fragments of his ribs as souvenirs. The tip came in that he's right here somewhere. Have you noticed a wicked-looking fellow around with murder in his eye?"

"No," said the tall young man, languidly.

"He's a desperado," said the amateur detective. "His name is Stewart—Nels Stewart of the Montreal Maroons."

"Yeah?" very languidly, "My name is Stewart."

Not the Type.

"What? You don't look wicked. You look like George Pipgras of the Yankees. He's the most peaceful fellow in the world. If you're Stewart, where's your knife?"

"Don't carry a knife."

"Well, where's your blackjack?"

"Never saw one."

"This can't be true. You can't be Stewart. According to what the hockey fans say, if you were Stewart, you'd be breaking all the furniture in the hotel and throwing people out of windows."

"Aw, Mr. Lincoln wouldn't like that. And I'm very quiet, anyway."

"What about the attempted murder of Ching Johnson the last time the Maroons played the Rangers? Answer the charge as read."

"Come in and sit down. Say, that's good. I was standing in the back of the penalty box talking to Jack Filman about my father's trip to New York last Summer when Bun Cook and Dave Trottier start fussing. Bun's stick comes down past Johnson's head and my own and the first thing I know I get a fine crack on the jaw from Ching. Then, I started, but I never got anywhere. Everybody jumped in. It was just a pushing match."

Getting His Record.

"What drove you to such a wicked life? Where were you born? How old are you? How tall are you? How much do you weigh? Answer yes or no."

"Born in Montreal. Twenty-nine years old. About six feet. Weigh 194, a bit too much. Don't get enough exercise."

"Don't joke, young man. You are up on serious charges."

"It's a fact. They've got so many substitutes these days a fellow doesn't get enough work to keep him at fighting weight."

"Was it in Montreal that you picked up all these wicked practices—mayhem, assault and battery on skates and attempted manslaughter?"

"In Toronto. I was brought up in Toronto. Went to school there. Played with Conacher there—or rather, played against him. Say, I played against Ching in the old days around St. Paul and Duluth. We've been bumping up against each other for years. He sure has hard luck. Nice fellow, Ching."

Retaliation.

"He picked you as all-star centre. Here's your chance to retaliate."

"I sure would pick him for an all-star defense if he wasn't injured. How could you keep from picking him?"

"He picked five Boston players to round out his all-star team. Would you do that? Of course, his own team was barred and so is yours when you're doing the picking."

"Five from Boston? No, sir! I'd picked Hitchman for the defense for one and maybe Clapper on the left wing. They feed the rubber to Clapper up there, and he scores a lot of goals. But I'd as soon have Howie Morenz with, say, Bill Cook on the other wing. Centre is hard to pick. Frankie Boucher, I guess. Then, King Clancy for the other defense and either Chuck Gardiner or Roy Worters in the nets."

"Who is the fastest player on the ice?"

"Howie Morenz, but I think Babe Seibert would beat him in a straight race."

"Who is the hardest to stop?"

"Conacher. He just walks into you, and there's nothing you can do about it. You might as well hit a wall as bump him."

The Final Clue.

"Do you play any sports other than hockey?"

"Sure. Baseball, lacrosse, football—I like 'em all."

"Ever do any fighting?"

"I should say not. That's one game that looks tough to me."

"Do you go in for hunting or fishing?"

"You bet. Go up above Montreal for fishing and hunting. Got a couple of deer last Fall. You have to wear red hats so somebody won't shoot you by mistake."

"Does the hooting and booing you get in the Garden annoy you much?"

"At the Garden? Aw, that's just deep-dish apple pie. You oughta be up in Montreal when we play the Canadiens. You see, all the French townsmen are out for the Frenchmen and all the English are rooting for us. That's a battle, on and off the ice. They chuck anything handy at you. They even pick up the chairs and throw them out on the ice."

"If you're as peaceful as you claim, how do you account for the anti-Stewart attitude of the hockey fans of New York? As soon as you appear on the ice, they go into a towering rage and call down maledictions on your head. If it isn't your hockey, maybe they have something else against you. What else do you do?"

"Well, I'm a life insurance salesman—"

"Aha! So that's it! A life insurance salesman! Just stay right where you are. It won't be long now."

But by the time the amateur detective had returned with a posse and a rope, the tall and languid Mr. Stewart had made his escape and was on his way to Canada.

BUCKSHOT WINS RACE IN FLORIDA REGATTA

Takes Final Heat in Speed-Boat Event at Palm Beach—Thunderbolt II Catches Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—Featured by the Class B outboard race for the new $500 Colonel E. R. Bradley trophy and by an accident which almost destroyed one boat, the eighth annual Washington's Birthday speedboat regatta got under way today over the shortened and widened course on Lake Worth. The regatta will continue tomorrow, with the championship of Florida at stake.

The first leg on the Colonel Bradley trophy was won by Jim Daniels of Jacksonville, piloting Buckshot, which took the final heat after finishing second in the first. Each race was at five miles. J. T. Millikin of St. Louis in Hurricane won the first heat, with Buckshot second and Tero third. The time was 8 minutes 11 seconds. Buckshot won the final in 8:05, with Sunny Girl second and Hurricane third.

An accident to Thunderbolt II in the final heat of the 151-cubic-inch class hydroplanes marred the regatta. Thunderbolt caught fire while rounding the final turn and was badly damaged.

Clem M. Perry of Miami Beach, in Madoshumi III, won the first heat for the Jack Dempsey trophy for runabouts, plus 200 horsepower. The final two heats in this event will be decided tomorrow.

Miss Wilma Wynn of Jacksonville was the only woman outboard pilot in the events. The course was smooth and cleared by Coast Guard cruisers. The regatta is sponsored by the Palm Beach Yacht Club and the Mississippi Valley Powerboat Association. Colonel Bradley will present the championship medal.

HUN SCHOOL SIX WINS, 13-0.

Routs La Salle Academy, Scoring 5 Goals in First Period.

MIDWICK FOUR WINS FROM CYPRESS POINT

Triumphs by 14-11 to Gain Final in All-American Matches—Pedley Is Star.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Feb. 21 (AP).—Purple-shirted poloists from Midwick rode to a thrilling victory over the Cypress Point team today, 14 to 11, in the second round of the All-American matches.

Eric Pedley, national star, made sure of the Midwick victory by scoring three goals in the eighth chukker after the score had been tied in the seventh. W. W. Crocker, Captain H. Walford, Arthur Perkins and William Tevis played brilliant polo, but were unable to stem the Midwick attack.

As a result of its victory, Midwick will play San Carlos in the final of the All-American matches Sunday afternoon and Cypress Point and Pebble Beach will meet in the forenoon consolation event.

The line-up:

Midwick (14).	Cypress Point (11).
1—C. B. Wrightsman.	1—W. W. Crocker.
2—Elmer J. Boeseke.	2—Capt. H. Walford.

Scratched—Cog-Air and Sun Meddler.

Sun Worship was much the best. He rushed into the lead in the first furlong, drew out and won galloping. Maiden's Tryst moved up very fast and ran a good race. Focus, away slowly, went around the field and finished with a rush. False Pride closed a big gap. Hypnotism was running strongly at the end. Overhead had plenty of speed for three furlongs, then quit badly. Mortana could not keep up.

KEENEY PARK PLANT SOLD TO W. V. DWYER

Owner of Americans Hockey Club Announces Purchase of Race Course in Florida.

RACING TO START MARCH 10

Meeting to Continue to March 29—Keeney to Have No Interest in New Venture.

William V. Dwyer, owner of the Montalvo Stud and the New York Americans hockey team, who also is interested in racing plants in the Western States and Canada, announced yesterday that he had purchased the Keeney Park race track, between Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla. Dwyer met with Frank A. Keeney at the Forrest Hotel and after the conference said the terms were private, but that there would be a meeting from March 10 to March 29.

Keeney Park was opened by Keeney early this Winter, but the meeting closed after a few days and left many horsemen stranded. According to Dwyer's announcement, Keeney will have no interest in the new venture, which will be run with the cooperaton of Florida business men. Augustus Miller, Florida hotel man, will be president of the new club, the name of which has not yet been fixed upon, Dwyer announced.

Dwyer said he would endeavor to get the officials who are now serving at Hialeah Park, Miami, to serve at this meeting. He has sent invitations to them and also hopes that George Cassidy can be prevailed upon to do the starting. Cassidy is now starting at Miami, was recently appointed to the position held by his father on the Jockey Club tracks, and started at the curtailed Keeney Park meeting early this Winter.

CATON BEST JOCKEY ON RUSSIAN TRACKS

Cleveland Rider Wins Sixth Derby and Scores 100th Victory of Season at Moscow.

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—Throughout the Soviet Union, which is three times the size of the United States, the only permanent American resident is Samuel W. Caton of Cleveland, Ohio. But Caton has even greater distinction than this, for he is also the greatest jockey in Russia. On the famous Moscow race track, reminder of the days when racing was the sport of Czars, American tourists recently saw Caton win his sixth Derby and his 100th victory of the season.

Even the leading Russian harness race drivers acknowledge Caton to be the greatest jockey of his day in the Soviet Union. Caton's winnings in Russian trotting races are considerably less than they would be on American tracks. But the popular American driver was born in Russia and has a deep attachment to the people and the country. He, therefore, prefers to race here, where for forty years his father, Frank W. Caton, who died three years ago, was the Czar's trainer of horses.

The son, with his brother William, who is well known on American trotting race circuits, was raised in the atmosphere of horses and court sporting activities. Moreover, Caton is married to a Russian girl, the daughter of Count Alexander Zatoff, former president of the St. Petersburg Racing Club.

It was Caton's father who brought the first American race horses to Russia. That was half a century ago. Today most of the horses on the Russian turf are half American and half Russian.

FALSE SPRING

BEATRICE KEAN SEYMOUR'S GREAT NEW NOVEL

At seventeen Virginia Brodie had so much more to give her fiancé than she had ever given Stacey, her lover. But how could Richard know her true innocence when he learned of her mad year in Italy. Twice later the shadow of her "false spring" nearly ruined Virginia's life—and then she met Charles Frome, mature and kindly . . .

ADVOCATES SURVEY AT GIRLS' COLLEGES

Dr. M. L. Moffett Says Undue Emphasis Has Been Placed on Extra-Curicular Activities.

WOMEN'S DEANS ELECT

Prof. Strong of Stanford Declares Questionnaire Shows 65% of Clerics Desire to Be Actors.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 21.—"There is a need for a thorough survey of existing organizations of each individual campus, if the work of these groups is to be claimed as an integral part of a character education program," declared Dr. M. Ledge Moffett, dean for women, State Teachers College, East Radford, Va., in addressing a group of the National Association of Deans of Women in session at the Haddon Hall today.

Dr. Moffett discussed extra-curricular activties in the colleges today. She pointed out that undue emphasis has been placed on outside activity.

"The number and type of organizations upon a given campus should be determined by the satisfaction, interest, and participation of students. Data indicates that a large percentage of the students get the same kind of satisfaction from any one of a variety of types of organizations. This fact would justify the reduction in some institutions. Organizations should be so organized that all students may be active members with equal and frequent opportunities for participation."

Elizabeth Rutherford, assistant professor of psychology at Goucher College, Baltimore, said: "When a college rule is one which is often violated evidently something must be wrong. It is time to consider this rule, analyze the difficulty, and modify it, so that it is in keeping with the trend of the time."

Miss Jessie Gibson, dean of women from Pomona College, Calif., was elected vice president of the National Association of Deans of Women; and Mrs. Thrysa Amos, dean of women of the University of Pittsburgh, Pa., will remain president.

Edward K. Strong Jr., professor of psychology at Stanford University, told the national convention of the Vocational Guidance Association that a survey he is making showed "65 per cent of the clergymen questioned desired to be actors." The session was at the Chalfonte.

Dr. Strong said his survey included thousands of men and women between the ages of 25 and 65, and of the men examined, 26 per cent desired to be army officers and 33 per cent expressed a desire to be artists.

"Many policemen decided upon their careers at the age of 3 and 4" and about 14 per cent decided at or before the age of 12," said Dexter Kitson, professor of education at the Teachers College, Columbia, in reporting upon a recent survey.

Miss Mary E. Wilson of the Anna Head School, Berkeley, Cal., was elected president of the National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls at the Traymore, and Miss Sara S. Ellis of the Ellis School, Pittsburgh, secretary.

John Everett of Kalamazoo, Mich., was elected president of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics at the Chalfonte. He succeeds H. C. Barber of Exeter, N. H. W. S. Schlauch of New York was named vice president.

What should be taught in the American public schools and how it should be taught will be discussed at the annual meeting of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association tomorrow.

CHILEAN MUSICIANS SAIL.

Soprano and Pianist to Study in Europe on Government Scholarships

Two young Chilean artists who won scholarships from their government to continue their studies in Europe left for their destination aboard the Mauretania last night.

Mrs. Lila Cerda de Rivadeneira, considered the finest lyric soprano of her native country, will receive free tuition and expenses for one and a half years to study in Berlin and Milan. Married only a year ago, she was accompanied by her husband, a young lawyer of Santiago, from whom she will be separated for eighteen months or more in deference to art.

Amaldo Tapia Cavallero, a pianist, 20 years old, was prize winner of many contests in Chile. He plans to study with Matthay in England, whence he will go to Berlin to finish his musical education.

In the party at the Hotel Victoria were also A. Caravajal, director of the Conservatorio Nacional de Musica in Santiago, and A. Spikin, piano instructor of the same institution, who will spend several months abroad.

Jorge Delano, artist, actor and director of one of the two Chilean motion picture industries, was sent to New York and Hollywood by his government to study the production of talking pictures. He will also try to produce a picture with a Chilean background while in Hollywood, he said.

BOWERY FUND GETS $1,377.

Y. M. C. A. Branch Receives Gifts to Provide Aid for Unemployed.

A total of $1,377 has been received during the past three days for the annual budgetary requirements of the Bowery Branch Y. M. C. A., it was announced yesterday. The general Y. M. C. A. maintenance drive brought the Bowery Branch less than half of the $44,000 total required, and the unusual tax on its relief and employment services this Winter has required increased expenditures.

The recent contributions have included several from out of town and one of $10 from the pupils of the Dalton Elementary School, 114 East Eighty-ninth Street. A note from the school explained that the children were bringing in a little money each week for the branch in the hope that it would "make you able to give more men food and shelter."

CITY BREVITIES.

The tenth annual convention of the North Atlantic Region of the Lutheran Student Association opened last night at Wagner's College on Grymes Concorde, Staten Island, with a dinner. Sixty delegates from twenty-four colleges and universities and representatives of civic organizations and county officials attended. The Rev. Charles Dapp, president of Wagner's College, presided, and Dr. W. L. Horn of Cornell University spoke.

Miss Irma Kraf will lecture tomorrow at 5 P. M. at the Civic Club, 18 East Tenth Street, on "What Next in the Theatre."

Dr. Cyrus Adler, chairman of the Jewish Committee on Scouting of the Boy Scouts of America, announced yesterday that the committee's second annual meeting will be held on Feb. 26 in the Leo Sulzberger Memorial Room of the Federation Building, 71 West Forty-seventh Street.

WANT CHILDREN 'SAVED' FROM THEIR PARENTS

Psychiatrists Discuss Need of Improving the Family to Curb Delinquency.

The problem of "saving" children from their parents and their teachers was taken up last night at the annual dinner of the American Orthopsychiatric Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The dinner followed the first day's session of the organization's annual meeting, at which were discussed the necessity of improving the family environment of delinquent children, the need for extension of child guidance clinics in rural areas, and the relationship of intelligence and economic factors to children's behavior. Nearly 1,000 scientists and social workers attended the sessions.

Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, president of the association, declared last night in the annual presidential address that "there are teachers who do not know what children are and who do not want to know." Dean M. C. Winternitz of the School of Medicine of Yale University described, half-humorously, the problems of modern child guidance work as "protecting children who have nothing to do from parents who have nothing to do but watch them."

"By far the most important part of our treatment in child guidance work is the indirect approach concerned with influencing the environment," Dr. Lowrey declared. "This is largely the problem of influencing the attitude toward the child of the adults with whom it comes in contact, especially the parents. We talk of the failure of the child to respond to the school, but there is also the failure of the school to respond to the child."

Dr. Harry S. Sullivan, who spoke as "critic" of the presidential address, said that the next problem of research was to study the zone of interaction between the individual as studied by psychiatrists and "culture" as studied by social scientists.

Nine papers were presented at the sessions of the day.

Dr. Bryant E. Moulton of the Judge Baker Foundation, Boston, Mass., declared at an afternoon session that "in many cases we have overemphasized the psycho-therapy o fthe child at the expense of what should be done in the family environment." In many cases, he said, the treatment for the cure of juvenile delinquency should be directed toward the family rather than toward the delinquent child.

Specific relationships between types of misbehavior of children and their intelligence level were brought out by Dr. John Levy, of New York, in a paper on "The Relationship of Intelligence and Economic Factors to Children's Behavior Problems." His results were based on study of 700 children.

Dr. Levy found that children of low intelligence showed a greater percentage of social maladjustments, such as stealing and truancy, and that children of high intelligence showed more personal and emotional maladjustments, such as disobedience and fits of temper.

Dr. Sanger Brown, of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene, in a paper read by Dr. T. R. Robie, urged the establishment of child guidance clinics in larger communities by city and county authorities.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE CHURCHGOER

Cardinal Hayes Will Preach at St. Patrick's for First Time Since Visit to Rome.

DR. STEEN TO BE HONORED

63d Anniversary of Ordination to Be Marked at St. John's—Bishop Stires at Conference Monday.

Cardinal Hayes will deliver the sermon at high mass tomorrow in St. Patrick's Cathedral. It is now more than thirteen months since the Cardinal has preached at the 11 o'clock Sunday service in the cathedral. The last occasion was when he made a reply to Professor Harry Elmer Barnes, who had declared at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that the present age needed a new religion and a new God. This will also be the first regular sermon the prelate has preached since his recent return from the Vatican.

The sixty-third anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Dr. John Floyd Steen will be observed tomorrow afternoon at the 4 o'clock service in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Dr. Steen is the senior clergyman in the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, and he is believed to have been ordained longer than any clergyman in New York City. He was for more than fifty years rector of the Ascension Memorial Church, Forty-third Street, just west of Times Square, known as "the Little Red Church of Times Square." Some years ago he was retired on a pension equal to his full salary. The Very Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, new dean of the cathedral and a close friend of Dr. Steen, will preach on "The Glory of Age."

In an effort to make converts to Christianity in the heart of "The Great White Way," forty workers will go out tomorrow afternoon. The workers are members of Union Methodist Church, Forty-eighth Street, just west of Broadway, of which the Rev. C. Everett Wagner is the pastor. The goal of what has been described as "an intensive evangelism campaign" is 100 new church members. The workers will call not only tomorrow but on the two following Sunday afternoons and the next two Tuesday evenings.

Bishop Ernest M. Stires of Long Island will be the principal speaker at the midwinter conference of the Confraternity of the Mystical Life to be held Monday afternoon and evening in St. Thomas's Protestant Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street. Bishop Stires, who was for twenty-five years the rector, will speak on "Visions and Paths." Among the other speakers will be the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, present rector of St. Thomas's; Monell Sayre, executive vice president of the Episcopal Church Pension Fund, and Professor E. Allison Peers of the University of Aberdeen.

Fred Stone will be a speaker at the twenty-first anniversary dinner of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America to be held in the Hotel Pennsylvania on March 4. His topic will be "An Actor Looks at the Churches." Other speakers and their topics will be Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the council, "A Churchman Looks at Church Federation"; the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, "The Church for Our Day"; Miss Helen Clarkson Miller, president of the Spence School, "An Educator Looks at the Church"; Miss Margaret Applegate, leader of young people's work, "Youth Looks at the Churches." The toastmaster will be Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney.

The Rev. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee of Chicago, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, will have a reception given in his honor under the auspices of the Presbyterian Union of New York City on March 3 in the parish house of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, at Fifty-fifth Street. A welcome on behalf of the Presbytery of New York will be extended by the Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, the moderator. A welcome on behalf of the host church will be voiced by the Rev. Dr. Minot C. Morgan, the junior copastor. The chairman will be Frederick N. Whitford, president of the union. Dr. McAfee is a professor in the Chicago Presbyterian Theological Seminary. For many years he was pastor of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn.

The cornerstone for a new edifice of the Presbyterian Church, Larchmont and Forest Park Avenues, Larchmont, N. Y., will be laid tomorrow at noon. The pastor is the Rev. Robert M. Russell. The building will be of modified Gothic type and it will cost $250,000. The architect is John Russell Pope, 542 Fifth Avenue, this city, and the general contractor is Marcello Mazzulo of Port Chester, N. Y.

Acting for Cardinal Hayes, Mgr. Stephen J. Donahue, his private secretary, issued this week to the pastors of the 444 churches of the Archdiocese of New York the "Lenten regulations" for this penitential season, which begins on March 5. They are the same as last year.

The Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, assistant at the Broadway Congregational Tabernacle, at Fifty-sixth Street, has been selected as one of the ten "interchange preachers" between America and Great Britain for this Summer. He is believed to be the youngest of the group. The preachers are selected by a committee on interchange of the Church Peace Union and the Federal Council of Churches. Mr. Clinchy will preach in England and Scotland and in the American churches in Paris and Berlin. He will also be one of the delegates to the International Congregational Council to be held at Bournemouth, England, July 1 to 8.

The Very Rev. H. Erskine Hill, provost of the cathedral at Aberdeen, Scotland, will speak at the annual meeting of the Episcopal Actors' Guild of America, to be held at the Broadhurst Theatre Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Other speakers will be Channing Pollock and the Rev. Dr. Joseph P. McComas, vicar of St. Paul's Chapel, Trinity Parish. George Arliss is president, Grant Mitchell is a vice president and Percy Moore is executive secretary.

The Rev. Charles D. Trexler, who last Sunday morning was installed as pastor of St. James's Lutheran Church, will be the speaker at the Protestant Welfare League Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the assembly hall of the New York Bible Society, 5 East Forty-eighth Street.

The Southern Manhattan district of the New York City Christian Endeavor Union will hold a "world friendship rally" Monday evening in the Manor Reformed Church, 350 West Twenty-sixth Street. Miss Gladys Ding of Shanghai, China, and Gali Ratnam of Madras, India, will speak on their country's attitude toward "Christianity and world peace."

The Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan of Philadelphia, the Bible scholar, will preach Tuesday at 1 o'clock in John Street Methodist Church, in the financial section, and the same evening in the Central Presbyterian Church, Park Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street.

MRS. HELEN MORGAN WEDS H. SANDERSON

Marriage Takes Place at Home of the Bridegroom's Son in Syosset, L. I.

ONLY RELATIVES PRESENT

Couple Sail for Europe—Mr. Sanderson a Pioneer in the Electric Lighting Field.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage on Thursday of Mrs. Helen Rice Morgan to Henry Sanderson, which took place at the home of Mr. Sanderson's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Sanderson, in Syosset, L. I. Only relatives witnessed the ceremony. There had been no announcement of an engagement.

Mrs. Sanderson, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Warren Rice of New Brunswick, N. J., had been married twice previously. Her first husband, Dr. Robert Watts Jr., died a number of years ago. Their daughter, Miss Gertrude de Lancey Watts, was married to Hugh Campbell Wallace 2d two years ago. In 1914 the then Mrs. Watts was married to Townsend Morgan. That union was ended by divorce in 1925.

Mr. Sanderson also had been married twice before. His first wife, who died in 1921, was the former Miss Beatrice Walter. They had two sons, James Reed and Geoffrey Henry Sanderson. His second wife is the former Miss Elizabeth Fairchild. They were divorced. Mr. Sanderson has long been known in business and financial circles in New York. He was one of the pioneers in the electric lighting field, and contributed greatly to the development of that industry in this city, being a director and officer of many lighting, power and public service corporations. He was one of the first men to install public lighting in this city, and was the first man to run motor cabs in New York and install a trolley express car service between this city and Westchester. He has long been prominent in the affairs of the Automobile Club of America.

Mr. Sanderson's clubs are the Metropolitan, New York Yacht, Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht, Piping Rock, India House, Church and National Golf Links. He is a member also of the Sons of the Revolution and the Society of Colonial Wars.

He and his bride sailed last night for Europe.

RUTGERS JUNIOR PROM DRAWS 300 COUPLES

Event in Highland Park Hall Held Off Campus for First Time in Twenty-five Years.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 21.—More than 300 couples attended the annual Junior Promenade of Rutgers University in the Masonic Hall, Highland Park, tonight. For the first time in a quarter of a century the dance was held off campus because Ballantine gymnasium, the scene of the former proms, was destroyed by fire last month.

Almost 400 girls, most of them from New York and New Jersey, will be here for the fraternity house parties tomorrow night. The parties and a basketball game between Rutgers and Franklin and Marshall will be features of the week-end.

Edward H. Heyd of Plainfield was chairman of the Junior Promenade committee. Other members were Burton J. Hutchings, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Max Krafchik, New Brunswick; C. Russell Kramer, Newark; Leroy G. Cohen, Bayonne; George H. Guiler, Roslyn Heights, N. Y., and William D. Siddons, Atlantic City.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter T. Marvin, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Ageer, Dr. and Mrs. Parker H. Daggett and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Reilly were the chaperons.

The hall was decorated to represent a Japanese garden. The promenade, beginning at the door on the street level, continued up the stairs and around the hall. A fountain in the centre of the floor reflected vari-colored lights cast upon it from the balcony.

NEWPORT IN FROLIC AT GAY BAL MASQUE

Army, Navy and Winter Groups Join in Colorful Event—Dinners Precede It.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 21.—Fully 200 persons attended the bal masque tonight.

"Wear what you dare," challenged the invitation issued by the committee, of which Commander Fred F. Rogers U. S. N., of the Naval War College was chairman, and almost all present did "dare." There were Turkish diplomats and rajahs of India dancing with East Indian and Chinese maidens. Gentlemen dating back to the empire period, dancing girls, Persian princesses, señors of Old Spain and many others were represented in the costumes.

Serving with Commander Rogers on the committee were Commander H. H. Norton, U. S. N., as treasurer; Lieutenant J. W. Roper, U. S. N., as assistant treasurer, and Mrs. A. R. Mack, wife of Lieut. Commander Mack, as secretary.

The party was arranged as a pre-Washington's Birthday celebration and there was a patriotic touch to the decorative scheme.

During the intermission Mrs. Edmund S. R. Brandt, who appeared as a bacchante, sang a group of songs, while her husband, Commander Brandt, dressed as Robin Hood, acted as accompanist. There were also special dancing numbers by Miss Frances Cole.

A costume parade was the opening feature with Rear Admiral Reginald R. Belknap, U. S. N., retired; Captain George Pettengill of the Naval War College; Captain William H. Bell, commanding the Naval Hospital; Mrs. Vernou, wife of Captain Walter N. Vernou; Mrs. John F. Hubbard and Mrs. William H. Drury as the judges.

Prior to the dance several dinner parties were given, among them that of Commander and Mrs. F. F. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Julian R. Sloan.

N. Y. U. STUDENTS HOLD JUNIOR PROMENADE

Dean and Mrs. Bouton Lead Grand March at Colorful Dance at the Ambassador.

More than 150 couples attended the Junior Promenade of New York University's College of Arts and Pure Science and the College of Engineering last evening in the Italian Gardens of the Ambassador. The promenade is one of the chief social events of the university.

The grand march was led by Dean Archibald L. Bouton and Mrs. Bouton. Miss Diana Gaines, a student at Smith College, and Richard Lillienstern, dance chairman, came next.

Novel lighting effects and decorations in which violet, the university's color, predominated, gave the ballroom a carnival atmosphere. Fraternity banners were draped around booths where fraternities entertained their guests.

Besides Dean and Mrs. Bouton the patrons included Chancellor and Mrs. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, Dean and Mrs. Charles H. Snow, Dean and Mrs. Collins P. Bliss, Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gimbel, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Leiberman, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Namm, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bloomenthal and Mrs. August Heckscher.

Mr. Lillienstern was assisted by Harold Berkowitz, committee vice chairman; George Morrison, chairman of the reception committee, and Milton Hapner, chairman of the arrangements committee. Members of the reception committee were Harvey Avedon, Milton Birnbaum, Walter Kahn, Stanley Lipman, Irwin Rubenstein, Bernard Stoloff, Leo Kaplan and Samuel Weiner. On the arrangements committee were Abraham Coopersmith, Arnold Freidberg, George Helis and Robert Merz.

MABEL WILLEBRANDT FINED AS A SPEEDER

Name Is Whispered in Washington Court and She Leaves by Side Door After Paying $10.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General, was fined $10 for speeding when she appeared before Judge Given in traffic court in an apparently carefully planned procedure today.

Mrs. Willebrandt was arrested last Friday night after a motorcycle patrolman had paced her car five blocks and found her traveling at thirty-eight miles an hour. Her case was called on Monday but the necessary papers were missing and it was continued until today. Yesterday she called on Judge Given, and today's ceremony was discussed in his office.

Promptly at 9:30 A. M., when court was opened, Mrs. Willebrandt hurried into the court room and up the defendant's dock.

"You are Mrs. Willebrandt?" asked the clerk in a whisper. She nodded. The policeman quietly stated the charge.

"Ten dollars," said Judge Given.

Mrs. Willebrandt did not have the correct sum, so Judge Given directed her to wait in his chambers while an attaché went to the clerk's office to break a twenty-dollar bill. He returned with the change, and Mrs. Willebrandt left the building by a side door, outwitting several news photographers who still were waiting in front of the court house when, an hour later, she was discovered in her office.

E. Van de V. Quinn, Broker, Weds.

Through arrangements made by Park Commissioner Walter R. Herrick, Edward Van De Valke Quinn of 47 East Sixty-first Street, a stock broker, and Mrs. Clare Samuels Marks of 227 West End Avenue were married at 10:30 last night in the magistrate's chambers of the Night Court by Magistrate August Dreyer. The bridegroom gave his age as 28 and the bride gave hers as 29. This was Mr. Quinn's second marriage. He is the son of Francis and Blanche Valke Quinn. The bride said this was her third marriage, she having been divorced from her second husband.

J. TERRY WESTS PALM BEACH HOSTS

Entertain at Home in Honor of Mrs. Thomas H. West Jr. of Providence, R. I.

TEA AT SAILFISH CLUB

E. E. Allyne and F. W. Fords Give Swimming Party—Recital at Villa Filippon.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Terry West gave a dinner at their home this evening for Mr. West's sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas H. West Jr. of Providence, R. I., who is their guest for a short visit. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bryden, Colonel and Mrs. John Bayne MacLean, Captain and Mrs. John H. Gibbons and John Hampton Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Sawyer entertained more than 150 guests this afternoon with a tea dance at their Clarke Avenue home. A profusion of flowers decorated the drawing room, which was cleared for dancing, and tea was served in the patio.

Mr. and Mrs. Alter S. Andrews of New York are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Smith, who gave a dinner for eleven guests this evening at their Golf View Road villa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burns of New York, guests at Whitehall after a fortnight's visit with William H. Todd at his Pinehurst home, entertained at dinner this evening on Mr. Todd's yacht, Pioneer. In their party were Mr. and Mrs. William F. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sweeny, Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, Colonel and Mrs. Louis J. Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. George Breen, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Daimler, John J. Raskob, Walter L. Butler, Grover A. Whalen, Judge William E. Walsh, Thomas E. Bragg, Matthew Brush.

Edmund E. Allyne and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Ford, entertained thirty of the Palm Beach colony this morning with a swimming party at their estate at Hypoluxo Beach. A buffet luncheon was served in the patio.

Mrs. Henry Rea was hostess this afternoon at her ocean-front home, Lagomac, to members of the Garden Club of Palm Beach at a business meeting followed by tea. About fifty members were present.

More than 100 of the colony assembled this afternoon at a reception and tea given by the Sailfish Club in its rooms at the Breakers Casino. John Shepard Jr. is president of the club.

Mrs. Charles Alber Smylie gave a dinner last evening at the Florida Embassy Club, her guests including Mr. and Mrs. T. Richard Cowell, Mrs. James R. Deering, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. Julian McCarty Little, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Cowell, Jules S. Bache, Emile Pfizer, Robert Page, Sir Oliver Duncan, Loyall Sewall and Ivan Mararoff. John R. Fell had among his guests Mr. and Mrs. James G. Bush, Grover A. Whalen, Judge William E. Walsh, Charles M. Fair, Frank Bruen and William Carey.

Mrs. A. Minford Bond entertained at luncheon at the club Miss Agnes Early, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kiely and M. Wolcott Bond.

Mrs. Joseph S. Long of Chicago, who is occupying Villa Fillipponi on Clarke Avenue, was hostess to nearly one hundred of the Winter colonists this evening at a recital by Stewart Baird, baritone and diseur. After the program a buffet supper was served in the patio. Mrs. Long's guests included:

Mrs. Helen C. DeWitt and her dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seligman, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyne, Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Leroy Dow and Mrs. Wilson Bryant; also Mr. and Mrs. John M. TROPIC GALES DELAY ARGENTINE AIR MAIL

Plane Making Good Time Toward New York After Accident in Landing at Santos.

THREE AIRCRAFT ARE USED

One Breaks Oil Line and Second Is Held Up by Legal Action of a Brazilian Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAOLO, Brazil, Feb. 21.—Fighting against unusual adverse storms, the plane making the initial air mail trip of the Pan-American Airways from Buenos Aires to New York was reported making excellent time after leaving Pernambuco. The New York, Rio and Buenos Aires officials are confident they will deliver the mail in New York well within the Argentine contract terms of nine days.

The president of the Pan-American Airways, Ralph O'Neill, is making the entire trip. It is understood passengers are not being accepted, on account of the heavy mail traffic, as many American firms are availing themselves of this expeditious route.

The first leg between Buenos Aires and Santos presented 1,000 miles of exceedingly difficult flying, as the last half was covered in raging tropical storms. The Sikorsky plane was obliged to make a landing at Santos in the outer harbor in a heavy sea, which damaged a lower wing pontoon. However, at the following daybreak another plane picked up the mail, with the loss of only a few hours.

RIO JANIERO, Feb. 21 (AP).—Speeding to regain the time lost in two minor accidents and a legal action, the Bahia, trail blazing plane of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires line, tonight was headed up the coast of South America bearing the first air mail and cargo from South America for the United States over that route.

Taking off from Buenos Aires Wednesday the Rio de Janeiro and Tampa headed for Santos, their first stop. The Rio de Janeiro was forced down at Florianapolis by a broken oil line. Transferring the mail and cargo, the Tampa continued to Santos, where it broke a pontoon in landing.

In the meantime an attachment had been secured at Porto Alegre by the ETA (Empresas Transportes Aereos), a Brazilian company, which charged breach of contract against the New York-Rio-Buenos Aires line. The writ was served on the Tampa, halting its further flight.

Ralph O'Neill, president of the New York-Rio-Buenos Aires Line, took the mail and cargo from the Tampa and brought it here by automobile, first ordering the Bahia, another of the line's planes, to fly here from Bahia. The Bahia arrived today, but landed across Rio de Janeiro Bay, out of the jurisdiction of the Rio de Janeiro courts, and there loaded and took off for Fort Aleza, 1,500 miles to the north. There another plane will be waiting to speed the mail and cargo on to Miami, where it is expected to arrive not more than a day behind schedule.

A report from Florida yesterday that the plane carrying the first air mail over the line of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires line was missing along the east coast of South America with its crew and more than a ton of mail brought vigorous denials from the New York offices of the air line last night. A late message from Ralph A. O'Neill, president of the line, advised the home office that the mails will reach Miami on schedule Tuesday morning, each day's flight being lengthened to make up the twelve hours lost.

The distance covered by the line is nearly 8,000 miles, and the first plane took off from Buenos Aires on Wednesday, Feb. 19, at dawn. The present flight is to establish schedules. As soon as the definite schedule is shown to be practical, the line announces, a five-day passenger service will be inaugurated between Miami and Buenos Aires.

1,000 FIREMEN BATTLE LUCAS PAINT BLAZE

Explosions Hamper Members of 25 Companies in $500,000 Fire at Gibbsboro, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

GIBBSBORO, N. J., Feb. 21.—Fire followed by explosions here today wrecked the packing and shipping building of the John M. Lucas & Co. paint plant, damaged another structure and for a while endangered the town which is built around the company's twelve-acre factory site.

Discovered soon after 6 o'clock this morning, the flames spread fast and for three hours resisted the efforts of about 1,000 firemen, members of twenty-five fire companies in Camden County. To fire plugs, creeks and lakes the fire-fighters laid out thousands of feet of hose and saved the town, but several nearby buildings were ignited by sparks several times.

Damage to the paint plant was estimated at $500,000 by Ernest T. Trigg of Philadelphia, the president. John Ciabury, aged 50, of West Berlin, was burned on the face as he tried to rescue a fellow employe from the blazing building. Albert Hoffinger, 26, of Lindenwold, was burned on the right arm, and William Bealer, 22, of Lindenwold, received burns on his left hand.

Other fire fighters, who included many members of Lucas's staff and virtually every able-bodied resident of Gibbsboro, were endangered as the barrels of paint and oils exploded. State troopers detoured traffic by way of the White Horse Pike.

The Lucas plant, which includes thirty buildings, was merged recently with the Sherwin-Williams Company.

Not a Taxi Runs in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 21 (AP).—The union leaders in the taxicab strike which has tied up Pittsburgh's taxicabs since Jan. 12 announced tonight that they would make a possible meeting in a plan upon which they would call off the strike if the company would consider arbitration as a possible solution of the dispute. The drivers demand union recognition and increased commissions. The strike is the latest development of a long dispute, which began with the order of Mayor Charles H. Kline, who acted as a result of the fatal shooting of a strike sympathizer by a policeman on Wednesday night.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH IN CHICAGO AIR CRASH

Jury of Fliers to Investigate the Death of Canadian Veteran and Student.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Two men were burned to death this evening when the airplane in which they were flying crashed 200 feet to the ground, landing on the Cook County Airport at Irving Park, from which they had taken off fifteen minutes before.

The dead men were Captain Joseph Donnellan, war-time aviator with the Canadian Royal Flying Corps, and Richard King of Chicago, whom Donnellan was teaching to fly. The ship in which they crashed was a Parks two-seater, a biplane equipped with dual controls and a Curtiss O X 5 motor. The ship was said to have been flown only thirty hours, but some repairs had been made on it, and these, although they were said to have been thorough, had not been approved by the Department of Commerce.

The plane, the spectators said, rose to about 300 feet, then dipped to 200 feet, and as it was making a rather sharp turn at that altitude suddenly went into a tail spin and nose-dived to the ground.

Several men rushed to the fallen ship to give help if possible. The plane burst into flames, however, as its engine crashed deep into the ground, and those who would help had to stand by helpless, watching the two men burn beyond recognition.

A coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow. Major R. W. Schroeder, assistant to Major Reed G. Landis, director of aeronautics for the company, will be foreman of the coroner's jury, which, he stated, will be composed of veteran fliers.

SLAIN IN RESTAURANT AS HE FLEES GUNMEN

Man Is Shot Down and Companion Wounded by Two Thugs in Eldridge Street.

David Belkin, 40 years old, owner of a restaurant at 245 Eldridge Street, was killed and Sol Brobetsky, 30 years old, of 359 East Ninety-fifth Street, a machinist, was seriously wounded last night by two unidentified gunmen in the Rumanian Tea and Coffee House in the basement at 208 Eldridge Street.

Sarah Nedman, proprietor of the coffee house, was the only witness to the shooting. She said that Belkin and Brobetsky were drinking tea and conversing at a rear table when the gunmen entered at 11 o'clock. Each of the intruders took up a position behind the tea drinkers and a few sharp words were uttered.

Suddenly Belkin sprang from his seat and tried to escape into a rear room. He fell with a bullet in the back of his head and at the same moment the second gunman fired. Brobetsky slumped to the chair with a bullet in his head. The gunmen ran out and escaped in a taxicab.

When Patrolman John Halper ran toward the tea house he found it surrounded by hundreds of persons from near-by tenements. No one in the crowd could give any clue, and Brobetsky, taken to Bellevue Hospital, was too weak to answer questions.

WGBS GETS MORE TIME.

Sixty-Day Extension Granted on Experimental Assignment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Federal Radio Commission today granted station WGBS, Astoria, L. I., an extension of sixty days on its experimental assignment of 600 kilocycles, until April 30, when the licenses for all broadcasting stations expire.

Thirty-day licenses were also granted to stations WQAO-WPAP, Cliffside, N. J.; WMRJ, Jamaica, N. Y., and WHEC, Rochester, N. Y.

W. K. Henderson, owner of station KWKH, Shreveport, La., was granted a license extension until April 30.

The commission has set for hearing the application of stations WSYR, Syracuse, and WMAC, Cazenovia, N. Y., for location of transmitters on the campus of Syracuse University.

age, but were not hurt. They were Joseph Wynne of 507 West 175th Street and Charles Chesborough of 2,762 Barnes Avenue, the Bronx.

Two in Office Escape.

Jesse Pegram, 20, of 2,840 Eighth Avenue, and George H. Cotton of 252 West 144th Street, both negroes, were at work in an office under the structure when they heard the warning rumblings. They dashed for safety and although both were struck by falling coal they escaped with minor injuries. Pegram dislocated his left foot when he stumbled over some wreckage and Cotton suffered contusions of the left leg and side from falling débris.

Immediately after news of the crash had been telephoned to Police Headquarters the police emergency squads from the Bronx Park and Morrisania Stations, the reserves of the Highbridge Station and Hook and Ladder 49 were rushed to the scene. To assist in removing the coal the Hubbard Floyd Construction Company lent a ten-ton steam shovel to the rescuers.

The coal is of the buckwheat variety and because of its texture the work progressed slowly. It appeared last night that the task would not be completed before this morning.

Meanwhile Mr. De Luca, Inspector George Liebers and Inspector John Duane, in command of Bronx detectives, had begun an investigation.

Mr. De Luca said that representatives of the steel company which furnished the girders for the supporting structure and of the coal company whose employes erected the building would be asked to appear at the Bronx District Attorney's office for questioning. He explained that it was impossible to attempt to ascertain the cause of the collapse until the removal of the coal had been completed.

The police found Walter Adams Jr., 4 years old, alone in the home of the dead laborer. The boy told them that he had no other relatives so far as he knew. He was taken to the Children's Society.

WASHINGTON'S NAME FILLS THE AIR TODAY

Broadcast Tributes to Father of His Country Begin Early and Continue Late.

BIG PROGRAM IN CAPITAL

Celebrations at Mount Vernon and Alexandria, Va., Among Those to Be Heard.

Radio's annual tribute to the birthday of George Washington will be broadcast today from a number of local stations, beginning at 10:30 A. M.

At that hour over WJZ's network will be heard a program to be given at Continental Memorial Hall at Washington under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the Revolution, Children of the Revolution and Sons of the American Revolution.

Among the speakers listed are Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, who is to talk on the "Plans of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission"; William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, speaking on "The American Creed," and John Paul Ernest, who is to read "Selections From the Papers of George Washington." The Rev. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the House, will deliver the invocation, and the Rev. Edmond A. Walsh of Georgetown University will give the benediction. Colonel Alonzo Gray, president of the Sons of the American Revolution, is to preside. Music will be played by the United States Marine Band.

Carnegie Hall Program.

At the same hour over WNYC and WABC's network will be sent out the proceedings of the Washington Birthday celebration by the Sons of the American Revolution at Carnegie Hall. The speakers are Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania and Major John V. Bouvier Jr. The music will be furnished by the Police Band of New York. "Washington's Birthday in Songs and Stories" will be presented at 10:30 o'clock also over WOR, under the direction of Mrs. R. S. Allyn.

At 12 o'clock noon WEAF's network is to broadcast a playlet about George Washington, in which John L. E. Pell, author, is to take part personally. The thirty-ninth annual Washington's Birthday Celebration for the Boys of New York is to be broadcast at 2 o'clock this afternoon by WNYC from the Brace Memorial Newsboys' Clubhouse. The speakers will include Alfred E. Smith, H. V. Kaltenborn, William Lewis Butcher, Louis Wiley, Richard H. Waldo, Representatives Loring M. Black and Fiorello La Guardia and William E. Cashin.

Celebrations of Washington's Birthday at Alexandria and Mount Vernon, Va., both of which were so closely associated with the first President during his life, will be heard this afternoon over WABC's network at 2:30 and 6 o'clock, respectively. From 2:30 to 4 o'clock the broadcast will be a word picture of the two-mile parade which is to pass the reviewing stand where President Hoover and his party will be stationed. For fifteen minutes, beginning at 6 P. M. the WABC network will broadcast a word picture trip through the Washington home at Mount Vernon. Harison H. Dodge, superintendent of the national shrine, will be the narrator.

Democratic Club and Elsewhere.

"Washington and His Contemporaries" is the title of an address to be given in the afternoon at 1:45 o'clock over WABC's chain by Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky. The talk will be picked up from the auditorium by the National Democratic Club in New York. At 10 o'clock tonight WJZ's network is to broadcast the proceedings of the tenth annual dinner of the Federal Bar Association on Washington's Birthday at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington. The speakers are to include Senator Samuel Shortridge of California and Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School. Dean Pound will speak on "The Pioneer and the Law."

"The Precepts of George Washington" is the title of an address to be heard at 8 o'clock tonight over WOR by George W. Ochs-Oakes, guest speaker for the National Security League. Mr. Ochs-Oakes is the editor of Current History Magazine. A one-act play, "Washington and His Flag," will be broadcast tonight at 7:35 o'clock over WNYC.

Other talks to be heard this evening include one by Merle Thorpe on "George Washington, the Business Man," at 8 o'clock over WEAF, and "Washington," by Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, at 9 o'clock over WOR.

196,930 PASSPORTS ISSUED LAST YEAR

New York City, With 58,834, Led All Cities and States—Pennsylvania Was Second.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Passports totaling 196,930 were issued by the State Department during 1929 to Americans going abroad, according to figures made public at the department today.

New York City led all cities and even States in the number issued, its total being 58,834, while 13,734 were issued to persons in the rest of New York State. Pennsylvania stood second in the list of States with 18,499, while New Jersey had 15,033, Connecticut 5,278 and Massachusetts 12,479. New Mexico, with 79, had the least of any State.

Native Americans outnumbered naturalized Americans in going abroad, the passports issued to the former numbering 110,084, as compared with 86,846 for the latter.

In the list of occupations given by those obtaining passports, those with "no occupation" led with 26,428, but those listed as "housewives" were a close second, totaling 23,947. At the end of the list was the occupation of "writer," with 630.

Travel was in the lead of the objects given for going abroad, with 94,054, while "family affairs" was given as the reason in 68,315 cases. Commercial business was assigned as the reason in 15,636 cases.

Western Europe was the most popular destination for the travelers, 133,479 giving that region as their objective, while the great majority of 36,727 who merely listed "all countries" in their applications were understood to have Western Europe as their primary destination. Eastern Europe stood second with 10,615, while Latin America had 8,074, or twice as many as the Far East.

SENATE CONFIRMS 4 OF RADIO BOARD

Holds Up Starbuck's Name Until Monday on Objection by Senator Wheeler.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Four members of the Radio Commission were confirmed and action on the fifth deferred until Monday, as the climax of a debate in the Senate today marked by attacks on President Hoover and Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries, by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, who complained about White House "interference" with radio administration. Mr. Wheeler served notice that unless Mr. Richey, whom he termed the President's "detective secretary," kept his hands off the Radio Commission that would not be welcomed by the White House.

Ira E. Robinson of West Virginia, chairman; Eugene O. Sykes of Mississippi, Harold A. Lafount of Utah and Charles McK. Saltzman of Iowa were the commissioners confirmed.

The nomination of William D. L. Starbuck of Connecticut was passed over because of an objection by Mr. Wheeler, who said he wished to verify certain information he had received concerning Mr. Starbuck. He indicated that he might withdraw his objection on Monday. When the nomination of Mr. Lafount was called up, Senator Kean of New Jersey asked that it be passed over. He withdrew his request later, and the Lafount nomination went through with the others.

Senator Couzens, chairman of the committee which reported the nominations, said that he had discussed the nominations with the President. He said he advised the President that as a communications commission might be established within a year it would be advisable to continue in office the present radio board.

"The President did not tell me what he was going to do," remarked Mr. Couzens. "The President never gives satisfactory answers to my questions. He generally leaves me hanging in the air."

WOR to Celebrate Birthday.

The eighth anniversary birthday presentation of Station WOR is scheduled to be heard tonight between 10 and 11 o'clock from the WOR studio, 1,440 Broadway. A large list of entertainers, vocal artists and orchestras will be heard.

Conductor, Artur Bodanzky

By OLIN DOWNES.

The first of the uncut performances of Wagner's "Ring," which are to be features of the special Wagner matinee cycle in the Metropolitan Opera House, was given yesterday afternoon. The opera was "Rheingold." There is no occasion here to comment upon the audience's reception of an uncut "Rheingold," because "Rheingold" never has been cut at the Metropolitan. Restoration of cuts will come with "Walküre," "Siegfried" and "Götterdämmerung." "Rheingold," as we all know, is intended to be performed without pause between any of the scenes, and so it was performed yesterday. The audience, or the prompt part of it, assembled at the hour of 2:30 and retired from the theatre at 4:45. There was the enthusiasm for Wagner's music which is the recurrent phenomenon today with even partial Wagnerian performances.

It would be a pleasure to say that this response to Wagner was justified yesterday by a brilliant and eloquent performance, but that would not be precisely the case. From the standpoint equally of traditions and of individual performance this interpretation left things to be desired. To the assets of the occasion belongs the observation that Mr. Bodanzky conducted with more spirit than he has always shown in this opera, and drove certain points home with his baton. It must be added that the orchestra gave a poor technical performance.

Then there were the curious ideas of stage business and grouping, which are of the first importance and are very precisely dictated by Wagner in every drama of the "Ring." Principal among the bold revisers of tradition, as so often in past performances, was Mr. Bohnen, the Wotan. One would have gained little if any conception from his presentation of the god who is as a figure of Sophoclean tragedy. A god? Say rather a mining prospector, a bouncer, a boss of the ranch—witness the assault upon poor, helpless Alberich, the swagger and bawling and strut, in place of portentous majesty and the inner torture of the seer who saw as from a tower the end of himself and his dynasty. Since Mr. Bohnen's European triumphs in moving pictures and comic opera his Wagnerian style has undergone a change, and a regrettable one in an artist of his experience and exceptional capacities.

Some, with reason, questioned Wotan's flourishing aloft of the sword in the final scene. Others envied the god the grace and complacency with which he juggled sword and spear in one hand and with the other gently conducted Mrs. Wotan toward Walhalla. The picking up of the sword, as we know, was not in Wagner's original scheme of the drama, but was in the course of time instituted and then abandoned at both Baireuth and the Metropolitan. There was thus precedent, if disputed precedent, for this detail, but in broader and more important matters Mr. Bohnen missed the quality of his character.

Other individual impersonations were of varying quality. "Rheingold" usually brings us a good Loge. Mr. Kirchhoff's Loge has been one of his best rôles, in which he has made his finest impression upon Metropolitan audiences. Has he, too, succumbed to the false theatricalism of the hour? Loge's craft, Loge's malice, Loge's sardonic and bodeful philosophy all have place in this impersonation, which, however, is now prone to obviousness and exaggeration. But Mr. Schuetzendorff's Alberich has to the full the powerful and malignant passions of that earth-spirit.

The best voice on the stage was that of Miss Branzell, the Erda, although she was not entirely at ease in her music. Mr. Meader, the Mime, is always intelligent and admirable.

"AMERICAN LIFE" INTRIGUING NOVELTY

Conductorless Symphony Plays Interesting Scherzo by Adolph Weiss.

The Conductorless Symphony Orchestra gave the fourth subscription concert of its second season last night at Carnegie Hall. Its program, prevailingly short and light, comprised the overture to Mozart's "The Magic Flute"; Mendelssohn's violin concerto, with Benno Rabinoff as soloist; Adolph Weiss's scherzo, "American Life," and Beethoven's Eighth Symphony.

The most interesting part of the evening was the hearing of Mr. Weiss's composition. Scored for cymbals, snare drum, saxophone, English horn (or was it Basset horn?), piccolo and the customary strings, wood and brass, it further departed from charted territory in its melodic, harmonic and thematic treatment. Since the composer studied under Arnold Schönberg, all this was not surprising.

To have America interpreted in terms of Schönberg through the somewhat refracted lens of a disciple is an intriguing novelty. What Mr. Weiss has attempted to do, and has succeeded in doing in at least a measure, is to give a musical version of recent similar literary attempts. If Mr. Weiss wishes his hearers to accept this brief sketch as indicative of a panoramic vista of America, or even of New York, there is room for issue to be taken. If it is a faithful picture, America is indeed a lugubrious place.

As musically portrayed, this "America" is strident and blatant and raucous. But if the work is to be considered merely as an impression of one segment of the circle, the auditor must agree that it is cleverly done. Whatever one may think of Mr. Weiss's melodic invention, either in quantity or quality, there is no doubt that he has a flair for orchestral writing. Perhaps he wrote the piece with ironic reservations. At least it so sounded.

It may be said that Mr. Weiss was not so successful in interpreting New York or American life as, let us say, were the waltz kings of Vienna or Vaughan Williams in the "London Symphony." He was in the ranks of the instrumentalists and acknowledged the applause of the audience.

Benno Rabinoff, who was the soloist in the Mendelssohn concerto, was no stranger to many in the audience, for he was greeted cordially when he appeared and at the close of each movement his acknowledgment was unusually modest. Like Elman, Heifetz, Rosen, Seidel, Cecelia Hansen, Eddie Brown, and a host of others, Mr. Rabinoff is also a pupil of the distinguished pedagogue, Leopold Auer. Unlike the others, however, Mr. Rabinoff studied under the master, not in Europe, but here in New York.

He showed excellent bow and left-hand technic. It was also evident that the young violinist had abundant temperament, which incidentally ought to be a bit controlled so that it might be translated spiritually rather than physically. Last night it took the turn of stressing bar-lines so that phrases became somewhat secondary. The violinist's tone, though of much fullness and clarity, impressed the hearer as synthetic sublimation instead of an expression of that warmth which is the result of an inner urge. The performance was promising.

It was an interesting speculation just what difference there would have been in attacks and cut-offs and orchestral balance in the Mozart overture if there had been a conductor with a baton, instead of a concertmaster indicating these things with his head and bow. As it was, the concert showed earnestness, sincerity and musical feeling and gave pleasure.

BUYS STRADIVARIUS HERE.

Geza de Kresz Uses It in Hart House String Quartet Concert.

When the Hart House String Quartet of Toronto completed at Steinway Hall last night a series of half a dozen concerts in this city and Washington, it was disclosed by George L. Colledge, manager for the local appearances, that Geza de Kresz, the first violinist, had purchased privately here a Stradivarius instrument, which he played for the first time in this farewell program. The violin was obtained for him by the quartet's patrons, headed by Canada's Minister to Washington and Mrs. Massey.

With Messrs. Adaskin, Blackstone and Boris Hambourg, Mr. de Kresz presented last evening a classic triad of quartets, the E flat, Op. 74, of Beethoven; Haydn's G minor, Op. 20, No. 3, and the posthumous D minor quartet of Schubert. An audience of musical quality applauded the players as they bowed on repeated recalls at the close.

BILTMORE CONCERTS END.

Last of Morning Musicales Presents Three Favorite Artists.

The last of the series of the Hotel Biltmore musicales was held yesterday morning. A group of favorite artists took part in a miscellaneous program. Margaret Bergin, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang Handel's "Lascia ch'io pianga," an air from "Samson and Delilah," and a group of songs. Everett Marshall, Metropolitan opera baritone, gave the Venetian aria from "Sadko" and several Italian songs, including one by Pietro Cimara, who provided the piano accompaniment. Toscha Seidel, the violinist, appeared at short notice in place of Margherita Salvi, soprano, who was ill, and played a Pugnani prelude, a Brahms Hungarian dance, a Chopin nocturne, and Sarasate's "Zapateado."

MUSIC NOTES.

Union College's musical clubs will appear tonight at the Ritz-Carlton under the auspices of Union alumni in New York.

Evelyn Moreland and Nyda Campbell will have a joint program tomorrow evening at the Pan-Hellenic ballroom in Mitchell Place.

Frank Sheridan and the Stradivarius Quartet end a series of recitals at the Mannes School tomorrow with Schumann's quintet.

Pupils of Vincent Nola, including Irving Nelson and Eleanor MacDonald, sing tomorrow evening at Steinway Hall.

The Sisters Herrera are announced in a farewell of Mexican folk-songs at the Art Centre on Tuesday evening.

Walter Damrosch, lecturing at the piano, will illustrate Wagner's "Siegfried" on Tuesday afternoon at the Town Hall.

"Walkuere" and "Agamemnon" will be the subjects of the third lecture by Adele T. Katz on Wagner's "Ring" at the Steinway Guild Hall next Tuesday morning.

Isabel Knight-Hatfield, soprano, and Ralph Leigh, tenor, are to give a joint recital at the Home Making Centre next Thursday afternoon.

NEW COMPOSITIONS HEARD.

Works of Three Young Musicians Given at Rochester.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Works of three young composers were presented, Dr. Howard H. Hanson directing, at the sixteenth concert in the Eastman School American Composers' series in Kilbourn Hall last night.

There were first performances of a symphony by Randall Thompson dedicated to Dr. Hanson; of a "Symphony Concertante for Horn, Piano and Orchestra," by Mark Wessel, who played the piano score, and a prelude and allegro by Gertrude Brown. Mr. Wessel's composition was dedicated to Wendell Horn, who played the solo horn score.

Dr. Hanson directed the same orchestra that delighted critical audiences in previous concerts this year. Thomas Whitney Surette of Boston represented the Guggenheim Foundation, which has awarded a fellowship to Mr. Thompson. The three composers were generously applauded. Miss Brown took her Master of Music degree at the University of Rochester last June and now is an instructor in Vassar College. Her allegro, which possesses genuine humor, was played in these concerts earlier; her prelude was new and deftly planned, in lyrically serious mood. The modern idiom was adhered to by Mr. Wessel. He tends to point his music constantly with brass and percussion. Mr. Thompson's symphony revealed much excellent instrumentation that challenges and holds attention.

RANSOME HAILED IN "AIDA"

Receives Ovation at Metropolitan Aftr Singing Dramatic Role.

Edward Ransome, the tall Canadian tenor, who made his Metropolitan début this season in "Trovatore," was heard again at the opera last night, where he sang for the first time in a dramatically more exacting rôle as hero of Verdi's "Aïda." Those reappearing in the cast included Mmes. Müller and Claussen, Messrs. Danise, Pinza and Macpherson. Mr. Serafin conducted the melodious classic for the fifth time in the current subscription.

Mr. Ransome sang the "Celesta Aïda" air to great applause, his manly voice taking on a clarion tone without apparent effort and hitting the high notes with singular ease. If at the start he lacked confidence, owing to a recent cold, the response of the house reassured him, and through ensuing scenes he commanded his resources with artistic effect. He made a fine figure in the triumphal return of Rhadames at the gates of Thebes, and his companions in the brilliant ensemble shared with him a popular ovation.

WERBA KIN ASKS DIVORCE.

Daughter of Theatre Man Sues A. L. Creange at Reno.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Lillian Werba Creange filed suit for divorce here today against Arthur Louis Creange, alleging failure to provide. They married in New York City on Jan. 20, 1926. She asks permission to resume her maiden name.

Mr. Creange has filed appearance in the case, which will be tried on Monday without contest.

Mrs. Creange is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Werba of New York. Mr. Werba, who is a nephew of A. L. Erlanger, is the owner of theatres in Brooklyn and Queens.

JERITZA SAILS FOR HOME.

Will Sing in Several Cities Before Her Vacation.

Madame Maria Jeritza, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sailed last night on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen with her husband, Baron Leopold Popper, after a successful season. After visiting her family in Vienna, Mme. Jeritza will sing in concert in Budapest, Bucharest, Berlin and The Hague, and then in opera at Vienna. She will spend most of the Summer at her estate in Austria. In August she will go to San Francisco for the opera season.

Ruth Etting Loses Arbitration.

An echo of Ruth Selwyn's "Nine Fifteen Revue," which closed recently after less than a week on Broadway, was heard yesterday when the claim of Ruth Etting, one of the featured performers in the show, for seven and one-half weeks' salary was disallowed by a board of the American Arbitration Association. Miss Etting's claim grew out of the postponements of the revue. Mrs. Selwyn contended that the actress had agreed to the delays and was not entitled to salary, and the arbitrators sustained her. The board included Abe Lastfogel, appointed by the Actors' Equity Association for Miss Etting; Whittaker Ray, appointed by Mrs. Selwyn, and Michael Cahill, appointed by the American Arbitration Association.

"R. U. R." Will Move to Liberty.

"R. U. R.," now being revived at the Martin Beck Theatre, will be moved on Monday by the Theatre Guild to the Liberty, where it will succeed "Joseph." At the end of a week at the Liberty "R. U. R." will be followed by revivals of "Marco Millions" and "Volpone," each for a week. The cast of "R. U. R.," which includes Earle Larimore, Sylvia Field, Henry Travers, Sydney Greenstreet and Harry Mestayer, will also be seen in "Marco Millions" and "Volpone." The company has been presenting the three plays on tour.

To Give Piano Recital at Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 21.—Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, pianists, will give the first concert in the McCarter Theatre in Princeton next Thursday evening. The recital will be under the auspices of the Princeton Music Committee.

BERTHA KALICH SEEN HERE IN NEW PLAY

Returns in "Soul of a Woman" to Yiddish Stage That Gave Her Fame.

STORY OF SIMPLE WOMAN

Emotional Scene by the Chief Character—Dialogues Are Applauded as Climaxes.

THE SOUL OF A WOMAN, a play in three acts, by H. Kalmanowich; staged by Abe Gross; music by Alex Olshanetsky; produced by Isidore Cashier. At the National Theatre, Second Avenue and Houston Street.

Louis Fradkin....William Schwartz
Minnie, his wife....Bertha Kalich
Abe (in first act)....Eddie Friedlander
Abe (later on)....Irving Jacobson
Eddie (in first act)....Gertrude Crause
Eddie (later on)....Bella Meisel
Nathan, Louis's brother....Jacob Jacobs
Gussie, his wife....Yetta Zwerling
Simon Green, Minnie's brother....Bennie Seidman
Fannie, his wife....Sarah Filler
Jennie, their daughter (first act)....M. Belavsky
Jennie (later on)....May Shoenfeld
Mike, a relative....Abraham Teitelbaum
Irving Glick....David Popper
Stella....Anna Teitelbaum

After an absence of many years from the Yiddish stage which first gave her her fame, Bertha Kalich returned to it last night at the National Theatre on Second Avenue in a vehicle calculated to display her art, "The Soul of a Woman." It is a very simple soul and a very simple woman, who through self-denial helps her husband to rise in the world, only to be repaid with his infidelity. She then goes on a fling herself—goes "modern" in the quaint morality of the author—but, on learning of her husband's misfortune and his prospective suicide, comes to his aid once more with the money she has saved, thus effecting a reconciliation.

The outline of the play no doubt does it more than justice, for one may fill it in with such a homely tragedy as "Jane Clegg," wrought in as simple a framework, combined. But "The Soul of a Woman" cannot for a moment bear such a comparison, for its characters are all in two dimensions, and the dialogue is so loose that there are many places where it seems to be pure improvisation. In the first act, for example, they are so bent on demonstrating the family affection that, much as one likes to see the uncommon spectacle, one begins to wish they would hate each other for a spell.

And when Stella, in the second act, tries to show the kind of woman she's supposed to be—nu nu, there's no doubt about what she's trying to show, even if she doesn't succeed. Maybe she was a little discouraged by the skimpy Park Avenue flat the stage designer provided for her, which was not even as swell as that other tony flat in the other Park—Borough Park (but where do they wear evening clothes in Borough Park—where?). The calibre of the semi-impromptu dialogue may be imagined from the fact that such lines as "Be a boss on your own money," and "It's easier to see the other fellow's faults than your own," stood out as dramatic climaxes and were applauded as such.

Bertha Kalich was herself, playing her rigid, one-faceted rôle with considerable warmth in the early scenes, but obviously waiting for that grand moment when she sits up till 2 A. M. for the errant husband and hears the awful truth. In the eerie darkness she begins with quite a fair basso profundo pleading, "Louis . . ." and runs through the middle register of anger into a hysterical treble, with tearing of hair, waving of arms and racing up and down as an obbligato. It was a grand scene for those who loved that sort of thing as boys twenty years ago and have found nothing better in the theatre since. The reviewer's only regret was that he could not stay for the part where Mme. Kalich gave her version of "modernism" in this black-and-white morality play.

SHAKESPEAREAN SEASON.

Fritz Leiber to Open Here With "King Lear" on March 24.

"King Lear," which has been infrequently played in New York, will be the opening bill of Fritz Leiber's Shakespearean season here. Mr. Leiber will begin his Broadway engagement on March 24, under the auspices of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society, at a Shubert playhouse yet to be chosen. He recently had a twelve weeks' run in Chicago, where he acted in ten Shakespearean plays.

The company numbers forty-eight and includes Marie Carroll, Vera Allen, Virginia Bronson, Kathryn Collier, Louis Leon Hall, Lawrence H. Cecil and Philip Quinn.

MISS GRIFFITH IN SAD ROLE.

Plays Tearful Part in "Lilies of the Field" Film.

LILIES OF THE FIELD, with Corinne Griffith, Ralph Forbes, Ted Loder, Freeman Wood, Eve Southern and others; directed by Alexander Korda, adapted from the play by William Hurlburt; program of Vitaphone shorts, including "Imagine My Embarrassment," "Naughty but Nice" and news reel. At Warners' Strand.

Corinne Griffith in "Lilies of the Field" is probably the saddest person on the screen. Her voice is sad, her manner is tear-drenched, her gestures are those of despair, and the onlooker's reaction to all this sorrowful business is decidedly negative, which makes for a unanimous mood. In this audible film at the Strand, the actress wends her weary way through difficult and slightly trite cinema matter, ending up no happier than in the beginning and not much further advanced.

As Mildred Harker, she is sued for divorce by her husband, who wants to be free to marry another woman. He gains custody of their child. Subsequently Mildred obtains employment in a night club revue and listens to her associates' advice about becoming a "golddigger." She finally does, then learns that her baby is dead, a fact which moves her to wander about in the streets until arrested as a vagrant. She is bailed out of court and promised marriage. Thus the story ends.

Miss Griffith's listless manner is quite depressing even when feigning moments of happiness, and the photoplay falls flat.

The picture includes scenes inside one of those gorgeous motion picture night clubs that presents a revue with more entertainers than customers at the tables. Some of the settings are nicely conceived and there is at least one scene in the revue that might have amounted to something. It appeared slashed. The subject material is ample and a sensitive performance might have made of it an interesting human drama. In its present state it is just another talking film.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Bootleggers and Murder.

ROADHOUSE NIGHTS, with Helen Morgan, Charles Ruggles, Fred Kohler, Jimmy Durante, Fuller Mellish Jr., Leo Donnelly, Tammany Young, Joe King, Lou Clayton and Eddie Jackson, based on a story by Ben Hecht, directed by Hobart Henley; "Hollywood on Broadway," staged by Jack Partington, with Charles Rogers, Paul Ash, Allen and Canfield, Harriett Lee, Paul Small, Worthy and Thompson and others; Jesse Crawford, organist. At the Paramount Theatre.

Helen Morgan, who was last seen in "Applause," is one of the featured players in "Roadhouse Nights," an audible film story of politics and bootlegging now at the Paramount. This picture has been produced with a sense of drama and also a sense of humor. There are moments when the impossible is accomplished, but as Hobart Henley has directed it so intelligently one is willing to accept them, together with convenient coincidences, as interesting imaginative feats.

Ben Hecht, author of "Underworld," is responsible for the story, and his work is strong enough to withstand studio attacks. Perhaps it inspired Mr. Henley and the players, for one cannot point to a single disappointing performance in this film nor to a scene that does not hold the attention.

Charles Ruggles, well-known for his characterizations of inebriates, is perceived in this tale both drunk and sober. It falls to his lot to talk a lot of twaddle over the telephone to the city editor of a Chicago newspaper and at the same time to tick off by dots and dashes the story of a murder by rum-runners and the fact that a chief of police of a suburb of the Windy City is one of the leading figures in a liquor ring. One can't help thinking while Willie Bindbugel (Mr. Ruggles) stands in the telephone booth, with a desperate bootlegger a few yards away, and talks in one line and uses the Morse code in another, that he is straining his mighty brain. Be that as it may, the message is quite successful.

While this is going on, one also wonders why Sam Horner, the bootlegger, played by Fred Kohler, does not grasp what's happening, for he appears to be intelligent if lawless.

In a final episode of this narrative, Helen Morgan, as Lola Fagan, takes a leaf out of "Broadway" and saves her old-time sweetheart, Bindbugel, by putting a bullet through Horner's heart. This is accomplished with stirring effect and without the tried and trusted methods of old movie tactics.

In the beginning James Hanson, a reporter, is sent out by his city editor to look up a report on Horner's bootlegging activities. Hanson calls up to tell the result of his investigation to the newspaper and the city editor is seen listening at the telephone to Hanson, whose voice is heard. Suddenly the talking ceases. In another scene Horner is perceived putting his pistol back in his pocket and then taking a paper with penciled notes from Hanson, who is dead.

The city editor presumes that Hanson has been drinking, and so he sends Bindbugel out to follow up the story. Mr. Bindbugel has little knowledge of the den of iniquity run by Horner. He meets Lola, whom he recognizes as a girl from his home town. How he subsequently is sent away after being drugged and then returns is a mixture of comedy and drama. His persistence finally wins out, but he would have paid for it with his life had not Lola been ready with a pistol.

Horner's retreat is filmed impressively, for everybody in it, from the entertainers to the waiters and cook, have the appearance of desperadoes. Horner is a ruthless gunman, who expects to be obeyed or he will know the reason why.

Miss Morgan gives a human interpretation to the rôle of Lola. Mr. Ruggles is capital as the persistent reporter, and Fred Kohler lends to his part the necessary authority.

Charles Rogers is appearing in person in Jack Partington's stage contribution, "Hollywood on Broadway."

More Backstage Bickering.

CHASING RAINBOWS, with Bessie Love, Charles King, Jack Benny, George K. Arthur, Polly Moran, Gwen Lee, Nita Martan, Eddie Phillips, Marie Dressler and Youcca Troubetzkoy. Written by Bess Meredyth, directed by Charles Riener; "Krazyland," produced by Chester Hale, with Barbara Blair, Leon Chalzel and others. At the Capitol.

Except for a few interludes of passable comedy and two clever recitations by Marie Dressler, "Chasing Rainbows," another audible backstage pictorial narrative, now at the Capitol, is a hapless piece of work. It goes on and on, telling of the love affairs of a susceptible, thick-headed performer named Terry, until finally his loyal little teammate, Carlie, to whom he turns for affection and sympathy in moments of disappointment, is supposed to be happy in having won his affection.

It is so utterly nonsensical that it becomes tedious before it is half way over, and that in spite of some impressive Technicolor episodes. During one sequence Bessie Love, as Carlie, is called upon to give vent to a fit of hysterical laughter that lasts for several minutes, and in another Miss Dressler, as Bonnie, and Polly Moran, as Polly, endeavor to create laughter by a show of intoxication.

Carlie and Terry have been partners for years. Carlie is in love with Terry, but he is fascinated by leading women. Carlie looks after Terry, who, after his first blighted love affair in this yarn, calls for a pistol with which to end his life. Eddie, the stage manager, has plenty of common sense. He asks if anybody in the theatrical company has a weapon to accommodate Terry, knowing full well that Terry loves life more than he loves any woman.

The new stellar performer, Daphne, is an old flame of Terry's and their affection is rekindled. Terry talks of love to Carlie, after discovering Daphne in the arms of another man. Daphne, however, soon convinces the stupid Terry that she really cares for him, and, much to the exaperation of part of the audience yesterday afternoon, Terry and Daphne are wed.

The noble little Carlie continues to be sympathetic, although she is down-hearted. Daphne, who has hopes of obtaining a Broadway engagement through Terry's influence, happens to be overheard by Terry protesting her love for another player. This time Terry takes matters more seriously and then Carlie lets Terry know what an ingrate he has been. It might have helped the story a little if she had refused to have anything further to do with him, but the author presumed that it would be a good idea to have the clever Carlie once again Terry's victim. One can presume that Terry will continue his attentions to leading women, and that Carlie will have to put up with it.

During this cascade of bickering behind the scenes, Charles King, who impersonates Terry, sings several songs, two of them being called "Lucky Me to Have Lovable You" and "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Part of Miss Dressler's low comedy had the desirable effect upon the throng yesterday afternoon. Miss Love is worthy of a far better vehicle.

MRS. FISKE TO PLAY IN 'THE RIVALS' SOON

Revival of Sheridan Comedy Next Month Will Be Her Third Vehicle of Season.

JAMES T. POWERS IN CAST

Others Supporting Noted Actress Will Include John Craig, Rollo Peters, Fiske O'Hara.

A revival of Sheridan's "The Rivals" will be Mrs. Fiske's third play of her New York season, it was announced yesterday by her managers, A. L. Erlanger and George C. Tyler. She will end her current engagement in "It's A Grand Life" at the Cort Theatre a week from tonight. "The Rivals," it was reported last night, will come to a house in Forty-fourth Street about the middle of March.

Supporting Mrs. Fiske will be a number of prominent players, including James T. Powers, as Bob Acres, John Craig as Sir Anthony Absolute, Rollo Peters as Captain Jack Absolute, Pedro de Cordoba as Faulkland and Fiske O'Hara as Sir Lucius O'Trigger. Other members of the company will be Percival Vivian, George Tawde, Edward Powell, Margery Maude, Betty Linley and Georgette Cohan.

Mrs. Fiske and Mr. Powers appeared in the 150th anniversary tour of "The Rivals" five years ago, but their engagements did not include New York.

Margery Maude, who will play Lydia Languish, is a daughter of Cyril Maude. She is returning to the stage after a retirement in the rôle which her mother once played in London under her father's management.

QUEEN MARY SEES MOVIE.

Watches Film of African Jungle Where Prince Will Hunt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Queen Mary went to a movie theatre today and had her first experience of the talkies. She went to see the African jungle film "Tembi" so that she could get a glimpse of the big-game country where the Prince of Wales will soon be hunting. Lions, tigers and giraffes flashed silently across the screen and the Queen was so absorbed that she stayed for the next picture. It happened to be a movietone newsreel, which lasted only a few minutes. Still the Queen stayed. The last film was "The Wireless Age," with Douglas Fairbanks Jr.—a talkie version of John van Druten's play of young love, entitled "Diversion." The Queen stayed for half the picture and then walked out.

"It is a pity I cannot come more often," she told the theatre manager, after the royal car had been waiting for three-quarters of an hour. "I am very nervous at the thought of the Prince of Wales being near so many dangerous beasts."

'White Cargo' on Screen Here.

"White Cargo," a British audible film adaptation of the play of the same name, was shown last night at the George M. Cohan Theatre. A review of this picture will appear in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Monday morning.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Tonight's closings in the Broadway theatres will be "Josef Suss" at Erlanger's Theatre, "Joseph" at the Liberty and "Out of a Blue Sky" at the Booth.

Paul Green's play, "Tread the Green Grass," announced to open at the Belmont Theatre next week, has been temporarily postponed.

The booking of "A Romain' Gentleman," the Hal Skelly-Mary Duncan play, at the Sam H. Harris Theatre on March 3 has been canceled. The play, now running in Philadelphia, where it opened last Tuesday, will close for rewriting a week from tonight. "The Last Mile," current at the Harris, will continue there indefinitely.

The title of Richard Bennett's next starring vehicle, hitherto called "Siberia," has been changed to "In Command." The play will begin a preliminary tour in Newark on March 3.

"Hot and Bothered," a negro musical show, is now in rehearsal at the President Theatre.

"Street Scene" will reach its 500th New York performance at the Ambassador Theatre next Wednesday evening.

The Society of American Magicians will hold its annual benefit at the Heckscher Theatre tomorrow evening. Many well-known magicians are scheduled to appear.

A benefit performance of "The International Revue" in aid of the Educational Guild for Social Guidance will be held on Tuesday evening, March 4. The benefit was first scheduled for Monday night, but was postponed because of the delayed opening of the revue.

"The Fool's Revenge" will be presented at Butler Davenport's Free Theatre on Monday night. Joan Harmon will have a leading rôle.

The Irish Theatre will tonight close both of its productions—"General John Regan" at the Irish Theatre and "The Playboy of the Western World" at the Gansevoort.

FROM WITHERSPOON TO WILSON.

Princeton is true to her traditions in the establishment of a school of public and international affairs. With the coming of JOHN WITHERSPOON, who, it is said, became an American immediately upon landing from Scotland, the trend of the times turned the interest of the students toward public affairs, though even before his time "Nassau Hall" had graduated a number of men who became eminent in public life. The part which WITHERSPOON himself took in politics gave Princeton a wide distinction. HENRY JONES FORD makes the following observation concerning his influence:

> His public activities hurt as well as helped, for some youth from Tory families passed by Princeton to go to Yale, but on the other hand there were New England students who passed by Harvard and Yale to go to Princeton.

The result was that the College of New Jersey became more of a national institution than any other college during the Colonial period. It grew to be "a school of statesmanship for the forming of a nation."

A biographer of JAMES MADISON gives as the latter's reason for his choosing Princeton rather than a college nearer home that he would there have the advantage of broader surroundings than would have been possible elsewhere in America, since in the other colleges of that time most of the students came from the colony in which each was located, while three-fourths of Princeton's students came from outside New Jersey. To its unique position is attributed its "preponderating influence" in the formation of American history. It was pre-eminently a "national" institution in its early days, interested in public affairs.

With the historic address of WOODROW WILSON in 1896, at the celebration of its sesquicentennial, there came a glimpse of a larger horizon into which his own later statesmanship lifted the institution which nourished him. Here are the sentences which gave momentary sight of what became a permanent vision:

> It is indispensable, it seems to me, if the university is to do its right service, that the air of affairs should be admitted to all its classrooms. I do not mean the air of party politics, but the air of the world's transactions, the consciousness of the solidarity of the race, the sense of the duty of man toward man, * * * of the promise and the hope that shine in the face of all knowledge. * * * We dare not keep aloof and closet ourselves while a nation grows to maturity.

What he then pictured as an ideal is now to be a reality in that there is to be a school within the university which will seek to give the students a "fundamental back-"ground for a better understanding "of the new movement in national "and world affairs." Its prime purpose will be, however, to train men who expect to enter public life or public administration. It differs from the School of International Relations just established at Johns Hopkins in that the latter has as its objective the carrying on of research work in international affairs and the preparation of teachers in that field. It is even suggested that some who have undergone the Princeton training may later take up research in the Johns Hopkins school. Professor MACMURRAY, the director of the latter, himself came into international service and into his present position by way of the Princeton teaching of WOODROW WILSON.

It is an appropriate announcement for the birthday of GEORGE WASHINGTON by the president of the institution which was made national in its scope by JOHN WITHERSPOON and international in its dedication by WOODROW WILSON.

JUDICIAL APPOINTMENTS.

Those who charged President HOOVER with unseemly haste in nominating Mr. HUGHES as Chief Justice of the United States may also see something sinister in the rapidity with which the position of Solicitor General, left vacant by the resignation of the junior HUGHES, has been filled. To some people it does not occur that in such cases the Executive has advance knowledge of what is going to happen, so that he may be prepared to act promptly as well as intelligently. Amid all the murmuring, no one hears even a faint suggestion that Judge THACHER is not eminently qualified to be Solicitor General. By inheritance, by training, by taste and aptitude and experience, he was marked out for a legal career. His appointment by President HOOVER as a Federal Judge in this district was hailed by the bar and has been more than vindicated by Judge THACHER'S industry and ability while on the bench. That it will be deprived of his services constitutes the only regret in connection with his going to Washington to become Solicitor General. This is a great office, which has in the past drawn to it many distinguished men, for some of whom it became a stepping stone to higher things. All this is for the future, so far as Judge THACHER is concerned. What immediately concerns New York is the selection of his successor as Federal Judge.

There can be no doubt of President HOOVER'S intention to make his judicial appointments of the highest grade. In this Federal District he has distinctly heightened the bench. It is to be hoped that he will not be forced by politicians to lower it in the slightest by naming some one to take Judge THACHER'S place who does not measure up to the standard set. In Pennsylvania, and also in Kansas, the President was finally driven into a corner by the two Senators from each State, who insisted upon his naming a Federal Judge whom he was strongly disinclined, under the advice of the Attorney General, to appoint. The Senators held a gun at his head and he had to surrender. Nothing of that kind need be anticipated in New York. Our two Senators are Democratic, and Democratic Senators have not the power to go to the President and order him to sign a judicial commission on the dotted line. There is thus every reason for expecting the President to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Judge THACHER in a way commensurate with its importance. If he did not, we should feel that he had weakened the bench in order to strengthen the Solicitor Generalship.

THE FRENCH CABINET.

Concerning the Chautemps Cabinet, its life expectancy and its naval policies, speculation will prefer to take a cautious line. Outside of French parliamentary politics it would certainly be odd to have a Tardieu Ministry of the Right, starting out under cheerful auspices and engaged in piling up prestige for France at the London conference, go down almost without warning and be replaced by a Radical-Socialist Government. Yet it will be recalled that before TARDIEU organized his Cabinet last November the Radical-Socialists had a long try at the task. The leader of the party, M. DALADIER, insisted that he would have succeeded but for certain unfriendly acts on the part of BRIAND. The latter, needless to say, is at his old post of Foreign Minister under CHAUTEMPS, and another member of the Cabinet is DALADIER himself.

It is a Government that may not survive its first test in the Deputies, or that may go on living to its own astonishment. Everything is possible in the present division of party forces in the Chamber, with its Right majority but a majority so meager as to make a Left Government only slightly more illogical. Actually, the balance of parties and groups is such as to make the personal factor decisive. In general, a Government in the present Chamber must lie somewhere in the Centre, whatever may be the nominal Cabinet complexion at any one moment. In a Chamber of 612 members, there is a Left of 224 Socialists and Socialist-Radicals and a Right of 205 Conservatives and Moderates. Of the half dozen smaller groups, ranging from 65 down to a dozen, all but one or two are strong enough to precipitate a crisis by switching allegiance. TARDIEU was undone by the defection, accidental or otherwise, of the Briand followers. Within the parties and groups discipline is not iron-bound. This will explain why five members of the Tardieu Cabinet retain their places with M. CHAUTEMPS. The French policy at the Naval Conference is said to be largely conditioned by the nation's prosperity. Similarly, the nation may feel it can now afford to treat itself to a lot of politics at home.

Assuming that CHAUTEMPS gets his vote of confidence and the London negotiations are resumed, we are offered a choice of guesses as to the effect on the conference. There are qualified observers who insist that the new Cabinet dare not show itself less resolute in defense of the national interests than was TARDIEU, and may even have to outbid him. On the other hand, the probable promotion of BRIAND to the post of chief delegate should help to ease the situation. There is the further consideration that to some extent Franco-British relations before this have been determined by the character of the respective Governments. The British Conservatives have got along best with French Cabinets of the Right, and five years ago Mr. MACDONALD collaborated usefully with M. HERRIOT, leader of the Radical-Socialists. Perhaps he may repeat with HERRIOT'S successor.

CHEESE DAY IN THE SENATE.

Monuments have been erected, and more will be, to the founders of great European cheeses. Wednesday was a monumental day for cheese in the Senate. The question of duties on competitive foreign cheeses turned into a pleasure for the caseiform brain of every lover of cheese. Cheddar, Edam, Gruyère, Roquefort—the very names are filling. It is an edible number of The Congressional Record. We don't often agree with Senator BLAINE, but all cheeses do. He is the chief tyrologer of the Senate. Familiarity with figures of more gracious perfume did not make him forget a strong old friend.

> We have that very special cheese that has sort of gone out of style since the Eighteenth Amendment, at one time known as Limburger.
>
> Mr. COPELAND—For what purpose was that used?
>
> Mr. BLAINE—That was used in sandwiches. It was a very good sandwich cheese.
>
> Mr. COPELAND—I assumed the Senator from Wisconsin would probably know about it.
> Mr. BLAINE—Yes; I have some familiarity with Limburger cheese. In fact, I have eaten all of these different kinds of cheese.

Ah, wicked Wisconsin! To think that the milky mothers of herds should ever have been debased into furnishing shoehorns for the lords of stein and seidel. About half of our annual 80,000,000 pounds of imported cheese comes from Italy, and a large part of this half is "Roman cheese," Romano or Pecorino. Mr. COPELAND and the Massachusetts Mr. WALSH, who have many constituents of Italian origin, befriended this sheep's milk cheese. Some of us might say that we are all Italians in love of Italian cheeses, though those of Piedmont seem to have been neglected in the Senate. It is almost like meeting with THEOCRITUS and the Sicilian Muses to read the catalogue of Italian sheep's milk cheeses, a poem in itself, with which Mr. COPELAND enriched The Record:

> Pecorino Dolce, Pecorino Toscano, Ancona, Cotrone, Iglesias, Leonessa, Puglia, Viterbo.

The milk of Viterbo is curdled by means of wild artichokes. To this pastoral touch Mr. COPELAND could have added just one more glimpse of visionary happiness for the reader; one more song, a roster of Italian wines. Mr. COPELAND wasn't born yesterday. He ingeniously exhibited hard cheese grated on macaroni as a means of farm relief. Macaroni is the child of wheat. The more cheese used the more demand for wheat. He likes hard cheese ground up. All cheese is good cheese to catholic Mr. BLAINE. Not often is a Senate debate so instructive and so toothsome.

A KNIFE TURNED INWARD.

Whether it is because Democratic Governors are better politicians than their Republican foes, as being straightforward in meeting issues, or whether a tragic destiny pursues Republican strategy at Albany, the fact remains that opposition plans, not only "aft," but always, "gang a-gley." The latest example is the Jenks bill to provide for State prohibition enforcement. Like so many other bills of Republican origin since 1918, this measure was conceived "to put the Governor in a hole." He was supposed to dread the possibility of having to take a stand upon it, yet of being unable to avoid taking a stand. Now it develops that it is Republican members of the Assembly who are viewing the measure with alarm. The Dry up-State counties, particularly along the Canadian border, are showing distinctly Wet signs due to resentment against enforcement measures. Evidences are multiplying that Wet sentiment is growing in other Dry parts of the State. Beset on one hand by the Anti-Saloon League and on the other by ominous rumblings from home, some Dry Republican legislators would, say the Albany correspondents, like to see Mr. JENKS'S bill crumble quietly into its ingredients. Members from doubtful districts, according to the correspondent of The Sun, may "just happen to be away" when the vote is taken.

Prospects for passage of the measure in the Assembly are considered dark. But even if the trembling tribunes should be coerced into passage of the bill, its failure in the Senate is deemed certain. Therefore the Governor, if he ever feared to have the legislation come before him (which is doubtful), is not likely to have to face the issue. Its perplexities and dangers will confront those who were awaiting the tumble of Governor ROOSEVELT into the rude trap. With former Senator WADSWORTH attacking the entire Dry program, and city leaders unwilling even to discuss a State enforcement bill, the Dry legislators seem again to have been wounded from their own lines in the rear.

IMPROVING NEW YORK'S SPA.

The report of the Saratoga Springs Commission just submitted to the Legislature amplifies the recommendations already made for developing the spa. Its contents have been foreshadowed by earlier releases condensing the findings of the subcommittees last Summer and Autumn. Thanks to the thoroughness with which the studies have been made, the people of the State may rest assured that the recommendations are sound.

They include the placing of all the water at Saratoga under strict medical supervision, the erection of laboratories for research, the building of a thoroughly up-to-date bathing, drinking and therapeutic establishment with adequate recreational facilities; a sanitarium, a new bottling plant and encouragement of the addition of small hotels and boarding houses near the reservation and in the city.

One of the merits of the report is that it has been made only after exhaustive studies of European spas. The United States has never developed the use of thermal waters as has either Europe or Japan. A number of springs have long been popular—some were used by the Indians before the white men came. At Saratoga itself there has long been an extensive business in the use of the waters for drinking and bathing. But not even the fact that last century Saratoga was one of the most famous and fashionable resorts in the United States made it comparable in equipment to the baths in Europe.

The cost of the proposed buildings and changes is put at a minimum of $2,200,000. Yet it is believed that the new establishment will be able to operate at a profit, whereas the old one has had an annual deficit. While profit-making was not the main objective of those who urged the rehabilitation of Saratoga, it is obvious that there are advantages for the State if it can at the same time make Saratoga pay and greatly increase its utility.

The future of the springs is now in the hands of the Legislature. The committee has decided that unless the State is willing to develop the springs properly it should make no further investment at Saratoga. The Legislature should consider the report as a non-political document and either approve or reject it with a view solely to the advantages to the State as a whole. Naturally, the neighborhood of Saratoga would benefit by the improvements. But the many persons throughout the State who, if the waters were more accessible and the plant were modernized, would be inclined to use it are as interested as are the residents of Saratoga Springs.

LIGHT ON THE NATIONAL THEATRE.

Indifference and objection have long met the enthusiastic supporters of the British National Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. The indifference is disappearing before brighter prospects of its establishment in the near future, but opposition is winning as many adherents as its proponents can capture. The argument over its value and its chances of success might, like most disputes, come to a quick ending if the two sides did not misunderstand each other so completely. Those who believe in it most fervently are not always quite clear why it is needed, what it would do for drama, actors and audiences, and why its place should be distinct from private commercial theatrical enterprises. They have needed a spokesman to confute the rather sharper and better-defined arguments of the opposition.

They are about to find one in Mr. HARLEY GRANVILLE-BARKER, who has rewritten "The National Theatre," the book which he and the late WILLIAM ARCHER published some twenty-five years ago. From the first chapter The London Times has taken for advance printing certain paragraphs that throw a spotlight on the aims of the most whole-hearted advocates of a National Theatre. Half-way measures and the middle ground of utilitarian argument are scorned. Mr. GRANVILLE-BARKER puts the National Theatre with the National Gallery, the British Museum and libraries of standard literature. It is needed in the same way, not as mere "casual entertainment, but as "an art worthy to rank with other "fine arts."

The practical plans are most interesting, and moreover appear to be fundamentally sound and workable. They are based on the successes and guided by the failures of other repertory theatres in England and on the Continent, and their concreteness is just what has been needed to solidify the nebulous enthusiasm of many who want a National Theatre without being able to tell why. There would be two "houses," one large and one small, in the theatre. A resident company of adequate size and variety in personnel could perform about fifty plays a year, "and not one of them need be a poor one." Shakespeare, of course, the other Elizabethans occasionally, eighteenth century comedy, revivals of plays written since 1680, both English and foreign, and (optimistically) eight or ten new plays a year would be given. From six to a dozen different plays would be staged each week in both houses. The program would be elastic, no play would be acted continuously and the success of the moment would not be exploited.

Experience proves that all this cannot be supplied by private enterprise, according to Mr. GRANVILLE-BARKER. The commercial manager may be a man of taste, but if the fine play he produces does not make money quickly he must substitute a pot-boiler. He is to be commended for trying to do anything better than guessing at the "passing fancy of "the largest number of the stupidest "people with the longest purses." The National Theatre would not compete with him. It would create a place in the theatrical world which does not now exist.

QUEENS ALSO WANTS ONE.

Civic centres are all the rage these days. Every borough in the city has one, or the makings of one, except Queens. Residents of that borough, the biggest of them all in area and with the fastest growing population, have cast envious eyes on other civic centres and would like one of their own. But Queens is not so homogeneous as it might be. It contains scores of communities which, to tell the truth, are just a bit jealous of each other. Already there is a rather keen rivalry for the new enterprise. Jamaica wants it, and so does Elmhurst, and Borough President HARVEY himself has recently suggested a site up near Flushing. Now comes the Regional Plan Committee with a vigorous report in favor of a combined airport and civic centre in the region known as Juniper Valley, between Maspeth and Middle Village.

The committee has tried to rise above local rivalries in its search for a site appropriate to the development of the borough which will at the same time fit the needs of the city as a whole. Juniper Valley is—or will be when its approaches are improved—within fifteen minutes' motoring distance of Manhattan. "Thus New York will be provided "with a landing field unequaled by "any other city in the matter of "proximity to its chief centre of "population." It is readily accessible not only to the proposed Thirty-eighth Street tunnel and Triborough Bridge but to all parts of Queens. A sketch accompanying the report shows a single dominating tower capped with a high dome containing an airplane beacon. About it would be grouped the borough offices, the borough library and other public buildings, with a spacious plaza in their midst. This site was recommended by the Federal commission, but some doubt has been expressed as to its economic practicability on account of the high cost of the land. The Regional Plan Committee believes that to develop it jointly as an airport and a civic centre would create values so large that they would more than justify the original outlay.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Chief Clerk Resigns. The heavy hand of resignation has now fallen upon the Surrogate's Court of Kings County as it did recently upon that of New York County. A few weeks after Tammany's leader, Mr. CURRY, severed his connection on this side of the river, Mr. MCCOOEY, the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, announces his retirement from the position of chief clerk. It must have been fascinating to the Surrogates to realize that in the persons of their distinguished employes resided most of the power which nominated and elected the jurists themselves. Not that Mr. MCCOOEY and Mr. CURRY did not play their relatively humble official rôles with self-effacement and dignity. But with them at the desks the Surrogates must often have felt like LOUIS XIII in the presence of RICHELIEU.

Mr. CURRY had not been leader of Tammany very long before he severed his office-holding connection, and now it is said that the action was suggested by Mr. MCCOOEY. If this is true, the consciousness dawned after a good many years upon the Brooklyn boss that county leaders should not hold office. Possibly it seemed to him that two great leaders should not hold jobs so much alike. Whatever the motive, Mr. MCCOOEY will not be too modest to draw his pension of $6,800.

From now on, in an office almost the duplicate of the chief clerk's, he will devote all his time to his political duties. Uninformed outsiders thought he did that anyhow.

Son of an Illustrious Father. A young British orator named RANDOLPH CHURCHILL made his entry into public notice on Thursday when he won the acclaim of a large audience in a debate at the Oxford Union. The speaker is described as a fair-haired, handsome youth of 18, and is believed to have derived some of the fire and color which he put into his words from his father, the Hon. WINSTON CHURCHILL, the well known collector of hats and anti-Snowden epigrams, and from the latter's father, Lord RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, who in his day displayed no mean powers of expression.

The dispatch from Oxford states that, despite the vigor and bite of his speech, the youngest CHURCHILL "was more restrained than his impetuous father." This would be only natural, speaking as he did before so serious-minded a body as the undergraduate debating society at Oxford University, instead of in the House of Commons on such trifles as the British budget or the Soviet menace.

The quotations from the Oxford speech certainly bear out the characterization of restraint. Young CHURCHILL argued that the British must not withdraw from Egypt, because under British rule the country has enjoyed greater well-being than in the preceding 2,000 years, and the Egyptian people must be protected against exploitation by their own Pashas. That argument has featured several thousand Conservative speeches on imperial problems. It shows how faithful to tradition some of our modern boys of 18 may be.

A Much Sought Educator. President HENRY W. CHASE has done so well by the University of North Carolina that he has been called to several other positions of importance. At last he has yielded to the invitation from the University of Illinois. It is not that he is going to a greater position than he has made of that which he now holds, but that he has seen an opportunity to do for another State something comparable with what he has done for North Carolina—perhaps to carry Illinois as far beyond what she now is as North Carolina is beyond what she was when this New England Yankee began his presidency.

He has declared his faith in the State university. A privately endowed school may limit its admissions to those who show certain qualities of leadership, but in his view the State university holds that "education is not too precious to be touched and handled by the average man." It must, to be sure, also train for leadership, but most of the 750,000 students now in colleges will not be outstanding leaders. Yet they may be lifted to a higher level of knowledge, their lives enriched and their horizons broadened with new possibilities for usefulness.

It is with such a declaration but lately on his lips that he goes to a State university of even greater responsibilities and possibilities than that which he leaves. Most men stay too long in one position. President CHASE has not done so, though he has stayed long enough to leave his permanent mark upon the University of North Carolina. He will enlarge his contribution to America's educational history in his new position, where he will be a worthy successor of DRAPER, JAMES and KINLEY.

The Right to Be Hanged. England prides herself on the impartiality of her justice. The same brand is meted out to rich and poor, high and low.

But now in England a movement to exempt women from the death penalty has been headed by Dr. METHVEN, Governor of the Maidstone prison. If it were successful, even the most flagrant murder committed by a woman would not be punished by hanging.

Curiously, many British women are strongly against it. They demand sex equality, even on the gallows. The Women's Freedom League calls such a measure sex discrimination and protests vehemently against it. The secretary is quoted as saying: "I am strongly opposed to capital punishment, but I am against women being exempt from the death penalty while men are not exempt."

Obviously, these women are not eager themselves to dance upon the air. And theirs is no fanatic zeal to see an erring sister punished by hanging. But an exemption of this sort would put a weapon in the hands of anti-feminists. If women are not to suffer the punishments of men, why should they share the privileges? After all, women murderers are rare in England. Why benefit them to the detriment of the vast majority of their sex? The right to be hanged is only one of many more pleasant privileges which the women of England are demanding.

WINTER PLANTING.

It came a month ago, the gentle slow
Thaw I had waited for; and fragile snow
Had perished overnight. At last I found
The brown of cold yet living Winter ground,
Filled all my empty flower pots, warmed the earth,
Set in my bulbs and waited for the birth
Of hyacinth and tulip.

Soon the narrow
Bounds of my garden showed the tender arrow
Of tulip leaf; and through the soil there broke,
Hyacinth like a little artichoke.

But lovelier than these green familiar things
Came threadlike stems lifting two tiny wings:
For all my flower pots showed a multitude
Of delicate blades, an unexpected brood:
Chickweed and grasses, rootlets, tiny lives—
The sort that grows unsown, unnurtured thrives;
The sort that overruns a Summer garden;
Whose timid leaves had found a Winter Arden
By accident of birth. The evanescent
Green of each fine-spun stem, each leafy crescent,
Was frailer, fairer and more dignified
Than the bold tulips, spreading calm and wide,
Or the plump hyacinths, sure and satisfied.

By mere beneficence of green, my weeds
Were welcomer than foreseen and planted seeds.

WORLD COURT JUDGES.

Their Job Is No Sinecure—Salaries to Be Increased.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE NEW YORK TIMES of Feb. 15 stated, in connection with an account of the forthcoming election of judges of the Permanent Court of International Justice, that "positions on the court are largely honorary" and that "the salary is $6,000 a year, plus traveling expenses and certain allowances—a nominal remuneration for a successful lawyer." This fact, it was said, practically limits "the candidates to men who have acquired their fortunes or have independent means."

It would be very unfortunate if such an impression of the work of a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice came to prevail. Far from holding merely "honorary positions," the judges of the court have been extremely busy during a large part of each year since 1922. In one year, 1925, the court was in session for 210 days. In 1929 it was in session from May 13 to Sept. 10, 121 days. Certainly the judges who have worked so hard to make the court a success have not regarded themselves as holding "honorary positions," and their sixteen judgments and sixteen advisory opinions and numerous important orders given during the past eight years are evidence of the seriousness with which they have approached their task.

Nor does your statement about the salaries of a judge give a proper impression. Under the present scale, a judge receives a fixed annual salary of 15,000 florins (about $6,000), plus 100 florins for each day spent on the court's work, as duty allowance, plus traveling and living expenses while at The Hague. The maximum compensation is 45,000 florins (about $18,000), plus traveling expenses. The scale is now in process of being changed, however, and if the pending amendments to the court's statute come into force on Sept. 1, 1930, the judges will hereafter receive a fixed annual salary of 45,000 florins (about $18,000), plus traveling expenses and retiring pensions. A committee of the Tenth Assembly of the League of Nations reported last year that in its judgment this was a sufficient amount to enable qualified lawyers to be attracted to serve on the court. Certainly the judges to date have not been notedly men of independent means, and it would be extremely regrettable if such high opportunity for public service should not appeal to the best qualified men in any country.

VISTAS OPENED.

News From London Elicits Good Word for Admirals' Advice.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice the following in THE TIMES correspondent's special cable from London today:

"The London conference's chief difficulty lies in the mistake the Washington conference of 1922 made with regard to France in placing the French naval strength at one-third of that of England or America and below that of Japan.

"When the American naval experts were asked in 1921 what strength France should have, they gave an estimate of 60 per cent of the American or British fleet. The statesmen saw a chance to get France to accept one-third and succeeded. Due to the precarious French financial position, this accord was ratified [after having been held up for consideration during eighteen months], but there has been in France ever since a determination to overcome what they regard as an indignity, and now the London conference reaps the results of the error of the Washington conference."

Seemingly, as I have long had excellent reasons for believing, our naval experts proposed in 1921 that the ratio of the Washington conference should allow the French a fleet equal to 60 per cent of that of the American or British fleets, thus putting France and Italy on the same level as Japan. And, seemingly, our statesmen, disregarding this advice, yielded to those who wanted to constrict the French. But from all this a logical conclusion now seems to be that the present "chief difficulty" of the London conference would not have arisen had the advice of our—by some—anathematized Admirals been followed in this matter.

Your correspondent's revelation opens broad vistas to the informed. But let us here treat it merely as the proverbial verbum sat sapienti. For there are so many that refuse to recognize the past mistakes of their pets until the inevitable chain of events confronts the world with the consequences.

A Long Island Convenience.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Increasing numbers of Long Island commuters again give rise to the question as to what the Long Island Railroad is going to do with them. Diagonal Street, Long Island City—wherever that may be—is suggested as a possible terminal in lieu of the Pennsylvania station, already crowded to capacity.

Just before entering the tunnels beneath the East River, the Long Island tracks pass within a few feet of the tracks of the Interborough, where they, too, leave the elevated structure and plunge into the ground for their submarine trip to Manhattan. This is the Queens division of the Interborough and connects with both the east and west side subways.

Would not that be the logical site for a commuters' transfer? Incoming trains could discharge directly into the subway as they do at Flatbush Avenue in Brooklyn. And, since the great majority of commuters from Long Island seem to use the subways anyway, there would be little change in convenience. Such a step, moreover, would greatly relieve pressure on the Forty-second Street shuttle.

Such a step might require the digging of two more rapid transit tunnels under the East River, but that seems an obvious eventuality anyway.

WORLD COURT TOPIC AT MODEL LEAGUE

American Students Are Delegates as Assembly Begins Its Sessions at Toronto.

COVENANT CHANGE URGED

R. W. Snider of Princeton Offers Amendment to Bring It Into Line With Peace Pact.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 21.—Many persons in the United States are in favor of American adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice, according to the committee report presented at the opening session of the model assembly of the League of Nations at University College today.

Fifty-four nations are represented in the model assembly by delegates from nine Canadian and three American universities.

The meetings have all the atmosphere of the parent organization. Delegates are at separate desks, which are labeled with cards bearing in French the name of the nation represented. At the end of the hall on a dais sits N. A. MacKenzie, Professor of Law at the University of Toronto, who this morning was elected president of the assembly.

At convenient points around the hall are pageboys, who are frequently on the run, passing messages between delegates.

The morning session was opened with an address of welcome by Sir Robert Falconer, president of the university. He was followed by Professor George Wrong, Professor Emeritus of History at the university and acting president of the council.

The following were elected vice presidents: G. K. King, representing Bolivia; T. S. Foran, British Empire; K. Y. Wong, China; S. Cotte, France; V. Schlackman, Nicaragua, and C. L. Snider, Portugal.

Universities represented by delegates are Harvard, Manitoba, McGill, Royal Victoria College, McMaster, New Brunswick, Ottawa, Princeton, Queen's, Vassar, Western Ontario and Toronto.

Other organizations participating are Osgoode Hall, the Chinese Nationalist party of America, Ontario Older Boys' Parliament and the University Women's Club.

The first matter to come before the council was the proposal to amend the covenant to bring it into line with the peace pact submitted by R. W. Snider Jr. of Princeton, representing Switzerland. He suggested that the league recognize that only by reduction of national armament to the lowest point consistent with domestic safety could peace be maintained in the world. He advocated that disputes between nations should be solved by arbitration.

The amendments were referred to the legislative committee.

The council then discussed reorganization of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

J. K. Webb for Peru submitted that the deputy judges now on the court should be replaced by an equal number of ordinary judges and that the court be a continuing body, instead of holding sessions periodically.

He recommended that the system of national judges be extended to the court to include special chambers for labor, &c., and that judges' salaries be raised and fixed according to a schedule.

These recommendations were also referred to the legislative council.

It was stated in the committee report that the United States was fully prepared to ally itself with the world court with the reservation that such adherence be not regarded as a departure from her policy of no foreign entanglements.

22 TYPES OF PNEUMONIA.

Health Bureau Reports Finding of Them—New Serum Planned.

With the isolation of twenty-two specific types of pneumococcus, the making of a new serum to combat pneumonia will be begun in the Department of Health Research Laboratory, it was announced yesterday by Health Commissioner Wynne.

The serum experimentation has been made possible by the contribution by the Altman Foundation of $4,400 to New York University for the purchase of ten horses, in which the serum is to be developed.

"The opportunity for producing serum for types of penumomycosis," Dr. Wynne said, "is the outgrowth of work which has been undertaken in conjunction with our research laboratory under the subvention of $25,000 a year from Lucius N. Littauer. Recently Dr. William H. Park, Dr. Jesse G. M. Bullowa and their assistants in the research laboratory, working under these funds, have been able to classify twenty-two different types of pneumomycosis, and for some of these serums treatments seem promising."

TO LAUNCH V-6 MARCH 15.

Mare Island Commandant Tells Plans for Fleet Submarine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Rear Admiral G. W. Laws, commandant of the navy yard at Mare Island, Cal., notified the Navy Department today that plans for the launching of the fleet submarine V-6 on March 15 are nearing completion. Miss Jean Koesling, daughter of Francis V. Koesling of San Francisco, has been designated as sponsor for the new undersea craft, the latest word in American naval construction for this type of vessel.

The V-6 is one of the nine fleet submarines authorized by the act of Aug. 29, 1916, and four of these craft are now in commission. The dimensions of the V-6 are: Length over all, 371 feet; extreme breadth, 33 feet 3 inches; draft, 15 feet 11 inches; displacement on the surface, 2,760 tons; displacement submerged, 3,960 tons. The craft has quarters for nine officers, nine chief petty officers and seventy other enlisted men.

TO PICK HARVARD BOOK.

Alumni Committee for Selection of Prize Volume Is Named.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 21.—Fifteen Harvard graduates, selected from all parts of the country, have been chosen to make up the Harvard Book Prize Committee, the Alumni Association announced. The committee will select a book to be distributed by local Harvard clubs to preparatory schools in their districts. The committee is:

William D. Orcutt, Boston, chairman; Howard Corning, Cambridge, vice chairman; Samuel A. Weldon, New York; J. R. Jenkins, Phoenix, Ariz.; Alfred Bettman, Cincinnati; J. Archer P. Reilly, St. Louis; Joseph M. Sniffen, Los Angeles; E. N. Willis, Dallas, Texas; Charles W. Wilder, Pittsburgh; Edward M. Keays, Milwaukee; Fred A. Shaw, Detroit; Henry G. Doyle, Washington; Clay Judson, Chicago; Frederick C. Baker, Philadelphia; D. Howard Moffat, Salt Lake City.

URGE EASIER TESTS FOR PRIVATE PILOTS

Plane Manufacturers, at St. Louis, Say Government Hinders Flying.

BIG INTEREST IN GLIDERS

Companies Are Featuring Them at Show to Get Sportsmen "Used to the Air."

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21.—Criticism of the rigidity of the present physical examinations for those seeking a private flier's license developed today in a meeting of the aircraft manufacturers, members of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, in which Colonel Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, took part.

Charles L. Lawrence, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, spoke on this subject. He stipulated definitely, however, that he did not believe in any let-down for transport pilots' certificates.

"The present physical examination, in my opinion, is entirely unnecessary for private fliers," Mr. Lawrence declared. "The advances made during the last two years in construction of airplanes make such an examination needless. At present the private fliers must pass physical tests equal to those set for transport pilots on the big transport lines and the chartered planes."

He added that the present regulations merely increased the red tape of learning to fly. Many persons who can afford to buy and operate light planes for sport, he said, are prevented from doing so by the present physical restrictions.

Colonel Young explained that it was the department's desire to provide regulations to direct the development of glider construction, but that it did not want to make the regulations so severe that the movement would be retarded.

Gliders Are Discussed.

After a short discussion of some of the new rulings on aircraft construction, which was led by Kenneth Lane, chief of the technical division of the department, the talk turned to gliders. It developed that a number of the prominent manufacturers were beginning to emphasize glider construction and production, among them the Cessna Company of Wichita and the Detroit Aircraft Corporation, which has sold fifty of the motorless flying machines at the exposition.

Pilots, manufacturers and aeronautical leaders attending the meeting expressed the belief that a revival of the gliding movement in America will prove a great boon to the development of private sport flying. It was the opinion of the gathering that masses of people could get the "feel of the air" at low cost, and thus build up interest in flying among sportsmen.

Representatives of leading gasoline and oil companies, among them Lieutenant James H. Doolittle and Captain Frank Hawks, agreed that member companies in the Aeronautical Chamber would not donate their products to individual operators except for test purposes.

The oil companies further agreed to pay no money and grant no special discounts and furnish no free advertising for the exclusive right to market aviation products at an airport.

New Designs Please Visitors.

Visitors at the show yesterday expressed their pleasure at the improvement in design, and especially the improvement in small-powered engines, in the last year.

Clarence D. Chamberlin spent the day at the exposition examining engines.

"The advance in these motors, in my opinion, will be a great help in the development of the light airplane," Chamberlin said. He added that the powered glider or very small plane interested him far more than the motorless plane. This field, he said, would probably answer the demand for the cheap but reliable plane for sportsmen.

He was especially interested in the new Szekeley three-cylindered, forty-horsepower engine, the new in-line models, the Fairchild, Curtiss Crusader and Wright Gipsy.

Clifford Henderson, general manager of the exposition, said tonight that the sales at the show were evidences of its great success. Over $2,500,000 in sales had been reported so far, he said, and added that he expected this figure would be doubled by Sunday night, when the show closes.

DENIES MEN OVER 40 ARE BARRED FROM JOBS

Bay State Survey Report Says Employers Are Trying to Solve Problem.

BOSTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—The associated industries of Massachusetts today reported that an industrial survey had "disproved recently published statements to the effect that men of 40 or over are not wanted or retained in industry" and that "our army of worn-out workers is being greatly enlarged."

The report said that such statements were "neither warranted by available data nor in accordance with the facts."

The survey showed that "middle-aged workers out of employment are finding work today in Massachusetts industry; that there are no data to show general discrimination against older workers; that most employers are earnestly trying to find ways to lessen the difficulty of older workers in retaining and finding employment; and that while there are at least six relief measures in use and proposed, choice of the best course is not always easy and the problem grows as a concern grows old."

Public pensions were disapproved by the investigators.

EXPLAINS PRINCIPLE OF GANDHI'S STAND

Director of India Independence League Declares Violence Will Not Be Countenanced.

T. H. K. Rezmie, founder and director of the India Independence League of America, wrote to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday with regard to recent press dispatches quoting Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader in India, as anticipating violence in the campaign to obtain freedom from Great Britain.

The dispatches, according to Mr. Rezmie, misinterpret Mahatma Gandhi's statements.

"A cabled summary of his views on the subject, which has just been received by me," wrote Mr. Rezmie, "discusses the existence in the country of the forces of violence; the government determined to suppress civil disobedience by all means at its disposal, the indigenous Indian allies of the government who have become callous to the condition and the suffering of the masses, and the violent Nationalists. In this atmosphere the duty of the Gandhi followers is outlined thus:

"'The government will spread out red paws in what it will call self-defense. The party of violence may commit the mistake of coming out in the open. The non-violent party must then prove its creed by being ground to powder between two millstones. If there is such a party, all is well for India and the world. My hopes and plans are built upon an ever-increasing faith in the existence of that party of true non-violence.'

"The cabled quotation from him which I have presented here assuredly should eradicate from the American mind what lurking suspicions or fear there might be that Gandhi might compromise with violence or countenance it from his own followers. To Gandhi non-violence is dearer and more fundamentally binding than even the determination to wrest freedom from stubborn hands."

30 AMERICAN SEAMEN APPEAL FOR HELP

State Department Aids Crew Starving at Cape Verde After Seizure of Ship for Salvage.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Receipt here of word that the American crew of the steamship Arcturus was stranded at St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, with insufficient food and water after the leaking vessel had been towed in by the British steamer Cordelia and seized for salvage, was followed tonight by State Department assurances that arrangements had been made to care for the seamen.

Meager details of the plight of the ship and its crew of thirty-three were given in a telegram to Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island from Catherin Jeffrey, his secretary at Providence, after Mrs. Charles C. Harris of Pawtucket, R. I., wife of the chief engineer of the Arcturus, had received a letter from her husband.

State Department officials said arrangements had been made to care for the crew and to furnish transportation back to the United States.

The Arcturus left New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 7 for the Cape Verde Islands with 100 passengers, a crew of thirty and a cargo of automobiles and general merchandise.

The telegram to Senator Metcalf said Harris and thirty other American seamen had been without food or water for two days and had had little to eat since. It also said two cablegrams had been sent to the American Consul at Madeira for advice and help, but no reply had been received.

M'COY AGAIN HONORED FOR NICARAGUA WORK

General Gets Oak Leaf Cluster to Add to His Distinguished Service Medal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The services of Major Gen. Frank R. McCoy, personal representative of President Coolidge in Nicaragua in 1927-1928, when he supervised the Presidential election were further recognized today when the War Department, by direction of President Hoover, made him the first award of an Oak Leaf Cluster for the Distinguished Service Medal.

General McCoy now commands the Fourth Corps Area at Atlanta.

Previously his services in Nicaragua were recognized when President Hoover promoted him from Brigadier Generall to Major General severa months in advance of the date on which he would ordinarily have been elevated. General McCoy originally received a Distinguished Service Medal for meritorious services as secretary of the general staff of the A. E. F., as commander of the 165th Infantry of the Forty-second Division and as commander of the Sixty-third Infantry Brigade during the World War.

The law which authorized the Distinguished Service Medal provides that but one may be issued to any person, but that for each succeeding deed or act sufficient to justify the award of the medal the President may award a suitable bar or other device. The Oak Leaf Cluster has been adopted as the device for this purpose.

McCOOEY PLEA APPROVED.

Board of Estimate Acts on His Retirement From Court Post.

The application of John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, for retirement March 1 on a pension from the office of clerk of Surrogate's Court in Kings County was approved yesterday by the Board of Estimate.

John R. McDonald, deputy chief clerk, is slated to succeed Mr. McCooey when the latter quits office. There will be promotions among the other seven attachés of the Surrogate's Court. Mr. McDonald's salary will increase from $8,000 yearly to $10,500, which Mr. McCooey received.

Mrs. Wieland Recovering in Rome.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Wieland, who has been critically ill at the Anglo-American Nursing Home in Rome, is now out of danger. Her condition is so improved that she expects to leave the nursing home Saturday or Monday. Mr. Wieland contemplates leaving Rome for Florence early next week.

HOOVER OPPOSES CIVIL SERVICE BILL

Finds Date Retirement Measure 'Penalizes' the Government's Veteran Employes.

FAVORS LEHLBACH PLAN

Though It Would Take More From Treasury, President Declares It Is Preferable.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Expressing his desire for the enactment of a civil service retirement bill which would be just to all Federal employes under civil service, President Hoover this afternoon stated that the Lehlbach bill was preferable to the Dale bill. Both measures are pending in Congress.

"There has been a good deal of discussion about the Dale bill for liberalization of the civil service retirement act," Mr. Hoover said. "I have been anxious to secure a proper readjustment of the civil service retirement fund, and my attention has been called to certain injustices in the Dale bill by the various departments of the government. The plan in the Dale bill presents the same difficulties to me that it presented to my predecessor.

"That is, the great injustice to those employes who, as the result of faithful and capable service, gradually rise over their years of service by promotion into higher grades.

"They are badly penalized under that arrangement, and the penalties are so large that it would be better for these employes if they took their 3½ per cent and deposited it in a savings bank.

"In other words, the government contributes nothing and actually penalizes them for their industry and faithfulness by taking part of their savings. The Lehlbach plan puts no penalties on the lower grades; in fact, some of them are actually improved."

The President said that the Lehlbach plan would require "something more from the treasury" than the Dale program, but indicated his belief that the benefits of the first-named scheme would outweigh this disadvantage.

"I feel that there are serious injustices to be corrected," he continued. "I am not concerned with any one plan so long as it takes into consideration the proper proportion of the contributions by the government employes. I think it is desirable to make that clear to the employes."

Fearing that his own bill would fare badly because of opposition manifested against it, Mr. Lehlbach has announced that he would withdraw his measure and ask the Civil Service Committee to report the Dale bill, which has already passed the Senate. A poll of the committee shows that 13 out of 21 members favor reporting the Dale bill favorably.

PLAN TARRYTOWN CITY AS RICHEST OF ITS SIZE

Municipal Experts Would Merge Villages and Probably Annex Rockefeller Holdings.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 21.—The creation of the City of Tarrytown, the wealthiest city for its size in the State, backed by John D. Rockefeller Jr., loomed as a possibility here today.

The city would consolidate the villages of Tarrytown and North Tarrytown with an assessed valuation of $36,000,000 and probably annex the vast holdings owned by Mr. Rockefeller in Archville, Pocantico Hills, Sleepy Hollow and East View, with an additional assessed valuation of about $8,000,000. The plans are to be voted upon by the taxpayers.

The report favoring the creation of the City of Tarrytown was completed today by the New York Bureau of Municipal Research at a cost of several thousand dollars of which Mr. Rockefeller will pay his share together with fifteen other business men of the Tarrytowns. The report was delivered to Mr. Rockefeller today and he will have his experts analyze it before giving his decision on it.

The report shows that if Tarrytown and North Tarrytown separate from the towns of Greenburgh and Mount Pleasant, they will save $96,947 annually which is now paid into the coffers of the township.

If Mr. Rockefeller comes into the City of Tarrytown he will have one assessment and one tax bill to pay. Under the present complicated system he pays taxes at three different periods of the year to two townships and two villages and his holdings are assessed by four boards.

LINDBERGH SEES COOLIDGE.

Ex-President in Los Angeles Chat Asks of Health of Flier's Mother.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 21.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh chatted with ex-President Coolidge in a visit to the latter's hotel suite tonight. Mrs. Lindbergh accompanied her husband. Mr. Coolidge asked the Colonel how his mother's health was, but did not suggest any flying.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge had returned earlier in the evening from a two-day visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley Jr. of Chicago on Catalina Island. They plan to go to Santa Barbara tomorrow to spend a day or two.

FIND BRONZE AGE SWORDS.

But Schoolboys Fail to Realize the Value of Ancient Weapons.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 21.—A remarkable discovery of antiquities is reported from Jutland, where a teacher was scolding boys who were fighting when he discovered they were using rusty swords which have been proved to have originated in the bronze age. The boys explained they had found the swords in scrub grass outside the school.

Unfortunately the boys, who did not realize the value of the swords, had been spoiling most of the weapons.

ACQUITTED IN POISON TRIAL.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Feb. 21.—Maria Foeodvary, implicated in the Hungarian mass murder cases, was acquitted today. She was charged with poisoning her husband in 1920 and her lover, Nicholas Olah, three years later, with arsenic.

The State attorney appealed against the acquittal.

FRANK BURBECK, ACTOR, DIES AT 74

Supported Many Stars in 50 Years on Stage—Last Seen in 'Tailor Made Man' Revival.

Frank Burbeck, an actor, who had been on the stage for about fifty years, died on Thursday, after two weeks' illness of heart disease, at his home, 124 West Fifty-fifth Street. He was 74 years old.

Mr. Burbeck was born in Boston, the son of John and Emily Burbeck, and was educated in that city. He made his stage début in 1879 with a touring repertory company, and later joined the Boston Museum Stock Company.

During his theatrical career Mr. Burbeck supported many stars, including William Gillette and Maude Adams. One of his chief parts was that of the General in "Shenandoah," and after that play had run its course he appeared in a succession of successful plays, including "Charley's Aunt," "Sporting Life," "His Excellency the Governor," "David Harum," "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," "Clarice" and "The Lion and the Mouse."

For many years Mr. Burbeck was under the management of Charles Frohman. After Mr. Frohman's death he appeared for George M. Cohan and many other producers. He played with Grant Mitchell in the original production of "A Tailor Made Man" and was in Mr. Mitchell's revival of the comedy last October. That was his last stage appearance, although he had worked until recently in radio plays for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

MOORE BURIAL TOMORROW.

45 Honorary Pallbearers Will Attend Services in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21 (AP).—The body of Alexander P. Moore, Ambassador to Poland and former Envoy to Spain and Peru, reached this city tonight from Los Angeles, Cal., where Mr. Moore died on Monday of pneumonia. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon. Burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery Mausoleum.

Simplicity will mark the services in compliance with a stated wish of the Ambassador, who once was a Pittsburgh newspaper publisher.

There will be forty-five honorary pallbearers, including Postmaster General Walter Brown, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Gifford Pinchot, Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to President Hoover, who will represent the Executive at the funeral; Senator Joseph Grundy, Senator Hiram Johnson, Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia and Bernard Gimbel.

BUILDING MEN TO GET ADVISORY BOARD PLAN

Congress on Wednesday to Consider Proposal for Permanent Body to Guard Trade's Interests.

A plan for a permanent advisory board and fact-finding committee for the building industry will be laid before the members of the New York Building Congress at the Hotel Commodore next Wednesday, it was announced last night. Invitations to attend have been sent to officers of all labor unions and trade associations in the building industry.

The plan provides for a committee of eleven technical experts whose powers are advisory only. It will not interfere with the autonomy of any existing group, but it will investigate trends or practices detrimental to the industry and will review negotiations, agreements and understandings before they become binding on those concerned.

The plan provides that the present methods of negotiation between employer and employe are to be preserved and strengthened where possible, and that reliance for the effectiveness of the plan shall be placed on publicity for the facts and findings of the technical experts.

Important trade groups to which the plan has been submitted have already agreed to accept it. The plan is the outgrowth of a series of conferences among leaders in the industry over the difficulties at the time of the threatened lock-out and strike in the electrical trades last Spring.

NIECE OF LINCOLN DIES.

Anita K. Thompson, 70, Was Daughter of Margaret Todd.

PINEBLUFF, Ark., Feb. 21 (AP).—Mrs. Anita Kellogg Thompson, 70 years old, a niece of Abraham Lincoln, died here tonight after a brief illness. Mrs. Thompson's mother before her marriage was Margaret Todd, a sister of Mary Todd whom Lincoln married.

Mrs. Thompson was a native of Cincinnati, coming to Arkansas in her childhood. She was organizer of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the southeast section of Arkansas and was a member of several historical societies.

Service for Capt. Joseph Lametti.

Special services in honor of Captain Joseph Lametti, a native of Italy who fought in the War of 1812, will be held today in St. Patrick's Old Cathedral, Prince and Mott Streets. The tomb was recently discovered in the graveyard of the cathedral, which is the oldest Roman Catholic cemetery in New York, by officers of the Society of the War of 1812. Commendatore Emmanuele Grazzi, the Italian Consul General, and members of the Italian-American clergy will be present. The Right Rev. Bishop Coppo will preside.

PROF. E. F. CLARK OF DARTMOUTH DIES

Secretary of College Failed to Survive Operation—Had Pneumonia Recently.

AT INSTITUTION SINCE 1901

Editor of Alumni Magazine—Was Son of Rev. F. E. Clark, Founder of Christian Endeavor.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 21.—Eugene Francis Clark, secretary of Dartmouth College and ranking member of the administration, died this morning at the college infirmary after a long illness. Physicians said his heart had been unable to stand the strain of an operation for empyema. Professor Clark had seemed well on the road to recovery a few days ago after a serious case of pneumonia.

Beloved by his colleagues and respected by undergraduates, Professor Clark had been an integral part of Dartmouth since his graduation in 1901. Perhaps more than any other Dartmouth man, he was known to alumni of the college throughout the world, for as secretary of the Alumni Council and the Class Secretaries' Association he was more closely in touch with Dartmouth's graduates than any other person.

He was born in Portland, Me., in 1879, the son of the Rev. Francis E. and Harriet Abbot Clark. His father was the founder of the present Christian Endeavor Society. Since 1912 he was editor of The Dartmouth Alumni Magazine.

SPURGEON FUNERAL HELD.

Many Newspaper Men at Services for Editor.

Funeral services for John J. Spurgeon, former executive editor of The Philadelphia Public Ledger and former managing editor of The World and of The Washington Post, were held yesterday afternoon at Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, Bronxville. The Rev. C. W. Robinson, rector of the church, officiated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Dr. Louis Charles Lehr, Washington surgeon and a brother of the late Harry S. Lehr, one time New York society leader, died last night in Union Hospital, Baltimore, after an illness of several months. He was 55 years old.

Dr. Lehr was graduated in medicine from Johns Hopkins University in 1902 and also studied abroad.

He was a Professor of Surgery at Georgetown University, was on the staff of Providence Hospital and a consulting neurologist at Gallinger Hospital. He belonged to the Chevy Chase, Metropolitan, Burning Tree, Alibi and Racquet Clubs of Washington.

SETON-STEUART DIES AT 72.

Sir Douglas Held Historic Title in Scotland.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Feb. 21 (AP).—Sir Douglas Archibald Seton-Steuart, holder of one of the most historic positions in Scotland, that of hereditary armor-bearer and Squire of the "Royal Body in Scotland," died today at the age of 72 years.

One of Sir Douglas's ancestors presided over the execution of the Marquis of Montrose—a stanch royalist in a timew hen Charles I had just been beheaded and Charles II was without a throne—in 1650. The executioner suffered a long term of imprisonment for this offense when the tide turned at the Restoration.

For four centuries the Seton-Steuart family had been Laird of Touch, in Stirling, until two years ago, when the estate was disposed of. The sale of the historic holdings greatly affected Sir Douglas as well as the long-established tenants, who made a presentation to him at the time.

Edward H. Greenleaf.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Edward H. Greenleaf, former curator of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, is dead in London, according to cable advices received in Boston today. His age was 82. APPROVES MERGER OF NORTHERN LINES

But I. C. C. Conditions It Upon Their Giving Up Control of the Burlington.

PROTESTED BY EXECUTIVES

Great Northern and Northern Pacific Heads Insist on Link for Entry Into Chicago.

SPOKANE ROAD INCLUDED

Annual Saving of $10,000,000 Is Forecast in Unifying Northwest System of 15,386 Miles.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Unification of the Great Northern Railway Company, the Northern Pacific Railway Company and the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway Company into the Great Northern Pacific Railway Company, a system of 15,386 miles dominating the Northwest, was approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The commission, however, ordered as a condition to its approval that the two Northern companies divorce themselves of their 97 per cent joint control of the Burlington System, an 11,000-mile rail group which gives them their present gateway into Chicago.

In so doing the commission gave to the nation's railroads the most conclusive evidence yet offered that it proposes to back up vigorously its own rail consolidation plan. In that plan the Burlington was set up as a separate system.

Whether the interests headed by Arthur Curtiss James, the dominating single stockholder in the systems proposed to be unified, will accept the terms is not known here.

Chicago Entry an Open Question.

Recent statements by Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, that the Northern interests would be willing to meet such a condition as the divorce of the Burlington, provided they might retain the 1,500-mile Burlington link which gives them their present gateway to Chicago, however, proved significant in view of the commission's statement today, in which it said:

"This is not to say that the Northern lines should be denied a permanent entrance into the Chicago district; that question we are not deciding now."

The commission requested that the Northern lines give it a "bona fide and feasible plan" for the acquisition and operation of all the short lines allocated by the commission in its final plan to the Northern system. The inclusion of these short lines would complete the Northern system proposed by the commission.

Another condition required that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad receive access over the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway to Spokane, Portland and intervening points, as provided by the commission's consolidation plan. The commission also will require the company to submit a satisfactory plan for unification of terminal operation.

Five Oppose Dropping Burlington.

Eight of the ten members of the commission approved the unification. Chairman McManamy and Commissioner Eastman filed dissenting opinions. Former Chairman Lewis, in an opinion, indicated that he would have preferred to deny the application and leave the present relationship between the Northern lines and the Burlington.

Commissioners Brainard and Woodlock, who joined in a partly concurring opinion, opposed the divorcing of the Burlington from the Northern system.

The application upon which the commission passed today was the third attempt made to unify the two Northern lines. One attempt, carried on between 1893 and 1896, fell of its own weight. A second, begun in 1901, failed after a fight which was carried to the United States Supreme Court, when that body, in the famous Northern Securities case, declared the two Northern lines competing and their merger against the public interest.

The commission pointed out in its findings today that the present common ownership of the Burlington was the outgrowth of that decision.

Stock Issue to Be Authorized.

To accomplish the unification, the new company would be authorized to issue 4,670,976 shares of common stock, to be exchanged share for share for stock of the Northern companies, which are to be leased to the new parent company for ninety-nine years.

The Spokane road is to be acquired by lease. It was jointly built and is jointly owned by the two Northern companies.

The Northern Pacific operates 6,868 miles of line, the Great Northern 8,164 and the Spokane 554. The principal Eastern and Western terminals of the new system are the same, St. Paul, Duluth and Superior on the east and Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland on the west.

The principal opponent of the application during hearing of the case eighteen months ago was the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Its objection to giving the Burlington system to the Great Northern was dispelled by the commission finding that the Burlington must be divorced from the proposed merger.

The commission report found that about $10,000,000 in annual operating economies would be effected by the unification of the Northern lines through rerouting of traffic by shorter routes, unification of terminals and other means, including the use of the Northern Pacific coal holdings; that unification would give shippers quicker service and one-line rates to important markets, and that competition would not be materially lessened.

Two Dissenting Opinions.

Chairman McManamy, in his dissenting report, declared that the action of the majority provided for virtual consolidation of the properties, that such action disregarded the "complete disregard of the specific mandate of Congress that competition be preserved as fully as possible," and in such action the commission sought to exceed its own powers, and that the ruling of the Supreme Court in the Northern Securities case that the lines were competitive, "is just as applicable today as when written."

He attacked the claims of large savings through unification and said no consideration had been given to the effect of the merger upon employes.

Commissioner Eastman declared that application for unification was a "subterfuge," that it "trifles with the law" in attempting unification when the real purpose sought was consolidation, and declared his fear that the divorce of the Burlington could not be effected except by sale to a holding company controlled by "friendly" interests.

Great Northern Head Protests.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 21.—The Great Northern Railroad is opposed to giving up control of the Burlington, President Ralph Budd of the Northern line declared here today, commenting upon approval given by the Interstate Commerce Commission to the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific conditioned by their relinquishing the Burlington.

"It is my opinion that further consideration should be given to the matter of continuing the Burlington ownership after the unification," Mr. Budd said. "I think it can be shown that control of the Burlington by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific has been greatly in the public interest.

"My own opinion is that at the least the new Northern system necessarily must have access to Chicago, and I know of no other means so satisfactory as to use the Burlington line down the Mississippi River from the Twin Cities.

"Without such access to Chicago by the Northern lines, it is difficult for me to see how the new Northern system and the Northwest public can continue to enjoy the benefits that the Burlington control by the Northern lines has given them for the past thirty years.

"The only consolidation that seems practicable in the Northwest is that between the two Northern lines, and at the same time such consolidation will save $10,000,000 a year in operating expenses which it is not possible to save in any other way.

"That $10,000,000 a year will in effect be saved to the public, because the rate of return on the carriers in the Northwest as a whole is inadequate. Therefore, any saving in operating expenses avoids the necessity of making it up by way of charges."

Regarding the entry to Chicago, it was suggested that the two roads could obtain a lease of the Burlington lines between Chicago and the Twin Cities, with approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Northern Pacific Demands Link.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 21.—Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific Railway, commenting tonight on the Interstate Commerce Commission's conditional approval of the merger of the Northern railroads, said:

"In the minds of the representative of the Northern roads, the privilege of an entry into Chicago has always been considered an indispensable condition to going forward with the merger."

Plan Submitted by Railroads.

The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission favoring unification of the Northern Pacific with the Great Northern, excluding the Burlington (the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy), which is controlled by the two roads, is in line with the commission's general plan of consolidation, making the Burlington System 14 in the nineteen systems.

The plan submitted to the commission for merger of the Northern roads was dated Feb. 7, 1927. It provided for the formation of a new company, the Great Northern Pacific Railway Company of Delaware, which was to lease the properties of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway, now owned jointly by the two Northern companies; to exchange its stock, share for share, for stock of the Northern companies, and to acquire for ninety-nine years, by lease, the railroads and properties of each of the Northern companies.

The plan was declared operative, in so far as stock deposits were concerned, on June 20, 1927, by the deposit committee. It was then announced that 70 per cent of the Northern company stocks had been deposited in exchange for new company stock.

BAKER TO WAIVE EXTRADITION HERE

Confessed Slayer of Nine Says He Will Not Fight Removal From Detroit.

DETECTIVES SENT FOR HIM

Prisoner Describes How He Killed Stepfather and Left Home at Age of 16.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Feb. 21.—James Baker who has confessed to the police that he killed nine men in the past seven years, including a watchman at the Guggenheim Laboratory in New York, will waive extradition, he indicated today. He said he was willing to "go to New York and have it over with."

New York detectives are expected to go to Lansing Monday, present their papers to Attorney General Brucker, and receive the sanction of Governor Green to transfer the prisoner.

Detectives Sent to Detroit.

Deputy Chief Inspector Edward F. Mulrooney, in charge of detectives, said last night on learning of Baker's willingness to come to New York, that Detective James Horey, Detective Thomas Smith of the District Attorney's staff, and Assistant District Attorney P. Francis Marro had started for Detroit to bring the prisoner back.

Inspector Mulrooney said the waiving of extradition would save at least a week's time. Baker is not being charged with the death of Gaw at the present time, but is wanted in connection with the laboratory, where he was at one time employed.

District Attorney Crain received a telegram yesterday from James E. McCarthy, chief of detectives in Detroit, informing him that Baker had confessed to slaying Gaw, and stating that he had sent the confession in writing to the prosecutor by air mail.

Mr. Crain added that extradition papers for Baker on the robbery charge were being prepared in his office, and he expected to send them to Governor Roosevelt for signature immediately.

Elmer Mayhew, a truck driver, who with his helper alleged that he was held up by Baker in the laboratories a short time after the watchman was believed to have been slain, came to the District Attorney's office yesterday from Baltimore and identified pictures of Baker.

Reports Town Treasurer Is Short.

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 21 (AP).—Municipal Accountant Harold G. Fowler of the State Tax Commission announced today that an audit of the accounts of I. M. Collins, treasurer of the town of Danville, Rockingham County, has revealed a shortage of $4,858. Mr. Fowler said he had made a report to the Attorney General and to the Danville Selectmen.

WOULD BUY MOUNT VERNON

Treadway Offers Bill for Federal Purchase of Washington Home.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Purchase of the Mount Vernon estate of George Washington by the government so that the gates to this American shrine may be thrown open to the public free of charge for the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth in 1932 was proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts.

The bill proposes that the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Parks, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, negotiate with the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, who purchased the estate many years ago from the Washington family. As this association exists under the laws of Virginia, the bill would authorize Colonel Grant to take such action as may be necessary to obtain release by Virginia of any limitations against disposing of the property.

As a last resort, should it become necessary, the bill proposes that the property be condemned under the right of eminent domain for use by the government. The plan would leave management of the property in the hands of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, subject to regulation by the Federal authorities.

Mr. Treadway said there was no more suitable time to take up the subject of Federal acquisition of Washington's home and burial place than on the eve of the anniversary of his birth.

FIRE ROUTS 20 FAMILIES.

Girl, 18, and Sister, 4, in Hospital With Burns After 111th St. Blaze.

Three persons were burned and a fireman slightly injured early this morning when a fire started in the five-story apartment house at 307 West 111th Street, causing unestimated damage to the frist and second floors and forcing the twenty families in the building to the streets.

Those who were burned are Martina Ragalska, 18 years old, who was taken to Reconstruction Hospital; her sister, Wanda, 4 years old, who was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, and Harold Fisher, 27 years old, who was treated at Reconstruction Hospital and allowed to return home. Fireman Michael Bresnahan of Hook and Ladder Company 40 was treated at the scene for an injured finger.

The fire, the cause of which was not determined, started in the Ragalska apartment on the ground floor while Martina and her little sister were the only ones at home. Martina lowered the child to the ground from a window sill and then followed her.

FAIL TO HEAR JERITZA.

Viennese Wait in Vain at Radios for Soprano, Singing for New York.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Feb. 21.—Thousands of Viennese admirers of Mme. Jeritza rose from their beds and grouped around their radios at 4.30 o'clock this morning to hear the opera star sing for New York radio fans, 3,000 miles away.

The patient listeners remained at their instruments until their feet grew cold. They heard every variety of static noise and finally, from some mysterious but apparently American source, a few bars of "Lohengrin." But they did not hear Mme. Jeritza.

SEPPALA LEAD CUT IN QUEBEC DOG RACE

Only 28 Seconds Separate Leader From St. Godard at End of Second Day.

FINISH THRILLS BIG CROWD

Chevrette Holds Third Place and Other Entrants Make Fast Time Across Plains.

By W. A. MacDONALD.

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, Feb. 21.—At the end of two days and eighty miles over melting snows in the mildest of Quebec Winters, Leonhard Seppala and his seven Siberian sled dogs led Emil St. Godard by twenty-eight seconds in the Eastern international dog derby. As they came to the finish line on St. Louis road this afternoon, two among thirteen entries, a crowd that banked the wide street as far as the eye could see cheered them both, the man of 53 from Alaska and the boy of 24 from The Pas, Man., but they cheered St. Godard most, for he is of their people.

Fourth place went to Earle Brydges, another Manitoban, and another youngster, and Quebec men took all the rest, five of them being separated by less than half an hour.

As the great crowd waited at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon there was a sudden movement of people far down the road beside the Plains of Abraham, a sudden sound that traveled like a wave along the heavy line.

Tracey, a famous sergeant of police, rode on horseback to clear the way. A team was coming, a rhythmic, furry thing of black and white, one dog of the seven with the snow white eyes of Siberia. On the runners of the sled behind them stood a little man with a quarter century of Alaskan trails in the corners of his memory. It was Seppala, and the crowd shouted his name.

There was a little boy who shouted at the age of 10 and an old man who shouted at an age that had frosted the mustache beneath his Quebec cap, and there were girls in Winter costumes and men not long down from the bush, all shouting, "St. Godard! St. Godard!"

After them drove Chevrette, his greyhounds trying their hearts and feet against the husky strain. Brydges, Francois Dupuis, George Girard, Savard, Berube, Lafond and Falardeau were close behind.

A biplane with scarlet wings flew overhead, the daily mail, looking down on an old pastime in an Old World setting. The crowd never bothered to look up. The people were interested in dogs and drivers and minutes and seconds, and they wrote down what they heard in a flutter of paper.

The teams and two-day time totals in hours, minutes and seconds, were:

Contestant.	Time.	Contestant.	Time.
Seppala	7:30:39	Berube	8:30:38
St. Godard	7:31:07	Lafond	8:40:02
Chevrette	7:48:30	Falardeau	8:49:10
Brydges	8:14:07	Cote	9:53:27
Dupuis	8:21:15	Morissette	10:03:20
Girard	8:25:08	Routhier	10:15:50
Savard	8:30:03

STANDARD AGREES ON BILLION MERGER

day, is: Standard of New York 31½, Vacuum 91.

Following the completion of the merger, the Standard of New York and the Vacuum will function as separate subsidiaries of General Petroleum. The directors of General Petroleum, the holding company, will be chosen in equal number from the present directorates of Standard of New York and Vacuum. By this it is intended that those conducting the business of each shall have an equal voice in the management of the holding company. The officers of the holding company have not been selected, it was said.

In announcing the proposed merger the two companies informed their stockholders of the difficulties that had been encountered. After many months of negotiation, they said, the directors of the companies have agreed upon the basis for the merger. As to the legal questions involved, the statement had this to say:

"The facts as to the situation have, as has been the custom in important transactions in the past, been submitted to the government. Both companies were former subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The question was raised whether the decree entered in 1911 in the so-called 'Standard Oil dissolution suit,' by which the control of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey over its subsidiaries was terminated, might forbid this transaction between two of such former subsidiaries. The government took the position that the questions involved should be passed upon by the courts.

"Counsel for the companies have given their opinion that the merger is in conformity with the law. As to the permissibility of a union of two former subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, counsel have advised that this question was raised before the Supreme Court of the United States in the dissolution case and that the court held that after the subsidiaries had been freed from the control of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey they would be entitled to pursue any course of conduct lawful for any one else.

"There being no available method for asking the courts for an advisory expression as to the specific situation now arising, the only way to secure a ruling was for the companies to proceed and let the matter be brought before the courts in an appropriate way for determination. Under these circumstances the directors of the respective companies felt it their duty to the stockholders of the companies to proceed, and have entered into a contract for the merger which they have brought to the attention of the government.

"The government has indicated that it proposes to institute an appropriate proceeding inequity to determine the questions involved, and it is expected that the matter will be promptly disposed of."

"In deference to these proceedings," the statement said, the contract will not be submitted to stockholders immediately.

The desirability of the merger is emphasized in the statement. "The business of the two companies," it says, in part, "is complementary in character. In general, the business of the New York Company in the United States is primarily in crude production, refining and marketing of gasoline and kerosene; the business of the Vacuum Company in the United States is primarily in the manufacture and marketing of high grade lubricating specialties for which it has established a world-wide reputation and market. The bulk of the business of the New York Company is in the United States; the bulk of the business of the Vacuum Company is in foreign countries.

"To maintain their position abroad against powerful foreign competitors, strongly entrenched as to crude supplies and refining and distributing facilities, the union of the complementary businesses of the New York and Vacuum companies and their resources is regarded as vitally important and directly promotive of American interests in business in such countries. The crude supply of the New York Company and its refining facilities for gasoline and kerosene will tend to protect and extend the marketing outlets which the Vacuum Company has established for those products.

"In the United States there have been rapid changes in conditions in the petroleum business which make this merger useful and appropriate for both companies. The united company, in addition to the specialized lubricating products of the Vacuum Company, will market, it is estimated, about 9 per cent of the petroleum products consumed in the United States, an amount comparable in volume with the business done by each of several of the larger of its numerous competitors."

A common vein of stock ownership runs through the Standard of New York and the Vacuum. The Rockefeller interests, according to the general understanding, have about a 20 per cent interest in the companies, although no recent official figures are available. Other Standard Oil interests, including the Pratt family, are also large holders. The merger plan is understood to have been agreed upon after consultation with these various interests.

The Standard of New York and the Vacuum have had close business relations for many years. About three years ago they became allies in a dispute with the Royal Dutch-Shell interests of Europe when they began to purchase oil from the Russian Soviet over the protest of Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of Royal Dutch.

The Standard Oil Company of New York has outstanding $434,489,425 of an authorized issue of $450,000,000 of $25 par value common stock. The number of shares outstanding is 17,379,577. The total funded debt of the company is $97,661,000. Total assets of the company on Dec. 31, 1928, were $695,385,776.

The Vacuum Oil Company has outstanding $126,180,350 of an authorized issue of $175,000,000 of $25 par value capital stock. The number of shares outstanding is 5,047,214. The company has no funded debt. In its balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1928, its total assets were $186,864,052.

The market value of the common stock issues of the two companies, at yesterday's closing prices, was $1,006,853,149.

The most recent merger undertaken involving Standard Oil companies was the acquisition by the Standard of New Jersey of the Anglo-American Oil Company, Ltd. That transaction, it was stated yesterday, is not comparable to that of the Standard of New York and the Vacuum, since Anglo-American operates exclusively in the British Isles, although a large stock interest was held in the United States. No opposition developed to the Standard of New Jersey-Anglo-American deal, and its early consummation is considered assured.

In the event the Standard of New York-Vacuum merger is approved, the combined organization will have a stature approaching that of the Standard of New Jersey, which is now the largest oil company in the country.

SPAIN CUTS IMPORT OF FOREIGN WHEAT

Government Puts Need at 20,000 Tons and Bans Excess to Aid Home Producers.

NEW BANK GOVERNOR NAMED

Conservatives Cooperate in Reorganizing Nation's Finance—Liberals Hold Out Against Censorship.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Feb. 21.—The Council of Ministers took action tonight to suspend the importation of foreign wheat. Agricultural associations and the press asserted that the imports were hurting the domestic market and demanded action.

The government asserts that only 20,000 metric tons of foreign wheat are now needed and "since Spain had a good crop in 1929 and a good one is anticipated in 1930, the government has seen fit to suspend the royal decree of April 30, 1923, granting special concessions to importers."

The Count of Gamazo has been named governor of the Bank of Spain.

Rearrangement of the financial policy put into effect by the dictatorship is increasingly apparent as the most important task the new government of Spain faces. Because labor and business problems are so entwined with political affairs, since labor is affected by any reduction in work, rearrangement is a formidable task.

Undoubtedly Premier Damasco Berenguer is dscussing finance in the long daily conferences with political leaders. That he is also discussing possible political line-ups and trying to make sure of a monarchist victory in the coming election cannot be denied. While all politicians are eager to enter the political arena again, there seems to be some indication that none want to face economic reorganization and the Conservatives will cooperate with Premier Berenguer to let the government work out the problem instead of leaving it to Parliament.

The Liberals, through the press, are demanding free speech and an end of censorship of the press and free speech before acceding to this program, but if granted, say they will do likewise.

Financial statements of the dictatorship are now being questioned. In November former Finance Minister José Calvo Sotelo said the budget would balance and that debts the dictatorship had contracted would be paid by 1938. However, Señor Sotelo listed money lent to the railroads as an asset, whereas it is now held that it virtually amounted to a subsidy and that there is no possibility of the government getting it back.

Accepting the dictatorship's figures, the following is a fair statement for 1929: The regular budget showed 238,000,000 pesetas (the peseta is worth 19.3 cents at par, but recent quotations have been around 12.40 cents), but 144 unpaid bills were not listed; the extraordinary budget totaled 450,000,000 pesetas which were not covered by revenue, and the railroad loans amounted to 450,000,000 more, making for the year an adverse balance of 806,000,000 pesetas.

One hundred and thirty millions for water power development are are listed as an assets, and the government may receive an income from this.

The total debt increased more than 20 per cent during the dictatorship.

The government has concluded that it could not possibly continue General Primo de Rivera's plan of electrifying 5,000 miles of railroad in ten years, so it is canceling the building program on all except works under way.

Re-establishment of the accountancy general is held likely to show exhorbitant expenditures on various contracts. The newspaper El Sol published today what it cites as an example.

A question that has arisen is whether laborers thrown out of work by cancellations are likely to cause trouble. They never have in the past.

Whether Finance Minister Manuel Arguelles will act to improve the value of the peseta by allowing foreign interests to invest and allowing the natural rate of the peseta to materialize, then put on a gold standard with an ample gold supply, or will allow it to continue to fluctuate is a point of controversy today.

PAN-AMERICAN WOMEN SEEK GOVERNMENT AID

Commission in Havana Adopts Resolution on Ways to Urge Financial Help.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Feb. 21.—At an executive session of the Inter-American Commission of Women this morning there was a discussion of various courses of action to obtain government financial support of the twenty-one countries represented.

Suggestions made yesterday by Miss Clara Gonzalez, Commissioner for Panama, regarding the best ways to impress upon governments their duty toward the commission as an integral part of the Pan-American Union were adopted.

The commission considered what aspects of women's status shoud be taken up next as objects of research. The commission is to report in 1933 at the conference in Montevideo.

The Pan-American Congress of Deans and Rectors of Universities has turned over to the women its plenary session of tomorrow. A report of the work of the Inter-American Commission of Women will be made. The universities will be asked to aid in the enormous program research which the commission hopes to report for action at the next women's conference.

PRINCE SIXTUS IN BELGRADE

Visit of Ex-Empress Zita's Brother Stirs Wide Comment.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, Feb. 21.—Prince Sixtus of Bourbon-Parma, brother of the former Austrian Empress Zita, has been here since Wednesday. His visit has caused much comment, but the Prince has refused to make any statement.

He dined yesterday with King Alexander and today lunched with the French Minister, M. Dard, leaving Belgrade this afternoon.

It was Prince Sixtus who toward the end of the war endeavored to act as an intermediary between the Emperor Charles and the Allies to detach Austria from the German alliance. He was sent to Munich as special French envoy to Bavaria, after the war, to forward the aims then said to have been entertained in Paris of detaching Bavaria from Prussia.

ENGLAND IS LIKELY TO KEEP OLD HOUSES

Bill in Commons to Prevent Exportation Passes Second Reading Unanimously.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The exportation of ancient English houses to America and elsewhere is one of the practices which appear about to be ended by a sweeping new rural amenities bill to which the House of Commons gave a unanimous second reading today.

Party lines in the Commons vanished during a debate on the bill, which attempts to safeguard England's countryside against "uglification" by advertisers, builders and others. It seems to deal nationally with problems which hitherto have been left largely to local authorities.

In some matters, such as ancient buildings, the bill is a pioneer enactment and is supported by Premier MacDonald, former Premier Baldwin, Conservative leader, and Lloyd George, Liberal leader.

The transplanting of old buildings was characterized as a "horrible trade" by Sir Hilton Young, Conservative sponsor of the bill.

"It is an outrage on the strongest and most intimate feelings of every man and woman who loves his or her country that these treasures of tradition, history and beauty should be thus exploited," he said. "I think it is recognized by the good sense and decent opinion of the whole country that in the case of these treasures there is something which transcends the mere right of private ownership."

While Sir Hilton was speaking, news came that the historic fourteenth century tithe barns in Kent, which had been threatened with sale to America, had been saved for England by Mrs. Ruth Knowles, Englishwoman, who outbid an American millionaire for the property.

In other respects the bill extends the principles of town planning ordinances to the country areas. The evil of a few jerry-built bungalows ruining the entire landscape will be checked by the bill, which compels unreasonable property owners to fall into line in preserving the beauties of the countryside.

"Ribbon development" along the highways is attacked by giving the county councils power to acquire strips of land on both sides of new roads—resembling the Westchester Parkway system of New York—and also giving them power to survey and plan new roads if the local authorities are careless. Ugly houses will not be allowed, even on the excuse that they are merely temporary.

The county courts will have power to declare unsightly billboards nuisances and order them removed. Unnecessary felling of trees will be forbidden, and no woodland of more than fifty acres may ever be converted to uses other than timber growing.

SOUTH CAROLINA BRIBE KNOWN TO GOVERNOR

Richards Recalls Advising Witnesses to "Test" Planned by Convicted Legislator.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—Parnell Meehan, Representative from Chesterfield County in the State House of Representatives, who was convicted last week of offering to bribe a county commissioner, declared today that his attempt at bribery was made "with the full knowledge and under the sanction" of Governor John G. Richards.

The announcement was made in a letter of resignation sent to the House, in which Mr. Meehan said that his conviction was "unexpected, unjust and illegal," and that it was "the result of the machinations of my personal enemies."

Sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and serve a year and a day in prison, Mr. Meehan has appealed to the Supreme Court.

Governor Richards admitted later to reporters that Mr. Meehan told him that he believed G. W. Gregory, a member of the Chesterfield County Board of Commissioners, would accept a bribe and that he intended to attempt to bribe him in order to prove his contention.

"I told him that if he intended to carry out such a transaction he should arrange to have the matter witnessed by competent persons in order that his contentions might be proved," the Governor said.

WOMAN HANGED IN ARIZONA.

Guards' Vigilance Prevented Suicide—Six Women See Execution.

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 21 (AP).—The State of Arizona today performed the disagreeable task of hanging a woman, Eva Dugan, 52 years old and mother of two children, for the murder three years ago of A. J. Mathis, an aged rancher of Tucson, Ariz.

This was the first execution of a woman in Arizona, and it was witnessed by six other women, including the prison matron. Mrs. Dugan remained outwardly calm to the last, even smiling grimly as a guard slipped the black hood over her head.

Mrs. Dugan almost escaped the gallows. In her cell was found a small bottle of poison, which the vigilance of the death watch presumably prevented her using. Warden Lorenzo Wright started an investigation into how she procured it.

Mrs. Dugan's attorneys had exhausted every legal effort to save her.

TAFT GROWING WEAKER.

But His Physicians Say There Is No Other Change.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—The day-after-day failure of William Howard Taft to rally strongly from his serious illness was regarded tonight as causing apprehension among those close to him.

Dr. Francis R. Hagner reported again that the condition of the former Chief Justice was not changed. Weakness has been encroaching surely onto his reserve strength.

Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, a daughter, arrived today from Bryn Mawr, Pa. The two sons of the distinguished jurist, Robert A. and Charles P. Taft, were holding themselves in readiness to come from Cincinnati in event of an emergency. Mrs. Taft communicated with them today by telephone.

BONDSMAN INDICTED; TEN FACE TRUE BILLS

Crain's Grand Jury Brings Two Larceny and Two Forgery Counts Against Steiner.

NEGRO WOMAN IS ACCUSER

She Declared That Lawyer She Engaged in Nephew's Behalf Drew Out Her Savings.

NEW FORFEITURE RULE

Ten Professionals Expected to Be Indicted in Bronx by Inquiry Conducted by McLaughlin.

The first result of his sweeping investigation into the magistrates' courts, their methods and the ways of professional bondsmen was disclosed yesterday by District Attorney Crain when he announced that a bondsman had been indicted on four counts, two for grand larceny and the others for forgery.

Ten bondsmen are expected to be indicted in the Bronx early next week, according to District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin. He said yesterday that he would go before the Bronx grand jury personally and ask the indictments. Mr. McLaughlin said the targets of his charges had been guilty of "flagrant violations of the law."

The bondsman accused yesterday by the regular New York County grand jury was Joseph Steiner, 43 years old, of 11 West Forty-second Street. The complaint against Steiner was made by Mrs. Cordelia Raymond, a negro woman, of 407 West 14?th Street.

Policy Slip Case Involved.

According to her testimony, a nephew, Wilfred Burke, was arrested last December for having policy slips. He was lodged in the Tombs and Mrs. Raymond and the wife of the prisoner went to the Criminal Courts Building to arrange bail.

Steiner, according to the woman, halted her at the door and said that he would get a bail bond of $500 providing she paid him $30—double the legal rate—and she handed over her bank book to him. He called at the Raymond flat next day, she said, and got the money and the bank-book. Mrs. Raymond said that she signed two papers in blank.

The bondsman is accused of having filled in one of the papers to make it appear that he had power of attorney, and armed with this drew $500 from the woman's account. The next day he used the second blank paper and got $150.

Burke was convicted on Jan. 27 and sentence was suspended. Mrs. Raymond said that she had tried vainly to see Steiner about getting her bank book back and had finally appealed to Mr. Crain.

Steiner denied the charges. He admitted that he had been acquitted of attempted extortion three years ago before General Sessions Judge Mulqueen. On yesterday's indictment he was arraigned before General Sessions Judge Koenig and provided bail of $2,500.

District Attorney McLaughlin, in announcing his contemplated action against ten bondsmen, said:

"I am making a determined effort to put a stop to bail bond abuses in Bronx County. The investigation conducted by my office has brought to light many flagrant violations of the law. Next Tuesday, Feb. 25, I will appear personally before the grand jury and ask that body to return indictments against at least ten bail bond agents who have been operating in Bronx County.

"I intend also to see that the licenses of these agents who are guilty of illegal practices shall be revoked.

"In addition to asking the grand jury to return indictments I will ask them to take up the matter of correcting the abuses by hearing the representatives of Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance."

New Bail Rule in Effect.

District Attorney Crain began a strong measure yesterday in connection with bail bonds. During the régime of his predecessor, District Attorney Joab H. Banton, when defendants failed to respond when summoned to hearing or trial the company holding the bond received from 30 to 60 days' grace in which to produce the defendant.

Mr. Crain said yesterday that in the future one week of grace would be allowed. Word of his dictum reached the surety and bonding companies promptly, and representatives of many of them hurried to file a protest with the District Attorney. They claimed that drastic enforcement of his rule would mean ruin to some of the bondsmen.

"I think that this period of one week is ample time for the surety companies to produce defendants before bail is forfeited," he said. "However, in reasonable circumstances the rule will not be found inflexible. The bail will not be forfeited unless it is shown that there is reason for it to be done."

The District Attorney also promulgated a rule that bonds should not be accepted from concerns which had not made good on previous bail forfeitures unless the bail was paid up or the defendants produced. This provoked protest from the surety company representatives, and Mr. Crain told them that this rule also would be applied with discretion.

Say Jails Will Be Overtaxed.

One point raised by the protestants was that city prisons would be overtaxed under the first rule. This point seemed well taken, since inquiry at the Tombs showed 789 prisoners there. The normal capacity of the prison is 550, and at the present two or three prisoners are being put in the one cell.

The newly organized Bail Bond Agents' Association held a meeting during the afternoon at the Hotel McAlpin. At the end of the meeting the association's attorney, George Goodstein of 25 West Forty-third Street, said that members had been invited to submit an estimate of what he believed to be a fair rate for bonds. The present rate is 3 per cent. Assemblyman Moran has introduced a bill into the Legislature seeking to raise this to 5 per cent. Mr. Goodstein said that he believed 4 per cent to be fair.

Bellboys Uphold Liquor Law And Win Reward From Hotel

Two negro bellboys at the Prince George Hotel on East Twenty-eighth Street, who respected the prohibition law so much that they refused to procure liquor for a guest, each received a gold badge of honor and a $10 gold piece from the hotel manager last night.

The honor bellboys are John Lawson of 100 West 136th Street and Stewart Adams of 323 Edgecombe Avenue, Washington Heights.

A few days ago, a man staying at the hotel said to Lawson: "Go out and get me some liquor somewhere." Lawson refused. Then the guest asked Adams, who also refused. The two reported the incident to William F. Downey, assistant manager of the hotel. Last night, A. M. Gutterson, the manager, held a little reception in honor of the boys at which he presented them with their rewards.

Miss Emma Baynard of 216 West 138th Street, a maid, also received a badge and a gold piece for recovering a guest's wallet containing several thousand dollars.

PARK AVENUE HOME LOOTED OF JEWELRY

Burglars Get $14,600 Worth in Penthouse Home of Sherman M. Fairchild.

ROBBERY MYSTIFIES POLICE

Disappearance of Gems From Place in Closet Discovered by Relative of Aircraft Builder.

Burglars broke into the duplex apartment and penthouse occupied by Sherman M. Fairchild, president of the Fairchild Aviation Corporation, at 898 Park Avenue between 7 and 9:30 o'clock Thursday evening and escaped with jewelry valued at $14,600, it was learned yesterday at Police Headquarters. The robbers had entered by breaking a window in the penthouse. After questioning servants and building attendants, detectives said they had been unable to determine how the thieves reached the roof of the building.

Mr. Fairchild is attending the International Aircraft Exposition in St. Louis. His aunt, Miss May Fairchild, is staying in the apartment. On Thursday she entertained a Mr. and Mrs. Reeves and a Mr. Rohrer at dinner. The dining room is on the first floor of the apartment. Afterward, Miss Fairchild and her guests played bridge in an adjoining room.

The jewels had been left temporarily in a pasteboard box in a closet off the foyer on the second floor of the apartment. The theft was discovered by Miss Fairchild when she went upstairs to retire. The closet door was ajar and the automatic light inside was burning. This was unusual, and going to the closet she saw at a glance that the jewels were gone.

Seven pieces were taken—a sapphire and diamond bracelet, a sapphire and diamond ring, two diamond-studded watches, one of them a wrist watch; a diamond bar pin set with pearls and a diamond and pearl ring.

The investigation was made by Detective Sergeant James Finn and Detectives Thomas Hynes and Arthur Silk of the East Sixty-seventh Street station. Fresh scratches on an iron gate in a high fence surrounding the penthouse and the broken window in the rear of the penthouse convinced the detectives that the theft was from the outside. From the window the burglars passed through a music room and down a stairway to the closet where the jewels were. Nothing else in the apartment or in the penthouse was disturbed. A large safe in a room off the second floor foyer had not been tampered with. It contained more jewelry.

VITALE GETS DELAY ON COURT HEARING

Justice Dowling Says Magistrate's Answer to Charges Must Be Made in Week.

Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, under fire from the bar association, appeared yesterday before the appellate division of the Supreme Court, Madison Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, and obtained a delay until Friday, when he will be required to file his answer to the accusations.

The magistrate appeared before Victor J. Dowling, presiding justice, and the following associate justices: Edgar S. K. Merrell, Edward R. Finch, John V. McAvoy and James O'Malley. He stood before them flanked by Louis A. Tepper, an attorney from the office of his counsel, Max D. Steuer. Kenneth M. Spence and George Z. Medalie of the bar association committee appeared against Magistrate Vitale.

Mr. Tepper said that Mr. Steuer's ill health had compelled him to go South and that at the present time he was in Havana.

"You were served with the order to show cause a week ago, were you not?" asked Justice Dowling.

"We were served on the 18th," said Tepper, "that was a Saturday, I believe."

Turning to Mr. Spence and Mr. Medalie, the presiding justice inquired how long it would take the bar association to present its proof. Two or three hours, said Mr. Spence.

"Very well," said Justice Dowling, "we will allow a week, but the answer must be filed by then. After it is received the court will determine the procedure to be followed."

Owing to the short time in which the proof will be presented, it was reported that the court might sit, rather than a referee, to hear the charges. They are two: that the magistrate impaired public confidence in the courts by accepting a loan of $19,940 from Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler; and that he was guilty of unjudicial conduct in freeing Charles Fawcett, a confessed thief.

The magistrate had no comment to make to reporters.

$2 Added to Neediest Cases Fund.

A contribution of $2 for the Neediest Cases Fund of THE NEW YORK TIMES was received yesterday from W. R. Randell of Watertown, N. Y. The fund total is now $[illegible]9,638.17.

ANOTHER WOMAN TO GET LIFE TERM

Second Within Two Weeks to Be Found Fourth Offender Is Negro With Long Record.

SIX FELONY CONVICTIONS

Most Were for Robberies Involving Assault—Mrs. St. Clair to Go to Auburn Today or Tomorrow.

For the second time in two weeks Judge Levine in General Sessions late yesterday afternoon had to declare a woman a fourth offender under the Baumes laws, on which she will receive a mandatory life term of imprisonment on her arraignment before Judge Allen in the same court next Friday.

She was Mrs. Cleopatra Heaton, 42 years old, a negress of 182 Broome Street, with a record of fourteen arrests in this city, Philadelphia, Boston, Mount Holly, N. J., and Mansfield, Ohio, on six of which she was convicted on felony charges. She was remanded, pending sentence, to the Harlem women's prison, where Mrs. Ruth St. Clair, a shoplifter, the first woman to be found guilty as a fourth offender, was taken two weeks ago, after Judge Levine had imposed a life term on her. Mrs. St. Clair is to be taken to Auburn prison today or tomorrow.

In Mrs. St. Clair's case Judge Levine and District Attorney Crain joined in a request to Governor Roosevelt for a commutation of the life term when the woman has served an adequate term. This was because she had never resorted to violence in any of her crimes. It was not believed the same plea would be made for Mrs. Heaton, because most of her convictions were on robbery charges in which she and men confederates assaulted their victims.

Another dissimilarity in the two cases was that, whereas Mrs. St. Clair had to be proved a fourth offender under the law before a specially chosen jury, Mrs. Heaton admitted her past convictions and pleaded guilty just as Judge Levine was about to impanel a jury.

Chief of Detectives Ellis H. Parker of Mount Holly, N. J., Detective Sergeant Howard H. Fallon of the Newark Detective Bureau, Detective Heery, fingerprint expert of Newark, and detectives from Boston and Baltimore were in court when the woman was arraigned for the special proceeding.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Pilotsky had just outlined to the court the charge against the woman and had read the police record of her arrests and convictions, when she waved her lawyer, Sidney Rosenthal, aside, and addressing the court, asked: "Where is Ellis Parker?"

At Judge Levine's direction the detective stood up, and the woman, nodding her head slowly, remarked: "That's him, all right. Now where's Fallon?" Fallon stood up, and she continued: "Yes, that's Fallon. Is Heery here, too?"

The Newark fingerprint expert arose, and Mrs. Heaton, turning to the court, continued:

"Well, judge, I guess it's all up with me. No use calling this jury. I'm guilty. All that the police records say about me is true."

Imposition of the life term was referred to Judge Allen, however, because it was before him that the woman two weeks before had pleaded guilty to participation with two negro men in the robbery of Michael Abraham, a silk peddler, in an apartment at 249 West 126th Street, on the night of Oct. 29.

NEW COMET IS FOUND BY AMATEUR OBSERVER

Ohioan's Discovery in Northern Sky Is Confirmed Through Yerkes Telescope.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—A new comet has been found in the northern sky by an amateur observer perched behind a little telescope in his domestic watch tower in Delphos, Ohio. Three nights ago L. C. Peltier, who for years has made a hobby of star-gazing, spotted the faint gleam of light in the dark northern sky with its streaming fire of the comet's tail.

This morning Professor George Van Biesbroeck of the University of Chicago, after a night of watching the comet through the giant telescope at Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., said there was no doubt that Mr. Peltier had made a notable discovery. The Delphos amateur had wired to the Professor about the comet and official verification was made in sky-gazing at the observatory last night and the night before.

"Mr. Peltier's comet is moving toward the sun and may become very brilliant," said Professor Van Biesbroeck. "It cannot yet be seen by the naked eye. The heavens are as full of comets as the sea is of fish, but not more than three or four are visible at any one time. Rarely can one be seen with the naked eye. Only four new comets were discovered by astronomers the world over in the last year. Mr. Peltier's is the first found since December."

FIVE ADDED TO BECKER JURY

Total Now Nine for Auburn Convict's Murder Trial.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Five more jurors were chosen today for the trial of Max Becker, the young Brooklyn convict accused of murdering George Durnford, principal keeper of Auburn prison, in the riots of Dec. 11. They brought the total of jurors to nine after five court sessions.

Both prosecution and defense were confident that the three remaining jurors would be discovered among the twenty-nine talesmen remaining in the second panel summoned since the trial opened Monday. Supreme Court Justice Cunningham, who is presiding, however, ordered a new panel of fifty drawn to report in court at 2 P. M. Monday.

Becker, who sat handcuffed to a prison guard, was consulted before any talesmen were accepted. Several times prospective jurors who seemed acceptable to both sides were rejected by peremptory challenges from the defense after one of these consultations, some of which lasted five minutes.

State Loses Suit for City Island Land Sold for $8.10 in 1836, Now Worth Millions

By a decision yesterday of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court the State of New York lost a suit to recover land under water almost completely surrounding City Island, valued at millions of dollars, which was sold by the State Controller in 1836 for $8.10. The action was brought against Archer M. Huntington, the Harlem Yacht Club, the City Island Land and Dock Company, the City Island Beach Company, the Broad Channel Corporation and dozens of other owners of all the City Island shore except the northern part of the island, on the ground that the sale in 1836 was not binding on the State.

The Appellate Division decision upheld a ruling by the late Supreme Court Justice Gibbs, who heard the case in the Bronx Supreme Court, that the title to the land under water held by the defendants by deeds from Elias D. Hunter, who bought it from the State in 1836, and his successors, was valid and that the State could not carry out its announced plan of reselling to the same defendants for half the value of the land above water if the State succeeded in its action.

The papers in the case showed that Benjamin Palmer conceived a plan long before the Revolutionary War of creating a city on what was then known as Mineford's Island and induced several hundred others to join with him in buying the island. He then petitioned the British Governor, Moncton, for a grant to the land under water surrounding the island to enable the owners of the upland to construct docks and otherwise develop the island. Palmer received a grant in 1763 of a strip 400 feet wide on the west, south and east sides of the island under an agreement that a rental of five shillings a year would be paid.

When the Revolutionary War came on City Island became a favorite anchorage for British ships, and before long Palmer, who as an ardent patriot, protested against British use of the anchorage facilities, was driven away ruined.

Under a law passed in 1819 the State created a plan for collecting unpaid rents under the British grants, and under a further act of 1825 the title of Palmer was sold to Elias D. Hunter because of the nonpayment of the rents provided for in the grant.

The State's suit was attacked partly on the ground that the Palmer grant from the British Crown was valid, and that since the ownership of Hunter was based on Palmer's rights the State of New York never had title, but that ownership passed as in a foreclosure case.

INQUIRY IS PRESSED ON BLOCKED VERDICT

Grand Jury Hears Counsel for Two Defendants in Lead Stock Sale Trial.

MINTZER QUESTIONS CRUZ

Eleven Jurors to Be Examined Next Week as to Possible Interference in Case.

The investigation by United States Attorney Tuttle into the failure of John Cruz to agree with his fellow jurors in a verdict of guilty against eight defendants charged with mail fraud in the sale of stock of the Utah Lead Company of Delaware, proceeded yesterday, but without the "sensational developments" that Mr. Tuttle had predicted. He said that the inquiry would run into the middle of next week and that until its close no official statement would be made.

Cruz, his wife and Murray Wechsler, the bailiff on duty in the court room during the trial, are detained or as Mr. Tuttle phrased it, "Are in the care of the government." He would not define the phrase. Asked if it was true that the three were being held on Governors Island, he refused to reply.

Counsel Are Questioned.

Arthur N. Sager and Joseph Shelleck, counsel for Charles Beadon, Joseph Morris and William H. Rankin, three of the defendants in the case, were questioned before the grand jury by Mr. Tuttle and George J. Mintzer, chief of his criminal bureau. Before going before the jury the lawyers were interrogated by Mr. Tuttle.

Mr. Sager was in the jury room for two hours and it was understood that he may appear again. Mr. Shelleck emerged in fifty minutes. It was said that his examination was not concluded. The questioning of Mr. Sager, it was reported, related mainly to incidents during the trial to see if any of them would reveal any attempt of the persons to influence Cruz. Mr. Tuttle said that all of the other counsel for defendants in the trial had been invited to appear for examination but that no word had been received from them.

Among the many stories told of the events leading up to the refusal of Cruz to join in a verdict of guilty after agreeing to do so, was one to the effect that an offer of money had been made to him by a person who intercepted him in the corridor of the Federal Building. This offer, the story ran, was to the effect that if Cruz stood out against a conviction he would receive $310, and that either $10 or $100 was paid him on the spot by a person whom he believed was connected with the court. It is alleged that this person is known.

Cruz's brother, Amacio, was questioned for a long time by Mr. Mintzer and Assistant United States Attorneys Irving Spieler and Henry Gerson, on Thursday and yesterday.

Silent on Confession.

Mr. Tuttle declined to make any definite statement concerning the progress of the investigation, and he placed the seal of secrecy on all of his assistants engaged in the inquiry.

"If we have other witnesses I cannot tell who they are or how many they are. It wouldn't be proper for me to do so."

Mr. Tuttle also refused to say whether he had a statement or a confession from Cruz, on the ground that he could not disclose facts in the hands of the government. Then he was asked:

"Is it true that money was paid to any one improperly in connection with the Utah trial?"

"I cannot say yes or no to that question," he replied.

Beginning next week the eleven jurors who held out for a conviction of the Utica defendants will be asked by Mr. Tuttle to appear for examination to discover if any one of them can help in throwing light on any possible interference with the case.

BEGINS COURT FIGHT FOR CUT-RATE TAXIS

White Horse Service Applies for Writ to Force Whalen to License Its Cabs.

INDEPENDENTS LOSE CASE

Supreme Court Dismisses Request to Legalize Use of Converted Sedans as Taxis.

Supreme Court Justice Alfred H. Townley dismissed yesterday the application of Eugene Piantoni, an independent taxicab operator, for an order compelling Police Commissioner Whalen to license as taxicabs converted new passenger cars of the sedan type. At the same time Abraham J. Halprin, attorney for the White Horse Taxi Service, Inc., applied in the Supreme Court for an order, returnable on Wednesday at 10 A. M., requiring Commissioner Whalen to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued compelling him to license the low-rate taxicabs of the company.

In the case of Piantoni, who had the backing of the Amalgamated Taxi Association, Justice Townley dismissed the application after Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas A. W. Crowe had maintained in court that there was nothing to litigate. He explained that neither Commissioner Whalen nor Deputy Police Commissioner Felix A. Muldoon, in charge of hack licensing, had refused to license taxicabs under the conditions set forth in the application.

John W. Bonney, counsel for the Amalgamated Taxi Association, appearing as attorney for Piantoni, opposed the dismissal. He argued that the case was a test case, and that a determination was necessary. Mr. Bonney insisted that Piantoni had made an application for a license to the 114th Precinct, and that a police inspector had refused to issue a license to him. Mr. Bonney conceded that no appeal from the inspector's refusal had been made to Commissioner Whalen.

However, it was shown by Mr. Crowe that Commissioner Whalen on Nov. 1 sent out an order revoking the ruling against licensing of converted new passenger cars as taxicabs. He argued that there was nothing to litigate, since the order had been revoked.

"There is nothing for me to do," said Justice Townley. "The defendant stands ready to comply with the request of the plaintiff."

Justice Townley advised the petitioner that he had permission to renew his application should the need arise.

Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly denied a report that the city had dropped its legal efforts to prevent the White Horse Taxi Service, Inc., from obtaining licenses for its low-rate taxicabs.

"The city appealed from a decision handed down by Supreme Court Justice McCook last September," said Mr. Hilly. "His opinion was followed by a second opinion, amending the first, which had the effect of nullifying the first opinion, and consequently any appeals that had been taken from it. A copy of the second opinion has not yet been served upon the Corporation Counsel, and appeal will be taken as soon as it is."

The Luxford Taxicab Company, headed by Walter W. Davis, which contemplates the operation of Ford taxicabs on a flat rate of 15 cents a mile, did not apply for a license for one of its cars yesterday as had been expected.

14 Men in Sing Sing Death House.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Sing Sing authorities disclosed today that, with fourteen condemned men in the death house since the arrival of Jesse Thomas, Claud Udwine and William Force, the Auburn prison mutineers, there are now more prisoners facing the electric chair than at any other time in three years. None, however, is scheduled to be executed in the next six weeks.

CHICAGO RED MARCH ROUTED AT CITY HALL

Crowd of 1,200 Jobless, Led by Communists, Are Charged by Mounted Police.

HEADS BATTERED, 12 HELD

Mayor Thompson Guarded by Detectives—Demonstration Incited at Radical Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Chicago today was the scene of the third riotous demonstration of unemployed under Communist leadership against the City Hall of an American city within a period of ten days.

Shortly before noon a crowd of about 1,200 jobless men and women began a march upon the seat of municipal government, but before they attained their goal they were dispersed by mounted and foot policemen, who swept through them time and again, swinging sticks right and left, as thousands of Loop workers watched from streets and office windows.

Heads were bruised and a dozen demonstrators were arrested and whisked in taxicabs, commandeered automobiles and patrol wagons to station houses. Among them were two girls, one of whom tried to deliver "soap box" harangues to the crowd.

So serious did the disturbance appear for a while, that a detective squad was ordered to guard the offices of Mayor William Hale Thompson, and ten uniformed men were dispatched to protect the Federal Building. The entire square block occupied by the City Hall and Cook County Building was circled by a cordon of police.

The demonstration here today was the third of its kind in the Eastern part of the United States since Feb. 11. On that date a large crowd of unemployed, fired by speeches of Communistic leaders, stormed the City Hall of Cleveland, demanding food and jobs, and stabbing and pummelling policemen until they were dispersed and eight arrests were made. Three days later, at Philadelphia, a crowd tried to invade the offices of Mayor Harry A. Mackey, but were driven off by police, who arrested two women and twelve men.

Today's manifestation of communism was the second to occupy the attention of the police and courts here within twenty-four hours. Efforts of young Reds to introduce communism into the Chicago public schools and to foment a strike of pupils of the Brown School were revealed yesterday when a girl and two boys were arraigned in the Boys' Court on charges of disorderly conduct and contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The Soviet agents in this country, Secret Service men here declare, have made several attempts to organize demonstrations in Chicago, but up until today had failed.

This morning, however, two well dressed Russian girls walked up and down Canal Street and West Madison Street handing out circulars inviting the "floaters" to a meeting at the Redheifer Hall at 30 North Wells Street. The circulars, demanding "work or wages," were signed by the "Trade Union Unity League," but no names appeared.

Police Commissioner William F. Russell was prepared to meet the march on the City Hall. Detachments of the 70 mounted officers and 150 patrolmen that Captain Frank Matchette of the Traffic Division had placed around the City Hall and the Federal Building were under orders not to molest the paraders until they began to tie up traffic.

Down Wells Street to Washington Street, over Washington toward Clark went the marchers. An 18-year-old girl and a boy of about the same age carried the banner which read "Work or Wages." At the county building entrance the speech-making began.

Ordered to Move Along.

In a few minutes street car bells were clanging, automobile horns were blaring, onlookers were jeering or cheering.

"Move along," ordered a mounted policeman. "Can't you see you're tying up traffic?" "We want wages, too."

There were further warnings, according to the authorities, and then began the police charges.

Fire Department officials stationed an engine company at Lake and Dearborn Streets to protect the building and hosemen were ready to turn water on the crowd.

Two of the girls who participated in the march gave their names as Lydia Okin, 19 years old, and Ethel Stevens, 20 years old. They refused to tell what their interest in the parade was.

Police officials said that they had learned recently that Communist headquarters abroad, angered because agents here had obtained no publicity in Chicago, dispatched a "high-pressure" organizer to this country and that he arrived here this week from New York. He is said to have instituted the Cleveland and Philadelphia demonstrations.

Police asserted that the local leader of the effort was a man who gave his name as Stephen Nelson, 27 years old, a carpenter, who said he is secretary of the "Chicago Council of the Unemployed."

Other alleged ringleaders taken to the central station said they were John Heckler, 25; John Gustandas, 40; Carl Lockner, 21; Paul Cline, 40; Edward Lasky, 22.

Handbills Exhort Workers.

Some of the handbills read as follows:

"Join the international demonstration against unemployment on Thursday, March 6."

"Demand work or wages! Fight against the speed-up! Strike against wage cuts!"

"Unemployment is increasing—the crisis is sharpening. Everywhere misery and suffering exists and increases daily."

"At the beginning of the crisis about three months ago there were over 5,000,000 unemployed workers; at present there are already 7,000,000 unemployed walking the streets without the hope of getting a job. The next few months will see the lay-off of thousands of more workers. The sharpening of the crisis in the country, the increase of speed-up in the shops, will by Summer increase the number of unemployed to 10,000,000."

"Hoover's lying propaganda."

"The Strike-breaking A. F. of L., the Enemy of the Workers and the Friend of the Bosses."

"Organize Councils of Unemployed. Build the Trade Union Unity League."

"Billions of Dollars for Bosses' Wars—Wage-cuts, Unemployment for the Workers."

"Socialistic Prosperity in the Soviet Union—Poverty in the Capitalist Countries."

"International Struggle Against Unemployment. International Solidarity of the Working Class."

Will Rogers Sympathizes With Naval Parley Delegates

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 21.—Poor old disarmament conference! Even if it does make an agreement with each other, why before they can telegraph the news back to their countries the men that made the agreement may be thrown out of office. Every one of those delegations have to read the papers every morning to find if they are still working.

France just called for another preacher right in the middle of the sermon. There is not even a two weeks' clause in any political contract over there. Any time you pull a bad move you are out on your ear, and they throw your hat after you.

On account of us being a democracy and run by the people, we are the only nation in the world that has to keep a government four years no matter what it does.

WILL ROGERS.

CONVICTS FIGHT FIRE ON WELFARE ISLAND

35 Form Bucket Brigade to Save Residence of Warden Erected in 1848.

DAMAGE IS PUT AT $10,000

Engine Company and Fire Boat Wage Hour's Battle Against Blaze, Which Started in Attic.

Fire believed to have been caused by faulty electric wiring damaged one wing of the picturesque old residence of the penitentiary warden yesterday afternoon on Welfare Island in the shadow of the Queensboro Bridge. Flames and water did $10,000 damage, according to the estimate of Warden Joseph A. McCann. The building was erected in 1848.

Several hundred convicts were exercising in the yard of the penitentiary when a series of pistol shots fired by Keeper Edward Bruckner sounded the alarm. Smoke was curling out of attic windows in the slate-roofed west wing of the old stone mansion. The convicts made no attempt to take advantage of the excitement. Thirty-five convicts assigned as mechanics in the automobile shop near by formed a bucket brigade and held the fire in check until the arrival of Engine Company 49 and a fire boat.

By the time firemen reached the scene the flames and clouds of smoke had attracted attention up and down the East River waterfront. The fire boat was unable to direct its streams at the burning portions of the house, and the slate roof acted as a shield against the streams from hose lines which were rapidly connected.

In order to get at the flaming walls, ceilings and furniture the fire fighters ascended ladders and battered in the roof, while others hurried to the attic from the interior. After an hour of work the flames were extinguished. Ground floor rooms in the west wing were drenched with water and goods stored in the attic were ruined. The only person in the building when the fire started was Keeper George Major, who was not injured.

Mr. McCann said that he and his family would occupy the undamaged east wing of the building until repairs were made. The fire severed telephone wires and electric wires. Special arrangements were made to have them replaced promptly, it was said by Isaac Goldberg, Deputy Commissioner of Correction, who visited the scene.

REDS IN PHILADELPHIA STAGE DEMONSTRATION

Are Told at City Hall Mayor Mackey Will Hear Jobless Complaint Tuesday.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—One week after the unemployment riot at City Hall Plaza, during which seventeen Communists were arrested, about 500 radicals assembled in groups at noon today at the same place and staged a peaceful demonstration, while Public Safety Director Schofield, William B. Mills, Superintendent of Police, and 100 policemen watched for trouble.

Only once did it appear that the open-air meeting was on the verge of a disturbance. That was when William Murdoch, secretary of the Trade Union Unity League, in the course of a speech shouted:

"We will see Mayor Mackey and we will see him now? We'll see why we can't have work!"

The crowd cheered and police looked anxious for a moment, but the meeting proceeded in orderly fashion. Director Schofield informed the leaders of the demonstration that Mayor Mackey was not in his office at the moment but that he would be glad to receive a delegation later. Next Tuesday was set as the tentative date for the interview.

The council of unemployed of the Trade Union Unity League announced that the radicals through their demonstration hoped to obtain emergency relief of $15 a week for single workers, with gradual increases for married couples with children; establishment of a policy of no eviction of workers for non-payment of rent, and immediate opening of public construction works to relieve unemployment.

Brazilian Police Accuse Them of Fomenti g Disorders Among Troops.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 21 (AP).—Dispatches from Porto Alegre, Brazil, today said that police had arrested five alleged Communists near San Leopoldo who were fleeing in an automobile toward the Argentine frontier. They were said to be accused of fomenting disorders among Brazilian troops in the State of Rio Grande do Sul.

Twelve other persons were expelled from Porto Alegre on charges of carrying on anti-government propaganda.

"GOLDEN DOG" ON PROGRAM

Students Give Musical Comedy to Large Audience—Visiting Alumni Attend.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 21.—One of Princeton University's oldest ambitions was realized this evening when the Triangle Club formally took possession of the new McCarter Theatre. The dedication ceremonies were held in connection with the annual Winter visit of the National Alumni Association.

Standing beneath a thick red curtain bearing the arms of both his university and the club, President John Grier Hibben received the keys to the new building from the architect, D. K. Este Fisher of Baltimore. Then, in the course of a short address, he gave them "to the custodian," Dr. Donald Clive Stuart, the adviser of the club.

The audience that witnessed the fulfillment of what had been for nearly forty years only a dream was made up of university professors and their wives and alumni. They had come to see both the dedication of the new building and the performance of "The Golden Dog," the musical comedy with which the club toured the country last Christmas.

When the three principals in the dedication ceremonies walked on the new stage the entire theatre was filled. It ordinarily holds nearly 1,100 persons, but several hundred more were gathered in the rear aisles and in the wide entrances at the back.

Dr. Hibben at once introduced Mr. Fisher, who said:

"It is with the greatest of pleasure that, as the architect, I now turn over to you, Dr. Hibben, this new building. It is with the hope of all of us, architects, contractors and builders, that it may have a very successful career as a laboratory for the study of the dramatic art."

Dr. Hibben Accepts Building.

Dr. Hibben, in accepting the building, revealed that Mr. Fisher, who is an alumnus, had declined to accept his fee. Speaking "confidentially" to the audience, Dr. Hibben said:

"I wish to tell you that Mr. Fisher has turned back to this building all of the profits that he might have made on it. He has done this in order that he might realize to the full his spirit of giving his time and his thought to this theatre. We are more than indebted to him, and cannot express the full extent of our appreciation."

In introducing Dr. Stuart, who holds the Triangle Club Chair of Dramatic Art, Dr. Hibben referred to him as "both the prophet and the apostle of this enterprise," and as one whose "spirit has made this possible."

Dr. Stuart gave a brief history of Princeton's efforts to obtain a suitable theatre for its various dramatic productions. Some had never favored the Triangle Club, he said, but in the McCarter Theatre lay the proof that it is now "greatly esteemed by many people."

Tells of Help of Thousands.

"We wish to thank the thousands of persons who have helped us; to express our gratitude to Dr. Hibben and to the trustees for believing that dramatic art has a place in the life of this great university. We cannot express our indebtedness to Mr. McCarter, whose generosity has brought this theatre about."

The Mr. McCarter whose name the theatre bears is Thomas N. McCarter of the class of 1888, the president of the New Jersey Public Service Corporation, who made a gift of $250,000 toward the new building. This sum was augmented by a number of smaller gifts and by the twenty-year savings of the Triangle Club into the $450,000 that was needed for the total construction.

Dr. Hibben read a telegram from Mr. McCarter, now in Florida, which expressed his regret that he could not attend. He hoped "that the theatre will serve to give inspiration toward the development of dramatic art, and to provide pleasure for the University and the town of Princeton."

"The Golden Dog," which appeared at the Metropolitan Opera House along with other places in the East, is from the pens of Alfred Wade, '30, and Joshua Logan, '31, and it has been regarded as one of the best of the Triangle productions.

To Teach Appreciation.

Dr. Donald Clive Stuart, who has been the director of Triangle shows for the last decade, explained that in addition to the theatre's use as providing experience for potential actors and playwrights, it would also teach appreciation for good drama on the part of future audiences.

"The undergraduates will learn the problems of the stage by experimenting with writing, producing and acting," he said. "Appreciation of anything comes only from a thorough understanding of the problems that are to be solved. So, in later years, old Triangle members will be able to sit in the theatre and will understand that the play on the stage isn't as easy as it looks.

"The Triangle show is a product of undergraduate talent. The students write the book—the current one was rewritten twelve times—and they work up the music, the scenery and the costumes. It is revised and revised, and when it takes the road for the Christmas trip it is a show that can stand pretty well on its own merits. Audiences are kindly disposed to the Triangle efforts, of course, but they won't accept bad ones. We started ten days ago on next year's production."

Dr. Stuart explained that the members of the Theatre Intime, which also will use the McCarter Theatre, are for the most part members of the Triangle Club. Here, also, the undergraduates do all the work connected with the productions and they stage the shows without Dr. Stuart's advice or supervision.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Recovery in Stocks General, With Some Further Declines—Money 4%, Sterling Firmer.

Whether because the day's grain markets all made a stand against the fall in prices, or merely because of the alternations of a stock market which has no very definite purpose, stocks recovered yesterday, fairly canceling the declines of the day before. The price of wheat ran up 3 cents a bushel from the low point of Thursday, though not holding all of this advance. Other grains recovered moderately, but cotton lost ground. The wheat market remained as much a matter of perplexed conjecture as before. Possibly the point of central interest has shifted lately from our own position, with the Farm Board locking horns with consuming Europe, to the seemingly precarious position of the Canadian "wheat pools." At Chicago, there was evidently some covering of "shorts," and Europe seemed to be purchasing more freely.

Advances on the Stock Exchange ranged from 2 to 8 points in active shares, with some appreciable reaction before the last. As usual, there was a respectable list of net declines to vary the picture. An effort was made to excite enthusiasm over the Commerce Commission's approval of the petition to unify the Northern Pacific and Great Northern lines. But the refusal to leave the Burlington & Quincy in the system actually complicates rather than simplifies the situation. The two Northern transcontinental lines bought $107,600,000 Burlington stock in the famous "amalgamation days" of 1901, paying in their own bonds $200 a share for it, though the stock's open-market price had been $138 earlier in that same year and $119 in 1900. The famous clash with Harriman's Union Pacific over the Burlington purchase, and the corner in Northern Pacific stock which came with the efforts of rival interests to capture control of that company itself, were among the dramatic incidents occasioned by the exploit. But the present aspect of the matter is that $230,000,000 bonds of the two Northern companies are outstanding, secured by stock of the Burlington. If the Burlington is to go, these bonds must somehow be covered by an equivalent in cash, resulting from sale of the Burlington property. It is not a simple operation.

The impression created by the week-end surveys of trade by the mercantile agencies is that these expert observers are as puzzled as Wall Street over the general trend. Descriptions of the week's trade movements and of their meaning in regard to the general outlook are made up mostly of assignment of contrasting and conflicting influences. Warm weather has increased retail buying, but falling prices have made wholesale buyers hesitant. Trade in finished textiles is declared to be more active, but buyers of cloth are holding off pending a more settled raw cotton market. Everything interferes with something else.

Dun's Review expresses the highly conservative conclusion that, in general trade, "comparisons with the low marks made during last December reflect distinct recovery in several instances," adding that general conditions "have not changed this month" and that "decisive recovery is yet to be witnessed." It again reports thirty-six declines in fifty-two articles whose price has changed this week. Bradstreet's canvass of New York City trades finds four that are doing better than a year ago and forty-five that are doing worse. Summaries of checks drawn on the banks this week and passed through the clearing houses show decrease of 20½ per cent from 1929 for the country as a whole and of 25⅞ for New York City.

DALL BUYS EXCHANGE SEAT.

Governor's Son-in-Law Pays $398,000 for Partner's Membership.

Curtis Dean Dall, son-in-law of Governor Roosevelt, has applied for membership on the New York Stock Exchange through the purchase of a seat for $398,000. His application is expected to be acted upon next week.

Mr. Dall is a general partner in the Stock Exchange firm of O'Brien, Potter, Stafford & Co. of Buffalo. He is purchasing his seat from Lars S. Potter of the same firm, who is a general partner in Buffalo. Mr. Dall has been manager of the New York office since joining the firm last May. His intention is to act as floor member for the concern.

KLEIN ADDRESSES CONSULS.

Urges Buying From South America to Establish Trade Relations.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, spoke on trade relations with South America yesterday at a luncheon in the store of R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., attended by men in the consular service of Latin-American countries, the Philippines and Canada.

He said the Department of Commerce had recently shown certain South American countries how they could successfully export new commodities to this country and he emphasized the point that it is necessary, in establishing trade relations, to buy from the countries to which we sell.

"In all the processes of distribution," he continued, "by far the most important factor is the retailer. If the sale is not consummated at the counter of a retail store, all the mining, farming and manufacturing steps that went before were simply so much waste motion."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Business will be suspended in all financial centres of the United States today in observance of Washington's Birthday. Banking institutions as well as the financial and commodity markets will be closed. They will reopen on Monday as usual.

A Moderate Recovery.

Moderate recovery by many of the active issues which fell widely on Thursday did much yesterday to alter Wall Street's attitude toward the market. Whereas the trading community was to a large extent pessimistic on the day before, optimism ruled on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The market was dull most of the day, but there was no repetition of Thursday's selling movement. Such price movements as excited comment were on the up side. The best gains were recorded in American Can, American Telephone and Telegraph, J. I. Case, Consolidated Gas, Eastman Kodak, Houston Oil, Norfolk & Western, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse Electric and United States Steel. Transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 2,566,570 shares, the smallest turnover since Jan. 22.

Professional Trading.

An idea of the relative size of public and professional participation in the market was offered yesterday by a broker who indicated that the volume of commission business for the public; compared with a year ago, was much smaller, while the total trading was only moderately less than that of 1929. The slack has been taken up by professional trading, this broker contends, explaining the relative narrowness of certain recent movements and the abrupt changes in trend that have mystified traders for the turn.

What of the Burlington?

When the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the Great Northern-Northern Pacific merger, with the Burlington excluded, was announced, speculation in railroad circles immediately centred on the future of the third road. It was pointed out that the two top roads had asked for the Burlington in their merger petition and that they might choose to reject the merger approval with that road excluded. Should the commission's plan be accepted, the question of how the Burlington interest would be disposed of would be one of considerable magnitude. One question asked was: Who would be the buyer? How securities secured by the Burlington, but issued by the Great Northern, would be handled was another question raised.

Money Over the Holiday.

The ease which developed in call money yesterday was due to the familiar circumstance of banks being anxious to lend over the holiday. Clearing house checks lent yesterday will not be cleared until Monday, so that in effect the banks were able to lend without putting up the money. When the checks are presented for clearing on Monday the banks will have placed themselves in funds through calling loans or otherwise to meet them. The renewal rate of 4 per cent posted yesterday equaled the low for the year and the rate of 3 per cent at which outside funds were offered was the lowest rate in this department reported in over two years, with the exception of one day last November.

Rails Move Ahead.

Announcement of the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision in the Great Northern-Northern Pacific merger served to send many railroad stocks forward yesterday. Great Northern closed fractionally firmer and the certificates touched a high for the year of 99¼, closing up 2¼ at 98½. Northern Pacific touched 97, the highest level for the year, closing up nearly 2 points at 95⅜, while the certificates reached a new high for the year of 96½, closing up 4¼ points at 95⅞. Other gains were Norfolk & Western 9¾, New York Central 3, Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson each 3¾, Chesapeake & Ohio 2¾, Santa Fe 1⅞, Baltimore & Ohio 1¼, Erie 1⅛ and New Haven 1⅝. Nickel Plate, which made a poor showing in January earnings, closed down 4½ points.

New Bond Issues Well Taken.

Investment bankers reported yesterday a heavier volume of business than for any previous day this week. Several issues placed on the market this week were entirely sold and others offered recently were cleared out and the syndicate books closed. It was said the bulk of the bonds actually had passed out of the market to investors and had not merely been taken down for future sale by the various members of the accounts. This fact is mentioned as a healthy sign. For one thing, the new offerings of bonds this week have been comparatively light, so that bankers have been able to give considerable attention to blocks of bonds which have remained unsold from previous weeks. Certainly, the bond market yesterday had few earmarks of the typical pre-holiday dullness.

New Municipal Financing Light.

States or municipalities throughout the country will be in the market next week with less than $18,000,000 of new bonds, representing the smallest weekly total since mid-January. The municipal bond market is just emerging from several weeks of comparative dullness in so far as distribution has been concerned, so that a further breathing spell will accelerate the recovery greatly. The weekly average of new offerings for the year to date has been slightly more than $30,000,000. The closing out of the $29,050,000 State of Tennessee issue offered in January and the virtual winding up of the $10,670,000 city of Newark bonds offered on Wednesday featured yesterday's business in municipals.

MONEY.

Friday, Feb. 21, 1930.

As a result of the big supply of money on offer, Stock Exchange call-loan rate dropped ½, to 4 per cent, lowest for standing loans in a week. On the outside, trades were arranged as low as 3, but even this figure failed to move but a very small amount. Time money was dull and unchanged at 4½@5 per cent for the near and distant dates. Merchants' paper and acceptances were unchanged in discount.

G. L. HARRISON SAILS FOR BANK PARLEYS

Local Federal Reserve's Head Will Confer Abroad on Gold and Other Problems.

WIDE INTEREST AROUSED

America's Part in Operation of International Bank Expected to Be Discussed.

George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, sailed for Europe last night on the Majestic for a two-week trip, during which he will visit the principal European correspondents of the Reserve bank. His departure, coming at a time when the central banks of Europe and this country are faced with a number of perplexing problems, aroused great interest in the financial community.

The recent course of the foreign exchange markets here has carried the price of a number of European currencies, notably the franc and sterling, to levels little above those at which gold might be expected to flow here from abroad. Banking authorities in this country are understood to be opposed to a movement of gold from Europe to the United States, and means to avert such a development will, it is thought, be discussed when Governor Harrison confers with the governors of the Bank of England and the Bank of France.

Another subject which will probably come up for discussion when the governors of the central banks meet is the part which the Federal Reserve can be expected to play in the operations of the Bank for International Settlements, which is soon to be established at Basle, Switzerland. The governors of the European banks of issue are expected to meet in Rome shortly to elect a board of directors of the international bank. They will also choose the American directors of the institution and extend invitations to them.

Gold Situation Uppermost.

The recent period of high money rates and world-wide stock speculation, although it has been succeeded by a collapse of security prices and a general reduction in money rates, has left in its wake a number of difficult situations with respect to international credit conditions which also will come up for discussion during Governor Harrison's visit abroad.

It is the understanding of leading bankers here that the central banking authorities of this country desire to avoid an influx of gold to this market, such as is threatened by the present position of the exchanges. The best way to avert such a gold flow, it is thought, is offered by the purchase of bills in the London market by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

While no conference would be needed for the Reserve Bank to undertake such measures, a number of details concerning a decision of this character can best be worked out by personal discussion rather than through cable communications.

It has become a regular practice in recent years for the governors of the European central banks and the governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to visit each other for the purpose of discussing central banking problems at frequent intervals. Last year Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, paid two visits to this country, one early in the year and another in the Summer.

Problem of Lower Rates.

After the first visit the Bank of England embarked upon its policy of advancing its rediscount rate, boosting the charge from 4½ per cent to 6½ per cent in two successive advances. It was thought at the time that Governor Norman had attempted to persuade the banking authorities here to cooperate in preventing the flow of gold to New York from London without the necessity of an advance in the British bank rate.

The arrest of the gold movement from London to New York could only have been accomplished at that time, it was pointed out, by a policy of making money cheaper here or by taking steps to bring about the collapse of the speculative movement in our stock market. The Reserve Bank authorities were committed against an easy money policy, since that would have encouraged speculation, it was felt, but were reluctant to take drastic measures against the stock market. It is understood that Governor Norman advocated the raising of the New York rediscount rate to 6 per cent or higher in order to check speculation, although at the time the impression prevailed that he had asked for a lower rate.

At the present time it is thought that the central banking authorities of Europe would like to see still lower money rates in this market so that they could further reduce their own bank rates and so that a market for foreign bond issues might be encouraged.

Disagree on Result of Cut.

Bankers here regard it as a possibility that a still further cut in the reserve rate may be ordered after a while, not merely as a measure of cooperation with Europe, but also to stimulate American business. There is some dispute, however, as to whether a lower discount rate would be either justified or efficacious.

A number of important bankers feel that present money rates give a false impression of the true condition of credit, contending that the declining trend of bank investments points to the fact that there is no surplus of funds. It is also urged that the rediscount rate is not alone sufficient to bring easy money, since the banks, after their experiences of last year, when the Reserve Board admonished them against rediscounting to make or maintain speculative loans, are extremely reluctant to discount at all.

It is the policy of the Bank of England and of the Federal Reserve Bank here to describe these visits of the governors as "vacations." No significance is ever attached to them in official circles and the social aspects of the trip are stressed. However, important developments in central banking policies almost invariably have followed such conferences and the "vacations" are often taken at times when pressing problems face the central banks and despite unseasonable ocean crossings.

New Canadian Distillers Company.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 21 (Canadian Press).—Shareholders of Dominion Distillers Consolidated, Ltd., approved today the sale of the company to a new company to be known as Canadian Distillers Consolidated, Ltd. The new company has yet to be incorporated. It will have a capitalization of $1,000,000 no-par value shares.

CHECK PAYMENTS BELOW YEAR AGO

Level for Last Week Also Is Under Figures for the Preceding Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Commercial transactions during the week ended Feb. 15, as reflected by check payments, were lower than in either the preceding week or the corresponding period of 1929, according to the weekly statement today of the Department of Commerce.

Steel plant operations during the latest reported week were on a higher level than in the previous week but showed a decline from a year ago.

The output of bituminous coal was lower than in either the previous week or the same week of the preceding year.

Petroleum output was greater than in the previous week but showed a decline from a year ago. Wheat receipts for the latest available week as well as receipts of cotton, cattle and hogs were lower than a year ago.

The general level of wholesale prices showed a decline, as compared with both the previous week and the same week of 1929. Cotton prices averaged higher than in the previous week but were lower than a year ago. Prices for iron and steel were unchanged from the previous week but were lower than last year, while prices for copper were unchanged from either prior period.

Bank loans and discounts at the end of the week were lower than at the end of the preceding week but showed a gain over last year. Business failures were less numerous than in the previous week but were larger than a year ago. Prices for stocks were higher than in the previous week, but were below the level which prevailed in the corresponding period of 1929. Bond prices showed a further fractional gain over the previous week but were lower than a year ago.

Comparative index figures, with the average from 1923-25 inclusive equaling 100, follow:

UNDERWRITERS IN COURT.

Receivers Appointed for Two Mayflower Companies of Newark.

Announcement was made in Newark yesterday of the appointment of William L. Dill, New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commissioner, and Herman Waldman of Newark as equity receivers for the Mayflower Fire and Marine Insurance Company and the Mayflower Fidelity and Casualty Company, both of Newark. Judge William N. Runyon made the appointment in Trenton on Wednesday.

The suit was instituted by Herman Ressler of New York as holder of 100 shares of stock in each company. He charged that in 1929 the casualty company had operated at a loss of $100,000 and the other company at a loss of $50,000. It also was said the companies were unable to meet maturing obligations, though able to take care of claims on policies.

Samuel M. Hollander, Newark attorney, said plans for reorganization of the companies were under way.

They were chartered less than two years ago, each with $100,000 capital and $50,000 surplus.

Fiduciary Work Approved for Bank.

The application of the Fort Greene National Bank to act as trustee, executor, administrator and guardian, as registrar of stocks and bonds, and as assignee and receiver, has been approved by W. H. Dillistin, assistant Federal Reserve agent, it was announced yesterday. The bank has also been authorized to act in any other fiduciary capacity in which any State bank or trust company can act.

CONFIDENT OF TRADE WITH LATIN AMERICA

V. M. Cutter, President of the United Fruit Company, Reports on Prospects.

DEVELOPMENTS IMPORTANT

Interchange of Goods Building Up Great Middle Class in Southern Republics, He Says.

Despite low prices of coffee, sugar, cacao and other Latin-American products, V. M. Cutter, president of the United Fruit Company, says in his annual statement to stockholders that no apprehension need be felt as to the permanence of business with the republics to the south of the United States.

After going into the details of the business of the company with South American countries and touching upon the general trade, Mr. Cutter summed up his views as to future relations, as follows:

"The outlook for Latin-American trade during 1930 is affected by the poor market prices of coffee, sugar, cacao and other Latin-American products. The coffee situation is far from reassuring. The decline, approximately half the prices prevailing a year ago, has caused embarrassment and it must be remembered that coffee is the first money crop in the Caribbean area, bananas being second. But no apprehension need be felt as to the permanent nature of our trade with the republics to the south of us. All countries depending largely on agricultural products are bound to have alternate periods of prosperity and depression, owing to the limited number of products on which their well-being depends. We have enjoyed a long-range upward trend of trade with Latin America and in the year to come this is bound to continue, for these countries are our nearest and at the same time, potentially, our best markets."

Progress in Three Decades.

Discussing the progress made in South American trade during 1929, Mr. Cutter said:

"The United Fruit Company has consistently emphasized the increasing value of United States trade relations with South and Central America. Within the life of this company's operations Latin-American trade has swelled from $300,000,000 in 1900 to over $2,000,000,000 in 1929. This increase has not been sporadic—it has been an orderly and progressive development. In fact, last year Latin-American trade amounted to 21 per cent of the total volume of the United States foreign commerce, as against 14 per cent in 1900.

"For the first ten months of 1929 total exports from the United States to the Caribbean area, in which is included Mexico and the West Indies, amounted to $446,000,000, an increase of nearly $45,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1928. Importations into the United States from the Caribbean area for the first ten months of 1929 were $541,000,000, an increase of $36,0000,000 over the same period in 1928.

"Latin America for many years to come will have coffee and sugar, bananas, tobacco, oil, minerals, timber, grain—all natural products—to exchange for our surplus of manufactured goods, and it may be said that the interchange of our manufactured goods for their natural commodities is playing no small part in the gradual upbuilding of a great middle class in Latin America, in which will be found the future economic strength of these countries.

Evidences of Advancement.

"In journeying through the country districts of Central America it is apparent that material progress has been made in the acquisition of modern comforts and luxuries. In remote farms and plantations may be found tableware and silver, safety razors, talking machines, shoes, rayon stockings, alarm clocks, cooking utensils, cutlery—all of which were comparatively unknown a few years ago. This indicates plainly the creation of new markets for manufactured products made in increasing quantities in the United States.

"The possibilities of purchase—the ability to buy on the part of nationals—has been contributed in part by the United Fruit Company, which last year placed $42,419,960 in circulation in the countries in which its plantations are located. Of this amount $28,420,060 was distributed in wages and $13,999,900 for purchased fruit and sugar cane."

FURTHER GAIN NOTED IN WEEK'S BUSINESS

Trade Reviews Report General Advance Despite Some Unfavorable Phases.

MILD WEATHER A FACTOR

Steel and Iron Make the Best Showing—Outlook for Spring Viewed Optimistically.

Although there are further evidences of betterment in business, attributed partly to the return of warm weather throughout the country and the consequent release of goods previously ordered for the coming open season, the trends still remains varied, according to the weekly commercial reviews. A widespread and decisive recovery from a major recession has yet to be witnessed, it is stated. Renewed weakness in the prices of raw materials, particularly wheat and cotton, is listed as an unfavorable factor.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of business says in part:

"Complete uniformity of movement is scarcely to be expected on any occasion, but the irregularities, the sharply contrasting tendencies, of the present period of readjustment are unusually prominent. Those phases, however, are not unnatural after a speculative convulsion of great intensity, time necessarily being required for the removal of restraining forces and influences making for hesitation. With a gradual modification of the different obstacles to progress, the way is being opened for a more general advance, and confidence in the longer future is universal.

"Current barriers to a more rapid commercial recuperation include the continued unsettlement in commodity markets, with renewed depression in the principal farm staples, and buyers are disposed to press their advantage while quotations are in an unstable position. The limiting of purchases to actual needs as they are disclosed is an almost invariable result of uncertainty as to prices, with numerous commitments apparently being held in abeyance until the outlook in this respect becomes clearer.

Steel Prices Now Firmer.

"The downward trend in iron and steel appears to have been arrested. The best showing continues to be made by that industry, both in the matter of firmer prices and revival of production, and some additional gain has developed in the textile trade, considered as a whole. Prospects for an extension of the improvement in business are increased as Spring draws nearer, while retailing has been helped recently by more favorable weather over a wide area. Statistical indices still reveal losses from the highly satisfactory records of a year ago, yet comparisons with the low marks during last December reflect distinct recovery in several instances.

"Following the trend of most other statistical records, returns of this country's merchandise exports in January showed an extension of the decline that began in November. Preliminary official data recently released placed last month's exports at $417,000,000, or about $9,600,000 below December's total and $25,000,000 under the amount for November. The January figures are, in fact, the smallest reported since last August, and fell off $71,000,000 from those of a year ago.

"Contrasting with the decrease in exports, last month's imports increased, although only slightly. Thus, the preliminary estimate of $312,000,000, compares with $309,800,000 in December and is, with that exception, less than the imports for all months since February, 1927. The contraction from the aggregate for a year ago was practically $57,000,000."

Situation Among Textiles.

Bradstreet's state of trade says in part:

"In the textiles the successive breaks in cotton to a point nearly 25 per cent below a year ago have tended to react on sales of manufactured products, but Spring cotton goods are selling better. Wholesale trade notes a little more life in several lines, but orders are almost universally of the small though frequent class. Cotton mill curtailment is still in evidence at a number of centres.

"Large sales of raw silk have followed price concessions made to move stocks. The bathing suit manufacturing industry is, as heretofore, one of the conspicuously active lines.

"In woolen goods the feature has been a revision downward of opening prices of leading makers' goods for Fall, this having been made possible by the lower trend of wool noted some time ago. Rayon and silk mills are generally active.

Break in Wheat Prices.

"Governmental activity in the wheat market creates an uneasy feeling. In some respects it tends to check short selling, which naturally would leave the markets without support from that class of traders on breaks. Export buying and clearances are disappointing. Wheat prices in Winnipeg had a serious break early, and at one time during the week May wheat sold below the same delivery in Chicago. Argentine holders are competing with each other in European markets, with Argentina underselling all countries. The Canadian pool, however, has sold considerable high-grade wheat, and has been helped out by that government assisting the banks.

"A general view of the situation still reveals a reduced movement in industry, and trade, as compared with a year ago, but holds promise of resulting in better reports from now on, in outdoor operations at least, and inferentially aiding the ultimate throwing off of Winter dullness in a number of lines."

PACIFIC TELEPHONE AUTHORIZES RIGHTS

Offers Holders One Share of Common at $100 for Each Two Held of Either Class.

The directors of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company yesterday authorized the issuance to stockholders of rights to acquire one additional share of common stock at $100 a share for each two shares of preferred or common stock held, of record on March 7. The rights will expire on March 31, 1930.

Of the $87,500,000 maximum proceeds from this offering, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is expected to provide $71,544,200, as it owns 640,427, or 78.1 per cent, of the 820,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock outstanding and 790,457, or 85 per cent, of the 930,000 common shares outstanding.

The value of rights at the latest price of 177⅝ for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph common stock is $20 a share, based on a formula adapted to offerings involving both common and preferred shares. Based on the common stock alone, the rights are worth $26 to the holder of each common share.

The aggregate value of rights is $35,000,000, accruing to the holders of common and preferred stocks of the company jointly. Payment for the stock subscribed to by stockholders may be made in instalments of $30 on March 31, $30 on June 30 and the balance, less 6 per cent interest, on Sept. 30, at the option of the stockholder. Final payment may be made on June 30 at a price less 6 per cent interest.

The issuance of rights by this company and by other Bell System companies recently announced, allows the definite expectation that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company will make its customary biennial issuance of rights early next Summer, permitting stockholders to acquire additional shares at par.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Commonwealth and Southern.

Earnings equivalent to 75 cents a share on 31,546,001 common shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1929, were reported yesterday by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation for the year. The balance available for dividends after depreciation was $23,568,662 for the period.

Gross earnings for the twelve months totaled $147,370,482, against $137,223,384 in the preceding year, and net earnings were $75,406,181, against $69,047,644, showing gains of 7.39 per cent and 9.21 per cent respectively.

Gross earnings of the company in December amounted to $12,876,701, against $12,482,642 in December, 1928, and net earnings were $6,990,819, against $6,814,075.

Federal Light and Traction.

The report of the Federal Light and Traction Company and subsidiaries for 1929 shows a net profit of $2,212,477 after Federal taxes, interest and discount, but before depreciation, against $2,139,626 the year before. After subsidiary preferred dividends and reserves the balance was $2,036,632, against $1,966,075 in the previous year.

Mountain States Telephone.

The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company reports for 1929 a net income of $3,934,441, after all taxes, reserves and charges, equal to $10.23 a share earned on 384,397 shares of stock, comparing with $4,111,105, or $10.69 a share, earned in 1928.

The company has been registered as a private company with 60,000 shares of £100 par value each, or a total capital of $30,000,000. The directors include seven Americans, six Britons, one Frenchman and one Canadian.

RECORDS FOR P. R. R. IN ELECTRIC ENGINE

Road Assembling Two of 150 Locomotives to Be Biggest and Fastest in World.

FOR $100,000,000 PROJECT

Passenger Service on Schedules Never Before Attempted Is Said to Be Part of Plan.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is constructing the first two of a fleet of electric passenger locomotives that will be the largest and fastest in the world, it was disclosed last night by F. H. Shepard, director of heavy traction for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, in an address before the New York Railroad Club in the United Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. These locomotives will be used in the $100,000,000 electrification of the Pennsylvania's Eastern lines.

The new engines will have twin motors developing a total of 2,800 horsepower continuously up to ninety miles an hour and 4,000 horsepower at starting. They will provide passenger train service on schedules never before attempted, it is said, and will be used to reduce the running time between New York and Philadelphia and Washington. They are the first of 150 electric locomotives to be built for the Pennsylvania at a cost of $16,000,000. Eventually the road plans to have from 375 to 400 electric locomotives, costing about $40,000,000.

Mr. Shepard disclosed also that locomotives made by his company and those made by the General Electric Company for the Pennsylvania will have interchangeable units and parts. This means that the two companies, which have disagreed in the past on details of locomotive design, have finally decided upon a type that their officials consider the best yet developed. Mr. Shepard described the agreement on interchangeability as "an outstanding milestone in the progress of electrification." Reading Company electrical equipment will be interchangeable with Pennsylvania equipment, he said.

The two new locomotives are under assembly in the Altoona shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose electrical parts were made by the Westinghouse Company. They will operate at 10,000 volts, but with a few adjustments may operate at 20,000 volts or more.

"Here in America, with our relatively low cost and abundant resources of fuel," said Mr. Shepard, "railroad electrification until recently has been distinctly lagging compared with the rest of the world, where extension has been rapid, especially since the war."

He explained that abroad electrification was used for fuel economy but that here a point had been reached at which traffic was so dense that soon only electricity would be able to move it.

Mr. Shepard said that passenger locomotives for the Pennsylvania electrification would have two or three driving axles. The continuous horsepower rating of the twin motors would approximate 1,400 horsepower per axle with full capacity up to more than 90 miles an hour. One-half a twin motor will form the driving unit for the axles of freight locomotives, which would be assembled in units of four driving axles.

"The number of coupled units forming a locomotive for freight service will be limited only by the strength of the car equipment and, for the present, will be limited to three units, with an aggregate approaching 8,400 continuous horsepower, capable, however, of developing for short duration 12,000 horsepower," Mr. Shepard added. "Likewise, the passenger units may develop a maximum of 2,000 horsepower per driving axle for short duration."

S. M. Kintner, manager of the Westinghouse research department, said some of the most important developments in radio would take the form of by-products. To demonstrate this, he produced Telelux, the mechanical dragon, successor to Televox, the mechanical man. By shooting Telelux in the eye with a light-gun, Mr. Kintner made him turn lights on and off and otherwise demonstrate docility.

Mr. Kintner carried music from a phonograph across the room on a beam of light and into a loudspeaker, where it was reproduced. He explained that the vibrations of the phonograph needle were turned into electrical impulses.

"The light beam fluctuates with the impulses and thus impresses impulses upon a photo-electric cell, which sends them on to the loudspeaker," he said.

NEW RECORD FOR RAILWAYS.

Freight Movement in 1929 Put at 0.7% Above Mark Reached in 1926.

Freight moved by American railroads in 1929 measured by the number of tons multiplied by the distance carried was the highest for any year, according to the Bureau of Railway Economics. The total was 492,179,745,000 ton-miles, or 0.7 per cent above the record established in 1926, and 3.1 per cent more than in 1928.

Freight movement increased 5.2 per cent in the East and 1.8 per cent in the West but decreased 0.5 per cent in the South. The December movement totaled 36,039,869,000 ton-miles, 4.3 per cent below December, 1928. December movement in the East decreased 2.6 per cent, in the West 5.4 per cent and in the South 7.9 per cent.

CANADIAN PULP DUTY ASKED

House of Commons Also to Discuss Embargo on Imports.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—A proposal for placing an embargo on exportation duty on pulp wood will be discussed in the House of Commons at Ottawa this session. The debate will be initiated by George Parent, Liberal of Quebec, who has prepared a resolution asking the Commons to go on record that "the time has come for Canada to impose an embargo or exportation duty on pulp wood, coupled with such legislation, if necessary, as would assure settlers a fair renumeration for the wood taken from their lands."

Sharp conflict of view between Canadian pulp and paper interests and a concern interested in the manufacture of fibre board from sugar cane developed before the tariff board at Ottawa today. The Alexander Murray Company of Montreal, asked free entry for sugar cane fibre. The company proposed to erect a $1,000,000 plant in the province of Quebec.

A representative of the pulp and paper association expressed the fear the new plant would compete seriously with fibre products made from waste matter at saw mills and paper plants.

DECLINE CONTINUES IN BANK CLEARINGS

Total in the Nation for Week $10,853,919,000, a Drop of 21% From Year Ago.

25.9 PER CENT FALL HERE

Returns, However, Are Somewhat Better Than for Preceding Weeks This Year.

There was another decline in bank clearings reported from the principal centres during the past week. Totals for the week $10,853,919,000, which is 21 per cent lower than for the corresponding week last year, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Clearings at New York City for the week amounted to $7,118,000,000, which was 25.9 per cent below last year. At centres outside New York the total was $3,735,919,000, or 9.5 per cent lower. Generally, the week's return was somewhat better than for the preceding weeks this year. Losses outside of New York have been especially heavy in the West and South.

The following table gives the comparative clearings for last week and the corresponding week last year, along with daily average clearings for the last four months.

GAS HEARING DELAYED BY DISPUTE OVER LAW

Briefs as to Holding of Tests on Quality to Be Filed by March 14.

On the ground that the first question to be decided was one of law, William A. Prendergast, chairman of the Public Service Commission, ruled yesterday at the hearing into the quality of illuminating gas supplied by the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company, the New York and Richmond Gas Company and the Brooklyn Union Gas Company that no testimony be taken. He set the next hearing for March 14, when the city and the gas companies must submit briefs.

The question to be decided is whether under the laws of 1905 and 1906 stipulating that gas must be tested at least a mile away from the company's holder the Public Service Commission may change the agency doing the testing and the place where the testing is done, and whether the commission had so changed them.

Judson Hyatt, Assistant Corporation Counsel, contended that the Public Service Commission should recognize the tests made by the city at its testing stations. He said that the data in Mayor Walker's complaint, made in February, 1929, had been gathered at the city testing stations and indicated that the gas provided by the defendant companies was below the heat content of 537 British Thermal Units required by law. With the gas below the required quality, more gas must be used, Mr. Hyatt said.

William L. Ransom, counsel for the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company and the New York and Richmond Company, argued that the company's tests were made at stations authorized by the Public Service Commission and that everything had been done in accordance with the commission's orders.

Mr. Hyatt offered city records of gas tests from May to December, 1928, but Mr. Prendergast ruled these out as "ancient history." It was pointed out after the hearing that the gas company chemists recently have reported a better grade of gas.

After the meeting William R. Birdsley, chief gas examiner of the city, said that the company testing stations were only half a mile from the gas manufacturing plants.

The first hearing on the complaint of the Mayor was held in December, 1929. It was adjourned to Jan. 28, and Commissioner George R. Van Namee then postponed it to yesterday.

Mr. Prendergast will not sit at the next hearing, as his resignation becomes effective on Friday.

$17,458,593 SOUGHT BY MUNICIPALITIES

Bond Total Scheduled for Award Next Week Smallest in More Than a Month.

$6,000,000 FOR LOUISIANA

$5,000,000 for Nova Scotia and $1,100,000 for Norfolk, Va.—Prices in Recovery.

The schedule of new municipal issues to be awarded next week is the lightest in more than a month, with bonds totaling $17,458,593 to be offered by forty-eight communities throughout the country, compared with this week's revised total of $30,-33,075. The weekly average of municipal bond sales for the year to date is $30,516,144.

Only three issues next week will be larger than $1,000,000 each. They are $6,000,000 State of Louisiana long-term serial highway bonds on Saturday, $5,000,000 Province of Nova Scotia 5 per cent debentures, due in 1960, on Tuesday and $1,100,000 City of Norfolk (Va.) general improvement 4½s on Friday.

A further recovery in municipal bond prices was noted this week, a recovery which reached its climax yesterday when heavy buying by investors and institutions resulted in the closing out of a number of accounts on various issues and a firming up of prices in the market in general. The dearth of new issues next week is expected further to aid the market in its recovery, as it will enable dealers to give more time to various blocks of previous issues still unsold on their shelves.

Few Large Issues in Sight.

Of the new issues scheduled for award subsequent to next week, fewer than a dozen are for amounts of $1,000,000 or more, headed by the issue of $9,000,000 State of Arkansas highway notes on March 7. The next largest is that of $2,170,000 city of Houston (Texas) 4½s and 4¾s on March 15.

A substantial amount of New York City bonds was moved out during the week by the syndicate headed by the National City Company, which brought out the issue of $65,000,000 4¼s in mid-December. Sales yesterday were said to be in excess of $5,000,000, leaving the unsold balance in the neighborhood of only $10,000,000.

The momentum gained by the municipal bond market just before the holiday was coincident with the improved demand for corporation bonds, of which many of the issues placed on the market this week were quickly sold. Bankers pointed out that there have been times during recent months when unusual activity in the general bond market was not accompanied by a corresponding increase in sales of municipals.

Issues Scheduled for Award.

The following lists of important issues to be awarded next week and on subsequent dates are compiled from a calendar prepared by The Daily Bond Buyer:

Monday, Feb. 24.
Gillespie County, Texas	$220,000

OTHER MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Asheville, N.C.

The city of Asheville, N. C., which had planned to sell an issue of $1,440,000 of various improvement bonds on Feb. 27, announced yesterday that the sale had been canceled and that $890,000 of the bonds would be offered instead on March 3. The bonds to be sold on that date consist of $650,000 for general corporate purposes, $175,000 street and $65,000 city hall bonds, all maturing serially on March 1, 1935 to 1969.

Chautauqua County, N. Y.

A call for sealed tenders has been issued by Chautauqua County, N. Y., to be opened on March 11, on a new issue of $450,000 5 per cent highway bonds. The issue will mature serially on April 1, 1939 to 1941.

Weehawken Township, N. J.

Weehawken Township, N. J., will be in the market on March 5 with a new issue of $221,000 4¾ per cent bonds. The issue will consist of $183,000 public improvement bonds, due on March 15, 1932 to 1950, and $38,000 assessment bonds, maturing on March 15, 1931 to 1937.

TO CURB AUSTRALIAN LOANS

State Issues Will Be Subscribed Within Commonwealth Hereafter.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 21 (AP).—In the future, loans for the Australian State Governments are to be cut down to figures which will permit of their being mostly subscribed in the Australian market. This decision has been reached by the Federal Loan Council, on which the State Governments are represented.

Taking State loans off the overseas markets will insure improvement in Australia's credit position abroad and will also facilitate Commonwealth financial operations, it is believed. Reductions will be started so that within a year expenditure by the State Governments wil be cut down to half the amount last year, when they borrowed $218,000,000.

Backing of Cundinamarca Bonds.

Revenues pledged as security for the Department of Cundinamarca (Colombia) secured 6½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due 1959, amounted for the fiscal year ended on June 30, 1929, to 4,983,578 pesos, or $4,850,516 at par of exchange, compared with 4,209,683 pesos, or $4,097,284 for the preceding fiscal year. Service charges of $900,200 on the bonds were thus covered 5.39 times in the fiscal year 1929, according to J. & W. Seligman & Co., fiscal agents.

Municipal Bonds More Active, Two Big Issues Distributed

Announcement that the entire issue of $29,050,000 State of Tennessee 4½ and 4¾ per cent bonds and notes brought out in mid-January had been sold was made yesterday by the banking group, which was headed by Lehman Brothers, the National City Company, the Guaranty Company of New York, the Bankers Company of New York and Harris, Forbes & Co.

The banking group headed by the Bankers Company of New York and the Guaranty Company of New York, which placed the issue of $10,670,000 City of Newark 4½ per cent bonds on the market on Wednesday, reported yesterday that virtually all of the bonds had been sold. This was one of the quickest sales of an issue of this size in recent weeks.

Various small blocks of municipals were closed out yesterday, with the net result that the day, instead of ruling very dull, as is customary on the eve of a holiday, was one of the most active in municipals in some time.

$64,952,000 BONDS MARKETED IN WEEK

Total Is Smallest of the Year Except in Week of Jan. 10, Which Had $46,882,000.

HEAVY DROP IN MUNICIPALS

Newark's $10,670,000 Offering Leads City List—Government Loan Omitted in Summary.

A sharp decrease in new offerings of bonds occurred this week in virtually all classifications. The aggregate was $64,952,000, compared with $152,165,000 last week. It was the smalest weekly total this year with the exception of the week ended Jan. 10, when only $46,882,000 of new bond issues were marketed. In the corresponding week last year the total was $116,717,000.

This week's total does not include the issue of $50,000,000 United States Government non-interest bearing bills, due May 18, 1930, which were purchased by the Marine Trust Company of Buffalo, but were not formally placed on the market. It was said, however, a percentage of the issue was placed privately on a 3.164 per cent basis.

The largest single piece of financing was that of $16,000,000 Pacific Northwest Public Service Company convertible debenture 6s offered at 99½ by a group headed by Harris, Forbes & Co. The next largest issue was $15,000,000 Shawinigan Water and Power Company 5s, a Canadian corporation, which were brought out at 98, to yield 5.10 per cent, by a syndicate headed by Aldred & Co.

Municipal loans marketed this week fell off, with the bulk of new financing of that kind consisting of a single issue, $10,670,000 City of Newark (N. J.) 4½ per cent bonds, due from 1932 to 1970, and put out for various purposes. It was offered by a group managed by the Bankers Company of New York at prices to yield 4.30 per cent.

Offerings by groups of this and last week follow:

Pacific Coast Brokers Tell of 4½% Net on Tax-Free Issues.

Surveying the municipal bond market on the Pacific Coast, Heller, Bruce & Co. of San Francisco explain that municipal bonds are "unduly cheap" compared with taxable issues. High grade municipal bonds, it is pointed out, can be bought to return 4½ per cent net or better.

"Commercial banks are not, as yet, in the market for bonds," said the review. "They are not over-extended but are operating with reserves in accordance with the banking law and are not borrowing abnormal amounts from the Reserve Bank. One of the best things for the bond market would, indeed, be a fairly active stock market, which would permit the desired liquidation and provide the banks with surplus funds, which would assuredly find their way into bond investment."

CAUTIONS HOLDERS OF FLORIDA BONDS

S. D. Eldredge Urges Forbearance in Demanding Payments on Defaulted Municipals.

SEES DANGER IN INSISTENCE

Banker, Back From Survey, Advises Exchange of Maturing Obligations for New Ones.

A recommendation that holders of Florida municipal bonds now in default as to principal or interest, or both, go slowly in demanding payment in full from municipalities that have acted in good faith in the matter was made yesterday by Seneca D. Eldredge, head of Eldredge & Co., who has just returned from Florida, where he made a survey of business and financial conditions throughout the State. The recommendation was contained in a letter sent out to all municipal bond dealers interested in Florida issues.

"Although there have been a number of municipal defaults in the State, it would seem as though, if given time, most of these should work out satisfactorily," he said. "It is unfortunate that the market for Florida municipal bonds is such that the municipalities in the State cannot generally raise funds on refunding bonds to meet their maturing obligations.

"Where the occasion requires it, it is my opinion that bondholders would do well to exchange whatever maturing principal obligations they may have for new bonds of any municipality where good faith is being shown and where taxes are being collected properly and in amount sufficient to meet the operating budget and pay interest on the entire outstanding bonded debt. If the bondholders are going to insist on receiving cash for their maturing obligations, it is my opinion that a great deal more trouble is in store in the way of defaults than those which exist at this time. It is quite a hard task in some places to collect enough taxes to pay interest, let alone principal, and there are a number of municipalities where collections are not sufficient to meet interest requirements. Many of those falling in the latter class are caused by weak tax collection methods.

"We believe that if Florida is given a chance it will come back, but if bondholders are unwilling to take into account present conditions in the State and are not willing to make allowances because of them, the financial condition will get worse rather than better. The worse a situation gets financially the worse it gets politically. It is a mistake to demand the impossible."

Attorney for Motor Car Company Says Committee Has Been Formed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 21 (AP).—Charles D. Roemler, attorney for the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., said today that a bondholders' protective committee had been formed to represent the bondholders in any steps that may be taken toward reorganization of the company.

Several weeks ago a bankruptcy petition was filed against the company in Federal Court here and a receivership suit was filed in a State court. Both actions were dismissed later. At that time Colonel E. S. Gorrell, president of the company, said negotiations were under way for a merger of the Stutz company with a leading automotive manufacturing concern but he did not name the company.

Louisvill & Nashville Gets Permission for $20,000,000 Financing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Authorization for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to issue $15,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds and $5,000,000 of flat or unified 50-year 4 per cent gold bonds was given today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The bonds are to be sold at not less than 92.5 per cent of par and accrued interest and the proceeds used to replenish the road's treasury to meet maturing indebtedness and to provide funds for additional and betterments.

BOND FLOTATIONS.

Bankers to Market Securities for Steamship and Industrial Corporations.

Canadian National Steamships.

Award of a new issue of $9,400,000 Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, Ltd., 5 per cent bonds, due on March 1, 1955, was made yesterday to a syndicate comprising Dillon, Read & Co., the National City Company, the Guaranty Company of New York, the Bankers Company of New York, the Bank of Montreal, the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the Royal Bank of Canada, the Dominion Securities Corporation, Wood, Gundy & Co., Inc., and A. E. Ames & Co., Ltd. The issue will be guaranteed unconditionally by the Canadian Government.

Public offering of the issue will be made on Monday, with a substantial portion of the bonds withdrawn for sale in the Canadian market. The issue is non-callable. It is expected that it will be marketed at par.

Sheffield Steel Corporation.

The Sheffield Steel Corporation has arranged with bankers to market an additional issue of $1,500,000 of its first mortgage 5½ per cent sinking fund bonds, due in 1948, according to private advices received here yesterday. In March, 1928, a banking group headed by Eastman, Dillon & Co. marketed an issue of $2,000,000 of the bonds at par as the first instalment of an authorized amount of $10,000,000. The new financing will bring the amount outstanding to $3,500,000.

HOME BONDS RISE, FOREIGN ISSUES OFF

Convertible Securities Improve, A. T. & T. 4½s Leading With Gain of 1¾ Points.

RAILS GENERALLY HIGHER

Colombia Mortgage Bank Loans Touch New Highs for Year, Going up 1-2 to 2 3-8 Points.

Domestic bond prices improved slightly yesterday in generally quiet trading on the Stock Exchange. Foreign loans averaged a trifle lower. United States Government issues were irregular in slow trading, with final prices up 4-32 to off 2-32, following substantial advances on the two preceding days.

Convertible bonds were generally improved, led by the heavily traded American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s of 1939, which were up 1¾ points. International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s rose ⅞ point in comparatively light dealings. Chicago and North Western convertible 4¾s and American I. G. Chemical 5½s. Convertible issues that closed lower included New Haven 6s, 1⅛ points; Texas Corporation 5s, ¼, and Commercial Investment Trust 5½s, off 1 point.

Railroad bonds showed strength, with net changes generally limited to small fractions. Public utility bonds were steady to firm. Industrials were irregular. Several sugar issues showed fairly wide changes. Cespedes Sugar 7½s were down 3½ points, and Cuba Cane Sugar 7s of 1930, certificates, were up 1⅜.

Foreign loans showed few changes of importance. French Government bonds closed fractionally lower in the most active trading of the foreign group. All Colombia Mortgage Bank issues touched new highs for the year on advances ranging from ½ to 2⅜ points. South American loans were generally steady.

Crowell Stock Oversubscribed.

The offering of 35,000 shares of common stock of the Crowell Publishing Corporation, made to stockholders and employes, has been oversubscribed nearly two for one, Lee W. Maxwell, president, announced yesterday. The offering was made in January at $60 a share. It was in addition to 713,000 shares outstanding. Of the offering 25,000 were for pro rata allotment to stockholders and 10,000 shares were for sale to employes. The company received subscriptions for 62,500 shares.

Keystone Telephone to Vote.

Stockholders of the Keystone Telephone Company have been called to vote on April 28 on converting and classifying the capital stock, which now consists of 200,000 shares of no par preference stock and 50,000 shares of $50 par common stock, so that it will consist of 40,000 shares of no par preference stock and 50,000 shares of $50 par common stock. They will act also on a proposal to issue $5,000,000 debenture notes.

$1,000,000 LUMBER MERGER.

Six New Jersey Companies Unite to Form Alliance Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 21.—Six of the largest lumber companies in Passaic and Bergen Counties, with combined stock and equipment valued at about $1,000,000, have merged, according to an official announcement today. Alfred W. Jelleme of this city, head of the merged company, which will be known as the Alliance Lumber Corporation, effective on March 1.

The firms involved in the merger are:

Anderson Lumber Company, Passaic.
S. M. Birch Lumber Company, Passaic.
Holden-Wake Lumber Company, Paterson.
Nad J. List, Inc., East Paterson.
Stewart Lumber Company, Garfield.
Teaneck Coal and Lumber Company, Teaneck.

Officers of the new concern are: Alfred E. Jelleme, president; Jacob V. Smeaton, vice president; John Stewart, secretary and treasurer; Benjamin E. Breinig, sales manager; Henry L. Wulshein, credit manager.

DRUG, INC., PLANS MERGER.

Directors Propose Acquisition of Household Products, Inc.

Stockholders of Drug, Inc., will be asked at the annual meeting on March 11 to approve a plan for the acquisition of Household Products, Inc., on a basis of one share of the Drug stock for one and two-fifth shares of Household. The plan has been approved by the directors of Drug, Inc., who have formulated a plan for increasing the authorized capital stock of the company from 3,000,000 shares to 5,000,000 shares, which will also be submitted to the stockholders at the annual meeting, for the purpose of supplying the necessary stock for the exchange. The plan would require 410,715 shares of Drug, Inc., stock and would increase the outstanding shares to 3,154,428 shares.

Household Products, Inc., was organized in 1923 and approximately 27 per cent of its outstanding stock is owned by Sterling Products, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Drug, Inc. Sterling Products has had the direction of the management of Household Products since its organization and many of the stockholders are stockholders in Drug, Inc.

NEW 'BLUE COMET' RECORD.

Crack Jersey Central Train to Atlantic City Cuts Time 2 Minutes.

Two minutes were clipped yesterday from the record established by the Blue Comet, the New Jersey Central's crack New York-Atlantic City train. The record had stood for a year. The Blue Comet left New York City at 11 A. M. and arrived at Atlantic City at 1:58 P. M.

The run was started following the anniversay celebration of the completion of the first year of the Blue Comet's service. During that time it has operated 1,436 times and has an on-time operating record of 98.1 per cent. Just before the start Colonel W. V. Shipley, passenger traffic manager of the New Jersey Central received a large cake topped with blue frosting shaped like a train, in appreciation of the dining car service maintained by the Blue Comet.

Our Increase of 104,526,000 Barrels Was Less in Proportion Than That for Rest of World.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The world's production of crude petroleum in 1929 is estimated at 1,488,604,000 barrels, an increase of 163,870,000 barrels over 1928, or 12.4 per cent, according to figures compiled by Acting Chief Economist E. B. Swanson of the division of petroleum statistics of the Bureau of Mines.

Production outside the United States reached a total of 482,604,00 barrels, or 59,344,000 barrels more than in 1928.

Domestic production is estimated at 1,006,000,000 barrels, an increase of 104,526,000 over the 901,474,000 barrels produced in 1928. The rate of increase in domestic production did not quite equal that of the foreign oil-producing countries, and consequently the ratio of the United States production to the world total dropped from 71.4 per cent in 1927 to 68 per cent in 1928 and 67.6 per cent in 1929.

Venezuela and Russia maintained their respective positions as to the second and third largest producing countries, while Persia, with a production of slightly more than 6,000,000 metric tons, moved into fourth place with a slight margin over Mexico. Trinidad advanced into tenth place, ahead of Argentina and British India, while among the smaller producing areas Sakhalin and Canada reached for the first time an annual production of more than a million barrels.

Increase in Other Countries.

The three principal shipping fields in Venezuela—Lagunillas, Larosa-Ambrosio and Mene Grande—showed an increase of about 32,000,000 barrels over 1928, accounting for virtually all the increased production of the country.

Production in Russia increased by about 15,000,000 barrels. Persia and Rumania continued to increase at about the same rate as in the two preceding years, while Mexico again showed a decrease. Production of heavy crude in Mexico declined throughout the year, while light oil production increased, primarily as the result of new developments at Tonala, Isthmus of Tehuantepec.

August Was Peak Month.

The production of crude petroleum in the United States increased more or less steadily up to August, the peak month. The total output in August amounted to 92,288,000 barrels, or very close to a daily average of 3,000,000 barrels. Production decreased steadily during the last four months of the year, but this was coincident with a steadily decreasing demand, and stocks accumulated in all months except November. A factor in the increased output during the Summer months was a price increase in the Mid-Continent field in May.

Stocks of all oils increased 67,606,000 barrels in 1929, of which over 18,000,000 barrels were in refined products. November was the only month of the year to show a decrease. This decrease amounted to 3,010,000 barrels and resulted mainly from a drastic curtailment of Santa Fe Springs and an unusually small decrease in gasoline consumption.

Texas, for the second successive year, was the leading producing State, with an output of 298,441,000 barrels. California was fairly close to the top, with a production of 292,037,000 barrels. Oklahoma dropped from second to third place, although its output of 253,704,000 barrels represented a small increase over 1928.

NEW RICHFIELD OIL UNIT.

Virginia Subsidiary Chartered, With 1,000 Common Shares.

Through the chartering of the Richfield Oil Corporation of Virginia, with 1,000 shares of common stock as its capitalization, it was learned yesterday that the Richfield Oil Corporation has been working upon the assembling and acquisition of a complete petroleum marketing unit in that State.

At the offices of the Richfield Petroleum Corporation of New York, a subsidiary of the Richfield Oil Corporation, it was said yesterday that the organization of the unit was not yet complete, but it was admitted that it was for this purpose that the Virginia company had been formed.

TONE IS IRREGULAR IN COUNTER TRADING

Bank Shares Close Strong After an Up and Down Course Throughout Day.

Prices fluctuated moderately and without any definite trend during a subdued trading period yesterday on the over-the-counter market. Bank and trust company stocks opened slightly easier, rallying after the first hour, easing toward the close and then rising to their highest levels of the day. Insurance shares were quiet. The industrials were active, while chain stores followed a quiet course.

Gains in the bank and trust company issues were shown by Manufacturers Trust, Guaranty, Fidelity Trust, National City, Central Hanover, Empire, Chase and Manhattan. There was an easier tone to Bank of United States, Chemical and America.

Advances in the insurance division were scored against Baltimore American, Great American, Home, Missouri State Life, National Liberty and People's National Fire, while losses were checked against Globe and Rutgers, United States Merchants and Shippers, Globe Insurance, New York Fire, Franklin Fire, Harmonia, Homestead, Providence-Washington and Stuyvesant.

In the industrial group gains were made by Dictaphone common, Bohn Refrigerator preferred, Rockwood preferred, Columbia Baking first preferred and Smith Corona Typewriter. On the other hand, declines were shown by Bancroft common and preferred, Dry Ice Holding Corporation, Scovill Manufacturing and Welch Grape Juice common.

Bohack and National Shirt Shops preferred in the chain store group were stronger, while other issues in the division were firm.

FRENCH STOCKS IMPROVE

Traders Indifferent to Political Rumors—German Boerse Is Stronger at Close.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The stock markets were dull today, with the gilt-edge securities weakening after a firm opening. The funding loan closed ¼ down at £87¼, but the war loan was steady at £100½. White Star preference was among the brightest spots, with whole market jumping 1s 4½d to 11s 4½d on strong Liverpool buying.

Among the Anglo-Americans International Nickels reacted to $38⅜ and Brazilian traction to $38⅛. Hydro-electric improved to $43⅛ on the declaration of a 50-cent dividend on the common shares. The gramophones slipped back, Columbia declining 5-32 to £5 15-16 and His Master's Voice falling to £4⅛. Cable and wireless B lost a point to 29s, while Radio Corporation A slumped 1½ to $44¼.

Canadian Pacific declined 2 points to $216½. Tobaccos were steady, rayons unchanged and motors irregular, with Ford jumping 1-8 to 52s 6d. Oils were dull on reports of a pending 5 per cent bond issue by Royal Dutch. Shell fell to £4 9-16, but Royal Dutch recovered after a weak start to £31⅜. Rubbers declined generally, and Rhodesian coppers failed to recover the morning's losses.

Money was abundant in Lombard Street, with the overnight loan rate down to 3 per cent. Discounts declined to 3 13-16 per cent. Sterling advanced to $4.86 5-32 after early reaction.

Prices Advance in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Apparently indifferent to political developments, the Bourse showed little response to the various reports of the formation of the Cabinet circulated during the day. The volume of trading remained low, but after opening weak the market showed a tendency to strengthen, the result of unimportant purchases.

In the foreign exchange market the dollar advanced to 25.5750, its highest point in some time.

Rentes were quiet and closed as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.10; 1918 4s, 99.75; 1920 amortizable 5s, 135.95; 1928 5s, 104.30; 1920 6s, 103.75; 1927 amortizable, 107.50.

Berlin Gains After Weakness.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Today's session of the Boerse resembled that of yesterday. After a weak and lifeless opening the tendency improved and most issues recovered the previous losses, while several favorites registered slight gains. The volume of trading was not great and the light advance was merely due to the emptiness of the market, while speculators sought to cover, in view of the month-end settlement.

Dye Trust shares advanced in connection with a rumor emanating from America regarding a benzine monopoly for Germany which would include Dye Trust and other German firms producing benzine. The rumor, however, was denied in official quarters and was regarded as a trial balloon by economic and financial circles.

WEEK'S OIL PRICES LOWER.

Crude Petroleum Averaged $1.46 a Barrel in Ten Fields.

The average price of crude petroleum in ten producing fields was lower last week at $1.46 a barrel, compared with $1.54 a barrel in the previous week and $1.66 a barrel in the same week a year ago, according to the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter. Gasoline at the refineries was also lower last week at 6.87 cents a gallon at four principal refineries, compared with 7.31 cents a gallon in the previous week.

Service station prices at ten leading markets were unchanged last week from the previous week at 18.75 cents a gallon. Domestic crude oil production from Jan. 1 to Feb. 22 was estimated by the same authority at 139,274,000 barrels, compared with 139,873,000 barrels in the corresponding period of 1929.

AUTO OUTPUT FALLS UNDER 1929'S MARK

January Production Was 273,083, Compared With 401,037 Same Month Year Ago.

RECENT GAIN IS SHARP

Increase Over December in All Classes Except Taxicabs Is Shown in Manufactures Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—January production of motor vehicles in the United States, as reported to the Department of Commerce, was 273,089, as compared with 120,004 in December, 1929, and 401,037 in January a year ago. Of the total production in January of this year, 234,527 were passenger cars, 37,990 trucks and 572 taxicabs, showing a sharp gain in all classes except taxicabs, as compared with the preceding month.

The complete revised figures for the year 1929 and the figures for January, 1930, showing the monthly variations in all classes of vehicles, are contained in the following table:

1929.	Total.	Passenger Cars.	Trucks.	Taxicabs.
January	401,037	347,382	51,591	2,064
February	466,418	405,708	58,602	2,108
March	585,455	513,344	70,032	2,079
April	621,910	537,225	82,999	1,686
May	604,691	516,055	87,318	1,318
June	545,932	452,598	91,956	1,378
July	500,840	426,137	73,649	1,054
August	498,628	441,942	55,646	1,040
September	415,912	364,786	50,261	865
October	380,017	320,327	58,822	868
November	217,570	169,282	46,642	1,646
December	120,004	91,235	27,286	1,483
Total (year)	5,358,414	4,586,021	754,804	17,589
1930.
January	273,089	234,527	37,990	572

The table is based on figures received from 144 manufacturers in the United States, forty-two making passenger cars and 113 making trucks (eleven making both passenger cars and trucks). The figures for passenger cars include only those designed as pleasure vehicles, and taxicabs are those built specifically for that purpose, and do not include pleasure cars later converted to commercial use.

Figures for trucks include ambulances, funeral cars, fire apparatus, street sweepers and buses.

CURB PRICES HARDEN NEAR CLOSING HOUR

Shorts Cover in Advance of Holiday—Trading Quieter Than on Thursday.

Trading on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday was much slower than on the preceding day, in the absence of further general profit-taking, and prices moved narrowly as a rule, firming up moderately in the late trading as shorts covered in advance of the holiday.

In the utility group Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower, American Gas and Electric, American and Foreign Power warrants, Memphis Natural Gas, Sierra Pacific Electric and Empire Power closed stronger, after active trading, while United Corporation warrants eased.

Gulf Oil rallied briskly in the oil group. Hydroelectric Securities and Mayflower Associates were firmer in the trust section, and Newmont in the mining goup. Technicolor, North American Aviation, Crocker Wheeler and American Solvents and Chemicals gained, while Deere & Co. eased.

DIVIDENDS ANNOUNCED.

Extra and Other Payments to Stockholders Declared by Directors.

Quaker Oats Company.

After approving the annual report of the company, which showed earnings of $13.08 a share, compared with $12.88 a share in 1928, the directors of the Quaker Oats Company yesterday declared an extra dividend of $4 in cash, and a stock dividend of 20 per cent on the common stock. The regular quarterly dividends of $1 on the common stock and $1.50 on the preferred stock were also voted.

To provide the stock necessary for the stock dividend, it was announced, stockholders at the annual meeting to be held on March 14 would be asked to approve an increase in the authorized stock from the present 600,000 shares to 800,000 shares.

The report of the company and subsidiaries showed for 1929 a net profit of $8,735,205 after depreciation and Federal taxes, which compares with net profit of $8,329,646 for 1928. The earnings of $13.08 a share in 1929 were on 585,000 outstanding no par value common shares, and the earnings of $12.88 in 1928 were on 562,000 outstanding shares.

Budd Wheel Company

The Budd Wheel Company declared a participating extra dividend of 75 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the 7 per cent participating preferred stock.

Mayflower Associates

Mayflower Associates, Inc. declared initial quarterly dividends of 50 cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock placing the stock on an annual basis of $2 and 4 per cent in stock.

WHEAT PRICES RISE AS EXPORTS GO UP

Purchases of Cash Grain Are Estimated as Largest for a Day This Season.

CORN CLOSES WITH A GAIN

Oats Are Higher Despite a Decline Near Finish—Rye Also Shows Improvement.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The wheat market today was as strong as it was weak yesterday, with a marked let-up in the general liquidation and semi-demoralized selling of the three previous days. Foreigners who took advantage of the abnormally low level of values, were estimated to have accepted about 5,000,000 bushels of cash grain overnight and during the day.

Sales of North American wheat was estimated at 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas, while around 1,000,000 bushels of grain was obtained from the Southern Hemisphere, Italy taking a cargo of Australian and two cargoes of Argentine. Some durums and hard Winter were included in the North American total, but the amount was relatively small compared with the Canadian aggregate.

Owing to the holiday tomorrow, considerable evening up marked the local market at the last but the finish was 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents higher. Winnipeg felt the effect of the removal of hedges and gained 3¼ to 3⅝ cents. Liverpool was 2¼ to 2⅝d higher, Buenos Aires 1⅝ to 2 cents and Rosario 1½ to 1⅝ cents.

Changing over of lines of long May into the deferred deliveries resulted in widening the difference to some extent. Shorts and commission houses were good buyers at times, while the swells brought selling against offers and by longs.

While aggregate purchases of cash grain today were about the largest of the season, they were less than three days' actual exports from leading countries of the World.

Primary receipts were 750,000 bushels and a week ago 603,000. Shipments were 425,000 bushels and a week ago 426,000. The day a year ago was a holiday.

Corn was strong and closed ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, purchases of 357,000 bushels cash corn by the East, with limited country offerings and prospects of a small movements next week, bringing in scattered buying. Selling against offers and by longs checked the bulge.

Primary receipts were 1,331,000 bushels and a week ago 1,314,000. Shipments were 577,000 bushels and a week ago 600,000.

Oats closed ⅛ to ½ cent higher on short covering and scattered buying because of strength in other grains, while cash interests and longs sold on the upturn. The finish was at about the lowest figures of the day.

Long rye came out freely, houses with Eastern connections being persistent sellers. It was regarded as liquidation by leading longs. March was affected by the action of wheat. Closing trades were at net gains of 1 to 2¼ cents.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

TO SPEED LAWS FOR WHEAT.

Premiers of Prairie Provinces to Hold Conference Today.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 21 (Canadian Press).—With wheat prices recovering 3½ to 2⅛ cents a bushel of their recent heavy losses, the Premiers of the prairie provinces joined today to support the market, announcing they will meet in Regina tomorrow with officials of the wheat pool. No fresh anxiety led to the meeting, they hastened to add. Their purpose is to decide on uniform legislation in the matter of the provinces' guarantee of the 15 per cent loan margin which the pool must maintain with the banks. Such legislation, it is pointed out, will be put into effect in the current sessions in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

"The wheat pool's margins at the banks are still well maintained," Premier John Bracken said today, reiterating the remark of George McIvor, sales manager of the pool, made at the beginning of the week. The Premier added that there was no necessity for a Dominion grain stabilization board, as suggested by Colonel F. G. Taylor, leader of the Conservative party. He said the proposal was "untimely and ill-considered—untimely because it tends only to disturb the market at a time when stabilization is needed; and ill-considered because it would probably bring about the destruction of the wheat pools, which ought, in the interest of Canada, to be preserved."

Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta said he had no doubt that wheat pool officials would voluntarily give the governments any required information.

Forms of legislation decided on by the three Premiers are expected to be put into effect without delay. Previous to the decision of the prairie provinces, nearly three weeks ago, to stand back of the pool's marginal requirements on loans, the three governments decided on their position after an exchange of correspondence.

LIQUIDATION SAGS WHOLE COTTON LIST

May Contracts Go Below 15½c in Final Dealings Under Weight of Heavy Sales.

Liquidation of March contracts on the Cotton Exchange yesterday prior to circulation of notices on Tuesday, backed by pressure, caused a loss of 9 to 10 points throughout the list. Weight of cotton on the approaching spot month widened the discount to 28 points, almost a full carrying charge on the 100,000 bales in the local stock. Selling was heaviest in the first and final hours of the session, blocks of contracts coming on the market toward the close running May below 15½ cents in final dealings. Exports for the season are now 800,000 bales behind last year at the time, making the heaviest deficiency of the year.

A rally of several cents a bushel in wheat and demand from professional and trade sources started a recovery of 15 points at midday. The decline in the last week almost to previous low records of the season led traders to take profits on short commitments and many mills fixed prices, while pre-notice day liquidation rendered an ample supply of contracts available.

With stocks in the country estimated at 750,000 to 1,000,000 bales larger than last year and the world's visible supply of all kinds 1,100,000 above that of two years ago, the situation failed to attract general public support.

In view of today's holiday and further March liquidation expected on Monday, buying came mainly from larger spot interests in the process of putting March hedges forward.

Yesterday's quotations here follow:

PRESIDENT'S PARLEY ON JOBLESS IS URGED

Paul U. Kellogg Says It Is Time to Start a Movement to Stabilize Employment.

FINDS DISTRESS IS GREAT

Quotes Figures Showing Number of Idle Workers Rose From 700,000 to 3,100,000 at Stock Crash.

The time is ripe for a new President's Conference on Unemployment, said Paul U. Kellogg, editor of The Survey and Survey Graphic, in a talk yesterday over station WJZ of the National Broadcasting Company.

Mr. Kellogg, an authority on industrial affairs, urged another unemployment conference to "appraise the situation realistically, pool the leadership of progressive public officials, employers, labor unions, economists and social workers, set going a nation-wide movement for the stabilization of work and the security of wage-earners and put the conscience of the American people behind it."

Senator Couzens of Michigan, according to Mr. Kellogg, recently said that a "great official" of the government had told him that "unemployment at the time the stock market crashed jumped from 700,000 to 3,100,000." That meant, said the Senator, that a population of about 15,000,000 dependent on the 3,100,000 unemployed had had its purchasing power drastically reduced.

"Labor Commissioner Frances P. Perkins has put all of us in her debt by laying the facts for New York on the table," said Mr. Kellogg. "These facts could be duplicated in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and other of our great industrial States. Their seriousness and the haphazard and inadequate measures taken for the most part to deal with them make up a brief weighted with distress in actually hundreds of thousands of American homes.

"Take the automobile industry alone. Last Spring the huge plant which has brought wealth and uncertainty to Toledo had 31,000 men on its payroll; in November it had 4,000. Detroit paid out $500,000 in public outdoor relief in December alone. The misery that stands for is repeated, only on a numerically lesser scale, in Flint and Pontiac. And all the industrial districts where parts and machinery and raw materials entering into the auto industry are produced reflect the same predicament and the same misery. The family welfare societies, the clinics and the social workers generally are staggering under the load, while the biggest part of the burden crushes down on the households of men who seek work and cannot get it."

Mr. Kellogg pointed out the examples of some cities which are seeking to grapple with the unemployment problem. He mentioned Dayton, Cincinnati and Philadelphia, each with its own plan for remedying unemployment.

"If the business men of America come to reckon the consequences of irregular employment in terms of what it does to the biggest market in the United States, the wage-earning, wage-buying market, then this Winter's difficulties will have taught us a hard but potent lesson and we'll begin to get constructive action," he added.

CROP SURPLUSES DECRIED BY HYDE

Secretary Tells Traffic Club Overproduction Is Chief Farm Problem.

Over production is a dominant factor in the American farm problem, Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, declared last night at a dinner of the Traffic Club of New York at the Commodore. Senator Royal S. Copeland, New York, another speaker, questioned the advisability of proposed mergers of railroads. Many railroad executives were among the 2,000 persons who attended.

The farmer has increased his production per man 20 per cent in the past ten years, Mr. Hyde declared. "In the face of a declining farm population and an increased urban population he has kept successfuly supplied the nation's need and produced a surplus in many crops in addition," he sraid. "And in this surplus lies one of his most serious problems. Quite apart from the will of the farmer, agriculture has been over-expanded."

Our policy of long standing of making as much land as possible productive, he went on, "was economically sound so long as we could produce foreign products cheaply enough to sell at a profit on the markets of the world." "But," he continued, "production costs have risen. Capital investments are large. Interest charges are stifling and overhead expenses too high to produce profitably for world markets. Our own surplus serves to depress world prices. There has been, too, a great expansion of acreage in other countries."

Senator Copeland paid tribute to improvements made by railroads in recent years, but went on to ask, "Can railroad consolidation better the record of the past ten years?" He said that it had "failed to yield promised benefits" in England, and that recent improvements here, together with lower rates, "leave us cold to the unknown and doubtful effect of something so revolutionary as this consolidation plan." He questioned the benefit to stockholders and to railroad workers.

"But beyond all else," he continued, "will railroad consolidation create a monopolistic monster, a Frankenstein that may destroy us? On the whole, are we not safer under the existing competitive conditions, with private initiative at the peak, than to fly to the opposite extreme and experiment with the doubtful and the unknown?" He held that there "should be no railroad legislation, consolidation or otherwise, which will in any way hamper the railroad policy of recent years."

Charlton A. Swope, general Eastern freight agent of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and president of the club, was toastmaster. Among those at the speaker's table were:

E. E. LOOMIS, president Lehigh Valley.
C. E. DENNEY, president Erie.
J. M. DAVIS, president Lackawanna.
J. H. NUELLE, president New York, Ontario & Western.
A. V. S. OLCOTT, president Hudson River Day Line.
J. L. EYSMANS, vice president Pennsylvania Railroad.
JOHN DUFFY, vice president Lehigh Valley.
G. H. INGALLS, vice president New York Central.

RETAIL FOOD PRICES SHOW RISE IN YEAR

January 15 Figures One-Half of One Per Cent Over Those at Same Date, 1929.

DROP SINCE DECEMBER

New York Decrease Put at 3 Per Cent in Month as Labor Bureau Reports on 51 Cities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—There was a decrease in the retail price of foods during the month from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15 in all of the fifty-one cities reporting to the Department of Labor, according to a report made public by the Bureau of Labor Statistics today. The average drop was 1½ per cent. Bridgeport, Conn., led with 4 per cent and a number of the cities, including New York, showed a drop of 3 per cent.

The average prices, however, showed an increase of about one-half of 1 per cent since Jan. 15 of last year.

Thirteen foods were selling at lower retail prices and seventeen showed increases. Strictly fresh eggs showed the greatest drop of 12 per cent, and other decreases follow:

Butter, 9 per cent; coffee, 5 per cent; navy beans, 3 per cent; lard, 2 per cent; canned red salmon, fresh milk, oleomargerine, cheese, pork and beans, and canned corn, 1 per cent; and sliced bacon and bananas, less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

Increases were:

Cabbage, 16 per cent; oranges, 8 per cent; leg of lamb, 4 per cent; pork chops and potatoes, 3 per cent; hens and onions, 2 per cent; rib roast, chuck roast, plate beef, canned tomatoes, and prunes, 1 per cent; and sirloin steak, round steak, sliced ham, vegetable lard substitute, and tea, less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

The following 12 articles showed no change in the month:

Evaporated milk, bread, flour, cornmeal, rolled oats, cornflakes, wheat cereal, macaroni, rice, canned peas, sugar and raisins.

Weighted Index Figures.

The weighted index, taking into account all these increases and decreases of certain food prices, showed that the various cities benefited as follows: Bridgeport, 4 per cent; Denver, Louisville, Newark, New Haven, New York, Philadelphia, Portland (Ore.), Salt Lake City, Scranton and Seattle, 3 per cent; Boston, Buffalo, Butte, Charleston (S. C.), Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dallas, Fall River, Houston, Indianapolis, New Orleans, Norfolk, Pittsburgh, Providence, Rochester and Savannah, 2 per cent; Atlanta, Baltimore, Birmingham, Detroit, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Little Rock, Los Angeles, Manchester, Memphis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Mobile, Peoria, Portland (Me.), Richmond, St. Louis, St. Paul, San Francisco, Springfield (Ill.) and Washington, 1 per cent, and Cleveland and Omaha, less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

For the year period Jan. 15, 1929, to Jan. 15, 1930, twenty-nine cities showed increases as follows:

Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Peoria, 2 per cent; Baltimore, Butte, Columbus, Houston, New Haven, Omaha, Philadelphia, Providence, Richmond, St. Louis, St. Paul, San Francisco, Savannah, Scranton and Springfield (Ill.), 1 per cent, and Charleston (S. C.), Detroit, Indianapolis, Little Rock, Memphis and New Orleans, less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

Twenty cities showed decreases:

Atlanta, 3 per cent; Birmingham and Louisville, 2 per cent; Bridgeport, Fall River, Los Angeles, Manchester, Mobile, Pittsburgh, Portland (Me.), Rochester and Salt Lake City, 1 per cent, and Buffalo, Cleveland, Dallas, New York, Norfolk, Portland (Ore.), Seattle and Washington, less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

In Denver and Newark there was no change in the year.

Price of 1913 Compared.

As compared with the average cost in the year 1913, food on Jan. 15, 1930, was 63 per cent higher in Chicago, 63 per cent in Scranton, 62 per cent in Cincinnati and Washington, 61 per cent in Detroit and Richmond, 60 per cent in Baltimore and St. Louis, 59 per cent in Buffalo, 58 per cent in Birmingham, Boston, Charleston, S. C., Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia and Providence, 57 per cent in Minneapolis, New Haven and Pittsburgh, 56 per cent in Atlanta, 55 per cent in Dallas, Kansas City and New Orleans, 54 per cent in Indianapolis and San Francisco, 53 per cent in Fall River, 52 per cent in Little Rock, 51 per cent in Louisville, Manchester and Omaha, 50 per cent in Cleveland, Memphis and Newark, 47 per cent in Seattle, 45 per cent in Jacksonville, 43 per cent in Los Angeles, 41 per cent in Portland, Ore., 38 per cent in Danver and 31 per cent in Salt Lake City.

CHANGES IN CORPORATIONS.

C. C. Nichols Jr. Elected President of Retail Properties.

Charles C. Nichols Jr. has been elected president of Retail Properties, Inc., a company organized last March by Otis & Co., and Harris, Forbes & Co., to deal in real estate suitable for retail stores. The company owns property unencumbered by mortgages in twenty-two cities in the United States and Canada.

Ralph W. Simonds, governor of the Detroit Stock Exchange and president of Baker, Simonds & Co., Inc., has been elected a director of the British Type Investors.

WOOL MARKET FIRMER.

"Cooperative Scheme" at Work—Goods Prices Lowered.

BOSTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow: "There has been a further good business in the seaboard markets this week, mostly in fine wools, which are now getting well liquidated. Prices have been steady on the basis noted a week ago.

"Foreign markets generally are steady, the extension of the sales in the foreign primary markets, so as to distribute offerings over a longer period, appears to have been more or less salutary.

"In the West, there is a steady effort being made to tie up wools, both on account of the Eastern dealers and the new cooperative scheme. Boston dealers bought the best wool at the Phoenix, Ariz., sale at a clean cost landed Boston of 70-72 cents.

India's Cotton Estimate Drops.

ROME, Feb. 21 (AP).—The International Institute of Agriculture today received from the Government of India the cotton estimat efor the present season, totaling 4,630,000 bales, which is 117,000 bales less than 1929 and 131,000 bales less than the five-year average.

NEW CITY AIRPORT ADVISED FOR QUEENS

Regional Plan Suggests Use of 210-Acre Tract Between Maspeth and Middle Village.

PROPOSES A CIVIC CENTRE

Nine Organizations Approve Site, but Others Oppose It—Mass Meeting on Monday.

Plans for a new airport for the city of New York and a civic centre for the Borough of Queens were presented yesterday to Borough President George U. Harvey of Queens by the Regional Plan of New York and Its Environs. The proposed airport is to occupy the 210-acre section adjoining the projected civic centre of Queens, between Middle Village and Maspeth, the plan showed, and its sponsors said that when proposed transit improvements are completed it will be within fifteen minutes of Times Square.

The Regional Plan announced that the proposal was the result of a long and detailed study of the airport problem of New York City. The site chosen is the same as that decided on by the Fact Finding Committee of the Department of Commerce, it was announced. Its development into an airport to be rated in Class A by that department is pointed out as a project which will give this city a landing field unequaled by any other in the matter of proximity to its chief centre of population.

The general scheme of the plan is to have the Borough Hall and other civic buildings connected with the air terminal and the main arteries of traffic by parkways designed in harmony with the traditions of city life. The designers pointed out that the mistakes leading to congestion in other places can be obviated in the present plan by a symmetrical distribution of the buildings and the construction of the entire project at one time and cost.

Report Describes Project.

In describing the proposed airport the report says:

"The city of New York decided to construct its first municipal airport at Barren Island largely for the reason that the Juniper Valley site required too expensive construction in connection with filling in and perhaps draining the swamp areas. It is felt, however, that, in combination with the civic centre, this site has so many advantages that the cost of acquiring and developing it would be well justified.

"The design of the field shows a concentration of the airport buildings in the section near the New York Connecting Railroad. These buildings are arranged symmetrically about the axis of the civic centre, the main or terminal building facing the Borough Hall across a proposed park area with formal treatment. Runways of ample length are suggested, oriented in the eight cardinal and quarter points of the compass. The prevailing wind directions, which are from the northwest in the Winter and the southwest in the Summer, are provided with the longest runways. The shape of the area is readily adaptable to this arrangement. It will be noted that the buildings in the civic centre and also those connected with the air terminal lie outside the path of planes which would enter or leave the port."

In presenting its proposal the committee says that it is no part of the Regional Plan policy to suggest projects as an alternative to those which are promoted by the borough authorities or by local planning commissions.

"The great evils which are mounting as a result of excessive concentration around the terminals in Manhattan can be solved only by creating new terminals further out. The development of new terminals will create new centres of industrial activity and population. In studying this matter, we came to the conclusion that the civic centre of Queens needed to be moved from Long Island City, so far as it exists there, to a more central location in the borough.

Links to Manhattan and Jersey.

"While considering the communications between Queens and other boroughs, we had to take into account the importance of the new Tri-Borough Bridge and the prospective tunnel at Thirty-eighth Street. These will form the two most important links between Queens, Manhattan Island and the State of New Jersey. Through them will flow the traffic to the south and west. They are not merely local, but almost national means of communication so far as Long Island is concerned.

"The future of transportation is very much involved with the future of aviation, and the future of aviation is primarily dependent on proper landing fields within easy access of the centres of cities. Here is the opportunity to provide this, by combining the airport with the civic centre without having them so close together that they would interfere with each other. The project could be linked up by a parkway with Forest Park, affording Queens a civic centre with qualities that exist nowhere else in the world.

"In the development of this project the regional plan staff had the collaboration of Arthur C. Holden & Associates, consulting architects."

The fight for the location of the proposed civic centre in Queens continues. On Monday night H. J. Haarmeyer, civic leader, will preside at a mass meeting in Jamaica to give the home-owner and voter a chance to express his views on the subject.

Nine civic associations had endorsed the parental school site for the civic centre yesterday.

At a meeting in the Elks clubhouse, Elmhurst, under the auspices of the Queens Civic Centre Association, 100 civic leaders by a unanimous vote adopted a resolution approving the South Elmhurst site for the centre. The speakers stressed the accessibility of the site on Queens Boulevard and the fact that some of the land is now owned by the city and the rest of it might be bought cheaply. The parental school site was criticized by many.

The King Manor Association in Jamaica yesterday went on record as opposed to the plan to erect the centre in King's Park, Jamaica.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Governor Roosevelt today commuted the sentence of Charles McKeon, a prisoner from Brooklyn in Clinton Prison at Dannemaro, where he is reported to be in a dying condition from pulmonary tuberculosis. McKeon was convicted in Kings County of attempted grand larceny, second degree, and sentenced June 12, 1928, by County Judge George W. Martin to a term of two years six months. He will be released at once.

ADVOCATES INQUIRY INTO NARCOTIC LAWS

Conference Here Supports Bills of Hamilton Fish Jr. for Sifting of Enforcement.

ACTS UPON PRESENTMENT

Resolution Endorses Plan for an Investigation Into Charges of Incompetence and Dereliction.

Resolutions supporting congressional measures introduced by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. to investigate the enforcement of narcotic laws in New York and to strengthen further the machinery for regulation of the drug traffic were adopted yesterday at the closing sessions of the third annual conference of committees of the World Conference on Narcotic Education and the International Narcotic Education Association at the Hotel McAlpin.

One resolution endorsed the proposal of Mr. Fish in the House on Thursday for an investigation by a congressional committee of five of the charges made by the Federal grand jury here on Wednesday of misconduct, incompetence and dereliction of duty in the New York Narcotic Bureau. With charges coming from the Federal grand jury, Mr. Fish, who addressed the conference yesterday, declared "it is the duty of the government to act immediately."

Mr. Fish also urged the conference to petition Senator Norris, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to expedite action on his bill to permit the payment of money to get evidence of shipments of narcotics from foreign countries and to use its influence in support of his third bill to deport aliens convicted of violating the Harrison narcotic laws, and to urge Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration, to have the bill reported favorably. The resolutions supporting all three bills were adopted unanimously.

In urging the government to sign the second Geneva pact to limit and control the production of manufactured habit-forming drugs Mr. Fish declared that "our government bungled the situation at the Geneva conference in 1925" and that it should take immediate steps to "repair the damages."

The conference received the following telegram yesterday from President Hoover:

I earnestly commend the work of the World Conference on Narcotic Education for its recognition of the menace to society in the excessive manufacture of narcotic drugs and for their use of scientific methods and surveys to establish the facts concerning the evils and extent of the traffic in these drugs. The consistent leadership of Americans in the effort to control this traffic is a world-wide service to the health, morals and public safety of the race.

Judge Cornelius F. Collins of the Court of General Sessions said there were 166,000 drug addicts in the United States, approximately 10,000 of whom are in New York City.

SIFTS AMBULANCE RACE STAGED ON BROADWAY

Greeff Finds Film Company Got Permit to Use Hospital Vehicle in Contest With Taxi.

The solution of the mysterious racing between a Reception Hospital ambulance and a battered old taxicab Thursday night in Broadway between Fortieth and Forty-eighth Streets was found yesterday by Commissioner of Hospitals J. G. William Greef. He discovered that a motion picture company had obtained permission from James L. Murray, director of ambulance service, to use the ambulance.

For more than an hour the two vehicles tore up and down Broadway in the glare of Klieg lights, while motion picture cameras perched on a theatre marquee at Forty-fourth Street ground out hundreds of feet of exciting film. A lone male figure occupied the back of the taxi, while another man rode on the step of the ambulance.

Commissioner Greeff, when informed of the racing, started an inquiry yesterday by asking for an explanation from Deputy Hospital Commissioner Thomas J. Cox, in charge of ambulances. Mr. Cox disclaimed all knowledge of the incident, and the commissioner called in several other officials before learning that Mr. Murray had permitted the use of the ambulance.

Dr. Randolph Weyman, admitting physician of Reception Hospital, made no secret of his indignation over the incident. He said he preferred not to think what might have happened if an emergency requiring a Reception Hospital ambulance had occurred while the race was on.

Commissioner Greeff issued orders that no ambulance was henceforth to be used except on ambulance work, and said he would have canceled the permit given to the motion picture company if he had known about it in advance.

NINETY-FOUR ATTAIN YALE SCIENCE HONOR

Sigma Xi Elects Thirty as Associate Members, Including Marine Engineer Here.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 21.—The Yale chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, today announced the election of sixty-four new members and thirty associates, including one alumni member, James H. King, a marine engineer of New York City, honored for conspicuous achievement in his field.

The new members, elected in recognition of their ability to carry on independent scientific investigations of a high order, included seven faculty members and research fellows, four graduates of Yale, thirty-nine students in the graduate school, eight students in the medical school and one senior in the Sheffield Scientific School.

The associates, selected on the basis of promise and ability without having had an opportunity to carry on research work, included nineteen seniors and two juniors in the Sheffield Scientific School, six seniors and two juniors in the Academic College and one student in the Forestry School. Twelve former associates were promoted to be members.

Elijio Jovellanzo Tavanlar of Binalonon, Philippine Islands, was the only undergraduate elected to full membership.

The list is, in part, as follows:

Members Elected.

DOUBLE AUTOGRAPH SOLD.

Signatures of George and Martha Washington on an Indenture.

An indenture bearing the signatures of both George and Martha Washington, which, according to autograph experts here, are rarely found on a single document, has been obtained by Gabriel Wells.

This indenture was made on Aug. 18, 1798, between George and Martha Washington and Hugh Barr of Alexandria, Va. In it Barr agreed to pay General and Mrs. Washington or their heirs $72 a year for the use of a lot 24 by 83 feet in the town of Alexandria.

The deed further provided that if Barr failed at any time to pay the rent, the owners of the property might "make sale of the goods and chattels" which might be found on the property to the extent of settling the debt. If no chattels were found on the property to sell, the deed was to be canceled automatically after thirty days.

AMHERST HONORS SENIORS.

Faculty Selects Class Members for the "Bond Fifteen."

AMHERST, Mass., Feb. 21.—The Amherst College faculty has announced the "Bond fifteen" for this June commencement. The group is selected at the end of the first semester of each year and is composed of the fifteen seniors whose scholastic averages are the highest.

From these fifteen, four are chosen on the basis of literary and oratorical merit to deliver orations on Commencement Day. The Bond Prize of $100 is awarded the speaker who delivers the best oration. Last year Harold B. Newman of Brooklyn, N. Y., carried off first honors.

The selections from the present senior class are as follows:

GEORGE N. ARMSTRONG of Augusta, N. J.
REUBEN A. BROWER of Lanesboro, Pa.
BOARDMAN BUMP of Longmeadow, Mass.
JOSEPH C. CHAMBERS of Baltimore.
HENRY B. GARDNER of Providence, R. I.

HERBERT F. NEWMAN of Brooklyn, N. Y.
ALBERT J. NICHOLS of Hartford, Conn.
RICHARD H. PLOCK of Burlington, Iowa.
IRVING S. POSNER of New York City.
STUART H. REDNER of Battle Creek, Mich.
WALTER F. WIENER of New York City.

GREEFF AIDS FIGHT ON FUNERAL ABUSES

Warns Public to Beware of Any Undertaker Who Comes Unsolicited After a Death.

"TIP" SYSTEM IS CURBED

Funeral Directors' Association Is Fighting Practice and Says Few Offenders Now Remain.

Dr. J. G. William Greeff, Commissioner of Hospitals, issued a warning yesterday to the public to beware of any undertaker who comes unsolicited at a time of death. His warning was made public by the Metropolitan Funeral Directors' Association, 25 West Forty-third Street, which for a year has been investigating and attempting to stamp out what is commonly known as "body-snatching."

Many instances have been brought to his attention, Dr. Greeff said, in which unscrupulous funeral directors, by collusion with employes of city hospitals and morgues, policemen, ambulance drivers, telephone operators and others, had been able to obtain information about a death immediately after its occurrence. Directors or their representatives then have called at the home of the next of kin to solicit patronage.

Cases are on record where the directors, notified by the "underground wireless," actually called on the family to arrange for the funeral while the patient was still alive, he said. Dr. Greeff explained that no employe of any city hospital is ever sent to notify a family of a death, nor has any funeral director any official connection with any institution under his jurisdiction.

Dr. William Schroeder Jr., now Commissioner of Sanitation and Dr. Greeff's predecessor as Hospital Commissioner, cooperated with the association, which has a membership of nearly 1,000 undertakers in New York City and in Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk Counties, it was said yesterday at the association offices, in fighting the practice of "body-snatching." Through Dr. Schroeder's efforts, it was said, three employes at Harlem, three at Fordham, one at Bellevue Hospital and one in the Bellevue morgue were discharged for illegally helping undertakers to obtain possession of bodies.

George Goodstein of counsel for the association, praised Commissioner Whalen for cooperating with the association to prevent policemen from taking part in or permitting "body-snatching," and Health Commissioner Wynne for including in the new Health Department regulations a provision making it a misdemeanor for a funeral director to pay for information or assistance of this kind.

A large majority of the city's 1,600 undertakers, Mr. Goodstein emphasized, are fair and ethical in practice. He said that the association's fight against unethical practices, which impoverish those who can least afford it by adding to their fees the charges for "runners" or other informants, has greatly diminished the number of instances of "body-snatching."

Fewer than twenty undertakers in the city now carry on the practice, he said, although the number of cases they solicit successfully is still large. When the association hears of a case, he said, it investigates and either forces the undertaker to refund the money unethically gained or asks the Hospital Department to act. He urged that any one so defrauded or knowing of such cases to complain to the association or the Hospital Department.

The association is also conducting a campaign against undertakers operating without a State license and local Health Department permit. The president of the association is Samuel J. Waters of 2,516 Marion Avenue, the Bronx. It was formed two years ago to protect undertakers against the unethical competitors.

BEN LINDSEY UPHELD BY CALIFORNIA BAR

Board of Governors Decides Against Proposed Disbarment Proceedings.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21 (AP).—Disbarment action proposed against former Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver for alleged acceptance of a fee while holding office will not be taken, the board of governors of the State bar of California announced today.

"I am very much gratified," Mr. Lindsey said when informed of the decision. "The decision does not surprise me."

In appealing to the board, Mr. Lindsey, through his attorney, pointed out that prior to disbarment in Colorado by the Colorado Supreme Court this court twice previously had held that he was not a lawyer when he received the money, $37,500, from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes of New York City, former wife of W. E. D. Stokes, multi-millionaire.

Mr. Lindsey said he would file an application for reinstatement in Colorado based on these decisions. The alleged fee was received by Mr. Lindsey in 1926.

CHICAGO'S APPEAL FOR CASH HITS SNAG

Business and Financial Interests Withhold Subscriptions—Only $6,000,000 Raised.

PAY DAY AGAIN IS DEFERRED

Old Liberty Loan Campaigner Is Called In to Handle Drive for $74,000,000 Pool.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The campaign to raise, through Chicago's big taxpayers, $74,000,000 with which to operate the city, Cook County, the public schools and the Sanitary District to July 2, when revenue from tax collections will be available, did not progress so well today.

The two days' efforts on the part of the citizens' rescue committee is said to have obtained less than $6,000,000 in subscriptions. That means a deferring of pay day for 43,836 public employes, who have $11,909,430 coming in overdue salaries.

Silas H. Strawn of the citizens' committee sent out a call for help at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He prevailed upon Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, to organize a "drive" for the $74,000,000. Mr. Clarke was head of the committee on trades in the Liberty Loan drives which sold about $750,000,000 in Liberty bonds during the war.

Mr. Clarke started reassembling his organization this afternoon, and before the night is over he expects to have his chairmen selected for each of twenty-five committees from each trade, business and profession of importance in Chicago.

He has called a meeting of these committee chairmen at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Each man will then be told what part of the $74,000,000 he is expected to obtain, and despite the fact that it is Washington's birthday. Mr. Clarke hopes to get his twenty-five teams working. He has informed the Central Trust that he will be "off duty" for four days, in which he expects to obtain the $74,000,000 in subscriptions. That means Wednesday night.

If that schedule works out, then another day will be required to get in an instalment of the cash and purchase the tax anticipation warrants. So it now appears that pay day will not arrive before next Thursday or even later.

The lack of large success during the past two days is attributed to three reasons.

Many large taxpayers, it is said, believe that public officials should be compelled to curb waste in expenditures.

Sensational reports of the amount of subscriptions already obtained have made some feel that their aid is not needed.

Still other taxpayers resent the lack of formal promise from the city and school officials that they will cooperate on legislation to prevent a recurrence of present conditions.

Mayor Mackey Asks Officials for Exact Figures on City's Loan Funds.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—Asserting that he would not permit politics and "buck-passing" in the handling of municipal finances, Mayor Mackey today called for a public meeting at City Hall on Monday to forestall a threatened crisis in the municipal debt situation.

The conference, which will be attended by Controller Hadley, Deputy Controller Wilson, members of City Council and heads of all municipal departments and bureaus, is to consider plans for meeting several million dollars of outstanding mandamus claims and survey the city's financial situation in general.

"There will be no wild statements such as we have $87,000,000 of loan funds not under contract," the Mayor said, "when actually there are not eighty-seven cents.

"I have asked for a detailed statement from the City Solicitor and City Treasurer on the amount of outstanding mandamuses, and when we meet Monday we shall know definitely their origin and when they are to be paid."

The Mayor's declaration followed assertions in the City Council yesterday that his administration was to blame for the failure to get under way improvements for which the Council has appropriated more than $86,000,000.

Controller Hadley informed the Councilmen that the city was faced by $12,000,000 in outstanding land damage claims.

The Controller's financing plan, presented to the Mayor today, provides for a loan of $25,000,000 to be voted at the Spring primary for improvements and to meet outstanding mandamus claims. Through other referendums he would have $10,000,000 of the $86,000,000 of loan balances not under contract transferred to other purposes, and as much of the balances as possible placed under contract "for projects giving employment to the largest number of skilled and unskilled labor."

OIL MERGER ABANDONED.

Rio Grande Official Reports No Favorable Offer From Sinclair.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 21.—Confirming press reports from New York that C. S. Jones, vice president of the Rio Grande Oil Company, had announced that negotiations with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation had been broken off, L. M. Lockhart, vice president of Rio Grande, said yesterday that Mr. Jones had telephoned that he had not received a favorable offer from Sinclair and that he was leaving New York to arrive here tomorrow.

Mr. Lockhart said that apparently the deal for a merger was ended definitely and that Rio Grande Oil would continue operations as an independent company.

STUDENTS FIGHT FINES IN COLUMBIA LIBRARIES

Calling Levies for Overdue Books 'Usurious,' They Draft Petition for Reductions.

A student campaign to reduce the fines in the various college libraries of Columbia University was begun last night in the form of a petition from students in the School of Journalism to Roger Howson, university librarian, charging that the existing levies were "unduly exorbitant, usurious and more appropriate for a pawnbroker's shop than for a great educational institution."

Bearing 104 signatures, the petition represents a heavy majority of the junior and senior classes, with a sprinkling of graduate students. Copies were forwarded to President Nicholas Murray Butler; Dr. John W. Cunliffe, director of the school, and Mrs. Alice M. Hitchcock, librarian in charge of the local library branch.

The present system calls for a fine of 25 cents for the first hour after the time set for a book's return and 5 cents for every additional hour. According to the students, fines frequently come to three or four times the selling prices of the books. The effect, they charge, is to make the use of the library prohibitive and to discourage reading and research beyond the volumes absolutely required.

Books on reserve must be returned at 9:30 the following morning, although an extension until 10 o'clock may be granted. Under this arrangement, the petitioners say, a faulty alarm clock, which brings them to school five or ten minutes late, forces them to pay a fine of 25 cents.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4½ to 4¾ per cent for the best names.

Thursday—4½ to 4¾ per cent for the best names.

The quotations are for four to six months' paper.

Weather to Help Wholesalers.

The improvement in retail turnover occasioned by the stimulus of mild weather is expected to be reflected in more active wholesale purchasing here next week. Reorders are expected to develop in greater volume as many stores during the present week began to get definite action on Spring merchandise in their ready-to-wear and accessory departments. As the early buying was light, the flow of reorders is likely to be frequent and steady as merchandise moves to consumers. The course of general buying is likely to be spotty until the pre-Easter peak is approached.

Fur Sale Brought $5,150,000.

The annual Winter fur auction of Frederick Huth & Co. ended here yesterday with sales totaling $5,150,000. It started on Feb. 10. Only silver fox was sold yesterday, and prices averaged up to those of the Huth special sale of "silvers" here last month. Ninety-two per cent of the pelts put up actually changed hands, a representative of the firm said. These were the the top prices for the whole silver fox collection: Full silver, $410; three-quarter silver, $360; one-half silver, $300; one-quarter silver, $125, and dark, $85. Prompt day will be March 12.

White Coats Started Earlier.

So marked is the faith of coat manufacturers here in the good prospects of white coats for late Spring and early Summer wear that they are being put in work about a month and a half earlier than last year. Many more white coats will be sold this season than pastels, which were so strong a year ago, and for this reason manufacturers are rushing them into production. Advance business has already been booked on them in flannels, wool crêpes and rough weaves. The increased vogue for suits is held largely responsible for the improved position of white coats, which, manufacturers say, can be effectively combined with blouses and skirts for cool weather wear.

Low Priced Dinner Ware Bought.

Low-end dinner ware, retailing around $3.50 for 32-piece sets, is being purchased freely by buyers of popular-priced merchandise visiting the market. The sets are wanted chiefly in light shades of green, although styles showing combination of colors, such as ivory with green, blue or red trimmings, are ordered in good quantities. Sales merchandise is still of most interest to the retail stores and constitutes about 60 per cent of current business. Claiming that color preferences will show a decided change in early Fall buying, one manufacturer is bringing out a complete line of bisque sets.

Clothing Clearances Slow.

Men's wear retailers are having one of the most disappointing periods in recent years in their clearances of men's overcoats and suits. Practically no headway has been made in the disposal of overcoats, partly because of weather conditions and partly because of economic conditions since the Wall Street break. Unless conditions change notably in the next week or two, the carry-over of overcoats into next Fall will be substantial. Somewhat better results have been obtained with suits, but even the suit business has been substantially below expectations. The present retail conditions will measurably affect the reception to be accorded Fall clothing lines, it was pointed out.

Electrical Appliances Inactive.

Sales of household electrical appliances eased off to a noticeable extent here this week. Manufacturers reported that buyers were few in number and those who did visit the city confined themselves to inspecting regular merchandise. The demand for sales merchandise also fell off. Retail stores are now in the midst of their house furnishings sales and are understood to be well stocked with merchandise. Buyers for jobbing houses did some limited buying toward the end of the week, but only for the purpose of filling in stocks.

Not Many "Bootleg" Dresses Seen.

Despite the difficulties that have faced the production of dresses in this market during the past two or three weeks, manufacturers say that little "bootleg" merchandise has made its appearance here. This is the name given to garments turned out in shops, both here and out of town, in which little attention is given to production details or sanitary surroundings during manufacture. The better manufacturers are glad of this, for garments of this type are rushed out regardless of the wear they give the ultimate buyer and detract seriously from the prestige of merchandise produced in this market. Most of the "bootleg" seen so far has been confined to the lower price ranges.

Show Dollar Leather Slippers.

Both chains and department stores have been placing orders for solid leather boudoir and house slippers which can be profitably retailed at $1. These slippers are made with high Cuban heels of wood and are reinforced at the arch by a steel shank. Four different leather grains are being shown in black, brown, red and cocoanut. An all-suède slipper in the d'Orsay style is also being brought out to sell at $1 and is said to be meeting with a good reception from buyers. This slipper is being made in six colors and is trimmed with ribbon bow to match the lining.

Soft Coal Sales Decline.

The reactionary tendency noted last week in the bituminous market is continuing, Saward's Journal will say today. The drop in sales is attributed to the fact that industrial consumers have decided to use up their reserve Winter stock. Statistics on industry, it is claimed, indicate that consumption of coal has not diminished. The sharp cold spell of the last week-end resulted in the movement of a large tonnage of anthracite. Orders from the retail trade have been good in the egg, stove and nut coal sizes, and operators have filled them promptly.

Not Much Done in Gray Goods.

Gray goods sales did not run into any great volume here yesterday. First hands sold 38½-inch 60-48 printcloths at 5½ cents, and second hands let them out at an eighth less. For 38½-inch 64-60s and 39-inch 68-72s, 6⅜ cents and 7⅛ cents, respectively, were paid. Near-by lots of 36-inch 40-square, 6.15-yard sheetings were sold at 4¾ cents, and there was trading in 40-inch 4.25s at 6½ cents. The best that buyers could do on 40-inch 2.85-yard sheetings was 9½ cents. Thirty-inch 3.25-yard drills again sold at 8¼ cents. Among the limited sales of fine-yarn cloths were 40-inch 88-80, 4.50-yard combed lawns at 11 cents.

SILK CONCERNS MERGE.

Corticelli Company and Champlain Mills in Deal Effective Monday.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 21 (AP).—A merger of the Champlain Silk Mills of New York, which has mills at Whitehall, N. Y., with the Corticelli Silk Company of Northampton was announced today by Corticelli's officials. The merger will be effective Monday.

Frank W. Eaton of New York, chairman of the board of the Corticelli Company, will be chairman of the board of the Champlain Mills and J. P. T. Armstrong of New London, Conn., president of Corticelli, will be vice president and a director of Champlain Mills under the merger. Officers of the Champlain mills will retain their positions.

Oils and Greases Tend Lower.

Quotations on animal, vegetable and fish oils, fats and greases tended downward in the week ended yesterday, according to the Oil, Plant & Drug Reporter. The publication's index number was 126.8, based on 100 in August, 1914, compared with 127.0 a week earlier and 147.2 a year ago. Purchasing was generally in small or moderate quantities.

LEGAL NOTICES.

IN THE COURT OF CHANCERY OF THE State of Delaware in and for New Castle County—ROBERT PENINGTON, Complainant, vs. COMMONWEALTH HOTEL CONSTRUCTION CORPORATION, a corporation of the State of Delaware, Defendant.—Receivership Cause.—To

(1) The holders of the preferred stock of Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation who have paid in full for their shares.

(2) The holders of the common stock of Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation who have paid in full for their shares.

(3) Persons who have subscribed for shares of preferred stock but have paid only part of their subscriptions.

(4) Persons who have subscribed for shares of common stock but have paid only part of their subscriptions.

(5) All other persons if any there be claiming the right to share in the distribution of the funds of the said Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation remaining after the payment of debts, expenses, etc.:

Pursuant to an order of the Chancellor of the State of Delaware made in the above entitled cause on the 31st day of January, 1930, you are hereby notified—

(a) That to enable you to share in the distribution of the funds of the said Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation, remaining after the payment of all its debts and the expenses of the receivership cause of said corporation, it is necessary for you to file with Robert H. Richards, Receiver of said Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation, at his office at No. 4,060 du Pont Building, Wilmington, Delaware, a duly verified proof of your claim for the purpose of establishing your right to share in such distribution, which proof must be so filed on or before the third day of May, 1930, and if you should fail to so file your proof of claim on or before said date you will be barred and forever foreclosed from filing any proof of claim in the said receivership cause of the said Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation. In filing such proof of claim you may use, but are not required to use, the form of proof of claim accompanying this notice, which form was approved by the Chancellor in his said order.

(b) That on the fourteenth day of May, 1930, at the Court Room of the Court of Chancery in the County Court House at Wilmington, Delaware, the said Chancellor will hear the petition of the said Receiver and a petition of intervention heretofore filed by a Stockholders Protective Committee of Preferred and Common stock of said Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation praying a determination of the relative rights of all persons claiming the right to share in the distribution of the funds of the said Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation remaining after the payment of all debts and expenses required to be paid therefrom, at which time and place the Chancellor will hear all persons claiming the right to share in such distribution of said fund and all evidence offered or desired to be offered by them, and their respective solicitors that may appear for them, and will determine the relative rights of all such claimants to share in such distribution, and all such claimants desiring to be heard must appear or be represented at said time and place.

This notice is sent to you pursuant to the above mentioned order of Honorable Josiah O. Wolcott, Chancellor of the State of Delaware, and you are warned that your failure to act in accordance therewith will be at your peril.

ROBERT H. RICHARDS,
Receiver of Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation.

Dated at Wilmington, Delaware, February 1, 1930.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Sale of Morningside Avenue Corner Features Quiet Activity in Manhattan.

MANY LEASEHOLDS LISTED

Twelve Bonds Change Hands on Securities Exchange—Acreage Deals Reported in Nassau.

Sales of minor importance were reported in Manhattan yesterday, trading on the eve of the Washington Birthday holiday being marked largely by contracts for properties outside the borough and the recording of numerous Manhattan leaseholds. The City and Suburban Homes Company closed the biggest deal of the day with its purchase of Celtic Park, in Queens, for a housing development.

In Nassau County brokers announced several deals for acreage, small homes and private housing sites, while in Brooklyn a business and apartment properties were dealt in. At the New York Real Estate Securities Exchange twelve bonds were sold, including a $10,000 block.

A Dodge report showed a drop in construction contracts let throughout New York State, with a gain, however in contemplated projects.

The leading Manhattan transaction was made by Jesse Oppenheim, broker, who sold for Rebecca Pomrinse the six-story elevator apartment house at 14 Morningside Avenue, at the corner of 115th Street. The site is 118 by 80 by 143 feet and was held at $450,000, according to the broker. Mr. Oppenheim also sold the six-story house at 357-359 West 115th Street, adjoining 14 Morningside Avenue. This house is 50 by 100 feet, and both structures were bought by the 107 West Twenty-fourth Street Realty Corporation, represented by Irving Feinstein, attorney. The purchasing corporation has now assembled a corner plot 130 by 143 feet. The Dorlin Realty Corporation, represented by Joseph G. Abramson, was the seller of the 115th Street house.

A recorded transfer indicated the assembling of the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and East 105th Street by the Armory Hill Realty Company. The company has bought the five-story house at 1,546 Madison Avenue from Helenrich Holding Corporation and now controls 100 feet on the avenue and seventy feet on the street. John J. Kavanagh acted as broker.

The Haggstrom-Callen Company, as broker, leased the four-story building at 111 West Sixty-third Street to M. R. Frey.

The building at 181 Bleecker Street was leased by Maria Ferrari to Santo Enea and Francesco Tufano for a furniture business and dwelling from March 15, 1930 to May 1, 1935 at $4,800 a year.

Grace L. Elliot and Lily B. Elliot leased from the F. J. Newcomb Manufacturing Company, 52 and 54 West Thirteenth Street for ten years from January 1, 1930, at $2,400 a year rental, in addition to all taxes and assessments.

The dwelling at 29 West 131st Street was leased by Haywood Morris to the Commandment Keepers, Inc., of which Bishop Wentworth A. Mathews is the chairman of the board of trustees, for three years and an option to renew for a further period of two years commencing on March 1, 1930, at $1,860 a year rental.

EXPLAINS REALTY SALE TAX.

Bulletin Says Loss on Property Used as Residence Is Not Deductible

The question of whether loss from an isolated sale of real estate may be deducted from income in computing the Federal income tax depends on the usage to which the property had been put prior to its sale, an official bulletin issued yesterday explains. Loss on property occupied as the residence of the owner cannot be deducted, although in case of sale at a profit tax must be paid on such profit.

In the case of all income producing property, either profit or loss should appear as such in the return. Real estate which was purchased for owner occupancy but was rented prior to its sale should be considered as income producing property for the period during which it was rented. If rented for one year before it is sold, for example, profit or loss should be determined by comparison of the fair value at the beginning of the rental period with the sale price.

FLOOD THREATENS IN MAINE

Forty Billion Feet of Water Is Banked Up Along Androscoggin.

LEWISTON, Me., Feb. 21 (AP).—Flood conditions are threatened along the Androscoggin watershed after a period of severe drought, Paul Bean, hydraulic engineer of the Union Waterpower Company, said today.

About forty billion cubic feet of water is ready to pour into an uncontrolled area below Erroll, N. H., Mr. Bean said, and if this should occur in a relatively short time, precipitated by a thaw and warm rains, "a flood of some magnitude might be expected."

River engineers looked with concern on predictions of a storm and warmer weather for Sunday. The waterpower company today had shut off the flow of reservoirs at Aziscohos dam and other points to reduce the excess flow.

MARINE CITED FOR VALOR.

Sergeant Rescued Detached Group Under Fire in Nicaragua.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Sergeant William Seyler of Reading Pa., received a special letter of commendation by the Navy Department today for bravery in action with the Marine Corps during the revolution in Nicaragua.

In action against bandits at Trinidad, Nicaragua, on April 3, 1928, he "distinguished himself by the display of extraordinary bravery, coolness and leadership, in the face of concentrated heavy enemy fire, by taking command of a group of marines that had become detached from the remainder of the patrol and leading them without any casualties to the position previously designated by the patrol leader."

BRILL'S TO HAVE STORE AT 5TH AV. AND 50TH ST.

Clothiers Lease the Former Home of De Pinna, Opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Brill Brothers, clothiers, signed a lease yesterday for the six-story building and annex at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, formerly the home of De Pinna. The property was leased from the Metropolitan Square Corporation through Edward E. Babcock, broker. It gives to Brill Brothers a modern building fronting thirty-two feet on Fifth Avenue and 180 feet on West Fiftieth Street, opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The new store, which will be the firm's first location on Fifth Avenue, will replace the clothiers' present store at the northwest corner of Broadway and Forty-ninth Street, which they are vacating. This building will be demolished to clear the site for a skyscraper to be erected by A. E. Lefcourt. It is planned to occupy the Fifth Avenue structure about March 15. Interior alterations are being made there now.

In announcing the lease Maurice Brill said that Max D. Brill had sold his interest in the business and would retire. His interest has been bought by Maurice and Samuel Brill, and Max, who has been associated in the business since 1887, will take a three months' trip to Europe with his family.

The removal of the store to Fifth Avenue will not result in any change of policy, according to Maurice Brill, who said the new location offered an opportunity for the sale of clothing for men and boys at popular prices.

BUILDING DROPS IN STATE

But Projected Construction Makes Record Total for Month.

Contracts for building and engineering work in New York State last month totaled $51,528,400, as compared with $102,618,200 in the preceding month and $85,500,900 in January, 1929, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

In contrast with the month's decline in construction awards, the amount of new work reported as contemplated was by far the largest for any single month. The total was $715,872,400, as against $126,269,700 reported in January, 1929.

The residential class was the most prominent in last month's contract total, with $15,450,000, or 30 per cent of all construction. Public works and utilities accounted for $15,338,000, or a little more than 29 per cent. Commercial buildings totaled $9,586,900, or 19 per cent, and educational buildings $3,495,000, or 7 per cent.

ASK INCREASED ROAD AID.

Highway Builders at Syracuse Meeting Petition Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Feb. 21.—Running two sessions into one, State and county officials of the North Atlantic Highway Association finished their program this afternoon under the chairmanship of Samuel Eckels of Harrisburg, Pa., president. A resolution petitioning Congress to pass the Dowell bill providing increased Federal aid for State roads was passed.

"Maintenance of washboard macadam roads" was discussed by N. Watson Hardenbergh of the Connecticut Highway Department.

L. D. Barrows, chief engineer of the Maine Highway Department, explained methods which he followed in sanding, draining and snow removal for the maintenance of highways in Winter.

Guy W. Pinck, division engineer here, was the final speaker of the session, talking on "Retreads." He described the laying of nine miles of mechanically mixed retread on Onondaga County highways last year at a cost of $4,327 a mile.

Will Discuss Markets in Harlem.

Thomas F. Dwyer, Commissioner of the Department of Public Markets, is to discuss the Park Avenue markets at a meeting of the Mid-Harlem Improvement Association next Tuesday in Westminster Hall, 73-75 Lenox Avenue, at 8:30 P. M. Also to be discussed, according to Jacob Gordon, president of the association, is a proposed request to the Motor Vehicle Commissioner for a "severe check" of express vans moving tenants with unpaid rent bills.

Homes in Elizabeth Leased.

Edgar Stewart has leased for two years to Richard P. Wahl a one-family house on Summit Road, Elizabeth, N. J. Clyde W. Heath, the broker, also leased for Walter R. Parvin a dwelling at 309 Summit Road to Joseph Donnington.

New Owners for Bayside Plots.

M. Bincard has bought a business plot 40 by 100 feet at the southeast corner of Nassau Boulevard and 211th Street in the Bayside-Flushing Gardens development at Bayside. In the same development N. Wins bought a plot 200 by 100 feet on 211th Street, between Sixty-seventh and Sixty-ninth Avenues, and F. L. Berg, A. Vernon and J. Bresselers each purchased plots 40 by 100 feet. The D. T. Richard Associates, Inc., arranged the deals.

Walker Foods, Inc., assigned the lease to the Holland Tunnel Restaurant, Inc., which in turn assigned it to the Haynes Restaurant, Inc.

PARK HILL OWNERS BUY SEVENTY LOTS

Property Was to Have Been Auctioned by Joseph P. Day Monday.

To assume the preservation of the high-class standards of their community, in which they have invested hundreds of thousands of dollars, property owners in Park Hill, a residential park in Yonkers just over the New York City line, formed a syndicate and yesterday purchased from the American Real Estate Company through Joseph P. Day all the remaining vacant land in Park Hill which was advertised to be sold by Mr. Day next Monday evening at auction.

The American Real Estate Company was organized in 1888 by a group of New York City business men as a development company. They purchased large tracts of land and erected buildings on them, selling bonds nation-wide against them. Some years ago Judge Learned Hand appointed Judge Walter C. Noyes and Alfred E. Marling receivers of the company. An order recently signed by Judge Henry W. Goddard of the United States District Court directed that the receivership be terminated and that all assets of the parent company and its subsidiaries, the Marbrick Realty Corporation and the Equity Assets Corporation, be liquidated at public auction.

Mr. Day was appointed auctioneer to hold the sale on Monday at the Hotel Commodore.

The property sold comprises approximately seventy plots and three mortgages, and was purchased by Arthur D. Ferguson representing the Park Hill syndicate; Mr. Day and Messrs. Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft representing Mr. Marling, the receiver.

The remainder of the American Real Estate Company properties comprising multiple family apartments and two-family houses in the Bronx, also the furniture and fixtures of the company in their offices at 165 Broadway, will be disposed of at the auction to be held by Mr. Day Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Hotel Commodore.

CELTIC PARK SOLD FOR SMALL HOMES

Irish-American A. C. Disposes of Queens Athletic Field to Suburban Homes Company.

Celtic Park, a landmark of amateur athletics in Queens for about half a century, has been sold to the City and Suburban Homes Company for a housing development, it was announced yesterday. The property comprises an area of more than seven acres and the home of the Irish-American Athletic Club. It occupies more than two city blocks, bounded roughly by Anabel and Gould Avenue, Forty-second to Forty-fourth Street, in the Thompson Hill section of the borough.

Although definite plans for improving the site have not been prepared as yet it was announced that they would soon be formulated in keeping with the City and Suburban Homes Company's program for extending the erection of moderate-priced housing for wage-earners. The Irish-American A. C. will seek a new site out on Long Island. In addition to the athletic field the buyers squared out their holdings by acquiring two gore lots from Edward C. Abel and Francis R. Wenzel. The athletic club bought the property about forty years ago from the late George Thomson, who at one time owned nearly all of the territory formerly designated as Laurel Hill.

The City and Suburban Homes Company is a limited dividend corporation which was founded more than thirty years ago by R. Fulton Cutting, W. Bayard Cutting, Alfred S. White, Cornelius Vanderbilt and other New Yorkers for the erection of homes at low rentals.

Former Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan and the club's bid committee represented the Irish-American A. C. in the sale of the property, which was disposed of for all cash. The price is said to represent an increase in value several times the original cost of the field. The Hub Realty Company, Frederick P. Cody and Cary, Harmon & Co. were the brokers.

Jewelry Firm Moving Uptown.

The Henry Davidson wholesale jewelry firm, which has been at 51 Maiden Lane for thirty years, has leased new quarters in 20 West Forty-seventh Street for a long term. Philip N. Berman was the broker.

Scarsdale Exclusively.
MRS. MARIE D. KLING.
Plan to See This House Washington's Birthday.
An old New England farmhouse in a real old New England setting—in Spring countless apple trees aglow with delicate pink.
On a level tract at the very crest of a high ridge (350 feet above sea level) and on interestingly historic ground. Lord Howe's headquarters of Revolutionary times was right across the road and the old stone walls of today are those of 100 years ago. The beauty and the invigorating atmosphere of the spot must have been appreciated by the Indians for arrow heads and all sorts of Indian relics are brought to life by a bit of searching in what seems to be an old camping ground of theirs.
The farmhouse is wonderfully attractive inside with its centre hall—its 2 living rooms bright with the sunlight from many windows and inviting with the cozy comfort of spacious rooms and not too high ceilings.
Apple trees, quince trees and every kind of fruit—grapes, strawberries, blackberries, peaches, pears, plums, raspberries, cherries, a vegetable gaden with one's own asparagus bed, cucumbers, tomatoes, corn, green beans—a list of delectable good things to spur the most jaded appetite; 4 master bedrooms, sleeping porch; garage.
A photograph will be sent free upon request.

H. H. MEYER ESTATE IS PUT AT $1,239,610

Mt. Sinai Hospital Eventually to Get $1,181,610 of Broker's Property for Child Ward.

A. D. EMERY LEFT $608,540

Appraisal Fixes Mrs. E. C. Lorsch's Holdings at $1,192,740—Paul Salvin's Set at $553,199.

An appraisal filed yesterday of the estate of Harry H. Meyer, member of the New York Stock Exchange, who died Jan. 18, 1929, fixing the value at $1,587,107 gross and $1,239,610 net, shows that upon the death of life beneficiaries Mount Sinai Hospital will receive $1,181,610 for a ward for children. Mr. Meyer also gave the hospital $2,500 in cash and left a like sum to the Widowed Mothers Fund. Mrs. Hannah D. Einstein, wife of his friend, William Einstein, received $5,000 in cash, $2,080 in personal property and a life interest in $100,000. Gifts of $5,000 each were left to friends, nephews and a niece.

Henrietta M. Levi, a half-sister, of 137 West Eighty-first Street, received a life interest in $100,000 and in half the residuary estate, amounting to $540,805, while the other half of the residue went for life to Dr. Alfred Meyer, brother, of 1,275 Park Avenue. Mr. Meyer owned securities worth $963,889, while the value of his Stock Exchange seat was fixed at $545,000 and a seat in Temple Emanu-El was appraised at $2,000.

$608,540 in Emery Estate.

Arthur D. Emery, who was head of the Harris Emery Company and president of the Agawam Company, a woolen concern, left an estate appraised yesterday at $644,384 gross and $608,540 net, of which $614,535 was in securities. He gave $243,473 each to his sisters, Annie K. Emery and Mary E. Bradley, and left $10,000 in cash and his stock in the Agawam Company, valued at $111,592 to a friend, Mrs. Gertrude Stiles of 215 West Ninety-eighth Street. Mr. Emery had 2,939 shares of common stock of the Harris Emery Company worth $424,744, and 100 shares of preferred stock valued at $10,000. He died April 18, 1928.

Mrs. Lorsch's Property Appraised.

Mrs. Etta C. Lorsch, who died April 27, 1928, left an estate appraised yesterday at $1,192,740. Her holdings included $856,991 in securities and $151,193 in cash. CUNARD SAID TO PLAN BIG THIRTY-KNOT LINER

British Ship Owners Hope to Regain Atlantic Speed Record, Now Held by Germans.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Recent reports that British shipowners were preparing to make a bid for the recovery of the Atlantic speed record were followed today by the assertion in a usually well-informed quarter that the Cunard company was on the eve of placing an order for a huge liner with a guaranteed sea speed of thirty knots. The German Bremen and Europa make twenty-seven knots.

It was said the Cunard company was satisfied that a large ship propelled by the latest pressure steam machinery could be worked economically at a speed around thirty knots and accordingly are going ahead with their plans.

No details regarding the tonnage or accommodations have been disclosed.

CUNARD ANSWERS CHARGES.

Blake Denies It Began Cuban Service to Injure Other Lines.

Robert H. Blake, general manager of the Cunard Line, denied yesterday that there was anything "unfair or unfriendly" in the operation of Cunard ships in the New York-Cuba service. He said that Representative Wallace H. White, who introduced Thursday in the House a measure by which these ships would be considered "fighting ships," misstated the facts when he said that the Cunard Line introduced a surplus of tonnage in the Cuban service in order to drive out the Ward Line and other competitors. He admitted that the season's business has been relatively poor and that the ships have not been filled to capacity.

"We are in the Cuban service because we were asked to enter it by the Cuban Government and business interests," he said. "We set our rates higher than the Ward Line rates, fixing them on a scale which the Ward Line recommended to us.

"We have no desire to drive the Ward Line out of business and we believe there is enough business and potential business for every one now operating. Last year all the ships were crowded with Havana tourists. This year is bad [illegible]."

HARVEY'S REMOVAL SOUGHT BY BRIEGER

Former Queens Official Also Asks Roosevelt to Oust J. J. Halleran, Public Works Chief.

Fritz Brieger, former Street Cleaning Commissioner of Queens, has made charges against Borough President George U. Harvey and John J. Halleran, Commissioner of Public Works, and has asked Governor Roosevelt to remove them, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Brieger, a wealthy business man, who resigned his post as Street Cleaning Commissioner in 1928 after [illegible] by Mr. Harvey and [illegible] at that time, [illegible] of his charges against the two leading officials, [illegible] he had sent a letter to the Governor demanding their removal.

It has been known for several weeks by persons in Queens that Mr. Brieger was seeking evidence upon which to base charges against members of the Harvey administration.

Some of Mr. Brieger's charges of graft amounting to millions of dollars in the Street Cleaning Bureau [illegible] investigation before Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins last year, [illegible] in which Martin Mager, an independent Democratic supporter of Mr. Harvey, was convicted and fined $500 for accepting a gratuity for obtaining an appointment. A street cleaning official charged with obtaining money falsely from the city pleaded guilty to petty larceny.

HOLDS GREAT CLOUD GIVES EARTH A TAIL

Dr. E. O. Hulbert Asserts Spray of Atmosphere Surrounds Us in an Ovoid Ring.

VISIBLE AS ZODIACAL LIGHT

Ions Stream Away on Side Furthest From Sun, Scientists Tells American Physical Society.

The theory that the earth has a tail like a comet and that this is visible to us under favorable conditions as the zodiacal light which so long has interested scientists, was outlined yesterday afternoon by Dr. E. O. Hulburt of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington at the annual meeting of the American Physical Society at Columbia University.

This tail, Dr. Hulbert said, is caused by the extension of the upper spray of the earth's atmosphere, which surrounds us in a great ovoid ring, and lengthens out perhaps a million miles or more on the side of the earth away from the sun. This ring extends perhaps 30,000 miles from the earth on the side toward the sun.

This luminous envelope around the earth is formed, Dr. Hulburt believes, in much the same manner as is the corona which surrounds the sun and is so spectacularly visible in total eclipses. The earth's corona is so faint, however, that it is unlikely that it could be seen by a hypothetical observer on a neighboring planet.

"The zodiacal light," said Dr. Hulburt, "can be seen only on clear, starless nights. It appears as a faint band of light, sometimes stretching clear across the heavens. It is brightest at the centre, overhead, where it resembles a dim star, known as the Gegenschein.

"Neutral atoms and molecules of the upper fringe of the earth's atmosphere are ejected upward and form a cloud, infinitely attenuated, about the earth. They are ionized by the ultra-violet light and so form a ring of ions and electrons around the earth, in the plane of the ecliptic.

"The sun's light, pressing on the cloud, forces it into its elongated shape. At its far end ions continually stream away in the direction of the sun's rays, so that the ring merges into a sort of comet's tail which may be the Gegenscheim."

Dr. Hulburt added that a bit of the earth's atmosphere was constantly passing out into space, but that since this leakage amounted to only a millionth part of the atmosphere in a million years there was no need for alarm.

Two score physicists from all parts of the United States and from several foreign countries presented studies of their researches. Many of them dealt with the intricate studies which now are being made on the structure of the atom and the nature of protons and electrons.

The meeting will continue today in the Physics Building.

CHARGES BRUTALITY IN STATE REFORMATORY

Connecticut Board Announces Inquiry After Stabbing at Meriden School.

HARTFORD, Feb. 21 (AP).—The State Department of Welfare announced today that it has been engaged for several weeks investigating charges of brutality and inhuman treatment of inmates of the State School for Boys at Meriden.

The announcement followed the stabbing with a pitchfork yesterday of Rudolph Brown, 17, by Austin Mills, 16, both inmates. Officials of the institution said both boys were working in the barnyard, and that it was an accident. Brown, who is believed to be fatally injured, said he was the victim of a "grudge."

Judge Walter H. Clarke, acting in the absence of Dr. George C. F. Williams, president of the Welfare Board, said charges of incompetency involving at least three under-officers and brutal treatment of the inmates have been brought out in the ingestigation. These charges, it was said, are supported not only by former inmates but by James S. Peck, farm superintendent.

MELLON FIGHTS BILL ON POISON ALCOHOL

Secretary Writes to Representative Hawley That Sirovich Measure Is Impracticable.

UPSET IN CONTROL IS SEEN

Representative Mead in House Speech Advocates a Referendum on Prohibition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Opposition of the treasury to the Sirovich bill to prevent the use of poisonous denaturants in industrial alcohol was voiced today by Secretary Mellon in a letter to Representative Hawley, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

"In response to your requests for comment and recommendation," Mr. Mellon wrote, "you are advised that it is the opinion of the department that the provisions of the bill are impracticable and that the proposed legislation is unnecessary.

"Such legislation would prevent the department from exercising its discretion in selecting suitable and proper denaturants and would prevent the proper administration of the various acts authorizing tax-free alcohol.

"It is noticed further that the bill does not define non-toxic or non-poisonous products. Consequently, every denaturant selected by the bureau, if the bill became law, might be the subject of controversy or litigation.

Says Processes Would Be Hit.

"Referring to the part of the bill which provides that all denatured alcohol must contain traces of certain enumerated compounds, you are informed that there are thousands of preparations and scores of processes requiring denatured alcohol which could not use alcohol denatured with the compounds enumerated.

"If this bill became law, the result would be that hundreds of permitees now manufacturing legitimate products from denatured alcohol would not be able to secure denatured alcohol suitable for their products.

"For example, the cosmetic trade would be practically destroyed, since it is obvious that that industry cannot use alcohol denatured with the odorous and disagreeable products required in the proposed bill. Moreover, the denaturants proposed in the bill would not protect alcohol from diversion.

"In view of the above, I respectfully recommend that the bill do not pass."

Disapproval of the bill by the head of the department responsible for the control of industrial alcohol was accepted on Capitol Hill as probably destroying all chance of its passage. The bill was introduced by Representative Sirovich, a physician, some weeks ago after a speech in which he decried the practice of poisoning industrial alcohol, declaring that numerous non-poisonous denaturants could be used to render denaturing equally effective. He named four in his bill.

Mead Advocates Liquor Control.

In a speech in the House today Representative Mead of New York, whose district embraces Buffalo, urged the liquor control system used in Quebec and Ontario as a substitute for Federal prohibition. He declared that the history of "corruption, of lawlessness and demoralization among enforcement officers" is similar to the United States' experiences.

"Gradually the evils resulting from prohibition became so pronounced that grand juries investigating crime condemned prohibition and charged the law with the responsibility of the alarming increase in the number of crimes in Canada," he declared, and temperance societies joined in the opposition.

Pointing out that eight of the nine Provinces have repealed prohibition, Mr. Mead said it should be noted "that the people of Canada, not its Federal or Provincial representatives, adopted the various methods of prohibiting and controlling the liquor business in Canada.'

Liquor Referendum Advocated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Representative Mead of New York, in his speech in the House today, urged a referendum on the dry law.

"After experiencing the dismal failure of prohibition," Mr. Mead said, "our people changed their minds as quickly as did the people of Canada, but unlike the wise provisions of the Canadian law on the subject, our people are unable to give expression clearly and universally to their views on the question."

He said the people should have opportunity for a national referendum on prohibition questions in order that Congress, the law enforcement commission and the people themselves could learn the attitude of the country toward prohibition.

HELD IN LIQUOR CASE.

"Man in Green Hat" and Companion Bound Over at Capital.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—George Cassidy, known as "the man with the green hat," and John T. Gately, a companion, who were arrested near the Senate Office Building by prohibition agents Tuesday on charges of transporting and possessing whisky, today were ordered held to the grand jury when arraigned before Judge John P. McMahon.

The agents testified that Gately alighted from Cassidy's automobile with a package in his hand and that Cassidy gave him another, both packages being found to contain whisky when the men were arrested.

To Pray for German "Liberation."

WEIMAR, Thuringia, Feb. 21 (AP).—The National Socialists of the Extreme Right, who recently gained control of the Thuringia Government, announce that the Minister of Education is preparing an order for all schools to pray daily for the liberation of Germany from the Treaty of Versailles.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt Asks Dry Law Referendum, But Sees Some Gains Through Prohibition

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 21.—A national referendum on whether the majority of the nation favors or does not favor the Eighteenth Amendment was urged by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Governor, in Syracuse to address the League of Women Voters.

"If a referendum on a straight, simple and clearly put question of this sort could be put before the American people," she said, "I think it would be the thing to do.

"Other referendums we've had have been too complicated, too mixed up with other things. What I would like to see is a vote, not wet or dry, but whether we want the Eighteenth Amendment. That would be definite."

Mrs. Roosevelt, while recommending a referendum, speculates on its basic honesty.

"Take the South, for instance," she said, "there is no question but that there is a great deal of drinking there, but if a vote were taken tomorrow the South would vote dry."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that she is in favor of prohibition, not from the political point of view, but because she is honestly convinced of the value of temperance.

"When this law went into effect I confess I looked to it with great hopes. But when I see the terrible things that have grown out of it, such as graft and bootlegging, one begins to wonder about it.

"I can see real improvement in many ways, in many families where there are better living conditions, because drink is harder to get and more expensive, while, on the other hand, I can see some things that are worse.

"My impression is that on the whole people are getting used to having less drink because of its inaccessibility. But just what the outcome of this situation will be no one can say. There are too many ramifications to generalize about it. We are too close on it to give intelligent opinions.

"There is so little one can say about solution. President Hoover's commission offered little that was new. There is no question but that the situation calls for something definite and constructive."

RAID RESTAURANT, FIND POLICE THERE

Dry Agents Let the Patrolmen Leave and Seize Bottles in Place Near Headquarters.

ALSO INVADE TWO PLANTS

Take $110,000 Liquors and 2 Cars in Brooklyn and Manhattan—Eight Arrests Made in Day.

Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell's recently increased raiding activities, now reported as being timed to offset the non-enforcement charges made before the House Judiciary Committee in Washington, included three places yesterday. One of these was the Headquarters Restaurant, at 174 Grand Street, where several policemen were among the twenty or more persons at luncheon when six Federal agents entered and took complete charge.

In Brooklyn other Federal agents from the Manhattan headquarters raided an alleged cutting and storage plant in Douglass Street, between Smith and Hoyt Streets, where they seized liquors and equipment said to be worth more than $100,000, confiscated a sedan automobile and arrested its driver. At 68 West 106th Street, Manhattan, agents seized about $10,000 worth of liquor, another sedan and arrested five men. This was said to be another cutting plant connected with the one raided in Brooklyn.

The raid upon the Heaquarters Restaurant was made at about 2:45 P. M. and created some uneasiness among the patrons. The policemen in the place were permitted to leave, but other diners were told to keep their seats. In a few moments, however, the diners were escorted to the door. The agents searched the place and found eight bottles of whisky, they said.

They arrested Harry Ferdinand, owner, of 71 West Twelfth Street, and Mario Murai, a waiter, of 1,155 Simpson Street, the Bronx. The two were later held in $1,000 bail each by United States Commissioner Cotter for hearings March 5 on charges of selling and possessing liquor.

Policemen have been lunching at the Headquarters Restaurant for years, and when it became known at headquarters that a raid was in progress faces appeared quickly at almost all windows of headquarters facing east and furnishing a view of the restaurant.

Reports attributed the raid to the fact that Ezekiel Keller had resigned from the police force last week to become a Federal prohibition agent.

The men arrested at the 106th Street address are Arthur R. Lasson of 898 West End Avenue, Frank Kelly of 110 West 102d Street, Mike Sivan of 311 West Seventy-sixth Street, Caesar Pournour of 332 West Forty-seventh Street and Jack Lebramp of 68 West 106th Street. They were booked at the West 100th Street station charged with manufacture, possession and transportation of liquor.

The man arrested in the sedan in front of the alleged plant in Brooklyn said he was Sam Smith of 282 East Gunhill Road, the Bronx.

DERELICT SHIP CARRIES LIQUOR WORTH $25,000

Men Rescued From Yacht Off Cape Hatteras After Motor Fails Arrive Here.

Somewhere in the Gulf Stream between Cape Hatteras and New York is a derelict 37-foot motor yacht carrying a cargo of liquor valued at $25,000. The boat, the Aensis of Nassau, the Bahamas, was abandoned Thursday afternoon by John Siversen, 40 years old, who was rescued off Cape Hatteras and taken aboard the Mallory steamer H. R. Mallory by Captain E. D. Johnson.

The Mallory brought Siverson into New York yesterday morning. He said he and two negroes were taking the consignment of liquor to Bimini Island, in the Bahamas, and that it was legal cargo.

The engine broke down and the boat drifted for three days, while the Gulf Stream carried her northward. On the third day a freighter bound New York, the Gulf Crest, hailed the helpless motor yacht and Siversen allowed the two negroes to go aboard. He elected to remain with his cargo.

When he was hailed by the H. R. Mallory, Captain Johnson told him that a northwesterly gale was due. Siversen knew he could not keep the Aensis afloat in a gale and abandoned her and the 350 cases of liquor.

Captain Johnson said the boat was well filled with water and might have gone down yesterday.

The two negro seamen, both of Nassau, were brought to Staten Island on the Gulf Crest and were turned over to immigration authorities from Ellis Island. Siversen was questioned yesterday by immigration officials and later turned over to the Norwegian Consulate here.

SEAPLANE CATCHES THIEF.

Kirk Munroe's Yacht Recovered After Chase Off Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP).—Giving chase in a seaplane today, Wirth Munroe of Cocoanut Grove, regained the 29-foot sloop of Commodore Kirk Munroe from a thief who had stolen the boat from its anchorage during the night.

Sighting the craft thirty-five miles south of Miami, near Arsenica Key, young Munroe ordered the pilot of the seaplane to land alongside. At the point of a gun Mr. Munroe forced the thief to get the sloop under way. He then bound the man and set out for Miami with his prisoner.

men concurrence session, as scheduled, at 2 o'clock.

Issue Stirs Debate.

At that hour Vice Chairman Mahon called the Aldermen to order. He summoned to the chair Alderman Stephen A. Rudd of Brooklyn and then took the floor in his capacity of Democratic majority leader, prepared to defend the proposed legislation. No sooner had he stated the purpose of the session than he precipitated a caustic debate. Alderman Baldwin rose to a point of information. He declared the meeting about to be held illegal in that there had not been three days notice given of its purpose, nor had there been publication, as required, in the City Record.

Alderman Rudd, speaking from the chair, ruled that Section 37 of the charter prescribed only the process by which a special meeting be "called by the Mayor."

"We are here," said the chairman, "not in response to a call by the Mayor, but by the President of the Board of Aldermen. We are here not in a judicial but in a legislative capacity."

Mr. Mahon, Democratic floor leader, interposed: "Replying to the question asked by the minority leader, I have been informed by the Corporation Counsel that, in his opinion, any action taken here today will be sustained by any court of competent jurisdiction."

"Whether this meeting was called by the Mayor or by the Acting Mayor, who is also the President of the Board of Aldermen, is immaterial to the issue," said Mr. Baldwin. "The point is that it has not been called in compliance with the preliminary conditions laid down by the charter, and is, therefore, illegal, and its acts are likely to be set aside by the courts. The minority members of this body are quite ready to proceed regularly and legally, but personally I must refuse to sit in a meeting the legality of which I seriously question."

Mr. Mahon moved the passage of the first resolution, and before the roll-call was begun Alderman Baldwin stalked out of the chamber.

His three Republican colleagues did not follow him in his bolt. When their names were reached in the roll-call each voted with the Democratic majority to reopen the budget and approve the pay increases. They explained that they did so on assurance by the corporation counsel that no court would be likely to invalidate the action taken.

Alderman Fred R. Moore, negro Republican from Harlem, went a step further and publicly rebuked Mr. Baldwin for having deserted his party associates.

In the early debate Mr. Baldwin, before he left the meeting, said that the Citizens Union during the Hylan régime was sustained by the court in a similar situation and that an item was deleted from the budget at that time.

After the Board of Aldermen had adjourned Acting Mayor McKee again conferred with Mr. Hilly. Before 5 o'clock Mr. McKee announced that he was sending out notices for a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen for next Thursday afternoon. He said he did not wish his course to be construed as meaning that he had wavered in his belief that all that had been done during the day had been done properly and in order. Rather than leave any possibility of a doubt, however, he explained that it had been thought best to have the Board of Aldermen re-enact the resolutions.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS SPLIT ON JOB PLAN

Alan Fox Denounces Suggestion to Use Patronage in Trying to Beat Tammany in the City.

SEES BOOMERANG IN MOVE

Takes Issue With Fourth District Leader Who Urged 'Spoils System' to Rehabilitate Party Here.

Opposition to the proposal to use patronage to build up the Republican party in New York City is expressed by Alan Fox, leading member of the so-called Hoover group, in an article written for the March issue of the Riverside Republican Club Bulletin, official publication of the party organization of the Ninth Manhattan Assembly District.

Alexander Wolf, leader of the Fourth District, in a letter sent recently to Republicans throughout the city, advocated a return to the spoils system to rehabilitate the Republican party locally and to distribute jobs to party workers instead of confining them to a favored class, most of the members of which live in the Fifteenth Assembly District. An article by Mr. Wolf reiterating this belief also is published in the bulletin.

Discussion of the conflicting theories is regarded as of particular interest in view of the probable appointment of Robert P. Patterson as United States District Judge to succeed Judge Thomas Day Thacher, nominated by President Hoover for Solicitor General. Both Judge Thacher and Mr. Patterson are residents of the Fifteenth District. Republican organization leaders said they understood that Mr. Patterson was virtually certain to get the judicial appointment.

Mr. Fox in his article declares that the spoils system method suggested by Mr. Wolf is impractical. A job, he says, means just one more district worker and a district worker probably accounts for about twenty votes. A thousand more jobs to distribute, Mr. Fox adds, would mean only 20,000 or at most 40,000 more Republican votes, which would still leave the Republican party 350,000 or more behind on the basis of the vote at recent city elections, with Tammany pluralities of more than 400,000.

Pointing out that the Republican nominee for President carried New York City in 1920 and 1924, Mr. Fox asserts that the thing for the Republican party to do is to make its appeal to those voters who support its national tickets.

"Those who support us nationally do so because our national party has stood for clearly defined and constructive policies, making for stability of business as against free silver, Bryanism and panics, which have become associated with the Democrats," he added.

"If instead of standing for high standards in candidates, in policies and in leadership we deliberately sink to the Tammany level and attempt to compete with it at its own game of unlimited spoils and graft we not only can never beat Tammany but we will inevitably alienate those very thousands who support us nationally because of the high standards of the national party."

ROOSEVELT DEFIED ON BUDGET BILL

Court Fight Likely as Legislature Recalls Measure for Office Building Funds.

BILL HAD BEEN PASSED

But Governor's Recommendations Were Rewritten—Invasion of Executive's Rights Seen.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 21.—A new conflict over the form of the Executive budget came to the surface today with the withdrawal by the Legislature from Governor Roosevelt's office of an Executive budget bill providing about $168,000 for the equipment and operation of the new Albany office building.

The passage of a resolution by the Legislature requesting the return of the bill, which it had previously passed in an amended form, was a friendly gesture pending further consideration of the point at issue. The differences, however, between the Governor and the Legislative Finance Committee chairmen are such that a line of battle may be drawn and the question taken to the State courts.

The bill submitted by the Governor for the office building was passed some days ago with the total of his original requests reduced. This did not disturb the Governor, but he found that the legislative committee had substituted an entirely new personal service section in the bill to displace his own itemized salary lists.

Except for one or two items, as, for instance, in the reduction of the number of laborers, the new section was simply a reproduction of his own. In the Governor's opinion this rewriting of his bill creates a dangerous precedent, destructive of the constitutional Executive budget amendment.

It is understood that the Governor feels that if the legislative chiefs were allowed to adopt this practice they might very well be in a position to rewrite the entire State budget, which it is his prerogative now to prepare. By striking out his items and consolidating them in a new section or increasing their amounts the Legislature might also circumvent the Constitution in preventing an easy Executive veto of the increases, the Governor believes.

The Constitution now says the following on what the Legislature may do with the budget: "The Legislature may not alter an appropriation bill submitted by the Governor except to strike out or reduce items therein, but it may add thereto items of appropriation provided that such additions are stated separately and distinctly from the original items of the bill and refer each to a single object or purpose."

The Governor may veto "separate items added to the Governor's bills by the Legislature."

In the absence of the legislative leaders there was no official word as to whether they would be willing to yield to the Governor. All parties are anxious to have the office building ready for use, so that in any case the present disputed act will probably not go to the courts, but a repetition of the legislative changes in other of the budget bills may end in the Court of Appeals. In his dispute last year over the Executive budget on the question of whether the Finance Committee chairmen had the right to help segregate lump sums, the Governor won a substantial victory in that court.

The legislative session today was brief, with but few members present, and the Governor left in the afternoon for his home in Hyde Park.

To Executives:

Mezzanines, unless well ventilated, are known to be unhealthful. Comfort at seventy degrees being desired for the occupants of the main floor, those on the mezzanine are usually subjected to temperatures nearer eighty degrees. Besides the discomfort from excessive warmth, the air is lifeless.

This condition can be corrected by ventilating the space by the Gerdes Method with vital unheated fresh air. An even temperature is caused to prevail from floor to ceiling and the air at all levels is kept fresh and invigorating.

The evenness of temperature attained by the Gerdes Method is of special interest relative to structures having high interiors, such as churches, banks and modern machine shops, in which a great difference in temperature usually exists between the floor and the ceiling levels, requiring excessive heating to maintain comfort in the occupied zone.

Inquiries are requested relative to the ventilation of new and existing buildings, or offices, or the correction of heated air systems. Estimates of cost are submitted without obligation. Atmospheric results guaranteed. Installations made in operation. References and booklet on request.

CHICAGO—STARTLING, AMUSING, ZEALOUS

Whether it's a gang war, lakefront reclamations, a world's fair, city planning or government corruption, the "Windy City" does it with a vengeance. R. L. Duffus describes the "City of Superlatives," whose strange contradictions seem "to lie in an abounding physical energy, always present but often misdirected."

COLLECTIVE FARMING IN RUSSIA

All Russia—perhaps it would not be too much to say all the World—is closely watching the progress of the fateful drama which is being enacted by the Soviets, where collective farming is stirring some peasants to cheers; others to murder. Anna Louise Strong writes her observations of the situation from Moscow, stating that "So drastic and revolutionary is the present policy of collectivization that if it succeeds it will set a new direction to farm operation and farm living for the continent of Asia."

WHAT DID WASHINGTON LOOK LIKE?

Some twoscore painters and nearly a score of sculptors have preserved for posterity the outward aspect of the first President of the United States; among the more notable, Sargent and Peale, Stuart and Savage and Houdon. Each saw his subject in a somewhat different aspect and the likenesses differ widely. A British traveler who saw Washington about 1796 said: "He could not be mistaken by any one who had seen a full-length picture of him, and yet no pictures accurately resemble him in the minute traits of his person." It is conceded that the Houdon statue is the standard of true likeness to the real Washington. This and other portraits are reproduced in rotogravure in an article by H. I. Brock.

WHAT CAN AN UNEMPLOYED STATESMAN DO?

P. W. Wilson contrasts customs in other countries, where statesmen continue in government, with the situation in the United States, where the great men who do not hold office find it difficult to fit into a niche commensurate with their powers and abilities. Are a nation's statesmen to be "drafted again for responsibility or are they to be treated merely as private citizens?"

"SUPER-KINDERGARTENS" FOR BOYS' COLLEGES

Max McConn, Dean of Lehigh University, believes in segregation of the two kinds of students who go to college. He would have "a real college, in the old-fashioned sense, for the intellectually gifted" and a separate institution for the non-intellectuals. "Then perhaps," he says, "our colleges and universities could begin to send forth adequately trained workers * * to build a new American civilization."
